JAIL 5 IN BANKER KIDNAPING

KING OF ITALY BACKS BIG ARMY TO PREVENT WAR

Ruler O. K.'s Duce's Recovery Plans.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 28.—King Victor Emmanuel today inaugurated Italy's 29th legislature with a speech from the throne which appeared to be a vigorous reassertion of monarchical prerogative in the country's government and without mentioning that this legislature is doomed to be the last, according to Premier Mussolini's recent speeches.

In the speech, delivered before colorful and crowded balconies, the king spoke of "my government." He called for immediate balancing of the budget, on which he said both private and public financial soundness rested, and also declared "my government" would proceed to augment and perfect Italy's armed forces as the only safeguard to peace in the world.

Cheers Greet Remarks.

These two passages of the speech were greeted by prolonged cheers, while Mussolini and his ministers listened with impassive faces.

The king praised the work of the Fascist régime in giving the people "a political education," reducing illiteracy and especially in training youth. He said that conciliation between the church and state remained as an essential element in Italian history. He saw an improvement economically and declared Italy would remain on the gold standard.

Much interest was attached to the monarch's lengthy statement concerning the necessity of increasing Italy's armed forces to the extent that the country's pocketbook would stand.

"We sincerely and ardently desire for Italy and Europe the longest possible period of peace," he declared amid thunderous cheers, "but the best guarantee of this peace is the efficiency of our armed forces.

Plans War Courses in Schools.

"No one should be surprised if military subjects form a part of our scholastic curricula, from the secondary schools to the universities."

The king appeared to indorse the Fascist principle of regimentation and management by the state. He declared:

"Italy has given the world an example of disciplined economic forces, having started in 1926, only three years before the crisis which eventually resulted in other nations following her lead.

"The Italian government will continue to follow a policy of specific collaboration with all people, particularly neighboring states, and with those upon whom the development and future of western civilization will depend.

Sees Great Italian Destiny.

"Italy has worked and will work to try to solve some of the urgent problems affecting European and world wide order.

"Notwithstanding the hardships of the times, it is with profound satisfaction that I follow the ascending march of the Italian nation.

"This march will never be interrupted, because the Italian people are united compactly around the emblem of my house and the Roman lictoral as in no other epoch in its history They merit and will have ever greater destiny."

The ruler's speech struck listeners as contrasting with the mild pronouncement when he opened the previous parliament five years ago.

The new legislature comprises the 400 "yes men" selected by the grand Fascist council and declared approved en masse in the plebiscite of March 25. This legislature, according to present plans, will have but two years of life and will function chiefly to approve the plans to end itself and give way to a sort of council chosen by corporations representing the various factors of production.

Pomp, Pageantry and Drama.

There was color and pomp, pageantry and drama in today's inaugural ceremonies. Trafic was suspended all morning in the center of the city Streets about the parliament buildings were afiutter with flags and vivid with crowds.

Troops with fixed bayonets were drawn up in double file on each side of the streets leading from the king's palace on Quirinal hill to Monte Citorio, where parliament is located. The royal procession passed through these files of troops, cheered by Roman crowds.

In the galleries of parliament were assembled all diplomats accredited to King Victor Emmanuel's court and every one else of any political importance

SENATE PASSES AIR MAIL BILL; ORDERS INQUIRY

Limits Contracts to One Year.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Somewhat to its own amazement, the senate today quit talking about air mail legislation and passed a bill giving the postmaster general authority to grant contracts to air lines for one year and appointing a commission to study the air mail situation and report to the President in the meantime.

Thus ended temporarily, at least, the great hue and cry created by Postmaster General Farley's cancelation last February of all existing air mail contracts—an action that was followed by the disastrous attempt of the army to fly the mail at the cost of the lives of many young aviators.

Triumph for President.

The result was a sound triumph for the President who had suggested that the senate take exactly the action which it did today by a vote of 54 to 20. Three previous votes on various amendments to the bill showed thumping majorities for administration supporters.

As had been shrewdly suspected in some quarters, the hundreds of thousands of words spilled forth in 11 days of discussion of the subject had not apparently altered the stand of a single senator.

Not without a last verbal splurge today did the senate settle down to a decision. There was a little quoting of Shakespeare— even the recollection of anecdotes from the Pickwick papers—before the law makers of the nation reluctantly agreed to the prosaic business of balloting.

Limits Salary of Officers.

In addition to one year contracts and an investigation commission, the bill passed today provides that any air mail operator who claims a prior contract for carrying the mails may go into court and have his claims adjusted. It sets up rigid rules with reference to interlocking companies and directors, holding companies, manufacturing companies and combinations, which are aimed to prevent any possible fraud in the industry.

Any low bidder, who is not awarded a contract by the postmaster general, may appeal to the interstate commerce commission, which must take speedy action.

No company having a contract may pay an officer more than $17,500 a year as salary.

The air mail postage rate is fixed at six cents for each ounce or fraction thereof.

The best fight in behalf of an amendment or substitute bill was made by Senator Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.] who sought to have the authority to issue contracts taken out of the hands of the postmaster general and given to a commission of five to be appointed by the President with the consent of the senate. Such a commission would issue certificates of public convenience and necessity to any carrier which had been in bona fide operation of the air mails for six months prior to Jan. 1, 1934.

McCarran Fights It.

"The cancelation of the mail contracts left the air mail situation up in the air," Senator McCarran declared. "Let us hope after this that our public officials may execute the law with more particularity.

"Putting the whole matter back into the hands of the postmaster general is like going from one cesspool to another."

Senator McCarran paused to reflect upon this last statement.

"I hope the senate will permit me to use such a homely phrase," he said. There being no audible objection. he proceeded to further homeliness.

"I don't believe in tearing down our great air lines and sending them to the garbage heap." he asserted.

But His Plan Is Beaten.

But a roll call showed Senator McCarran's substitute bill going to defeat by a vote of 46 to 26.

Senators Warren R. Austin [Rep., Vt.] and Wallace M. White Jr. [Rep., Maine] offered an amendment providing for the immediate restoration of the contracts to the companies affected by the cancelation order. Voting along strict party lines. the senate spurned this amendment by a vote of 56 to 19.

Immediately Senator Austin offered a substitute bill providing that any company carrying the mails on Feb. 9 [the date of cancelation] should be given its route back upon application

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The largest overseas massed flight in American naval aviation will start Monday, when twenty-two marine corps planes under the command of Lieut. Col. Ross E. Powell will hop off from their home base at Quantico, Va., to coöperate with the United States fleet in a huge war game in the Caribbean next week.

Their orders call for a flight of 5,000 miles, including nearly 800 miles over over sea and 3,000 miles across tropical country. They will cross Cuba, Haiti, and Santo Domingo, and extend their operations as far east as the Virgin islands.

Although exceptional in character, the flight will be wholly a tactical one. No records of speed, endurance, or distance are contemplated.

TRIES TO REPAIR RADIO AERIAL; KILLED IN FALL

Clarence J. Melchior, 31 years old, an attorney, was killed yesterday afternoon by a fall from the roof of the apartment building in which he resides at 1139 East 79th street.

Becoming discontented with the tone of his radio set, Mr. Melchior decided to renovate the aerial and after borrowing tools from the building manager, Lynn Remington, climbed to the roof. When he failed to return his wife started a search for him and his body was found at the bottom of an air shaft in the center of the building. Melchior had offices at 201 North Wells street.

Bernard Newman, who describes himself as a personal friend of Chancellor Hitler and correspondent for a string of German newspapers including the Frankfurter Zeitung, was robbed of $6,600 and $900 in jewelry last night by two Chicago gunmen.

The two men, wearing tin stars and carrying pistols, walked into his apartment on the sixth floor of the Eastwood Beach hotel, 811 Eastwood avenue, while he was entertaining three young women with a chafing dish supper. The intruders accused Newman of being a narcotic seller, took from him—so he told the police—the following: Six $1,000 bills, five $100 bills, four $20 bills, and three diamond rings valued at $900.

Girls Are Questioned.

When the bandits had departed Mr. Newman summoned the Town Hall police and when Sergt. Everett Mullaney appeared told him he was suspicious that the three young women with him were overfriendly with the robbers. The girls were taken into custody and held for questioning. They are Dolly Arvesen, 22 years old; her sister, Joan, 23 years old, and Dorothy Buckholtz, 24 years old. All live in a third floor apartment in the hotel.

Later police arrested a fourth girl, Betty Henry, 26 years old, of 5107 Kenmore avenue, said to be another friend of Newman's and also a friend of the Arvesen sisters.

Mr. Newman's story of the events prior to and during the evening was substantially this:

"I came to Chicago nine days ago. I had about $7,000 in cash and my rings. I am here to cover the World's Fair for a string of papers and I first stopped in a loop hotel and started around to see the sights. In a café on Broadway I met Dolly Buckholtz and she told me of a good bank to put my money in.

"After a few days she introduced me to the other girls and they told me the banks were not too sound nowadays and I drew the money out. Also, I moved to the Eastwood Beach to be near them.

His Ruse Fails.

"We were eating chicken à la king when there was a knock at the door. I assured the two men who came in I was not a dope seller, but they insisted on searching me. The money was in my left hip pocket and they missed it. They thrust me into a clothes closet which they had already searched and I tossed the bills high on a shelf.

"I think I would have gotten away with it if one of the girls hadn't told the robbers. They went up to the shelf and took the money. Please do not let this be made public. It will ruin me with Chancellor Hitler."

JUDGE FROWNS ON GRANTING DIVORCES TO MOVIE ACTRESSES

JUAREZ, Mexico., April 28.—(AP)—Judge Ignacio Gutierrez Zamora of the Juarez Civil court does not favor divorce for movie actresses.

"Some of them get divorces just for the notoriety, and I am opposed to such practices," the judge said today.

Since taking the post of civil judge in Juarez 19 months ago, Gutierrez has granted 2,800 divorce decrees to American couples. He believes the Chihuahua divorce law, providing quick and easy decrees, is the "salvation" for many unhappy American couples who cannot obtain marital freedom under complicated American laws.

"In Mexico a marriage ceremony is just a civil contract, and should be broken when both parties no longer wish to observe its provisions," the judge asserted.

HOLDS 1,300 WORDS SUFFICIENT FOR LANGUAGE STUDY

Holding that a vocabulary of 1,300 words is sufficient for any one to express any ordinary thought, Dr Michael West of the Ontario College of Education, University of Toronto, urged yesterday that the teaching of words in the first three years of instruction in a foreign language be confined to that number.

"When efforts are made to teach an unlimited vocabulary, as under present methods, students frequently obtain neither reading nor speaking ability," said Dr. West.

His suggestion was made before the annual convention of the Association of Modern Language Teachers of the central, south, and west at the Drake hotel. The convention ended yesterday following the election of officers. Prof. A. W. Aron, University of Illinois, was named president.

DAYLIGHT TIME IN CITY TODAY; CLOCKS GO AHEAD

Daylight saving time went into effect at 2 o'clock this morning, adding an hour of daylight for most city dwellers, especially those who enjoy outdoor pastimes. The majority of Chicagoans set their clocks ahead an hour upon retiring.

Several communities near Chicago have adopted daylight time this year to conform with the metropolitian area. Suburban line railroads have readjusted schedules to the new time, although the main roads continue to operate on standard time.

New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, and other eastern cities and states also adopted daylight time. It is estimated approximately 30,000,000 persons in the United States and Canada will be affected by the change.

Piccard Visions Ride to Moon on Ray of Light

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—The picture of a man literally riding on a ray of light through interstellar space was presented to an audience of professors and students of science by Prof. Auguste Piccard, conqueror of the stratosphere, in a lecture here tonight.

Referring to one of the pet dreams of modern science. the theory that interstellar navigation may be achieved by utilizing energy released in the destruction of matter—the conversion of matter into light, to be exact—Prof. Piccard declared that in his opinion the dream is a perfectly reasonable one which may be nearer to realization than is generally believed.

Reduces Dream to Formula.

In fact, he went beyond that and actually reduced the dream to a mathematical formula by declaring that the energy obtained from the dematerialization of 50 kilograms [110 pounds] of lead would be sufficient for a round trip voyage between the earth and the planet Mercury.

(Mercury is estimated to be 57,000,000 miles from the earth and is the planet nearest the sun.)

Prof. Piccard reviewed man's effort to conquer the upper ether and analyzed the various methods used or postulated at present.

The record in human efforts to sound out the stratosphere, he said, has been achieved with small meteorological balloons which have been sent up as high as 31,000 meters [101,705 feet]. But man on one occasion succeeded by his own means in hurling matter still farther from the earth's surface, although no scientific use was made of the performance. The Big Bertha which shelled Paris threw projectiles in a parabola which at its highest point was 35,000 meters [114,800 feet] above the earth, he said.

Paris to New York in 8 Hours.

The bespectacled aeronaut said he did not think we would get very far with motor propelled airplanes, though he mentioned negligently that a stratospheric plane is now under construction which would be able to make the Paris to New York hop in 8 hours—"a very simple matter, which depends merely upon a good air compressor and adequate apparatus for manufacturing oxygen in a hermetically sealed cabin."

Analyzing the two methods most frequently suggested for propelling vehicles through interstellar space—a projectile fired from some sort of giant cannon and rockets—Prof. Piccard said he did not think they were practical.

"In order to throw a projectile to the moon," he explained, "it is necessary to give it an initial velocity of 11 kilometers a second [6.8 miles a second or 24,600 miles an hour], which would necessitate a cannon with a barrel 600 meters [1,968 feet] long. This is obviously impossible."

Disadvantages of Rocket.

As to rockets, he did not think they are practical because to send a rocket to the moon would require 20 tons of high explosive, and even if this were possible the rocket would be smashed to bits on landing unless another 20 tons of explosive were used to brake it.

Disintegration of matter provides the only possibility of interstellar navigation, the scientist declared. The possibilities of ethereal propulsion through transformation of matter into light were "unknown, but certain," he said.

"The use of light as energy in this way would free man from earthly time," Prof. Piccard declared. "A year of interstellar navigation would correspond to many thousand years in our world. A human who left the earth as an adolescent to voyage through interstellar space would return an old man to find the earth hundreds of thousands of years older geologically."

Sensing that his audience was a little groggy, Piccard declared:

"You may think I am a madman, but I am not."

J. J. M'LAUGHLIN AND SON HELD IN BREMER CASE

Find Ransom Money in Chicago.

A report that two men and a girl resembling 6 year old June Robles, kidnaped from Tucson, Ariz., last Wednesday, were seen near Fort Huachuca yesterday proved unfounded after possemen and Indian scouts had searched the country for hours. Details on page 2.

John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, once a Chicago political power, and now —apparently—an underworld power, was held in the county jail last night under bonds of $100,000 on federal charges of conspiracy in the kidnaping last January of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, for whose release a ransom of $200,000 was paid.

In the roundup of suspects four other persons were in custody during the day, including two men whose identity the federal authorities refused to reveal. Also warants were issued for the arrest of two fugitive Dillinger gangsters who are said to have been the actual kidnapers of Bremer.

Information that some of the ransom money reached the pudgy "Boss" McLaughlin apparently came from William E. Vidler, 34 years old, an ex-convict, who was seized Thursday while in possession of $2,600 of the Bremer cash. Vidler, as well as McLaughlin, is being held in the county jail on $100,000 bonds for complicity in the Bremer case.

Vidler Is Worried.

Vidler was obviously a nervous man as he entered the jail last night. He said he was worried for fear some one would think he had squawked on McLaughlin. He also admitted fear for the safety of his wife and children.

"I swear I didn't know the $2,600 was kidnap money," Vidler said nervously. "I would never have touched it if I had known that. I never did anything like kidnaping in my life."

"Boss" McLaughlin, in contrast to the fidgety Vidler, was an indignant, growling man. He was the same old "Boss," familiar in the loop and to the state legislature, except for a disheveled and tired appearance. He denied any knowledge of the Bremer kidnaping, and he lambasted federal agents for giving him what he described as the "third degree." At no time did he indicate fear of any person or any power.

"Boss" Keeps in Background.

As an underworld figure McLaughlin has kept strictly in the background, a hidden, but not obscure figure. Several important hoodlums who have allegedly been aligned with him have been taken for one way rides—and two individuals who were reported to have conspired against him, have gone the same way.

These last two were Edgar B. Lebensberger, wealthy owner of the old 225 night club, and Gus Winkler, slippery confidant of bank robbers.

Lebensberger shot and killed himself in his home at 1258 Lake Shore drive last Oct. 6, six hours before an indictment was returned in federal court naming him, McLaughlin, and another man on charges of complicity in the $500,000 loop mail robbery of Dec. 6, 1932.

Discard Murder Theory.

At first it was thought he had been murdered to seal his lips as a possible witness in that case. Later it was concluded that he had committed suicide because of fears in connection with the case.

Three days later Winkler, an associate of both Lebensberger and McLaughlin, was shot and fatally wounded in front of County Commissioner Charles Weber's beer distributing office at 1414 Roscoe street. Various motives have been ascribed for his murder. One was that Winkler had been a government "stool pigeon" in the mail robbery case, and that he was slain to eliminate him as a possible witness.

McLaughlin was already in custody when Lebensberger killed himself, and was still in jail when Winkler was slain. It was not until Oct. 24, fifteen days after the Winkler murder, that he was freed. His bond was $25,000. He put up $24,000 in cash. He was still out on that bail in the mail robbery case when he was picked up last Friday in connection with the Bremer case.

The prelude to McLaughlin's arrest was quiet enough. Ex-Convict Vidler was seized on Thursday. At 7 o'clock Friday morning federal agents, acting apparently on Vidler's story, went to McLaughlin's home at 3523 Jackson boulevard. He was not in.

The agents waited, keeping his wife and three children prisoners.

At 11 o'clock, the "Boss" appeared. He was seized and searched. His house was also searched. All that was found was $50, none of it ransom money, in his pockets. The agents held McLaughlin in his home until 10 o'clock Friday night, and then removed him to the office of Melvin H. Purvis, Chicago head of the federal bureau of identification. After a night and morning of questioning, he was finally taken before Commissioner Walker yesterday and arraigned.

Meantime, McLaughlin's 17 year old son, John Jr., a messenger for the Rosenbaum Grain company, was arrested by federal men in the Board of Trade building, and held for questioning. This was done after the elder McLaughlin had admitted that his son kept a safety deposit box and bank account. The agents will investigate these accounts.

Before Commissioner Walker, First Assistant District Attorney Leo J. Hassenauer demanded $200,000 bonds for McLaughlin, declaring:

"The government has information that this man was in possession of part or all of the $200,000 ransom paid in the Bremer case. By tracing bills through their serial numbers, it was discovered that he has circulated certain amounts of the ransom money. In view of this, his bond should equal the ransom."

Take "Boss" to Jail.

McLaughlin's attorney, Joseph Roach, protested. He pointed out that McLaughlin was already under $25,000 bond, and that $200,000 more bail would be impossible. Commissioner Walker finally halved the $200,000 demand. McLaughlin, unable to put up a $100,000 surety, was then taken to jail. While waiting in the marshal's office he made his "third degree" charges.

"They grilled me all night, and used third degree methods on me," stormed McLaughlin. "They kept me prisoner in my home all Friday. Then all night they kept at me in Purvis' office. They never gave me a chance to sleep, and one agent hit me in the mouth, and knocked out a tooth."

He scoffed at the Bremer kidnap charges. He had nothing to do with it, he said. Then he referred to Vidler. The "Boss" entertained no doubts that Vidler had involved him in the crime.

"I can't imagine why Vidler should put the finger on me," said McLaughlin. "I've known him for 10 years or so, when he was in the liquor and slot machine racket. The last time I saw him was a week ago in a downtown hotel. It's all a lot of bunk."

Study McLaughlin's Career.

With McLaughlin in jail again, police last night sought to study his career and supply missing links, if any. There are long lapses of time when little was heard of him, although he was frequently around the loop, pompous looking, and well dressed. Today, at 66, he is white haired and has the appearance of a well to do business man.

He sprang from the west side, and went into politics. He was known, shortly after the turn of the century, as a "Roger Sullivan man." His highest political achievement was in being elected to the state legislature as a representative. He voluntarily, or unwittingly, perhaps, ended his career in 1912, when he broke with the Sullivan organization. As a politician, he earned his nickname "Boss." It stuck with him afterward when he ventured into the gambling racket.

It was not until about three or four years ago, however, that "Boss" McLaughlin became known to the outside world as a gambling boss. This phase of his career brought out allegedly hoodlum connections.

McLaughlin, it is said, and Ted Newberry bought an interest in an old restaurant on Lake street about three years ago, and put in gambling equipment. All went well until the Capone gang, through Frank Nitti, Capone's business manager, sought to collect a share of the gambling profits.

$15,000 on Nitti's Head.

This was annoying, and someone, thought to be Newberry, offered $15,000 to anyone who would kill Nitti. Not long afterward, Harry Lang, then a policeman in a police raid on a Capone office, shot Nitti. Nitti recovered. It was charged that Lang deliberately tried to murder him for the $15,000 reward. Lang was convicted of attempt to murder, but later granted a new trial.

The Dillinger gangsters sought as the actual kidnapers of Banker Bremer are Alvin Karpis and Arthur R. Barker. These two are said to have been named in the warant on which McLaughlin was seized.

Bremer was kidnaped last Jan. 17 as he was returning to his bank, the Commercial State, in St. Paul, after taking his daughter to school. It is not believed that Dillinger himself took part in the kidnaping. On Jan. 15, two days earlier, Dillinger had participated in the holdup of the First National bank in East Chicago, Ind., in which Policeman William O'Malley was killed.

Next, on Jan. 26, while Bremer was still a prisoner, Dillinger and several other members of his gang were arrested in Tucson, Ariz. Police asserted at the time that some of the hoodlums had been in the vicinity of Tucson since Jan. 9. Dillinger was in custody when Bremer was released on Feb. 8.

Another development in the general Dillinger investigation, which may take in a part of the Bremer kidnaping, was in the hands last night of Harold Nathan, personnel director at Washington of the department of justice, and chief aid to J. Edgar Hoover, department head. Mr. Nathan came to Chicago yesterday after being notified of McLaughlin's arrest. It is reported he will replace Mr. Purvis in the general federal investigations.

HUNT DILLINGER FROM ST. PAUL TO EAST COAST

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—[Special.]—The ever widening search for John Dillinger and his marauders extended today over the entire eastern half of the country. Posses and vigilantes in every state from Minnesota to New York were encamped at strategic points guarding highways and laying traps for the outlaws.

Meanwhile a federal grand jury here returned indictments against four persons charged with harboring the fugitive. Two of them, Dr. Clayton May and his nurse, Mrs. Augusta Salt, were charged with treating Dillinger for gunshot wounds after he had been shot while fleeing a hideout here.

The others indicted are Evelyn Frechette, the Indiana gunman's sweetheart, and Beth Green, reputed wife of Eddie Green, a member of Dillinger's gang who was slain here by federal agents.

Under orders to shoot to kill, an army of man hunters stood mobilized for duty along the Dillinger front in northern Minnesota. Assisted by Indian guides and lumberjacks the searchers were in pursuit of two men, one of whom was believed to be George [Baby Face] Nelson, one of Dillinger's machine gunners.

Moves Worry Ohio.

W. J. Smith, an automobile dealer of Marshfield, Wis., reported tonight that he sold a used car today to a man who answered Nelson's description and who paid cash for his purchase.

This man was driven to Marshfield by a farmer after he abandoned near Greenwood an automobile stolen from a mail carrier at Lac du Flambeau. Smith's customer evinced extreme lack of interest in a car of the same make as the mail carrier's.

In Ohio authorities increased their vigilance after it was reported that a "tip" had been communicated to Gov. George White that members of the Dillinger gang had established headquarters at Columbus and had planned to kidnap the governor and his daughter, Mary.

This was the second report in 11 days that the desperadoes have designs on the official and his family. The latest "tip" said that several members of Dillinger's gang went to Columbus to survey the field with the intention of striking at the governor and his daughter at a favorable moment.

Push War on Crime.

Two National Guardsmen have been on duty nightly at the excutive mansion. Warden Preston E. Thomas of the Ohio penitentiary has increased his force of guards.

In Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York state police entered the hunt for America's No. 1 outlaw after a report that the fugitive and some of his mates had been seen in Binghamton, N. Y.

In Manitowish, Wis., a coroner's jury held that Eugene Boiseneau, a CCC worker, was accidentally killed by federal agents "in the act of trying to apprehend the Dillinger gang" at the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis., last Sunday night.

The other death in Sunday's battle, that of W. Carter Baum, a federal agent, was blamed by the jury on Baby Face Nelson. Paul Lang, a resort owner, identified Nelson by photographs as the man who killed Baum.

In Washington, D. C., the house judiciary committee approved a bill to offer rewards for the capture of criminals outlawed as public enemies by the attorney general after previous conviction in felonies.

Order Mate's Arrest for Killing His Wife Confessed

Mrs. Mary Alagna, 5556 South Albany avenue, whose brother Charles Messinio was shot to death in the basement of her home Thursday night, confessed to the police that she fired the fatal shot. Despite her confession a coroner's jury yesterday ordered the arrest of her husband, Joseph Alagna, on a charge of killing Messinio. Alagna fled following the shooting which climaxed a family quarrel over a debt.

TRIO WANTED FOR MURDERS

Two of three men captured in cottages on Fox lake last Tuesday were identified at the detective bureau yesterday as fugitives wanted on murder charges. The third is James Wilton, 34 years old, who forfeited a bond here on March 30, when he was scheduled to appear for trial for the attempted murder of Policeman John Callopy. The other two prisoners are Frank Patterson, 36 years old, 3325 Warren boulevard, wanted for the murder of Morris Krinsky, 1259 South Kildare avenue, a laundry wagon driver, on March 23, and Leo Zajac, alias George Mahon, 30 years old, hunted as the slayer of Policeman Roscoe C. Johnston on March 21, 1933.

POSSE RECOUNTS BATTLE TO DEATH WITH 2 CONVICTS

Victorville, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—A running gun fight on the desert in which two escaped convicts from San Quentin prison were slain was described today by Deputy Sherif R. Stanley Sneidiger who, with three specially deputized civilians, ended the fugitives' short reign of terror.

Wanda T. Stewart, 29 years old, and Walter H. Wyeth, 40 years old, who escaped from the prison Thursday by slugging a guard, were shot and killed last night. None of the officers was hurt.

Warned that the convicts, who consummated their escape by kidnaping A. M. Dewey and Phil Le Cornec, San Rafael policemen, were headed toward Victorville, Sneidiger and special officers, Louis Miller, M. M. Black and Clark McNew, set out in an automobile and found them.

The officers' car reached 80 miles an hour to overhaul the convicts' coupe. The posse blew out the fugitives' tires, then exchanged rifle bullets for a mile until the fleeing car thudded into a ditch, both occupants dead.

Youths Held as Bandits Tell of Robbery Plans

Pine Bluff, Ark., April 28.—(AP)—Three youths held here for the robbery of the Merchants and Farmers bank of Dumas last Thursday revealed in sworn statements made public by officers today that banks in a half dozen or more cities were considered for the robbery before the Dumas institution was agreed upon. The three are William Cantrell, 18, of Harlan, Ky.; J. O. Hiltibrand, 24, of Little Rock, and Thomas Richmond, 26, of Conway.

REPORT DILLINGER IS SEEN SPEEDING THROUGH WILMETTE

A report that John Dillinger had been seen in an automobile which passed through Wilmette headed toward Chicago last night caused police of the suburb to make a search for the desperado. Though they found no other trace of the Indiana outlaw, they learned that the license plates on the suspected automobile had apparently been stolen.

An employé of Kutten Brothers Coal company, 711 Main street, Wilmette, telephoned the police that he had seen a man resembling Dillinger in a Ford car which passed the coal yard and stopped for a traffic light. He took down the number of the 1933 license plates the car carried and police learned that they had been discarded by Robert C. Newell of Springfield.

A squad of federal agents sped to Fort Wayne, Ind., last night on a report that Dillinger and his mates were hiding there. It was said that members of the gang had been seen in that city during the last several days.

It was believed the outlaws may have visited relatives of Homer Van Meter, one of Dillinger's lieutenants, who live there. Informed that Van Meter's kin were spending the weekend at a cottage on Lake George, 45 miles northwest of Fort Wayne, the agents went there.

Accused Extortionist Shot in Battle in a Cemetery

Gower, Mo., April 28.—(AP)—A rattle of gunfire among the tombstones of a country cemetery ended what officers described today as an unsuccessful extortion plot. A man who gave his name as Frank Wood, 41, a farm hand, was shot and probably fatally wounded by officers last night after he had received a dummy package from Curtis Poe, former cashier of the Bank of Gower. Poe said he had received a letter demanding that he deliver $1,000 at the cemtery.

POSSES HUNTING KIDNAPED GIRL VICTIMS OF HOAX

Tucson, Ariz., April 28.—[Special.]—Airplane messengers brought the discouraging news here tonight that a report which had caused scores of eager marksmen and a number of Apache Indian scouts to search the wild hill country of the Mexican border near Fort Huachuca for 6 year old June Robles of Tucson, kidnaped last Wednesday, was a hoax.

Wearied from their sudden dash into the hills and canyons about 100 miles away, the posses were returning home late tonight, disappointed and angry. Meanwhile, the hopes of the missing six year old girl's parents that the hunt that begun on Wednesday afternoon was nearing an end, were shattered.

The report that had caused the possemen to swarm into the hills and canyons was that two men, heavily armed and with a little girl in their custody, had stopped at White City, about 100 miles to the southeast, held up the Negro woman, owner of a café, and forced her to give them food for themselves and the child.

Story Is Discounted.

Eva Coleman, the woman who was blamed for giving rise to the story that caused a resumption of the manhunt was being taken to Bisbee tonight to be held on charges, the nature of which was not given out. The possemen had been waiting in impatient idleness up to this afternoon, pending the outcome of an attempt to negotiate with the kidnapers.

Officials here said it was impossible that the two men, one of whom supposedly resembled the notorious Oklahoma outlaw, Clyde Barrow, could have been in the district without having been seen by any one else.

The false report had caused scores of customs and immigration men at all points along the border to be on the alert while the manhunt was going on this afternoon and evening.

Sentry Identifies Two Cars.

The two Tucson officers, upon reaching White City, had found a concentration of all law enforcement officers of southern Arizona there questioning the Negro woman. She told them a convincing story, even to the number of their automobile license, but when officers questioned a United States army sentry on guard at the military reservation, the sentry told them that only two cars had passed him today and he was able to identify both of them.

The license number that had been given by the Negro woman corresponded with the number of an automobile that was stolen four days ago at Uvalde, Tex. However, this puzzle was solved when it was learned that the chief of police at Bisbee, Ariz., had telephoned the number to Under Sherif Colby S. Farrar of Pima county as answering the description given by the Negro woman.

Madison to Tighten Jail Guard on Dillinger Women

Madison, Wis., April 28.—(AP)—Activities of John Dillinger, Indiana desperado, and the confinement of three of his gang's women companions in the jail here led the Madison city council to appropriate $2,000 last night to strengthen the police department's equipment. The money will be used for the purchase of several machine guns, bulletproof vests, and possibly an armored car. Since the three women were placed in jail here by federal officials the city has borrowed a number of machine guns to thwart any attempt to release the prisoners.

GANGSTER SLAIN BY GUNMEN IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Gang guns this afternoon ended the life of Isidor "Zip" Carfagno, 28, former right hand man of Joey Rao, Harlem racketeer now serving a prison term. Carfagno was shot to death in a stationery store on East 114th street, a few doors from where Rao formerly lived. Police were told the murder was committed by four men with whom the gangster had been conversing in the store.

Mrs. J. Tricomi told detectives that the four were seated at a table in the rear of the store when Carfagno came in. He joined the quartet and they conversed about ten minutes. Then Carfagno got up and started to leave. Half way to the door he crumpled to the floor under a fusillade of shots. The gunmen leaped over his body, ran to the street and disappeared.

MICHIGAN LIQUOR ACT HELD CONSTITUTIONAL BY SUPREME COURT

Lansing, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—Broad local control powers in administration of the new state liquor law were upheld by the Michigan Supreme court today in deciding a case appealed by Jesse Johnson, Allegan hotel man.

Johnson had attacked the validity of the liquor control act as regards the provision that the control commission must withhold from license applicants who are unable to obtain approval of their local governing bodies. He contended that the constitutional amendment which repealed the state prohibition amendment conferred absolute control of the liquor trafic on the commission to be created by statute. In thus limiting the commissions regulatory powers, it was maintained that the legislature enacted an unconstitutional law.

The Supreme court, however, finds that the statute is constitutional.

NIGHT RAIDERS DESTROY SEEDS IN BEET FIELDS

Protest Price Offered for Sugar Material.

Scott's Bluff, Neb., April 28.—[Special.] — Western Nebraska farmers have invoked the methods of the tobacco night raiders of a quarter century ago in shutting off the raw material for sugar.

Some 700 of them are resentful toword the Great Western Sugar Beet company because they regard its offered price for beets as too small. They also resent the failure of the government to intervene in their behalf.

Last night these men, equipped with tractors, trucks, gang plows and harrows, raided three farms where beets had already been planted. The seeds were plowed under to a depth that guarantees they will not germinate.

Threaten Other Growers.

The protest of the helpless owners of the fields were met with assurances that all others who dare to plant beets while the farmers' association still is dickering with the company, the dominant factor in the country's beet sugar production, will be treated in the same way.

"Either the company meets our demands or no beets will be raised," was the ultimatum.

The owners of the farms raided were Mrs. Henry W. Haig of Mitchell, sister-in-law of the late Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig of Great Britain, Stevens Kuntz and John Schmurk. Their plantings which were destroyed aggregated 600 acres.

Seeks Benefits Guaranty.

There are two principal objections by the farmers to the sugar company's offers. They have demanded a guaranty that they will be given half of any cash benefits the government may allot for the crop and they object to what they term a monopoly of the beet seed business by the company. Those signing contracts with the concern receive seeds at a stipulated price, but others claim they are unable to buy anywhere.

The night riding farmers are said to feel that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is unsympathetic toward them and would not object to seeing the beet sugar industry in this part of Nebraska wiped out.

On Wednesday the Great Western company warned the farmers that unless they soon planted their fields of beets there would be no chance to make a full crop and that growers would lose a million and a quarter dollars through the lessening of their tonnage.

REPORT AGREEMENT REACHED.

Agreement between the Great Western Sugar company and beet sugar growers of four western states whereby growers will receive payments on a regional basis in conformity with the 1909-'14 parity level was said to have been reached at a conference in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

The action breaks a deadlock existing for the last month, and is said to have followed suggestions of the Agricultural Adjustment administration which, through Chester C. Davis, administrator of the AAA, called the opposing factions together.

The beet growers were told it is too late for the AAA to go into 1934 contracts already completed, which the growers had desired, but assured them a careful study will be made prior to negotiations for 1935 contracts.

W. D. Tippitt, Denver, Colo., president of the sugar concern, and heads of bargaining associations of Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, and Nebraska attended the parley. The Great Western makes 30 per cent of the sugar produced from beets in the United States and has twenty-one factories.

and the king chief actor. The king, riding in a state coach drawn by six horses with outriders, arrived at parliament house at 10:30 a. m. He was followed by Queen Helena in another coach and six. The king entered the hall accompanied by Mussolini, wearing a Fascist uniform, and took his place on the throne. Surrounding him were Crown Prince Humbert and other princes of the royal household. Just above the king in the gallery sat the queen, surrounded by Crown Princess Marie Jose, in deep mourning for her father, Albert of Belgium, and other princesses royal.

Soon after the king was seated on his throne, Il duce, as master of the show, stepped out and announced: "Senators and deputies, the king asks you to be seated." Then Mussolini started reading the formula of the oath, which all the deputies must take and to which they respond, "I swear."

Stands at Attention for King.

He began the roll call of the new legislature with his own name. "Mussolini," he shouted, and radio loudspeakers blared it throughout the kingdom. Then he responded, "I swear," and continued to read off all other names alphabetically.

When he had finished, Mussolini stepped back and the king, remaining sitting, read off his speech, which Mussolini previously had approved. Il duce and his ministers stood at attention as the king spoke.

When Victor Emmanuel had finished, Mussolini accompanied him to the exit. If it was the last legislature its inauguration was a first class show.

ASSEMBLYMEN ORDER NEW YORK CHARTER REVISED

Albany, N. Y., April 28.—[Special.]—Revision of New York City's antiquated charter was authorized by the state legislature as the closing act of its session today. The bill provides for the setting up of a commission to rewrite the fundamental law under which city affairs are conducted, with provision for twenty-eight leaders of all shades of political thought as members.

The legislature also left on Gov. Lehman's desk a "permanent" liquor control law that has all the earmarks of being headed for drastic revision within a year. It is one of 780 measures put up to the governor.

The proposed new liquor control law permits liquor drinking at bars as long as the bars are not the predominant features of the licensed premises. The ABC board has permitted beer drinking at bars, but has prescribed table drinking for liquor.

BYRD'S MEN DIG IN; LONG WINTER NIGHT AT HAND

Unseen Sun Dips Lower and Lower Daily.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, April 25.—[Delayed.]—(AP)—Via Mackay Radio.]—Here in this polar village by the Bay of Whales, the 56 men of the second Byrd antarctic expedition are making ready for the four months' winter night.

In the darkness of this morning the dogs were brought from their tunnels and sent to a retreat camp to retrieve the last supplies cached there. The aviators started building a new snow hangar. A machine shop was put together.

Every day the unseen sun dips lower and lower below the earth's rim. Night is claiming its empire in the south polar continent—but the many activities of a scientific expedition go on.

A Fascinating Place.

It has a staf of men studying 15 branches of science—including the strength of the cosmic ray, the flight of meteors, the thickness of the antarctic ice sheet, and the microscopic life mysteriously persisting in the waters of the Bay of Whales, under conditions seemingly entirely unsuited to life.

The comforts of civilization are in strange contrast to the endless reaches of snow. There is a light plant and wireless, tractors, airplanes, repair shops, hospitals for men and live stock, library and science hall, a dairy of three cows and a bull, a fully equipped meteorological station, two kittens, and a mess hall seating 28.

Armor of Ice to the North.

Necessity has made this village self-contained. To the north lies the dark Ross sea, immense and ice-armored, through which the strongest fleet in the world could not blast its way.

Buildings put up lately are superimposed in a way upon the first underground village. Drifts have already mounted to the roofs of the new shacks.

Within everything is snug and cozy. The men live in the old administration building, mess hall, and library.

The first expedition constructed its buildings in holes dug in the snow to get them out of the reach of the wind. This time, however, it was decided to build them on the surface and let the drifts bury them. This has already happened.

New Science Hall Built.

The new structures lie lengthwise in two parallel lines that run roughly east and west—they include a science hall, and two shacks as an observatory and quarters for the biology staf. The new mess hall is 15 by 30 by 7½ feet, with a flat roof and space for a projection booth. Twenty feet away, and connected by a tunnel, is the new science hall.

Another narrow 4 foot tunnel leads to the radio shack—of about the same size as the mess hall. Twelve feet away is the cow barn, 20 feet long, 15 feet wide, and 8 feet high.

The system of tunnels is intricate. Its main part is a wide passage connecting the science building and the mess hall. Smaller branches extend in many directions from it and are lined where possible with food boxes. In one part beyond the cow barn is an amazing underground community where 122 full grown huskies and seven pups live in wooden cells.

HIGH SCHOOL HEAD FACES OUSTER OVER INSTRUCTION ON SEX

Newcastle, Del., April 28.—(AP)—Ouster of Henry Snavely as high school principal, because he believes students should be given sex instruction, has the citizens of Newcastle at odds with the school board.

Three members of the four man board have announced they would not reappoint the principal because he takes the stand that students should be given education in sex matters. The citizens at two mass meetings demanded his reappointment.

Despite these demands, however, the board refuses to rename Snavely, whose term expires in June.

VIOLA LONSTORF, HEIRESS, DIES IN FIRE IN A HOTEL

Wisconsin Traveler Is Milwaukee Victim.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—Miss Viola B. Lonstorf, 48 years old, and member of one of Wisconsin's best known and wealthiest families, was burned to death here today in her room on the twenty-first floor of the Hotel Schroeder. The fire apparently had been started by a cigaret.

Due to the fact adjacent rooms were unoccupied the fire burned for nearly an hour before being discovered. Hotel employés then found Miss Lonstorf's body on the floor, all the clothing burned from it. Fireproof construction of the hotel prevented a spreading of the flames.

Family Prominent.

Miss Lonstorf was known as a world traveler. The family was prominent in Milwaukee two decades ago and the Lonstorf home was one of the finest in the city. After the death of her mother, Margaretha, ten years ago, Miss Lonstorf left the city. She shared in a $10,000,000 estate left by her mother and father, and Milwaukee saw her but seldom since then. She returned here Wednesday and had been alone in her room much of the time since.

Dr. Stephen Cahana informed police he had been called by Miss Lonstorf last night and found her in a state of nervous tension and gave her a sleeping potion.

Find $50,000 in Jewelry.

In the room police found jewelry valued at $50,000 and a bank book showing she had $14,000 on deposit on Feb. 20.

One brother and six sisters survive Miss Lonstorf, Otto, Camille, and Clotilda, of Milwaukee; Mrs. J. C. McShane, Chicago; Mrs. C. A. Phelps, Bowling Green, Ky., and Mrs. I. C. Long, Los Angeles, Cal.

FIREMEN REVIVE BOY FISHERMAN FROM DROWNING

Dragged unconscious and apparently drowned from the Chicago river, Eugene Klosowski, 12 years old, 2321 North Oakley avenue, was revived yesterday afternoon by Rescue Squad No. 6, of the fire department, commanded by Lieut. Charles Duplex.

The boy was fishing from the bank near the Diversey avenue bridge over the north branch when he lost his balance and toppled into the water. The accident was witnessed by John Frelich, 4042 North Drake avenue, the bridge tender, who plunged into the stream and pulled the lad ashore.

Frelich then gave first aid and the work of reviving the boy was finished by the firemen. At his home last night it was said he had, seemingly, suffered no permanent ill effects.

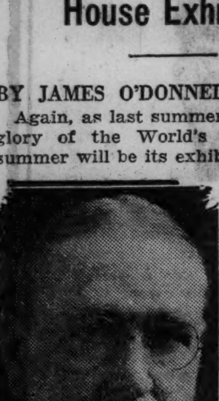
BEST OF WORLD'S ART COMING FOR FAIR VISITORS

43 Special Galleries to House Exhibits.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Again, as last summer, the supreme glory of the World's Fair's second summer will be its exhibition of paintings.



ROBERT B. HARSHE.

Again its picture show will be what experts who made their estimates with caution acclaimed as "a seventy-five million dollar show."

Again it will be held in the Art institute's gray stone Italian Renaissance palace on the lake front and again will be directed by the institute's officials.

It will be opened to the public on Friday morning, June 1, at 9:30 o'clock, and again the admission to the specifically "World's Fair galleries," numbering forty-three, will be 25 cents. Admission to all the other galleries, which will contain many important exhibits of a special nature, will be free. Among the free exhibits will be what Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute and generalissimo in the assembling of the World's Fair exhibition of paintings, describes as "a great print show."

"Greatest in History."

So austere an art critic as Albert Franz Cochrane of Boston acclaimed last summer's exhibition at the institute as "by far the greatest in our history."

That triumph will this summer be repeated, but not duplicated. In other words, the exposition's picture show for the six summer and autumn months of 1934 will be identical in quality with the show of 1933—and that quality was dazzling—but it will be different in kind.

For example, the one million six hundred thousand visitors to the institute who last year were touched to awe by the serene and pensive dignity of Rembrandt's "Aristotle with the Bust of Homer," generously loaned by Lord Duveen, will this year see the Dutch master's intensely dramatic "Joseph Accused by Potiphar's Wife."

That great picture Rembrandt painted in what has been called "a period of splendid power"—about 1654—and of his treatment of the theme, which he painted twice, Paul Konody says in his study of Rembrandt that it possesses "great dramatic vigor and perfect mastery of expression, while the brilliant color and glowing effect of light and shade attest his strength."

Once Hung in St. Petersburg.

Under the old régime this picture, which is loaned to Chicago for the period of the exposition by the Knoedlers of New York City, hung in the Hermitage galleries in St. Petersburg, a museum which contained the chief imperial art collections. It was, indeed, one of the works which helped to give the Hermitage its fame as a treasure house of Dutch masters unequaled by any other museum in the world.

"Joseph Accused by Potiphar's Wife" will probably be the sensation of this summer's exhibition unless perchance—for one never knows in what picture the big public will find its biggest thrill—that celebrity is attained by George Bellows' tremendous "Dempsey-Firpo Fight." It depicts the instant when Firpo smashes Dempsey over the ropes and into the laps of dumfounded sports writers. Bellows painted himself into the lower left hand corner—as you face it—of this huge and Homeric composition.

It is by its lavish presentation this summer of the works of Bellows that the institute marks an emphatic difference between the show of 1933 and the show of 1934. This year's will be far more important and extensive in its exhibition of works by American painters.

Bellows' Work at 1933 Fair.

Last summer Chicago's World's Fair visitors saw four paintings by Bellows, whom Dr. Harshe calls "the most vital and forceful of all American artists"—always adding, "What a tragedy that he died so young!" This year our visitors will see eleven of his pictures, among them "The Execution of Edith Cavell," "The Dempsey-Firpo Fight," and "The Transfiguration." All those are ranked among Bellows' great achievements.

Not, as last summer, three Whistlers will be vouchsafed us, but a whole roomful of Whistlers, among them his "L'Anduze," which is a full length of a Spanish girl, and his "Woman in White," "which," says Dr. Harshe, "is a much finer thing than the 'Mother' that was the sensation of last summer's exhibition."

A whole room will be given to paintings by Winslow Homer, among them "The Fox and the Crows," one of the few pictures by Homer which show oriental influence. It is loaned by the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Other Notable Canvases.

Other large American loan groups will include fine examples of John Singer Sargent, Robert Henri—whose "Herself," owned by the institute, has for several years been one of the public's darlings—Maurice Stern, and Mary Cassatt.

Of special importance—because of the belated and still somewhat limited recognition of the man's power and truthfulness—will be the group of seven paintings, four of them loans, by Thomas Eakins [1844-1916] of Philadelphia, whom Walt Whitman, one of his sitters, proclaimed as the most honest of American painters.

For the Eakins room the University of Pennsylvania's school of medicine is sending to Chicago this painter's very large—it is fifteen feet high—and very important picture, "The Agnew Clinic," which is not unlikely to become one of the sensation pieces of the exhibition with the public, and certainly will become such with the medical profession. I count on standing by and listening intently when so acute a critic of the arts and of letters as Dean Cutter of Northwestern university's medical school views and comments upon this notable painting.

Dr. Harshe believes, or at least hopes, that the World's Fair exhibit of seven pictures by Eakins will do much to interest Americans in a compatriot who was an honor to American painting and of whose work the general public knows little.

Seven More Galleries This Year.

All told there will be seven more galleries of American paintings in this summer's exhibition at the institute than there were last summer.

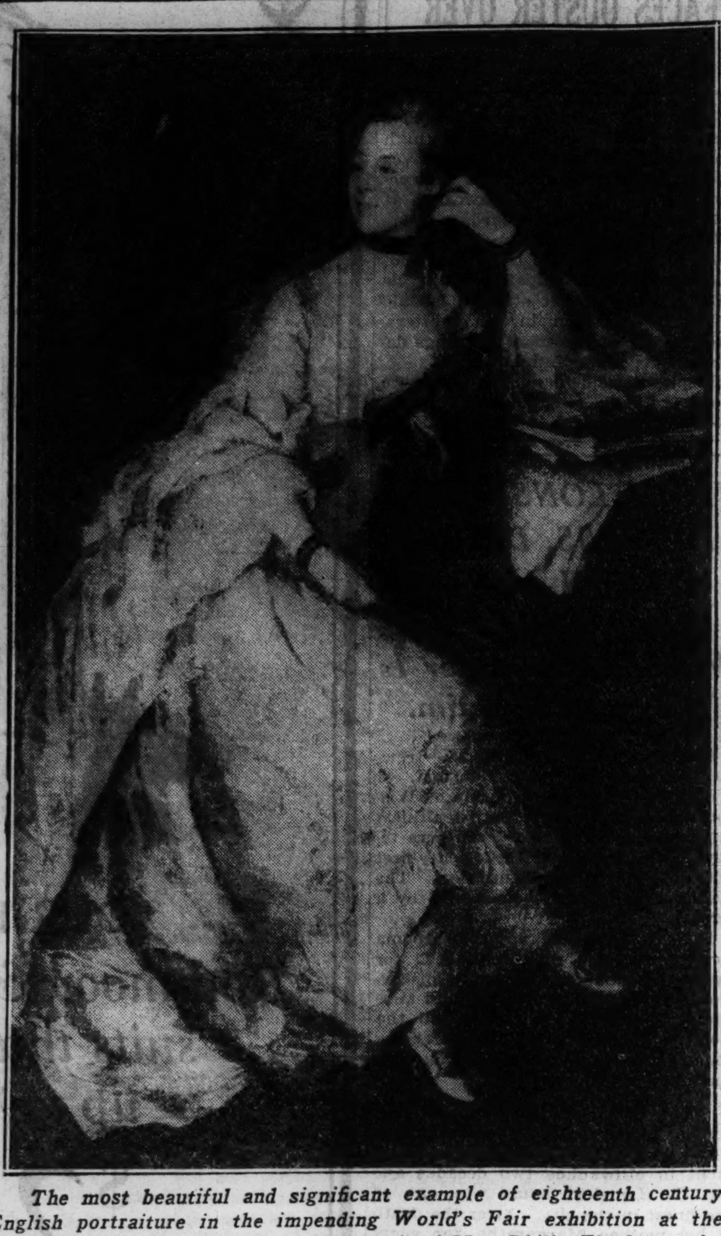
Nor is that the most exhilarating part of the unfolding of instruction and inspiration which the summer holds for Chicago and its visitors.

For, simultaneously with the arrival at the institute's fireproof receiving rooms of works of native artists who had something important to say to the world, there are arriving daily from public and private galleries illustratious works of the masters of the fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries—Fra Angelico, Cranach, Antonello da Messina, Botticelli, Titian, Veronese, Rubens, Ter Borch, Van der Weyden, Poussin, Watteau, Gainsborough, and dozens more.

The extraordinary monetary value of many of these paintings can be indicated by the statement that one of them, Antonello da Messina's "Portrait of a Young Man," which comes to us from the Johnson collection in Philadelphia, is insured for the period of the Fair for $250,000.

As to the beauty of the treasures which the world is entrusting to Chicago, hints are given by the photographs of the Veronese, the Sustermans, and the Gainsborough which appear on this page.

Art Masterpiece for Fair Exhibit



The most beautiful and significant example of eighteenth century English portraiture in the impending World's Fair exhibition at the Art Institute will be the life size portrait of Mrs. Philip Thicknesse by Thomas Gainsborough (1728-1788). It is loaned to Chicago for the period of our second Century of Progress summer by the Cincinnati Art museum. "A big thing, a stunning thing!" says the institute's director, Robert Harshe, of this picture, which, despite American ownership of Gainsborough's famous "Blue Boy," he calls "the most important Gainsborough in this country."

Killed by Elevated Train While Lying on Tracks

John L. O'Gara, 35 years old, resident manager of the apartment building at 4203 Sheridan road, was killed last night when he was run over by a north bound rapid transit train at the 22d street station. Thomas O'Donnell, 1600 Jonquil terrace, motorman, said that O'Gara was lying on the tracks and that he did not see him until it was too late to stop the train. Two cars passed over him. Police could not determine whether O'Gara fell accidentally upon the tracks or not.

WORLD FAIR TO GIVE MORE FREE SHOWS THIS YEAR

Best Attractions Chosen from Heavy Demand.

Concession space in the new World's Fair is sold out, except for scattered small space, and this great demand for locations enabled Fair officials to choose the best attractions this year, including more free entertainment, according to an announcement by Major Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, yesterday.

"One of the lessons learned from last year was that we should have more free entertainment in 1934," Major Lohr said. "As a result, free entertainment will be offered this year in such projects as the Standard Oil animal show, the Swift and company bridge, the Armour 'lagoon ship,' the Continental Bakeries building, the John R. Thompson amusement pier, and others."

Lions and Tigers to Perform.

The free shows have been situated strategically throughout the grounds. Near the south end is the amphitheater of the Standard Oil company, where 33 lions and tigers will perform in the same cage at the same time. Free concerts will be presented daily at Ford park, at about 28th to 31st street, where the Detroit symphony orchestra will perform if present negotiations are successful.

In a band shell built into the lagoon from the 23rd street bridge the Chicago Symphony orchestra will give two daily concerts for ten weeks starting July 1, sponsored by Swift and company. The Thompson restaurant concern's free entertainment, which will include dancing, will be near the north end of the lagoon.

Science Offers Shows.

In other parts of the grounds, the court of the Hall of Science will be the scene of continuous daily shows of scientific developments by various industrial exhibitors. At the Court of States, across the lagoon, colorful pageants and special celebrations by nations and states will be presented.

Hand in hand with the free projects are the reduced rates of several pay concessions, including lagoon boats, with 10-cent ferry service, roller chairs, with 20-cent taxi service, and Greyhound buses, which will offer half fares for children.

Streamline Aids Business.

In announcing that 106 members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association are taking part in the Fair, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president, yesterday declared the popularity of the "streamline" in its application to various articles received tremendous impetus from the 1933 World's Fair. The Fair thus had a large part in the recovery of many manufacturers, he said.

"The exposition, in short, awakened the nation to possibilities of stimulating industry and commerce through new and attractive products," Mr. Donnelly declared.

One of the most outstanding lighting effects of the Exposition will be a torch of light, projected one mile in the air under proper atmospheric conditions, and springing from the parapet of the Ford building. The torch, 200 feet broad at the base, will be achieved by the concentration of 24 three-foot projector searchlights, with 30 million candle power.

DISABLED WAR VETS LEAVE ESTATES OF MORE THAN $20,000

Detroit, Mich., April 28.—[U.P.]—Disabled world war veterans have left estates amounting to more than $20,000 from compensation payments by the government, it was revealed in Probate court hearing here today.

One of the estates totaled $24,500; another, $21,500. Others ranged from $10,296 to nearly $20,000 in value.

The hearing was in regard to the trusteeship of the closed Union Guardian Trust company, which was appointed guardian for 19 mentally incompetent veterans.

Walter Scott, counsel for the veterans' bureau, explained the estates were built up before 1924 when congress passed a bill denying compensation beyond $1,500 to veterans being cared for by the government and who were without dependents.

State O. K.'s Sale of Small Liquor Packages at the Fair

The Illinois liquor control commission yesterday extended its rules to permit the sale of miniature packages of liquor within the grounds of A Century of Progress, providing the retailers also obtain permission from the Fair authorities. The miniature packages usually contain between one and two ounces of liquor.

SENATOR LEWIS PROMISES U. S. FUNDS FOR FAIR

Before leaving for Washington yesterday, United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis gave assurance that an appropriation for the federal government's participation in A Century of Progress would be made prior to the opening of the Fair, and commented also on the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange regulation bill and the possible adjournment of congress.

The senator said he had come to Chicago at this time principally to confer with the directors of the Fair on the appropriation bill. He had intended to leave for Washington Friday night, he said, but was forced to stay over until yesterday to have medical attention given to an inflamed eye.

"I have gotten the appropriation of $400,000 through the senate," said Senator Lewis, "but complications have arisen in the House because of the demands of four other states for like sums for Fairs. For economy reasons, the government cannot vote a like amount to each of the states, but I feel that I shall be able to smooth things and get the appropriation through the House next week. The Fair management can be quite assured of receiving the money before opening day."

When questioned about the Fletcher-Rayburn bill, the senator gave as his opinion the features found objectionable by Chicago and other business men would be so amended that business interests would need have no fear of any of the provisions in the measure.

RESTAURANT MAN ENDS LIFE.

Joseph Kares, 52 years old, 4629 West 21st street, Cicero, a restaurant owner, shot and killed himself in his home yesterday apparently while despondent over ill health.

INVENTS PEEPLESS KEYHOLE TO PROTECT PEEPER AND OTHER

Omaha, Neb., April 28.—[U. P.]—Peepless keyholes which protect both peeper and objective, an automatic spinal adjuster which restores the glow of health, and a rocket designed for interplanetary transportation are a few of the hundreds of inventions which will go on display at the National Inventors Congress.

The production of new devices and gadgets to add to the complexity of modern life has gone on at a high rate during the depression, and the "new deal" leisure time has been a boon to the inventor, according to Albert G. Burns, president of the congress.

"Consider this keyhole business," said Burns. "It was conceived and executed by Harry A. Fiscus of Des Moines. "It not only furnishes the owner a new degree of privacy, but protects the overly curious, for a hatpin cannot be shoved through it from the inside. It should be a boon to all but the columnists."

The spinal adjuster, Burns said, will mean a mechanical chiropractor for every home.

"It appears simple," said Burns. "You turn a screw, throw a lever, and there you are. Every vertebræ in its place and everything fine. The inventor is a Sacramento man."

SEVEN LION CUBS FROLIC IN ZOO AT BROOKFIELD

Public to Get First View at July Opening.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Two litters of baby lions are getting a lot of attention at the Chicago Zoological park in Brookfield, which will be opened to the public July 1.

The two families of lions not only are credits to their mammas, but, which is more unusual, the mammas themselves are behaving in a model manner. As lionesses often kill and eat their children the maternal solicitude of Queen for her four 9 weeks old cubs, born Feb. 22, and the tender care Gretchen bestows on her three, is considered a moral triumph in the lion house at the zoo.

Queen a Good Parent.

Queen has borne litters before and proved herself a good parent, but Gretchen acted scandalously when her first experience of motherhood came along, killing two of her three children. The remaining child, Riri, was taken away from her and kept in an incubator in a Chicago hospital until old enough to be returned to the Getz zoo in Holland, Mich., where the animals came from. Riri now is among the young lions who frolic about in one of the outdoor moated grottoes adjoining the lion house.

"I think one reason Gretchen is devoting herself to her babies so scrupulously this time," said Robert Bean, assistant to his father, Edward H. Bean, director of the Chicago Zoological park, "is that Queen has provided a good example."

Cubs Resent Visitors.

Queen and her babies alike resented the approach of visitors. The youngsters spat and hissed and bared their teeth and Queen rumbled menacingly. A caretaker threw in a good large piece of raw meat, and she forgot the visitors, knuckling down to her dinner and teaching her young to nibble on the meat. After the meal the tiny cubs licked their chops, yawned and strolled or stumbled away.

From 20 to 25 times a day Queen serves them a light luncheon provided by herself. In order to make certain her two less aggressive and strong children get as much milk as they should have this ideal lion mother pinions her two stronger offspring under her forearms or hind legs until the others have their fill. This is unusual in the animal world, said Mr. Bean. Most wild animals are impartial mothers, not shunning the weaklings or runts among their children, and not favoring them.

One Ventures Too Far.

All four of Queen's cubs appeared lively enough. One of them ventured too far, managing the feat of climbing to the top of the large box which is put inside each mother's double cage to act as a nest, assuring her privacy. He had to be rescued by a keeper, who shut Queen off from her babies, entered their cage, and while the little ones hissed at him grabbed the offender by the scruff of the neck. Tiny as he was, the little lion managed to inflict a scratch on the keeper's hand.

Gretchen's infants, who are four weeks younger, are equally fierce. They still remain most of the time in their nest with their mother, who emerges only to eat and drink in her anxiety to show what a good parent she can be. For the first three or four weeks of their lives they did not leave the nest at all.

Born with Teeth.

Equipped with sharp little teeth when born, although they do not open their milky gray eyes for seven or eight days the cubs' natural diet is supplemented now with a mixture of milk, codliver oil and bone paste. Later they will be given lots of hearts, liver and other organs of beef, or, better yet, horse, as well as codliver oil and milk. The mothers are given this diet now.

"Until the last few years lionesses who would rear their young were extremely rare and much in demand by zoos," said Mr. Bean. "Then a diet expert, Elmer V. McCollum, professor of biochemistry at Johns Hopkins university, made a discovery.

"He figured there must be a reason why the young lion and tigers died even with expert care in the zoo, or were killed by their mothers, while many thrived with circuses or carnivals. The reason, he found by experiment, was in carnivals, where little care could be given them, the whole carcass of a horse would be fed them.

"Thus these experiments of Prof. McCollum, who, like most of those who work out new diets for mankind first, try them out on animals, introduced the heart and liver diet for lions, tigers and jaguars in zoos. Now they can be reared successfully, with proper care."

In the cage to the left of Queen is her mate, Duke, father of Queen's cubs. On the right of Gretchen in a separate cage is Prince, her mate. The fathers are not allowed in with the youngsters. They have no parental feeling at all. The only lion he ever knew to make a good father, Mr. Bean said, was one in San Diego, who lived with his mate and child in complete harmony.

Queen and Gretchen give excellent demonstrations of how little they need men around to protect them or their young. Like most female lions, they are fiercer and more vicious than the male, said Mr. Bean. In the outdoor moated grottoes young male lions play together amicably, for instance, while females are not kept together because of their quarrelsome ways.

Black Leopards New Addition.

A pair of black leopards, males, captured by Frank Buck, the explorer, recently took up their abode in the lion house. Nungo, the huge 8 year old lion with an impressive mane and a theatrical snarl, a pair of mountain lions and a pair of lions picked up on the plains of German East Africa by Mrs. E. L. King of Winona, Minn., are among the other inhabitants.

Some of the happiest animals roaming in their spacious rocky outdoor homes, without a bar in sight, are three 2 year old lions who were kept in the Midget village at the World's Fair last year. They play in friendly fashion with Riri, who is most pleasant in disposition and puts her hand through the bars when inside to shake hands with George Getz whenever he visits her. He frequently comes to see his many former animal wards in their new home.

A FAMILY SCENE IN BROOKFIELD

Queen, proud lioness mother of four healthy cubs in the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield, takes her maternal responsibilities seriously as evidenced by this nice bit of posing for a Tribune photographer. Lions are known to be notoriously bad mothers, often killing their young, but Queen has a mission in life. Beyond personal motherhood she must set a good example (being experienced) for Gretchen, another mother, who is following Queen's methods in raising a family of three. The new zoo will be open soon.

$530,000 IN WAGE CHECKS ARE MAILED TO SCHOOL EMPLOYES

Wage checks totaling $530,000 were mailed yesterday to 2,500 civil service employés of the board of education. The pay roll was for the month of July and the first two weeks of August, 1933, and was provided by the sale of 1934 tax anticipation warants to the Municipal Employés Annuity and Benefit Fund. A second purchase of warants by the fund is planned soon, according to John P. Dillon, member of the board of trustees. It will provide pay for the last two weeks of August, 1933.

A. B. Gilbert Enters Race for Minnesota Governor

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—(AP)—A. B. Gilbert said he based his action on an avowed opposition to the "entrance of communism" into Liberal party affairs.

SEIZE 2 BANDITS AFTER GUN FIGHT AND AUTO CHASE

Two bandits were captured yesterday after a thrilling automobile chase and gun battle. One of the bandits and three other persons, two of them women, were cut and bruised in an automobile crash which ended the chase.

The bandits identified themselves as Alfred Chatt, 42 years old, and Walter Larvey, 40 years old, but would give no addresses. They were seen by Sergt. William P. Curtin and Patrolman Harold P. Enright as they robbed Anthony Pavitch, a tavern owner at 2457 South La Salle street, of $367.

Curtin and Enright chased the bandits' car as it drew away from the tavern. The crash occurred at 24th street and Wentworth avenue where the bandits' machine crashed into one driven by Rocco Vostalos, 19 years old, 1167 South State street. With the latter was his mother, Mrs. Grace Vostalo, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Bushong, 20 years.

Both cars overturned and a revolver battle followed. The bandits surrendered when their ammunition was exhausted. Chatt and the Vostalos were shaken up by the crash but none was injured seriously.

TEACHERS MAY GET YEAR'S BACK PAY DURING '34

New Financial Setup Is Explained by Rees.

An encouraging note to school teachers on their pay prospects was sounded yesterday by John O. Rees, technical director of the citizens' committee on public expenditures. He forecast that the teachers and other school employés would receive during 1934 at least one school year's back pay partly in cash and partly in tax warants.

The present teaching year is nine months. Already, since Jan. 1, the teachers have received six weeks pay in cash totaling $6,300,000, covering last May and the two teaching weeks in June. The prediction of the tax expert means that they can be assured of receiving pay totaling $30,000,000 in cash and warants or both for seven and one-half more months by Dec. 31, 1934.

Clear Pay Roll Till May.

There is no school in June, July, August and the first half of September. So seven and a half months' back pay would clean up the pay roll till May 1 of this year, leaving the teachers only five months in arrears at the close of 1934. Thus, the tax authority pointed out, for the first time in the last few years the school staf will gain considerable ground in the payment of back salaries. Heretofore the close of each calendar year has found the teachers farther and farther behind in salary due.

Just how the board of education employés can be sure of receiving all of the pay then earn within a calendar year was set forth by Mr. Rees as follows:

The total salary expense is $37,000,000 for nine teaching months. The total 1934 educational tax levy has been pegged at $43,000,000. On the basis of this levy the school board can sell or issue for payment of salaries 75 per cent or $32,000,000 worth of warants. This sum, plus the $4,000,000 cash pay roll met a few weeks ago for May through sale of 1933 warants, equals a year's pay rolls.

Called Definite Prospect.

The expert declared this was a definite prospect even though the teachers get neither federal aid, nor revenues from the recently enacted state gas tax diversion to take effect on July 1.

Mr. Reese further advanced the hopeful possibilty the teachers in addition may receive from two to three months more cash pay from the state distributive fund. This possibility, he said, is contingent upon the state making good the common school fund appropriations for 1932, 1933 and 1934.

There is approximately $10,000,000 due the Chicago teachers from this fund. If it should be paid over within the next eight months the teachers throughout the year will have received an aggregate of $46,000,000, covering about twelve months back pay.

"The pegged levy for 1934 means that no matter how much assessments may be cut by the county assessor for 1934, there will be $43,000,000 in taxes extended for the educational fund. Cuts made by the board of appeals or by the county court, however, will reduce this amount.

"With these levies and the budget as passed, the school system will get no farther into debt to teachers during 1934, regardless of whether any government loans are made. Including the month's pay that was made for last May earlier in the spring and that of two weeks of June, the board of education should be able to pay at least a year's salaries in 1934.

Warants to Determine Cash.

"The amount which will be in cash will depend to what extent warants can be sold. When the board can actually get the money from the state of Illinois which was appropriated in 1932, 1933 and 1934, with some miscellaneous receipts will mean between two and three months more pay in cash.

"There is a world of difference between school appropriations by the state and the cash to pay them. The Chicago school system needs the actual money on state appropriations already made much worse than it needs additional appropriations."

The tax expert suggested that a better market for tax warants will prevail if they are issued gradually than if dumped suddenly in large quantities—if they are issued for pay in lieu of cash.

Folsom Gives Encouraging Report on School Measure

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—An encouraging report concerning the possibilities of legislation leading to payment of the back salaries of Chicago school teachers was given today by Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney, as he left for Chicago after a week of interviewing congressmen and officials at the capitol.

Attorney Folsom talked today with Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and reported that Mr. Jones had promised the coöperation of the corporation in extending a loan to the Chicago school board if the necessary legislation were passed.

Outlines City's Position.

"I outlined to Mr. Jones the financial situation of Chicago's schools," said Attorney Folsom, "pointing out to him that Chicago is in an enviable position to offer lands not occupied by school property as security for loans from the RFC. He said he saw no objection to such a loan and that if congress gives him the power he will be glad to consider it."

A bill, backed by Mayor Kelly of Chicago and introduced by Congressman Adolph Sabath [Dem., Ill.], in the house, which is now pending before the committee on banking and currency, would authorize the RFC to make loans to school districts to be secured by real property of such districts not used for school purposes. Under this loan, Chicago would apply for a loan of $30,000,000, enough to pay all school teachers their back salaries in full.

Urges Speedy Action.

"I again urged upon the Illinois congressmen the necessity for speedy action on the Sabath bill," Mr. Folsom said, "and was promised that the bill will be reported to the floor of the house as quickly as possible. Once through the house the bill is assured of quick passage through the senate under the sponsorship of Senators J. Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich of Illinois, who have pledged themselves to rush it through.

"If the school teachers and the people of Chicago anxious to see the teachers get their back pay will put pressure upon their congressmen, action on this bill will be taken that much sooner."

Gunman Seizes $250 in Raid on Joliet Bank

A gunman yesterday forced Frederick W. Pohl, secretary of the Peoples' Loan and Homestead bank, 119 South Joliet street, Joliet, to hand over $250 from the bank's vault. Pohl's father, Henry Pohl, 83 years old, and Alene Reece, 20 years old, bookkeeper, were in the place at the time.

CUB BRAIN TRUST MEMBERS REBEL OVER LABOR LAW

Bitter Conflict Breaks Out Over Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Bitter conflict broke out today over the redrafting of the Wagner labor dispute bill, which President Roosevelt has demanded passed this session of congress to stabilize labor conditions.

Open rebellion against President Roosevelt was declared by a group of radical young labor sympathizers within the brain trust who are seeking to junk the President's labor policies in favor of a law giving the government drastic and centralized power to dictate employer-employé relationships.

The dispute which flamed up today as the product of long standing friction between Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], father of the labor disputes act, on one side, and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, and his general counsel, Donald R. Richberg, on the other. Also involved is Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Insistent on Some Law.

President Roosevelt is to act, probably within the next few days, as arbitrator of the controversy in which his own views are under attack. He is insistent that a labor dispute bill of some type be passed before congress adjourns. Strikes and threats of strikes continue to jolt the proceedings of the NRA's recovery machine, and the President clearly expects many of them in the coming months. He makes no secret of the fact that he is tired of headlines telling how his assistants have had to come running to him with calls for the waving of the executive "big stick."

He does not desire to spend in the future as much time as he has had to spend recently in seeking settlements of the automobile and railroad cases. He is anxious that as soon as possible a tribunal be set up to relieve him of this duty and with authority enough to enable it to act under its own power.

But how much authority it shall have, and the formula according to which it shall act are questions that so far have impeded Mr. Roosevelt's anxiety for prompt action.

Milton Handler New Rebel.

Milton Handler, youthful general counsel of Wagner's labor board, was the brain truster who today rebelled against the labor policies followed thus far by the President. He demanded that they be replaced by a labor disputes act so drastic that, as he outlined it today, it would put collective bargaining between employers and their employés into a straightjacket of government supervision.

Announcing at the beginning of his press conference that he was "pinch-hitting for Senator Wagner," Handler later modified this statement by saying that the ideas he expounded were his own. Rumors continued, however, that Wagner had inspired Handler's declaration in an effort to propagandize the fight he is waging against Johnson and Richberg over the revised labor disputes bill.

Basically the battle is one for supremacy in the labor field between Wagner's labor board organization and Johnson's NRA. The field originally preëmpted by Wagner's board has recently been invaded by Johnson, who is setting up in each code industry an industrial relations board to handle labor questions. Cutting across Wagner's plans, these boards threaten to snatch away from his regional labor boards the original jurisdiction in labor troubles.

Seeks Supreme Power.

Backed by the young brain trusters of the Handler school, Senator Wagner is seeking to concentrate in the proposed new labor board powers which will make it a centralized and supreme administrator and judge of labor relations. He would like to take out of the more diffuse jurisdiction of the NRA all authority over industrial negotiations between employer and employé. At the same time he is willing, as the price of such authaority, to grant management certain concessions, chief among them the elimination from the labor disputes bill he recently introduced of the prohibition against company unions.

Gen. Johnson, with Mr. Richberg providing the legal logic for his stand, is fighting to keep the control his organization has assumed. And Secretary Perkins is aroused lest the labor board swallows up the mediation work conducted by her department.

Both Johnson's and Wagner's organizations have flourished under executive edict. Now, with permanent labor machinery about to be set up, each is vieing with the other to win congressional support for his plan.

One of the major differences between the handling of labor questions by Johnson and Wagner has been that Johnson, in working out the automobile strike solution, decided that employers could deal with minority groups of their workers as well as with the majority union.

Wagner's labor board has held consistently that only the majority union is entitled to speak for the workers.

On both the question of minority representation and creation of industrial relations boards under the codes Johnson has won the immediate support of the President and rebuffed the Wagner liberals by having the President proclaim the automobile strike solution, which embodied both points, as a masterpiece of social engineering and a precedent for the future employer-employé relations.

Openly Attach Settlement.

The young brain trusters in the labor board, of which Handler is one, today openly attacked the Rooosevelt-Johnson settlement of the automobile strike. By implication they declared that it was unsound and they stated openly that the President's praise of it had been "very troublesome" to them and their radical plans.

Handler in his press conference outlined the type of labor disputes act which he would like to see replace the President's present trend. He admitted that enactment of such a law would lay down an ironclad form for employers-employé relationships and that even if employers and employés agreed to collective bargaining on another form they might be violating the law.

Urges Several Points.

The points which Handler declared must be in the law are:

1. The decision of the renovated labor board must be legally binding just as the cease and desist orders handed down by the federal trade commission. At the present the boards do not have the force of law and must be referred to the compliance division of the NRA or the department of justice for enforcement.

2. The labor board must have the power in all labor representation disputes to force elections, to demand the pay rolls of the employers in order to run the elections, to enter the premises of the employers in order to conduct the elections, and to be free from any interference by the employers.

3. The controversial principle of majority rule whereby only that organization having a majority of the employés can bargain for them regardless of the existence of the minorities must be enacted in a law.

Board Must Be Supreme.

4. New labor board must be supreme in all matters of interpreting its own law. Courts may review its legal sufficiency and findings of fact, but not its interpretations of the law under which it operates.

5. All of the radical principles laid down thus far by the existing labor board must be enacted into substantive law by the new act.

6. A clear distinction must be made between the judicials and mediatory functions of the board.

7. The board must have power to subpena witnesses for either its mediation or its judicial work. This power, is said, will be used to build up public opinion against corporations by disclosing their financial and labor practices as revealed in their own records.

Urges Public on Board.

8. The makeup of the board, according to Handler, should be changed so that their would be three representatives of the general public, two industrialists, and two labor men, all appointed by the President and reviewed by the senate. A counter proposal has been that the board have three disinterested members and two panels of from three to six each of industrialists and laborers. Each case would be heard by one of the three disinterested members and one industrialist and one laborer picked from the two panels.

The labor board bill promises to rival the administration's tarif measure as an obstacle to the adjournment of congress.

The latter threatens to fill the senate with many days of acrid debate before the approval of the upper chamber is added to that of the house. And with the labor disputes bill to add to the argument even the most optimistic congress leaders are pushing the hoped for May 15 adjournment out of their minds.

Another Democratic Fish Story

Not to be outdone by the President, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, recently returned to Washington with some tall fish stories following a short vacation trip in his native Arkansas. The senator proved his stories with pictures similar to this one showing a nice string of game fish taken from the Ouachita river, near Hot Springs.

MISS ALICE BARROWS HOSTESS AGAIN; WIRT NOT AMONG GUESTS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Miss Alice Barrows nothing daunted, gave another party tonight but Dr. William A. Wirt wasn't there.

The hostess at the famous gathering where the Indiana schoolmaster said he learned of a Red plot to overthrow the government gave tonight's party in honor of Lee Simonson, theatrical scenic artist.

To it she invited the five friends who were present at the previous party and who took the stand at the congressional investigation to deny Dr. Wirt's charges. They are Miss Hildegarde Kneeland, Miss Mary Taylor, David Cushman Coyle, Lawrence Todd, and Robert W. Bruere.

SENATE PASSES AIR MAIL BILL; ORDERS INQUIRY

Limits All Contracts to One Year.

and should not be disqualified unless adjudged so by three judges of the United States District court sitting en banc. The same vote, 56 to 19, defeated this proposition.

The air mail bill, as originally drafted by Senators Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] and Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] had provided for three year contracts. At the end of the three year period, the whole question of rates and the carrying of the mails would have been put into the hands of the interstate commerce commission, which would have fixed rates on a basis of just compensation without subsidy.

Voted $100,000 for Inquiry.

However, President Rosevelt, to still the criticism, aroused even among Democrats to this measure, suggested the one year contracts and the appointment of a commission to inquire thoroughly into the aviation industry as conducted at present. This commission, under the terms of the act adopted, will be composed of seven members, appointed by the President, not more than four to be of one political party. The commission, which is to hold hearings this summer and fall and make a report to the next congress, is given an aprpopriation of $100,000 to carry on its inquiry.

The aviation act now goes to the house where, according to reports, it will probably pass without substantial alterations.

WARNS COLLEGES OF MIDDLE WEST TO CHANGE WAYS

Smaller colleges of the middle west must move in new directions or face extinction, was the warning given last night by Dr. James A. Melrose, head of the department of philosophy at James Millikin university, Decatur, Ill., in an address to Millikin alumni of Chicago in Ida Noyes hall on the University of Chicago campus.

The present social crisis, Dr. Melrose said, makes it imperative for the small college to stop the overweening emphasis on "education for jobs." He declared such overemphasis has not only produced supersaturation of the legal, newspaper and other professions, but has resulted in a needless expenditure of public funds for education.

New York City Asking $18,000,000 May Relief

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—New York City must spend at least $18,000,000 for relief purposes in May, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia announced today. The mayor said he has submitted requests to the federal and state relief authorities for authorization to spend at least this sum. Of the total, he said, the city cannot appropriate more than $3,750,000, the sum that was authorized for April.

FLEEING NORVELL ELUDES POSSE AS HUNT CONTINUES

Chester, Ill., April 28.—[U.P.]—With a two hour start, Randol Norvell, daring leader of the August Luer kidnaping plot, today apparently had made good his escape from the state penitentiary at Menard.

Norvell was the object of an all night hunt along the banks of the Mississippi river. Under the eerie glare of crude torches and darting flashlights, hundreds of possemen beat through the brush for miles without locating the convict.

Norvell escaped late yesterday by crawling through a machine room tunnel at the prison and escaping into the river through a sewer. Warden J. E. Reagen refused to deny or affirm a report that the convict had cut the bars which guarded the entrance to the tunnel.

It was two hours after the escape before Norvell was missed. Reagen ordered an investigation within the prison. Norvell was convicted of leading the plot whereby Luer was kidnaped last summer from near his home and released later near Collinsville. Another man and a woman also were charged with the kidnaping.

BUSINESS OFFERS NEW OBJECTIONS TO STATE NRA BILL

Leaders Don't Necessarily Oppose National Act.

Although Chicago business interests strongly oppose the proposed Illinois NRA enforcement act, they do not necessarily object to the principles and purposes of the National Recovery act as nationally administered, George W. Young, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, declared yesterday in a communication to Gov. Horner.

Gov. Horner, in his answer to previous objections made by the association to the state NRA bill, charged the association was not in accord with the national recovery program. This Mr. Young denied in his message, which also set forth new objections to the proposed state measure.

Cites Coöperation.

"We do not, as you assume," said Young's message to the governor, either disapprove or oppose efforts made by the national government to hasten economic recovery by means of national legislation, nationally administered.

"We have coöperated in the administration of the National Industrial Recovery act to the fullest extent requested, and we hope it may prove successful. Our objection is to the proposed surrender of the sovereignty of the state of Illinois to the national government, through grants of authority that subject our courts and our public officials to the use and domination of persons not responsible nor accountable to the people of our state.

Objects to Expenses.

"We further object to and oppose the attempted application of the terms, theory, purposes, and enforcement expenses of the National Industrial Recovery act to the small struggling industries and enterprises of Illinois whose markets are found within its borders and whose products form no part of interstate commerce and who in common with all other citizens of this state are thereby subjected to double jeopardy with respect to their liberty and property rights.

"We object also to any act of the general assembly that imposes a widespread system of espionage upon our citizens, who ask no more than to be allowed to operate their enterprises in the lawful and orderly way that the constitution of both state and nation guarantee them the right to do.

Delegation of Power.

"We object strenuously to an act that delegates to legislators, bureaus, and administrators, in whose selection the people of this state had no voice, the power to enact laws for the government of the people of Illinois and which purports to give the force of law to codes, rules, regulations, and announcements not yet made, nor promulgated, but which may issue from time to time from officials who are not of Illinois, who owe our state no loyalty, and to whom our people are strangers.

"And finally we object to this act because it proposes to place upon our courts and our officials, duties so onerous and extensive that the service which they are elected or appointed to perform, and for which the overburdened taxpayers of Illinois provide compensation, must be much less promptly and efficiently rendered if their time is to be shared with the national government in the enforcement of its laws and regulations. We insist that the national government provide its own enforcement machinery."

HOTEL CLERK ROBBED.

Police yesterday were seeking a bandit who robbed Edward Franklin, night clerk of the Plaza hotel, 1553 North Clark street, of $58 and escaped while two policemen emptied their revolvers at him.

State NRA Bill Supplies Issue for Fall Campaign

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—Whatever the outcome of the Republican battel against the state NRA bill—Gov. Horner's measure sponsored by the brain trusters—the issue in the fall has been clearly defined these last two weeks in Springfield.

The bill went to third reading after an acrimonious fight yesterday and attempts will be made to pass it next week. To a man the Republicans who voted were against it; the same unanimity was true of the Democratic support. Nobody jumped the fence in either party.

Legislative battles in November will be based on the national administration's program for recovery. Most Republican aspirants will take after it with all the fervor they possess. Exceptions will be made probably in the campaigns of candidates affiliated with labor organizations, such as Representative R. G. Soderstrom of Streator, president of the state federation of labor.

Huge Source of Fuel.

The NRA bill, which would give the governor the right to enforce all codes now adopted and those which might be drawn in the future, provided the Republicans with the best issue they have had since the governor took office. They have fought many of his measures, but since most of them were designed to answer single and unrelated state problems, the fighting fighting usually died when each particular bill was passed.

But the NRA fight will provide lasting material. The governor has gone the whole road for the brain trusters, and Illinois Republicans now have a definite cause to fight for.

Whatever is done at Washington on the recovery program will be brought right to their doors, for the state bill gives the governor the power to enforce the "policies" of the NRA, so whatever else the brain trust thinks the country needs would become law in Illinois as soon as it passed congress.

Lobbyist on Scene.

Before the Democrats can pass the state bill in the house they must bring back the 67 members who voted for it yesterday, plus ten more, for it must receive 77 votes in the lower chamber and 26 in the senate in order to become a law July 1.

Washington is watching the fight in Illinois. Attorney R. S. Beach of the staf of Brain Truster Donald Richberg, general counsel for NRA, was sent out as a trouble shooter as soon as it became evident that all was not going smoothly.

Beach has been lobbyist for the brain trust in several states where similar bills were passed. He and John E. Cassidy of Peoria, Illinois compliance director of the NRA, are now familiar figures on the legislative scene.

Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, Republican leader in the upper body of the assembly, has been marshaling his forces for a battle in case the bill comes across the hall. A fight to strike out the enacting clause, such as was staged in the house yesterday, would probably be made in the senate.

ARTHUR P. HOLT TO DIRECT STATE RELIEF GARDENS

The appointment of Arthur P. Holt as director of subsistence gardens for the Illinois emergency relief commission was announced yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission. Mr. Holt will succeed J. C. Readey, who resigned to become general manager of the federal subsistence homestead project at West Frankfort, Ill.

The new director has been assistant director of the commission's garden program for the last three months. Previously he was superintendent of the division of standardization and markets for the state department of agriculture. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois school of agriculture and secretary of the State Horticultural society. For 11 years he was secretary of the Eastern Growers' association. He is a practical farmer.

Committees to supervise the relief gardens have been organized in 86 downstate counties, Mr. Holt said. Under the commission's program relief families will be assigned to a garden plot in community areas where they can plant, sow and harvest a large part of their food needs for the coming year. Seed is to be furnished by the commission.

PACIFISTS DENIED USE OF BUILDING AT U. OF ILLINOIS

Urbana, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—Refusal by the senate committee on student affairs at the University of Illinois to allow the sponsors of an anti-war conference to hold a meeting in a university building will not prevent the meeting, according to student leaders of the group. They declare the meeting will be held as scheduled in a building remote from the university campus.

Ewe Bears Quadruplets Which Thrive Normally

Washington, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—A ewe belonging to Leonard W. Stuckey, Washington township assessor, bore this week four sturdy lambs. They are thriving.

MEADOWMOOR CO. CITED BY AAA FOR MILK VIOLATION

The Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., 1334 South Peoria street, an independent milk distributing company, was cited yesterday by the agriculture adjustment administration to show cause why its license should not be revoked or suspended for violation of the Chicago milk marketing code. The company is charged with having purchased milk from farmers not eligible to sell in the Chicago market, with having paid illegal prices and with failure to submit reports to the market administrator. A hearing was set for May 7.

Attorney William Parrillo, representing the dairy company, said the charges were a surprise. Walter Schaub, whose duty it is to make the reports, has been in Washington for a week, he said. The dairy buys some milk from brokers, the attorney said, and so far as he knew, has complied with the code.

69 WAIT QUIZ ON SURRENDER OF BLUE EAGLE

Southerners in Protest on NRA Action.

Harriman, Tenn., April 28.—(AP)—Citizens of this small East Tennessee town—whose chief pay roll comes from a hosiery mill employing 606 workmen—were embroiled in a controversy today over the NRA's Blue Eagle as they awaited an investigation by representatives of Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Sixty-nine business and professional men have taken down their Blue Eagles in a protest against the NRA's removal of the Eagle from the Harriman Hosiery mills, and asked Administrator Johnson what to do with them.

Mill Denies Violation.

The mill was charged with violating the collective bargaining provision of the industrial code in a dispute with workmen, who went on a strike last Oct. 26. The mill denied violation of the code and claimed the only issue involved was recognition of the textile union. Mill owners said they would not recognize the union.

"No one here is against national recovery, but we believe there is a right way to accomplish it," S. K. Johnson, automobile dealer and a leader in the protest campaign, said. "Under the United States constitution every one is entitled to a fair hearing and there is no evidence that the Harriman mills has had one."

Sees Opposition to Labor.

W. H. Hannah, attorney representing strikers, declared in a statement that "the action of some of the Harriman merchants in threatening to remove their Eagles is indeed fortunate for the working people of the community since it places these gentlemen definitly on record as being hostile to organized labor."

Miss Perkins Sees Violation.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 28.—[Special.]—Miss Francis Perkins, secretary of labor, in a statement here today declared "from the information I have it seems clear that the Harriman hosiery mill has violated the code."

Miss Perkins, here for an address before the Tennessee Valley institute, made her statement as she boarded a train for Washington after talking to Tennessee Federation of Labor officials.

Paul J. Aymon and W. E. Cheek, president and secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, sent a telegram to Administrator Johnson today. It read:

"We have reason to believe that many of these business men who have given up their blue eagle in protest against the decision of the NRA in removing the Blue Eagle from the hosiery mills were coerced by certain financial interests in their action."

Capital Record on Case.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Refusal by the management of one mill to sign an agreement with its employés is listed on NRA records as the cause for the wholesale surrender of Blue Eagles in Harriman, Tenn.

The record of the case, traced through official statements by the recovery administration, says that for almost a year, since before there were codes, reëmployment agreements or Blue Eagles, the Harriman hosiery mills has refused to sign an agreement with the United Textile Workers which many of its workers have chosen to join.

The record says that, insisting it was acting within its legal rights, the company has discharged workers, used injunctions in its fight and caused the arrest of 74 workers when "the capacity of the jail was 65 peopde."

At the instance of the national labor board, its officials repeatedly have conferred with the disputants. Once an agreement was committed to paper, but the mill representatives said they had no authority to sign. Twice workers who came to Washington have been jailed on their return home for alleged offenses committed earlier.

In the end, the board called the company a violator of the industrial act and formally concluded:

"The Harriman hosiery mills has infringed the rights of its employés to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, as recognized by section 7 of the National Industrial Recovery act, by entering negotiations in bad faith with the definite intention not to make any agreement with the representatives of the employés."

Merchants Act in Protest.

When removal of the eagle was ordered, the company protested again and obtained a delay in the action. After the final removal of the eagle, when the company faced a shutdown because it would be an offense for any store to handle its goods, 56 merchants and business men of the town wired Hugh S. Johnson they wanted to surrender their eagles, too, in protest against the deprivation of the community's principal pay roll.

They insisted on their "faith and belief that the said mill is operated and managed in strict obedience of the laws and codes."

"To find out for himself what the real situation is and what has best be done, Johnson today sent to Harriman George L. Berry, labor leader, high official of NRA, a native and landholder in eastern Tennessee.

SAVANT CALLS STAR DENSITY 2,000 TIMES MORE THAN PLATINUM

New York, April 28.—(AP)—A penny matchbox filled with the substance of a certain star would weigh one ton and would require a derrick to lift it, Sir Arthur Eddington, noted English scientist, said today.

The contents of the matchbox, he said, would 2,000 times heavier than anything existing on the earth and would be of a density 2,000 times as great as platinum. He spoke at the English Speaking union luncheon.

Sir Arthur, who is director of the observatory at Cambridge university, said the star with the tremendous weight is a faint companion star to the dog star Sirius, first seen by Alvan Clark.

"About 1914," he said, "Prof. Adams of Mount Wilson observatory made a rather surprising discovery about this little star. It would be rather technical to describe his precise discovery, but it amounted to this:

"The star was trying to tell us that it had a density 2,000 times as great as platinum.

"Naturally we regarded that as absurd and were trying to make out that an error had arisen. Later study and photographs confirmed definitly that the effect was really there.

STRIKE VANDALS BAR CLEVELAND OIL DELIVERIES

Fisher Body Parley to Be Held Tomorrow.

Cleveland, O., April 28.—(AP)—Vandalism forced major oil companies to abandon deliveries of gasoline to 800 independent filling stations today as 275 union tank truck drivers returned to work pending negotiation of their dispute with the companies.

A few hours later a temporary injunction was granted restraining members of the union from interfering with the operation of independent stations in selling gasoline or receiving supplies.

Tires of gasoline trucks were deflated, ignition wires ripped out, and shellac poured into crank cases as a crowd of several hundred sympathizers with a strike of 2,000 filling station attendants assembled at bulk plants in an industrial district known as the "flats."

The crowd, which accused the drivers of "selling us out," was broken up by 75 policemen dispatched to the scene, but disorders were reported in other parts of the city as some deliveries were made. Some of the independents reported receiving threats against resuming operations.

Seek Injunction Against Pickets.

Quiet reigned at the local plant of the Fisher Body company, where a strike called by the Automotive Workers Federal union is under way. The Fisher Body Employés Coöperative association, claiming to represent 3,000 nonstriking employés, appealed to Common Pleas court for an injunction restraining pickets from interfering with their return to work, asserting that as long as the strike continues they are losing $20,000 a day in wages.

The restraining order was opposed at a hearing by attorneys for the strikers, who accused the Fisher corporation of "attempting to fight its battle behind 14 men who represent a company union."

Late today 800 Akron rubber moid machnists agreed to return to work Monday. They won a 4 cent an hour pay increase, elimination of piecework rates, and recognition of their union.

Compromise Newspaper Strike.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 28.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Publishers' association announced tonight a compromise agreement has ended a strike of 150 mailing room employés of the three papers which had stopped distribution of newspapers since Friday morning.

Terms of the compromise were not disclosed, but it was understood a 10 per cent wage reduction had been restored and that demands for an additional 5 per cent increase would be arbitrated.

Fisher Conference Tomorrow.

Detroit, Mich., April 28.—(AP)—Hope prevailed tonight that labor troubles in widely scattered plants of the Fisher Body corporation might be settled in a conference an American Federation of Labor organizer said had been arranged for Monday with officials of the General Motors body building division.

The first word of the conference came from Flint, where a telegram containing the announcement was received by union officials from William Collins, leader and spokesman for the Federated Auto Workers' union during the nearly two months of disputes with automobile manufacturers.

That telegram said the conference had been arranged by the National Automobile Labor board and that the president of each Fisher plant union local would participate to discuss with the Fisher management "problems now at issue in all plants."

Report K. C. Southern Pact.

Kansas City, Mo., April 28.—(AP)—Definite settlement of a controversy between the Kansas City Southern railroad and its operating employés with avoidance of a threatened strike was reported here today but railroad officials or employé representatives refused to comment. C. E. Johnston, president of the road, was in New York.

It was understood, however, a new wage plan proposed by the railroad more than a year ago has been abandoned in favor of the standard contract existing between other railroads of the country and the four major labor brotherhoods.

A possibility employés of the Chevrolet-Fisher Body plant here may go on strike Monday in protest against alleged unfair practices of the company in its relation to its workers was seen today when recommendations for such action was made at a meeting of 400 men employed in the plant. Final decision will be made tomorrow.

"LIVING BUDDHA" ENDS TOUR OF HIS MONGOL "REALM"

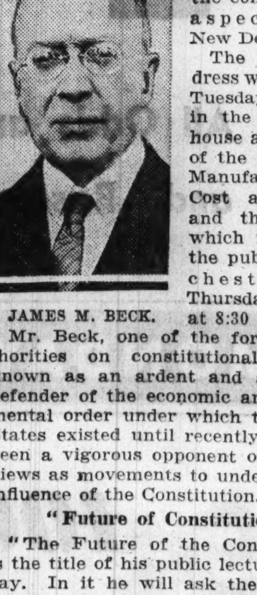
PEIPING, China, April 28.—(AP)—Priests in resplendent robes of yellow, red, and orange welcomed the "living buddha" back today from a six weeks' tour of his spiritual realm in inner Mongolia.

His mission, undertaken at the request of the Nanking government in an effort to offset effects of the enthronement of Kang Teh [Henry Puyi] as Manchukuo's emperor, was abruptly ended by the invasion of Chahar province by forces of "Yang the Monkey," a notorious bandit chieftain.

The "living buddha," or the Hutukthu, was welcomed at the railroad station with all the ceremony befitting his position as senior religious leader of Mongolia, whose allegiance he has claimed since 1922.

REP. BECK TO GIVE 2 SPEECHES HERE ON RECOVERY ACT

Will Discuss Constitution and New Deal.



JAMES M. BECK.

Representative James M. Beck [Rep.] of Pennsylvania will arrive in Chicago on Tuesday to make two addresses in which he will discuss the constitutional aspects of the New Deal.

The first address will be made Tuesday evening in the Palmer house at a dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers Cost association, and the second, which is open to the public, at Orchestra hall Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. Beck, one of the foremost authorities on constitutional law, is known as an ardent and aggressive defender of the economic and governmental order under which the United States existed until recently. He has been a vigorous opponent of what he views as movements to undermine the influence of the Constitution.

"Future of Constitution."

"The Future of the Constitution" is the title of his public lecture Thursday. In it he will ask the question: "Is the New Deal political philosophy leading to a dissolution of American constitutional government?" In previous speeches he has answered the query thus:

"We are transforming a representative democracy into a virtual dictatorship in the vital matter of industry; we are changing the constitutional federation of states into a unitary socialistic state of almost unrestricted power."

In answer to the plea of New Deal proponents that an emergency exists justifying extreme means as remedies, Mr. Beck has answered:

"There is nothing in the present economic crisis to warrant suspension of the constitution, . . . and I decry the present governmental philosophy."

Mr. Beck, who was admitted to the bar in 1884, has served as solicitor general of the United States and as assistant attorney general. As a member of congress he has consistently upheld the conservative viewpoint. He is the author of a number of works, including "War and Humanity," "The Passing of the New Freedom," and "The Vanishing Rights of the States."

His public lecture is sponsored by an honorary committee of Chicagoans, composed of Frank J. Loesch, B. F. Afleck, Harry A. Bigelow, John D. Black, Bertram J. Cahn, Charles S. Cutting, former Senator Charles S. Deneen, former Senator Otis F. Glenn, Sidney S. Gorham, Col. Robert R. McCormick, Silas H. Strawn, Roy O. West, John H. Wigmore and John P. Wilson.

Col. McCormick will be toastmaster at the manufacturers' dinner and Mr. Loesch will preside at the meeting in Orchestra hall.

You're sure-footed on sharp curves

. . . in a GRAHAM

OUTBOARD SPRINGS: Graham's springs are long and flexible to give level riding over the roughest surfaces. And they are placed outside the frame both front and rear—so the greater distance between them—8 inches in front, 6 inches in rear—tends to eliminate sidesway.

BANJO FRAME: In the Graham, the rear axle passes through an opening in the banjo-shaped frame. Thus the combined weight of axle and rear wheels helps to anchor the car to the road, especially when the car is passing over bumps and around sharp curves.

GEOMETRIC STEERING: Graham's roller cam and lever type steering gear, and the linkage to and on the front axle, are geometrically designed so steering will not be affected by road shocks, sudden stops, or other influences which might interfere with control on bad roads.

THE Graham gives an unusual type of performance because its design represents original thinking. There are special reasons for its comfort, safety and road-clinging stability.

The unique Outboard Springs, Banjo Frame and Geometric Steering are described above. They make sense on paper. And they make sense on the road. You can learn that in a single demonstration—just as you can learn the new Graham's power, pick-up and all-around performance. Thousands of Graham owners have learned that "the feel of a Graham" is no idle phrase. Bring yourself up to date with a demonstration.

FETE MERCHANT ROTHSCHILD ON 70TH BIRTHDAY

Celebration Recalls His Covered Wagon Days.

A replica of a country store in the buckboard and buffalo robe days in Seneca, Kas., 50 years ago, was the setting for a party given last night at the Standard club for Maurice L. Rothschild, State street merchant, by the 850 employés of his Chicago store.

MAURICE ROTHSCHILD.

The occasion was his 70th birthday, which comes tomorrow. The celebration revolved around a model of the first store Mr. Rothschild operated. From the roof of this, a two story brick building in northeast Kansas, on opening day in 1885 he tossed 25 overcoats to the crowds below while the village cornet band blared, an advertising device of which the natives still talk to this day.

The free overcoats demonstrated that woolens would keep out the prairie chill as well as did the hairy buffalo ulsters which, with whiskers, were what the well dressed Kansan wore in those days. It gave the youthful merchant a real start on the merchandising career he had begun a few years before in a covered wagon, selling goods to railroad construction camps.

Includes Clothing Dummies.

The store model included clothing dummies with faraway smiles and ramshorn mustaches of the Grover Cleveland period in window dressing.

Fifty years of experience between the covered wagon days and the present have endowed Mr. Rothschild with a reputation in State street, greatest retail thoroughfare in America, for foresignt on business fluctuations.

In his eighth floor office yesterday Mr. Rothschild remarked that America's great need is to get capital working again in the creation of employment. As an official of the National Recovery Administration he said his remarks implied no comment or criticism of NRA, but were merely his views of the future.

What Is Confidence?

"General business will be better when basic confidence returns," said Mr. Rothschild. "Basic confidence, what is it? It is when money is employed to give employment, when money can make a fair return, when men can run their business without interference and run it fair and square.

"I'm a bull on America. We've come through some hard times. Confidence will be restored when men are brought into the limelight who are handlers of brains, who have earned prestige with the people.

"President Roosevelt is sincere and honest, no one doubts that, and there are good men with the government like Owen Young and Bernard Baruch and DuPont, men of weight. We need to get some more of them. We've got to get capital working. You can't put more people to work until capital works."

Buys a Covered Wagon.

Mr. Rothschild, who was born in Germany, came to America when he was 14. He worked as a stockhandler in a Chicago clothing store, then went to Springfield and later struck the idea of selling goods to railroad workers. This was in the years when railroad building was progressing in the west. He bought a covered wagon and team, and followed the rail layers westward, with permission from the contractors to sell to the men.

At 21 he had saved enough money to open his store in Seneca, Kas., where the opening day being somewhat chilly he got the idea of giving overcoats away to stimulate trade.

Trade picked up so well that he opened a branch store twenty miles away at Sabetha, Kas., and three years later opened a store in Minneapolis, following it with a store in St. Paul. He opened his State street store in 1906.

Looks Less Than His Years.

"Simple living does it," he remarked. "Eight hours sleep, eight hours work, eight hours recreation, is the formula. You ask 'What recreation?' I say two-thirds of the time is spent in the companionship of my good pal, my wife, part of it is spent in reading, part in golf and part in playing bridge.

"I throw off all troubles on leaving the office. I am blessed with the greatest forgettory any man ever had. Do you get me? I bear no malice, and try with dignity to keep in harmony with people and with the world. I have no strife in my business, no troubles.

"My office door, as you see, is open to all employés, from the biggest to the youngest. I thing the greatest asset in business is to have the good will of one's employés. When I come into my place of business I get nothing but smiles and they mean it. What greater satisfaction could one want? Peace of mind and friendship are more precious than riches."

"What are your prime business methods?" Mr. Rothschild was asked.

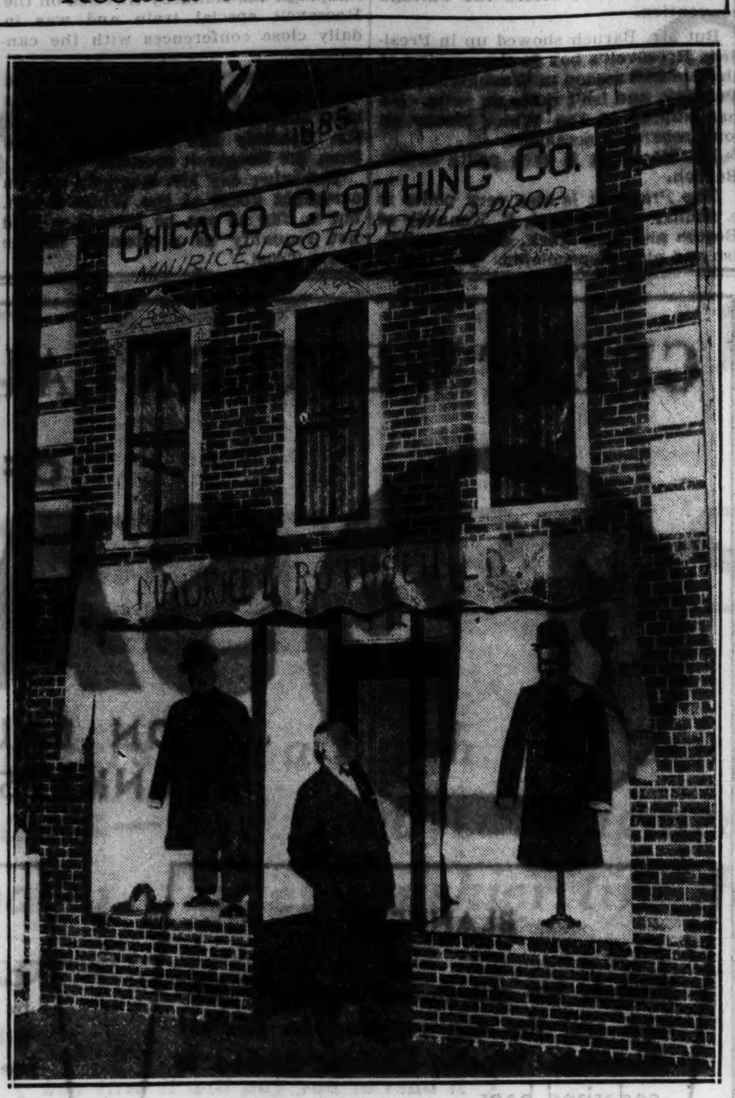
"I won't sell anything for which I cannot guarantee satisfaction," he replied. "That's my whole theory.

Power of Printer's Ink.

"I am a great believer in printer's ink. It is the greatest power in the world, provided you back it up. It is the greatest power of destruction if you don't make good. The whole thing in merchandising is to have what they want, when they want it and as they want it. That's the secret of merchandising.

"I think Chicago is the center of America, and that Mayor Kelly is doing some wonderful work. Within 400 miles of Chicago enough is grown to feed the whole United States. When our farmers have more diversified farming, which THE TRIBUNE is trying to demonstrate, they'll raise some profitable things which are now imported and will add to the well being of the middle west. I think THE TRIBUNE is doing a masterful thing in showing farmers the possibilities of diversified agriculture."

Rebuild Rothschild's First Store



Maurice L. Rothschild, State street merchant, renews memories of 50 years ago before replica of store he opened then in Seneca, Kas. This replica was the setting for a party given by his employes last night in celebration of Mr. Rothschild's 70th birthday, which comes tomorrow.

ATTACK AT WORK FATAL.

J. J. Hind, 36 years old, 6528 Kimbark avenue, was seized with an attack of dizziness while at work in the offices of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, 333 South Water street, early yesterday morning and died a short time later at the Henrotin hospital.

COMMONS GROUP WILL CELEBRATE 40TH BIRTHDAY

Reunion and Historical Tableaux Are Slated.

Chicago Commons, neighborhood philanthropic organization offering educational and recreational facilities, will commemorate the 40th anniversary of its founding with reunion meetings and other activities this week.

The settlement was founded by Graham Taylor in an old dwelling on North Union street near Milwaukee avenue in May of 1894. It has occupied its present building at 955 West Grand avenue since 1901. Thousands of persons have been aided each year.

Festivities Begin Tomorrow.

The week's festivities will begin tomorrow evening when those who have been associated with the clubs and classes of the neighborhood in the last 20 years will gather to see old pictures, renew acquaintances, and learn of present developments.

Tuesday night will be devoted to the old Scandinavian, German, and Irish groups of the first 20 years, 1894 to 1914. A dinner meeting of former residents, some of whom are coming many miles to attend, will be held Wednesday evening.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Council of Social Agencies of Chicago, and until recently a trustee of the Commons, will preside over a general meeting to be held Thursday evening under auspices of the trustees.

Speakers will include Graham Taylor, on "The Fellowships of Forty Years"; Charles H. Dennis, on "The Civic Influence of Chicago Commons"; Frank H. McCulloch, who will represent the trustees; James Mullenbach, who will tell of the former residents and the industrial relations which the settlement has had; Gerard M. Ungaro, who will speak on behalf of the neighhood, and Miss Lea Demarest Taylor, who will describe present activities.

History to Be Traced.

A history of the settlement house and neighborhood will be presented in pictures and tableaux Friday and Saturday evenings to the clubs and classes now active in the settlement.

Chicago Commons, besides being the only recreation center available to many young persons, offers educational opportunities to children in household arts, manual training, gymnasium, and play. Health work, nursery school training, instruction in English and citizenship, music, art, and drama are vital parts of the program for adults.

THIEVES STEAL 1,000 GLOVES.

Thieves yesterday stole four sample cases containing 1,000 gloves from the automobile of Harold Wilhelm, 2016 Jarvis avenue, which he had parked in front of the Morrison hotel while visiting friends there.

FARM PROGRAM IS DEFENDED BY PROF. TUGWELL

Points to Administration "Action" on Program.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 28.—(AP)—Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, told the New York State Bankers' association tonight, "One of the biggest differences between the agricultural and land policies of this administration and those of previous administrations is the difference between talk and action."

Every secretary of agriculture since the war "pointed to the necessity of doing something about the surplus" of farm products, he declared in quoting from previous secretaries' reports, but when President Roosevelt took office "it was evident that something more than persuasion was needed to curb the agricultural overproduction."

Quotes Ex-Secretary Hyde.

He quoted from the 1930 report of former Secretary Hyde that "'Our difficulty is not a sudden emergency, but a cumulative overproduction . . . I want to emphasize the need for equitable, intelligent, systematic, and collective action' [notice that word collective] 'to bring supply into better relationship with demand . . . the answer to overproduction is less production.'"

Prices of farm products had been declining for years, Tugwell said, foreign markets had gradually disappeared, and domestic consumption could not be increased.

"Looking back over the period I have been describing, it seems as if the logic of events led inevitably up to the agricultural adjustment act," he asserted.

The act was characterized by the assistant secretary as "an economic bill of rights" for farmers, and he added, "The nearly 3,000,000 farmers voluntarily participating in the adjustment plans sponsored by the government are not complaining about 'regimentation.'"

Advises Talking to Farmers.

"This cry is coming rather from those who, during the years when farmers by the thousand were losing their homes, congratulated them on their rugged individualism, and now that they have succeeded in retaining their homes, commiserate them on losing their traditional American ways. If you do not believe me, go and talk with farmers," he said.

Tugwell again quoted former Secretary Hyde as having declared in 1931 that "'It is recommended that land development enterprises be licensed and regulated . . . we are not thinking of agriculture nowadays as a local problem. We must see this as a national problem and as a whole.'"

"They talked a great deal about the necessity for action," Tugwell added, "and now, so to speak, President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace have followed their advice and in this administration we finally have action itself."

Some persons "have sought to condemn all these efforts by the mere use of such words as 'collectivism' and 'regimentation,'" Tugwell declared.

"Based on Democracy."

"But the agricultural adjustment administration's plans and the kindred programs of the government are too fundamental and too pressing to be dismissed in that way. All are based on the time tried principles of American democracy, upon the self-government and self-discipline of county and local associations and upon voluntary coöperation on a grand scale."

He referred to previous handling of the agricultural problem as "an economy of chaos," and added, "What we are building now is an economy of order, and provided selfish interests do not thwart our efforts, we shall build an economy of abundance."

Tugwell spoke of the farm credit administration as a "corollary effort of the government in behalf of agriculture," and declared it has placed $1,100,000,000 "in the farming districts in refinancing mortgages and providing other forms of agricultural credit."

Holds Adjustment Necessary.

Adjustment of farm production is necessary at present, he declared, since "even though every hungry person in the United States should be well fed there would still remain a surplus" and even though foreign markets may be regained the process will take so long as to require restriction of output for some time to come.

"Underlying and interwoven with this whole adjustment program is the necessity for returning 50,000,000 acres from cultivated crops to grass or pasture or roughage," he said.

"These aims mean the conservation and not the wasteful exploitation of our resources and our man power."

ICKES DENIES LOANS TO INDIANA BECAUSE OF TAX LIMIT LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—Harold L. Ickes, public works administrator, continues to regard Indiana's law limiting taxes of real property to a total of $1.50 per $100 assessment as a bar to acceptance of general obligation bonds as security for loans to the state and its municipalities.

It was announced here today that Ickes has rejected two recommendations of Representative John W. Boehne, Evansville, who sought a waiving of the requirement of special legislation which Ickes had imposed on loans to Indiana for public works. Boehne's recommendations were that general obligations of the state be accepted whenever previous high caliber of the applicant's standing represents reasonable assurance of repayment.

That unqualified opinion of nationally recognized municipal bond counsel on revenue bonds in Indiana, whether based on statutory authority or implied inherent power, be accepted when given as being sufficient compliance with the qualification of "reasonable security," was urged.

DIES DOING CHORES.

POLITICAL EXILE IS 'SIBERIA' OF BRAIN TRUSTERS

Radicals Punish Those Who Oppose Them.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE EXILISTS.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The only vacancies in the Roosevelt Brain Trust have been left by men who opposed the radical measures of the New Deal.

Most tragic of these, perhaps, is the case of Lewis Douglas. His appointment as director of the budget was announced by President Elect Roosevelt before the names of his cabinet selections were presented.

Mr. Douglas had made an enviable record as a young congressman from Arizona. Although himself a war veteran, twice decorated for bravery in France, Mr. Douglas conducted a brilliant assault upon the extravagances and the dishonesties of the system by which nearly a billion dollars a year was paid out to disabled war veterans. He campaigned just as earnestly for other economies in government.

Persuaded to Accept Post.

So Mr. Roosevelt persuaded Douglas to accept the appointment of budget director and lead a great economy drive against the burocracy of the federal government. Mr. Douglas began his job long before inauguration, and presented the President a program for economies which would have carried out Mr. Roosevelt's campaign pledge, and the Democratic platform pledge, of reducing the operating costs of the government by 25 per cent.

The President started well by acting upon the Douglas program. But then the Collectivists began to blow their horns and soon Mr. Douglas' economies began to go blithering. The cuts made in the departments were offset by the allotment of public work funds for the very same purposes as Mr. Douglas had dispensed with.

Then the famous double bookkeeping was established, by which two budgets were prepared, one of which was supposedly balanced; the other—"emergency expenditures"—had the sky for a limit.

Vet Lobby Use Pressure.

The veterans' lobby began to exert pressure upon President and congress, culminating first in relaxations of the President's economy orders and then in a complete breakdown when congress overrode the President's veto of veterans' compensation payments last month.

In the beginning, by reason of his great work for economy, Lewis Douglas was a daily confidant and adviser of the President. He was one of the "bedside cabinet"—Moley, Louis Howe and Douglas—which met every morning in the President's bedroom.

When the Collectivists began setting off their schemes, Douglas fought them bitterly and with such vehemence that the President, who was agreeing with the Collectivists, had to reprove his budget director, and finally Douglas went no longer to the bedside conferences. Now he is consulted only on routine matters and while he has never complained, his friends believe he would give a great deal to have stayed in the house, where he could have supported the New Deal when it pleased him, and fought it savagely as he might when it riled him.

Acheson Another Victim.

Douglas' friend, Dean Acheson, who had been named as undersecretary of the treasury, was another victim, and so was Thomas Hewes, assistant treasury secretary. Both went out when Henry Morgenthau Jr. was ushered into control of the treasury and the policy of the monetarians of the brain trust became the policy of Roosevelt.

Acheson and Hewes, like Douglas, had been outspoken in condemning the monetary policy of Warren and Rogers, and they did not stop even when the President accepted that policy.

Another in the same category is that sage of sound money, Dr. Oliver M. W. Sprague, who, for many years, has been rated among the greatest of world monetary economists. He was adviser to the Bank of England when Mr. Roosevelt, who had studied under Prof. Sprague at Harvard, persuaded him to accept a similar post in the treasury, at a considerable sacrifice of salary.

Contemptuous of Warren Scheme.

Dr. Sprague was openly contemptuous of the Warren scheme, and when he resigned from the treasury, after being ignored for weeks by the President and Secretary Morgenthau, he published a series of newspaper articles attacking the new "managed currency" policy.

James P. Warburg, New York banker and ardent supporter of Roosevelt, broke with the President on the money question. He had been a frequently-consulted member of the Brain Trust.

George N. Peek was forced out of the Agricultural Adjustment administration because his policies were too conservative for the radical Wallace and Tugwell. He has stayed on, hopeful of stimulating the purchase abroad of American farm surpluses, but his beginning was not auspicious. After a long delay Mr. Peek got presidential approval for the creation of government banks to support loans to Russia and other countries, so they might purchase the American products.

Pass Johnson Act.

Then the congress passed and the President signed the Johnson act prohibiting the loaning of any treasury funds to any foreign government which is in default of payments to the United States on past loans. Russia is held to be in that category.

Gen. William I. Westervelt, official of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, who served in the AAA under Mr. Peek, resigned when Peek did. He has since told various individuals, including Dr. William A. Wirt of Gary, that administration leaders—specifically Prof. Tugwell, Dr. Frederic Howe, and Speaker Rainey—had made boldly radical statements to him.

Another brain truster who clashed with the radicalism of the New Deal was Gen. Thomas Hammond, former president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. Gen. Hammond signed up with Gen. Johnson and the NRA, but resigned when irreconcilable differences sprang up between them. Hammond had refused to discuss these differences publicly.

The writer had intended to include one other Brain Truster among the Exilists. This is Bernard M. Baruch, New York capitalist and speculator, who, with William H. Woodin, were the only captains of Wall street supporting Roosevelt before the Chicago convention.

But Mr. Baruch showed up in President Roosevelt's box at the opening of the baseball season in Washington last Tuesday, and isn't quite an exile. He has supper at the White House on long separated occasions.

Mr. Roosevelt is very polite to Mr. Baruch.

The President is also very polite to a similar exile, Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston and New York, also a capitalist and also a speculator. The Democratic national committee owes Mr. Kennedy some $30,000. During the campaign Joe Kennedy traveled on the Roosevelt special train and was in daily close conferences with the candidate.

Something mysterious happened which none of the gossip columnists have been able to guess at even, and Mr. Kennedy has since been exiled from the Roosevelt councils.

The other day Mr. Kennedy was an overnight guest at the White House, but so far as can be learned, he did not requalify as a member of the Brain Trust.

One Killed, Two Injured as Stove Boiler Explodes

And HOW you can go in an Auburn with Dual-Ratio! For quick acceleration in traffic and for hills you use Auburn's Low Ratio (Standard Gear). On level roads you do not have to continue to needlessly race your engine. You can, with a finger touch, shift the Dual-Ratio lever on the steering wheel to Auburn's EXTRA HIGH ratio—and presto!—you reduce the engine's revolutions WITHOUT reducing car speed. For example, in Auburn's EXTRA HIGH ratio you can go 60 m.p.h. with only a 40 m.p.h. engine effort—save wear on moving parts—save fuel! Drive it once, and you will never be satisfied with just ONE gear ratio.

We shipped GRANITE GRIT from Carolina and made GRINDSTONES to TEST TIRES – then we built this NEW "G3"

How car-makers put a tough problem up to tire-builders—and Goodyear engineers built a broader, flatter, huskier tire that "keeps its grip" 43% longer!

(A lengthy advertisement but if you buy tires it will pay you to read it)

"Run 24 hours... speed up to 50, then jam on the brakes . . . and keep it up day and night"

YOU should have seen them when the reports started filtering in—the development engineers, trouble-shooters, calender-room men, executive staff and all.

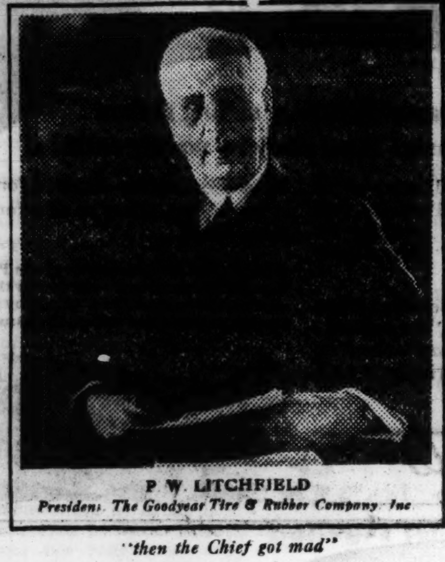
Far-scattered Goodyear salesmen, who also serve as "performance detectives" in the field, picked it up first.

Some time ago their reports began to read like this:

"Something funny out here, something happening to tire treads. Not just competitive tires, even ours. They don't seem to wear as long as they did before."

That was the beginning. It grew. It started an upheaval in the Goodyear plants that involved everybody from the president down to the pitmen, and didn't settle down until many months later.



P. W. LITCHFIELD
President, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Inc

"then the Chief got mad"

But when it did settle down Goodyear had the answer. What's more, it had embodied that answer in tires being shipped to dealers—astonishing tires, tires that so far outranged competitors' or any others that Goodyear had ever produced it was amazing.

We call those new tires now by the name they had in the plant—"G-3".

"Lick it!" was the order

One strange thing about those reports, as they filtered in from east to west, from south to north—there didn't seem to be any explanation as to why they came from certain places.

Carolina, for instance, vacation spot of the east, with its scenic stretches of broad, smooth highways—Arizona, where towns are far between and cars travel without slacking speed hour after hour—California, with one of the finest highway systems in the world.

The whole thing was stubbornly puzzling—didn't seem reasonable.

Here were tires, ours as well as other makers', that up to then had been giving satisfactory mileages, all of a sudden wearing too fast in the tread.

We thought first something had slipped in our inspection system. Checked that, found it okeh. Maybe a batch of bad rubber got through. Checked that, nothing there.

We put in a complete new control system in the calender-room and other parts of the plant. It cost thousands and didn't help.

Finally, the real cause was ferreted out.

It wasn't the tires that were at fault. They were as good as ever. It was the new, modern cars!

Each new year, cars were stepping up in power—stepping up in speed—stepping up in getaway—equipping with stronger brakes. Tires couldn't stand the gaff as they once did. And that was serious. With higher speeds—faster getaway—crowded traffic—tires need to keep their grip more than ever before.

Then the Chief got mad

The orders that came through then fairly smoked. You couldn't mistake their meaning. All the preliminary work was junked, and we started over.

We started on "G-3".

The first step had been to get soil samples from the trouble centers—where some strange freak of nature made the tiny grains of grit even in fine concrete roads so razor sharp that tires wear out twice as fast as they do on ordinary highways.

Then this grit—the fastest-cutting in the country—was made into special sandpaper, mounted on high-speed flywheels used as "grindstones," to test the wear-resistance of tread designs.

We tried different placements of non-skid blocks, different sized blocks, different rubber compounds, different cross-section profiles.

Then we took the tread which stood up longer than any other, and "gave it the works" out on the road. Months of ordinary driving couldn't wear it out—so the test fleet got this order:

"Run 24 hours a day, in shifts of drivers, speed up to 50—jam on the brakes—speed up to 50—jam on the brakes—and keep that up day in and day out right around the clock!"

The test cars couldn't take it

Under that awful strain the tires stood up but the cars broke down. We tried 600 miles a day stopping every two miles. Too strong still, so we tried it stopping every five miles.

The cars still gave some trouble but we kept them at it. Brakes had to be adjusted every 8 hours, relined completely every 72.

But the new-design, flat-arc tread, tough-fibred Goodyear "G-3" All-Weather stood up, and kept on standing up!

They outran any previous Goodyear All-Weather and kept their grip twice as long as any other well-known make of tire tested!

We knew we had something, but we wanted to make doubly sure.

So months ago we started feeding these new "G-3" All-Weathers out to our dealers, in a few sizes. We didn't announce these new tires. We wanted a test by the public in advance.

Month after month has gone by. Everywhere the same result, no trouble. The tires have made good with a vengeance. The trouble slate is clean!

You can get the "G-3" now

There's a Goodyear Dealer near you with this amazing new tire in stock in your size.

"... it keeps the blocks in the center of the tread" ... examining the contact of "G-3" under pressure through glass "window"

When you examine it, you will find that it keeps the famous All-Weather blocks in the center of the tread—where you need them more than ever before for quick-stopping safety.

It would have been far easier for us to follow standard practice—and replace grip in the center of the tread with smooth running-ribs.

But Goodyear refused to compromise with safety. On smooth highways, you need grip on your tires. For the sake of safety, your tires must bite and hold—or powerful brakes are useless. As roads get better and cars get faster—traction becomes more vital than ever to modern tires for modern cars. So the "G-3" keeps the world's best known safety tread, but makes it even better.

Those non-skid blocks are nested closer—there are 16% more blocks on the tread.

And the tread is broader by 5½%—the tread is flatter—the riding-ribs are 11½% wider—the grooves are narrower—all of which helps to fortify the tire and eliminate "squirming" under pressure, a common cause of wear.

Such a design puts an extra strain on the sidewalls—but Goodyear was ready for that. It has a patented advantage, something no other tire-maker can use.

In the extra-durable, extra-elastic Supertwist cord carcass it has a tire-body that can easily stand the extra strain.

This new "G-3" All-Weather is the first time that full advantage has ever been taken of the super-strength of this matchless carcass.

You get a tire on which "cupping" or "heel-and-toe" wear on the non-skid blocks is cut down 50%.

And the best news is saved till the last.

Despite the fact that this tire costs more to build, you get all these things in the new "G-3" All-Weather tire at no extra cost!

THE GOODYEAR TIRE & RUBBER COMPANY, INC.
AKRON, OHIO

You get the slow, even wear of closer-nested non-skid blocks and ribs.

—all of which adds up to 43% MORE NON-SKID MILEAGE at no extra cost to you!

SCIENCE HELPING FARMER EVEN AS AAA CUTS CROPS

Gain in War on Diseases; Aid Productivity.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Springtime finds the chemists striving to turn time in its flight to the benefit of the farmer. With gas, chemicals and electricity they are seeking to increase productivity and to decrease some of agriculture's hazards, such as fungus and insect pest. Quite a crop of counter purposes appears to have grown up between the research laboratories and the agricultural adjustment administration.

The scientists, serving, as it were, as social welfare workers in the realm of plant life, have been discovering new methods of combating disease, rust, and blight in the fields. They are finding ways of reducing the dormant or sleeping period of seeds and bulbs and putting them to work at an earlier age. In the experimental laboratories they have been ripening certain crops, potatoes, spinach and radishes ahead of natural time, and in short they have tackled the job of rolling the seasons backward and forward.

Other Side of Picture.

The AAA, on the other hand, with its crop allotment scheme, is taking land out of production to cut down the crops.

The United States department of agriculture reports that the large annual loss from smut in oats can be almost wholly prevented by treating the seed with formaldehyde. The chemical is also used for treating seed of wheat, barley, rye, millet, and sorghum to protect against smut, flax to protect against seed borne flax wilt, seed potatoes to prevent scab and black scruf, and for treating soil.

A new product, ethyl-mercury-phosphate, after a year's test at the Illinois agricultural experiment station at the University of Illinois, was declared in the 1933 report to demonstrate that proper control of disease is one of the surest ways for grain growers to cut production costs and improve quality.

During the depression, the chemical manufacturers have kept their research laboratories running full tilt, and they are now advancing with considerable energy the application of synthetics to plant life.

Speed Potato Life Cycle.

Potato growers are beginning to break the "rest period" of potatoes. By chemical processes they are now able to advance sprouting 7 to 15 days and to obtain heavier yields. Various chemicals have been experimented with at the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research at Yonkers, N. Y., over a period of several years, and three methods of treating the tubers have been studied, the dip, vapor or soak methods.

For some varieties, dipping the eyes in certain chemicals has served to start the potato growing one or two weeks ahead of the usual time. Some of the tubers did better by being soaked in their entirety in certain chemicals.

Some varieties of potato responded best to treatment by vapor in a special airtight gassing house. The room was equipped with an electric fan for stirring the air and had removable shelves with wire screen bottoms for holding the potatoes.

Ethylene chlorhydrin, a 40 per cent solution in water, was used. It was found that after whole tubers had been treated by the vapor method it was not necessary to plant them at once. The favorable effects remained in the tuber for at least three weeks after treatment, which indicated a marketing possibility that tubers could be treated commercially in the locality where grown and shipped to distant points for planting.

Applied Likewise to Fruits.

Bananas and tomatoes for some time have been ripened on a large scale by use of ethylene gas. So are oranges and grapefruit. The Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation and E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. are among the concerns advancing the application of chemical engineering to plant life.

One application of ethylene is in breaking the dormant period of bulbs in greenhouses. Treatment with the gas, for example, cuts the sleeping period of gladioli in half and advances growth 25 to 30 days. Dahlia tubers and cuttings of canna are treated the same way, and while growth is not hastened, two to four buds are produced instead of one.

In celery raising, the product is now blanched by a shot of ethylene in the gassing house instead of by hilling the stalks with soil, as in ancient days. It may be the reason why the consumer nowadays, in biting into a heart of celery, runs little chance of knocking out a filling on a small stone or cinder.

Ethylene, the "magic gas," in ripening matured, green tomatoes, oranges, bananas, and other fruit, does so by breaking down the chlorophyll, or green pigment in unripe fruit or vegetables. This allows the natural colors, on which the ethylene has no effect, to appear.

When exposed to the fumes, a green tomato turns red all over, the green banana, yellow. Also the chemists declare the ethylene destroys by oxidation the bitter element in unripe fruit and increases the sugar content by speeding up the action of the "enzymes" which turn starch into sugar.

Some Ancient Methods.

Long, long ago, the ancient Chinese ripened hard pears in rooms filled with incense. In more recent times, fruit raisers have known that matured green fruit might be ripened by fumes from a kerosene stove or lamp. Eleven years ago Prof. R. B. Harvey and associates at the University of Minnesota, isolated the gas which caused the ripening and coloring of the green fruit.

It was ethylene, a colorless gas of faint, pleasant odor, and it is used in hospitals as an anesthetic. The ethylene is marketed in steel cylinders, holding 28 pounds of gas, or approximately 380 cubic feet.

In applying the ethylene, fruits or vegetables are treated in closed chambers to prevent the gas from escaping. It may be applied in refrigerator cars in transit or in tents by small operators. It is extensively used by citrous growers in Florida and California, and in marketing centers, and in the last year or so it has come into greater vogue on the farm.

Where it takes 12 to 14 days to ripen tomatoes in air in the usual way, with ethylene the ripening takes only six days. The fruit or vegetable needs to be mature, although green, and the ripening may be started and the finish left until the fruit is in storage. The process is being used with melons, apples, pears, dates, persimmons, pineapples, grapefruit and other products.

Speeding Productivity.

Another productivity device reported to be increasing in demand is the electric hotbed. Small units, designed for amateur gardeners are being instaled. There are three methods of instalation, the most popular one being to put the lead coated resistance wires from 6 to 8 inches under the surface of the soil. Thermostats regulate the temperature, and the gardener gets a jump on the growing season.

Electric light has long been the subject, both with flowering plants and garden stuff. One of the latest tests by the bureau of plant industry at Washington was with radish and spinach. By managed light and darkness period, the maturity of these two spring vegetables was prolonged over several months. By artificial light, too, a full year was gained in the growth of hop vines, from seedling into bearing plant.

IOWA LAND INCOME BUBBLES UP HIGH AS EASY MONEY FLOWS

Des Moines, Ia., April 28.—[Special.]—The same influx of federal easy money which has dampened down the fires of revolt among Iowa farmers has floated the investment returns of land holding insurance companies for the time being to a new level, State Insurance Commissioner E. W. Clark revealed today.

Today Plymouth county farmers have drawn $779,561 in loans from the federal government on Plymouth county corn. An additional $70,000 has been received in CWA wages, and long term loans of more than a half million dollars have eased the high interest mortgage situation.

With similar conditions existing throughout the state, now that the 75 million dollars of corn loan money has started its flow into the state from Washington, state investors in farm lands are changing the color of their ledgers from red to black.

How long this will last, is a large question in the mind of Insurance Commissioner Clark.

"It is almost impossible to tell whether this increased return from farm land investments is authentic and permanent," he said, "or merely the effect of the temporary influx of federal money. I don't like to be a pessimist, but I have my serious doubts about the future, particularly when they start trying to sell this sealed corn."

Two California Centers Are Jolted by Earthquake

San Jose, Cal., April 28.—[U. P.]—A sharp earthquake jolted San Jose and Santa Clara today but caused no damage.

FIREMAN KILLED AS TRUCK SPEEDS TO FALSE ALARM

One Other Injured When Wheel Is Lost.

A false alarm of fire led to the death of one fireman last night, serious injuries to another and the wrecking of a fire engine truck. George Lubben, 34 years old, 8237 South Bishop street, father of two children, whose wife is an expectant mother, was the man killed.

The fire alarm came from a box near the Criterion theater, Sedgwick and Division streets. Engine company 42, at 228 West Illinois street, of which Lubben was a member, started out. The heavy truck sped north in Orleans street at more than 40 miles an hour. Just south of Division street, a rear wheel came off and the truck overturned. Lubben and Fireman John Scaman, 33 years old, 2214 North Keystone avenue, were thrown to the pavement. Lieut. Peter Burke, Fireman Martin McGinty and Driver Joseph Stolz held on. They were bruised.

Lubben and Scaman were taken to the Henrotin Memorial hospital where Lubben was pronounced dead. Scaman was suffering from fractures of the skull, left leg and left arm. Lubben is survived by his widow, Edna, and two children, Edna, 9 years old, and Lorraine, 5.

This, and four other deaths yesterday, raised the 1934 Cook county motor toll to 383. The others were:

Raymond Zaubka, 10 years old, 8707 Escanaba avenue. Fatally injured last night when, while riding a scooter near his home, he was struck by a car driven by Martin Dybalski, 24, of 5613 South Elizabeth street. The boy died in the South Chicago hospital.

Dolores Fisher, 4 years old, 4544 South Justine street. Crushed to death yesterday afternoon when she ran in front of an automobile while playing in the alley at the rear of her home. Joseph Obejtek, 23 years old, 4408 South Justine street, told police he was driving slowly but had no chance to stop.

Mrs. Irma Hartenberg, 67 years old, 5836 Kenmore avenue. Killed instantly yesterday morning when she stepped from a safety iland on Broadway at Ardmore avenue in front of a truck driven by Lewis Miller, 21 years old, 4100 West 16th street.

Cecil Bailey, 45 years old, colored, 5652 South Michigan avenue. Died in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island of injuries received earlier in the day when his automobile collided with another car at 127th street and Ashland avenue, Calumet Park.

Dr. Arthur C. Slinde, 52 years old, 425 Surf street, was arrested by Town Hall police last night after he allegedly ran down a pedestrian with his car and drove away. He is a staf member and reputed co-founder of the John B. Murphy hospital. Police said that Dr. Slinde while driving at Halsted street and Newport avenue injured George Schaefer, 43 years old, 817 Newport avenue, and failed to stop. W. J. Murphy, 660 Roscoe street, a switchman, and Carl Johnson, 648 Roscoe street, trailed him in another car and caused his arrest. Charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident were preferred against Dr. Slinde.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, and Alanson B. Houghton, former United States ambassador to Great Britain, sailed for Europe on the Europa tonight to take a three weeks' cure at Baden-Baden. Neither would comment on political affairs.

Pontiac's engine is one of the smoothest eight-cylinder power plants built. You thrill to its brilliant performance . . . for riding and driving fatigue is absent . . . only pure enjoyment remains.

IT'S AN 8 AND IT'S A BEAUTY

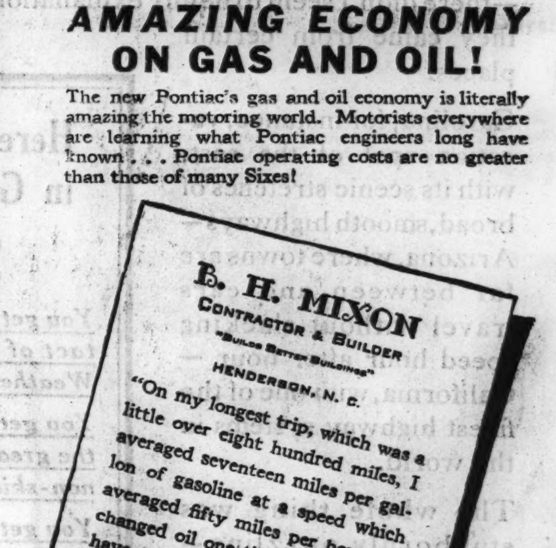
Illustrated, the 4-Door Sedan, list price at Pontiac, Michigan, $805. With bumpers, spare tire, metal tire cover, tire lock and spring covers, the list price is $32.00 additional. List prices of other models at Pontiac, Michigan, $715 and up.

AMAZING ECONOMY ON GAS AND OIL!
The new Pontiac's gas and oil economy is literally amazing the motoring world. Motorists everywhere are learning what Pontiac engineers long have known . . . Pontiac operating costs are no greater than those of many Sixes!



E. H. MIXON
CONTRACTOR & BUILDER
HENDERSON, N. C.

"On my longest trip, which was a little over eight hundred miles, I averaged seventeen miles per gallon of gasoline at a speed which averaged fifty miles per hour. I changed oil one time but did not have to add any. I think this is an excellent average considering the high speed at which I sometimes drive. The 1934 Pontiac is even more than claimed by the manufacturer."

RAINEY SMOKES PIPE AS SIX REDS 'CROW' ON RACES

4 Negroes and 2 Whites Hold 'Demonstration.'

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Four Negro boys—very sheepish—and two white communists—very belligerent—were all that showed up at the capitol today for the scheduled Red demonstration against "Jim Crowism" in the house restaurant.

A couple of capitol policemen met them at the entrance, escorted them politely to the speaker's office. There the white haired Mr. Rainey smiled benignly upon them, greeted them pleasantly, heard them to the bitter end.

One of the young Negroes—he was quite awed by it all—stepped to Mr. Rainey's desk and demanded "equal rights" for his race in the house restaurant. He demanded that the constitution of the United States be observed in the very seat of government. He stumbled often over his speech, once or twice almost forgot his lines, but finally got through and took his seat.

White Forgets No Lines.

Then Mr. Harold Spencer, white, of the Communist party, arose. He forgot no lines and he wasn't very awed. He laced Mr. Rainey up and down, demanded immediate action, laughed at the prospective congressional investigation into the restaurant situation. Mr. Rainey kept on smiling benignly, continued a steady puffing of his pipe.

When Mr. Spencer got through, Miss Gertrude Thorp, white, also of the Communist party, took the floor. Miss Thorp was plenty mad. She wondered whether the speaker was ignorant; if not, whether he was lying. The investigation, said Miss Thorps, was a "lot of hooey," and she didn't "mean Hooey Long." Mr. Rainey, she shrilled, was just an old "chauvinist."

That one got the speaker for a moment. He blinked. It looked as though he might even take his pipe from his mouth. But he got hold of himself quickly, nodded very pleasantly, indeed, and went on listening.

Demands Intention of Rainey.

Miss Thorp finally got through her harangue. Just what, she demanded in conclusion, did the speaker intend to do about it.

"I intend to do nothing whatever about it," said Mr. Rainey, in a grandfatherly manner. "It is not within the province of the speaker to do anything. Moreover, the house restaurant is not a public restaurant. It is very evident to me that you are all communists and your purposes are quite apparent."

"Thank you so much for coming. I enjoyed seeing you so much. Good day."

So the six marched out—the Negro boys more sheepish than ever; the whites not a whit less belligerent. Both Mr. Spencer and Miss Thorp, the local detective bureau advised, are old hands at such things.

SOLDIER'S DISCHARGE FOUND.

The honorable discharge certificate of Joe Groszewski has been found and he can obtain it by applying to the service department of the American Legion at 209 North La Salle street, it was announced yesterday.

Ex-Actress Ill

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Stella Mayhew, 60 years old, former musical comedy star, is in the French hospital suffering from a serious illness. It was said at the hospital today that Miss Mayhew's condition is so serious that she is not permitted to see any one. The nature of her illness was not divulged.

NURSERY SCHOOLS TO DEMONSTRATE CHILD BENEFITS

Benefits provided for needy children by 13 federal nursery schools in Chicago will be demonstrated in connection with Infant Welfare week beginning tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Rose H. Alschuler, organizer of the nursery system.

The schools, which were opened six weeks ago, now care for 262 children from 2½ to 4 years old, whose homes are in the poorer districts. Children are brought to the schools and play in pleasant surroundings under guidance of nurses and special teachers.

About 500 additional families are aided by the nursery schools through a service by which mothers are advised on home care and feeding. The schools are maintained by the Federal Emergency Relief administration. Chicago is far in the lead among cities in this type of social work, Mrs. Alschuler said.

Loss in Junkyard Fire Estimated at $15,000

Damage estimated at $15,000 was caused early last evening by a fire in a junk yard, operated by Mrs. Rose Rosenmutter and her four sons, at 1449-53 Redfield avenue. The two story brick building in front of the yard, used by the Rosenmutters as living quarters, was also damaged. Residents of several nearby buildings fled to the street. Additional equipment was called when the flames gained headway, and trafic on Elston avenue, nearby, was blocked for an hour.

RUSSIA DECREES WAR TRAINING FOR 5,000,000 BOYS

Must Even Take Lessons in Parachute Jumping.

MOSCOW, April 28.—(AP)—The Young Communist league, 5,000,000 strong, the vanguard of soviet Russia's youth, was ordered today to undergo three months of intensive training in the rudiments of military and aviation technique and physical culture.

Following the three months' course the youths will be given an examination.

The league is a junior branch of the Communist party, with members between the ages of 16 and 24 of both sexes.

Set Military "Minimum."

The order for the training, which becomes another phase of military preparedness, was taken by the central committee of the league in combination with the Central Council of Labor Unions, the Civil Society for Aviation and Chemical Defense, the Red Cross, and the Supreme Council of Physical Culture.

The movement was described as "of immense political and defensive importance."

A "military and technical minimum", is established for which each member of the league must qualify by means of strenuous "ready for labor and defense" physical tests.

Must Take Parachute Lessons.

Each member likewise must handle a rifle sufficiently well to win a badge as a "Voroshiloff sharpshooter," pass tests in topography, take exercises in gliders and parachute jumping, and study the construction and operation of automobiles, tractors, and airplane motors.

The training in these subjects will begin in May and continue into August, when the examinations will be held.

Woman Falls to Death from Apartment Window

Miss Anna Sayers, 41 years old was fatally injured last night when she leaped or fell from a window of her fourth floor apartment at 1036 East 46th street. Hyde Park police took her to the County hospital where she died a short time later. Police learned that she had suffered from a mental derangement and had undergone treatment in an institution. Since that time she had lived alone with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Sayers.

EXHIBIT SWISS CARVINGS BROUGHT TO FAIR

Rare pottery, wood carvings, fine linens, and water colors are being shown in the preview of the World's Fair Swiss Village on the ninth floor of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.'s store.

The display of 15,000 pieces, which opened formally yesterday afternoon, has been arranged by the Swiss National Home Industries. Louis Bonyhard, general representative, is in charge. Among those who were present and spoke at the opening reception and program were Mayor Kelly, Ernst Buehler, vice president of the board of education, and Ulrich Beusch, acting Swiss consul in Chicago.

None of the pieces on exhibition are factory made and, according to Mr. Bonyhard, a number of rare exhibits were brought to light only recently in the homes of peasants.

The Locarno ceramics have been newly discovered and designs on old pottery from Thoune can be traced back 800 years in one family. New Thoune pottery possesses a thermos quality, keeping solid or liquid food cool or hot for several hours.

Among the intricate wood carvings are two busts of Greta and Hans Stahli, by Wilhelm Huggler, which won first prize in an international exhibit held at Geneva in 1930. The Stahlis, a family of famous guides, lost three sons in mountain passes.

There are handkerchiefs embroidered with the aid of magnifying glasses, and dainty Appenzell embroideries, in a museum case from 50 to 75 years old.

FEDERAL AGENTS SIFT POISONING OF 45 AT DINNER

Italian Consul Guest of Denver Banquet.

Denver, Colo., April 28.—(AP)—The Denver Post said tonight it had learned federal officers are ready to investigate the poisoning of 45 prominent Denver men at a banquet at a hotel here Tuesday night.

The Post said the justice department's interest in the case centers about the presence at the banquet of Pietro Gerbore, Italian consul for Colorado and seven other western states, who was one of those made ill following the dinner.

Chemical Poison in Food.

"The federal government's activity in the case threw an aspect on the mystery even more serious than the discovery that chemical poison might have caused the wholesale illness," the Post said.

"It immediately suggested that Gerbore might have been chosen as the victim of a political plot, which sought to make the poisoning of all the guests a demonstration against him."

The Post said Gerbore is "known to be high in the confidence of Premier Mussolini."

"This latter fact," it went on to say, "tended to give even more weight to the possibility that the poisoning was criminal in intent—the work of a crank or a political cabal."

Does Not Feel Alarmed.

Gerbore was reluctant to discuss the matter of the banquet, the paper said. "I do not feel alarmed," he was quoted as saying. "I am confident the United States government will check the matter thoroughly.

"The question of criminal intent had not occurred to me before, and in consequence, I am unable to shed any light on the affair."

Gerbore is due to leave his post here May 9 and go to Rome for orders which probably will mean his transfer to a consular post in Europe. He will be succeeded here by Count Louis Gabriel Asinari Ligray di San Marzano, who is scheduled to reach Denver Tuesday.

Ionia, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—Dave Hawkins, 67, farmer, drove into the side of a speeding train last night. His car was hurled 25 feet into the air, but Hawkins escaped unhurt.

THIS FAMOUS WINNING COMBINATION OF FEATURES

not found in any other low-priced car

CHEVROLET It was a great record of leadership that Chevrolet made in 1933! It's an even greater, more impressive record that Chevrolet is making for 1934! Already, sales are tens of thousands of cars ahead of last year. Production is running higher than that of any other automobile company in the world. And every day, from state after state, comes the same report on registrations: Chevrolet is leading all other cars!

The reason for such preference is shown at the right. Chevrolet has so many vital features that others in the low-price field have left out: Knee-Action wheels that are fully enclosed for complete safety and absolute dependability. A six-cylinder valve-in-head engine with an exclusive "Blue-Flame" head. Big, "cable-controlled" brakes, the best in the low-price field. Large, spacious bodies by Fisher, with Fisher No Draft Ventilation. And real "shock-proof" steering that brings new ease and comfort to driving. No other low-priced automobile has a single one of these five leading 1934 features. That's why no other can be backed by such a confident statement as this:

"This is true liberty, when free born men, having to advise the public, may speak free which he who can, and will, deserves high praise, who neither can, nor will, may hold his peace. What can be juster in a state than this?"—Euripides.

SOCIALISM SEEKS AN ILLINOIS FOOTHOLD.

It would be hard to believe that there are ten men in the legislature who of themselves would impose a state NRA code on Illinois. They know they would do their constituents no good, and they know they would expose them to a great deal of abuse and mistreatment. They know there will be the devil to pay in every legislative constituency in the state if the espionage and policing inevitable in the supervision of every little business in the state is established under a state code.

Although Gen. Johnson knows that the National Recovery act has made a muddle in which only the big fellows have any chance, he urges the extension of the mistakes he sees and Gov. Horner has yielded to Washington influence. The governor is trying to drive the NRA through the legislature by feigning enthusiasm for something his better judgment a year ago would have recoiled from, and by making the dicta of the professoriat the doctrines of party regularity. No member of the legislature can possibly share the governor's ostensible optimism because each member knows that his constituents will be sore as boils if they find themselves caught in a law which in other states has claimed such scandalized victims.

The legislators are home over the week-end and it is a good time for them to talk with the people who elect them and to do a little plain reflecting. The governor's submission to the professorial brain trusters puts him in the position of trying to give his state a socialistic and un-American form of government. Half the professors are headed for Moscow. If Gov. Horner had run on the Socialist ticket in Illinois he might have polled 20,000 votes. The people who elected him had never heard of the professors and never dreamed that his election involved a possible departure from American principles or possible adventure with a dictatorship of any kind. They thought they were continuing the government of Illinois as it was given them.

When the legislators return to Springfield it should be their privilege to put a quick and final end to the scheme of socialism contained in the Illinois NRA and to save American government in this state instead of turning the people over to the inquisitor, regulator and commissar.

TOWARD THE DEEP END.

In bulwinkling Dr. Wirt congress intentionally left undiscovered the real purposes of the present American government and the prospects of the American people under it. The impendency of the November elections may offer some explanation for the reluctance to reveal to the country just what the intentions of the burocrats are.

The bulwinklers themselves know a great deal more about the true inwards of the situation than any one not intimately connected with government at Washington. The dumbest of some very dumb men could not avoid getting information in so highly excited a governmental organization as that on the banks of the Potomac which is trying everything once.

The ordinary citizen dizzily endeavoring to follow the course of the peaceable revolution would have welcomed an examination of the various high personages who are administering the new affairs of the nation. The picture he gets is one of conflict of opposing purposes. The revolution is peaceful enough in that when a man is licked he is not beheaded but is allowed to resign. In a less peaceful revolution the dissenters would have been sent to the block or at least to exile in Alaska. As it is they are permitted to take the air at Tucson, return to the University of Chicago, or resume their former pursuits without any government agents following them to see that they don't stir up mischief and counter revolution.

There still remain numerous conflicting ideas of government in the administrative family and no one can tell which will prevail. The Marxists say that history always reveals itself in advance to intelligence, but the Americans are not dialecticians, and not seeing the factors very clearly they don't see the probable consequences at all.

In the rough it is fairly plain that Washington at present is a combination of Moscow and Berlin, or you can substitute Rome for Berlin. The Marxist ideas and the Hitler ideas are natural enemies, and given the opportunity one will devour the other. No one would call Gen. Johnson a commissar, but in the proper surroundings he'd make a speech which would sound like one from the lips of Ernest Roehm, the chief of staf of Hitler's Brown army. The NRA may play into the hands of the Socialists but in its essence it does not intend to do so.

Gen. Johnson as a soldier naturally believes that in times of emergency human beings are safest in squads, platoons, companies, regiments, brigades, divisions, and armies, with a GHQ where sits a square jawed man who may guess right. Johnson wouldn't go to Moscow if he saw where he was going but the comrades may observe that he and the big industrialists are concentrating industry in such a fashion that the possession of a few key positions means control of the whole business. It might be difficult to put an administrator on the doorstep or in the counting house of every little manufacturer the country over, but monopolies can be taken over with the greatest ease. The railroads have been. The attempt was made to seize the other communications, the telephone, telegraph, radio, and cables. Johnson may be marching towards the minarets without knowing it.

In the agricultural department the Russian peasant collectivism can be seen, at least in the bud. If the AAA as now philosophized keeps on in its present direction the American farmer will find that he has talked himself into the Russian kolhoz, the collectivist agricultural community, with his quota of pigs, cows, and chickens and his limit of production.

It has been a dictum of American politics that you can't peasantize the American farmer. You don't know whether you can or not. The Bankhead cotton bill would say you could.

The subsidies may be very convenient to receive, but if in the end they tie the farmer to the land with a commissar regulating his collectivist community he may find that he sold something for less than it was worth. The people in the Tennessee valley may be having a lot of fun with their electric toasters and egg beaters but some day they may be taking to the hills with their granddaddies' rifles to get away from the federal agents who want to know what they're doing and why.

There will be no lasting peace between the comrades in the agricultural department and Gen. Johnson's boys. By the Marxian dialectic it might be possible to foresee which side will win but otherwise it is anybody's guess.

In that other mighty institution of the New Deal, the department of the interior, sits Mr. Ickes who, twenty years ago, would have been easily charted as a liberal Theodore Rooseveltian Progressive, believing in the institutions of his country and desiring that they prevail over dishonest men in private life as well as dishonest men in public life, a man of somewhat testy honesty himself, with high ideals if not exactly high achievements. Something has wormed itself into Mr. Ickes' brain pan which has caused him to regard the old social order as one of ravening beasts and American history as a succession of discreditable episodes, but still many of his friends will doubt that he is ready for the communized state. The AAA boys no doubt regard Mr. Ickes as a Menshevist.

By and large, the Menshevists probably are in control of the majority of the government activities at present. The whole muddle is made up of Menshevists, Fascists, mild state Socialists, ordinary burocrats, bolos, and groups of what Marxists know as sectarian liberals. In the background there are a number of old line politicians who probably think that in the end the professoriat will run afoul of things the professors don't know how to handle in the political precincts, and who are waiting patiently and reticently until the circus is over and they can step into control again. Such of these men as are not giving lip service to the peaceable revolution are keeping very quiet. Their expectations may not be quite as good as they think they are. They never had to deal before with an electorate so thoroughly saturated with subsidies, doles and benevolences poured out of the federal treasury by a centralized burocracy.

Out of the confusion of idea and purpose, the conflict of doctrine and opinion, no one could predict what will come. Somebody will be found sitting tight when the big explosion arrives, and if the bulwinklers hadn't been afraid that the country at large would get as much information as they themselves can get by gassing over a round of drinks the people might have been a little better able to guess where the thing was going to jump.

THE UNLIKELY GALAHAD.

Senator Borah's ethical resolution to create a system of grim asceticism in the United States senate was dealt with by his colleagues with just enough support for it to reveal a substratum of moral dignity under the Conscript Fathers and with just enough votes against it to lay it on the table.

Senator Borah desired to impose upon his colleagues a rule that no senator should act as attorney in federal matters or in any interstate commerce cases. No senator could sit in consideration of legislation and at the same time be a special pleader elsewhere for interests which might seek legislation. Under gibing the Idaho senator stated that it had been his own personal rule of conduct and he thought it a desirable and not impossible standard for the entire body. Mr. Borah frequently seeks for higher public ethics than the other senators are prepared whole-heartedly to adopt. He annoyed them by returning a salary increase to the treasury and without wielding scorpions he often allows it to be understood that he thinks the moral tone of congress could be raised.

The perfect senator for whom Mr. Borah sometimes seeks, and may sometimes try to be, is an ideal not to be put out of expectation but not to be encountered in reality. This Bayard would not seek special considerations for any special bodies of citizens, whether they were organized in corporations or collected in a constituency. He would be as indifferent to the desires, prejudices and whims of an electorate as he would be superior to the enticements of vested interests. He would possibly even be skeptical of the merits of the silver bill although he came from a silver country. He would make the tarif a national and not a local issue. He might refuse to accept subsidies for his state which he thought were unjustly drawn from the pocketbooks of citizens of other states.

It would not be necessary for the ideal senator to have the eloquence of Patrick Henry, the logic of John Marshall, the philosophy of Thomas Jefferson, or all the qualities of George Washington, but he would have the simple-minded honesty of purpose which rejected all special advantage for himself and his constituents, sought no interests other than the broad ones of the whole people, and with his eyes fixed on a star he would follow the serene course of rectitude. And he would not be in the senate.

There never will be such a man in congress, and probably if there could be such a one he would remain in obscurity all the days of his service, very seldom knowing what was going on because he could not penetrate the motives guiding his brethren on the hill. At the same time it might be said that Mr. Borah was not setting up an impossible standard in suggesting that senators as legal representatives of interests seeking legislation are putting their own purposes, consciously or unconsciously, to a severe test not likely to result to the public good. Some of the senators remarked to Mr. Borah that they did not care to starve to death, but Mr. Borah himself is full-fleshed and a simpler life would do few of the distinguished personages of Washington any particular harm.

PORTRAIT OF A BUROCRACY

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.

[Trafic Manager, The Chicago Tribune.]

For a matter of five years the well known firm of Consolidated Railway Claims Company, Inc., had been carefully auditing the railway freight receipts of the Growem Hair Restorer company on a contingent basis. Under its contract any funds recovered from the railways through claim channels by the auditing company were to be divided on a fifty-fifty basis with the hair restorer company, but—there simply weren't any. Railway freight agents were correctly rating the shipments of hair restorer with monotonous regularity and when a railway billing clerk did stumble the local refund clerk usually managed to pay the amount of overcharge directly to the shipper before claim could be filed. It was discouraging.

The management of the claims company took the matter under advisement. Something must be done. An immense amount of checking was producing no revenues and claims must be created in some manner. Ah! Here is an idea. Create some claims—reparation—by persuading the interstate commerce commission that all rates applied to hair restorer are unjust and unreasonable. A meeting was arranged with the officials of the hair restorer company and the plan outlined. After it had received an okeh a complaint was duly filed with the interstate commerce commission alleging violations of the first three sections of the interstate commerce act in the matter of hair restorer rates. The railways had been for years, according to the complaint, collecting unjust and unreasonable charges on hair restorer far above actual costs of handling, resulting in pain, prejudice, and business embarrassment to the shipper. The legal instrument was given a docket number, the railways were notified to answer the complaint, a cozy hotel room was engaged by the interstate commerce commission for the proceedings, and the case was duly set down for hearing. The eventful day had arrived.

On assuming the witness stand the representative of the claims company proceeded to produce evidence to show that the public interest was involved. The number of bald heads in the country was increasing at an alarming rate. Not only that, but half moons under the backs of citizens' hats were commencing to appear at much earlier ages. What was the cause? The railways were assessing such high rates on the complainant's products that efficient hair restorer was beyond the pocketbook of the average citizen, much as he would like to retain his hirsute adornment. Records collected by reputable agencies showed that in 1900 the number of bald heads worn by males between the ages of 25 and 30 amounted to a mere 5 per cent of the total population, whereas in 1930 this figure had advanced to the startling total of 11 per cent. An exhibit in the form of a chart showed the situation in detail. When the ages of 50 and 60 were reached nearly 64 per cent of the male population of our country was shown to be entirely bald.

On the next page of the exhibit some startling rate comparisons were listed. Molasses, pickles, and numerous other "analogous" articles were carried by the railways at much lower rates than those applied to hair restorer. The railway attorney interrupted at this point to draw attention to the fact that these articles were foods entitled to concessions in the public interest, but he had underestimated the resourcefulness of the complainant. Another exhibit was immediately produced to demonstrate that Growem Hair Restorer was also a food. A microscopic photograph showed the hair restorer actually feeding the roots of the hair. Why should the railways discriminate against articles of food applied externally in favor of articles of food received through the mouth? Patently the railway attorney was out of order.

On the next page of the exhibit it was definitly revealed that shipments of hair restorer were valued at 18 cents per pound and would stow 42 pounds to the cubic foot when packed for carriage by rail. Such figures compared favorably with the transportation characteristics of lawn mowers, kindergarten blocks, pitching horse shoes, and hocky sticks—all of which move at lower rates. Finally complainant was able to demonstrate that 62.8 per cent of the weight of the package consisted of a paper carton, excelsior padding, and glass bottles—all of which would move at much lower rates if shipped separately.

For the railways a rather bored young rate clerk took the stand. He had already defended the freight schedules applicable to musical automobile horns earlier in the day, contending that exorbitant freight charges were not the cause of the diminishing popularity of these devices. He presented an exhibit to show that ten years previously the commission had accorded first class ratings on an article of the same value and weight per cubic foot as hair restorer. Numerous comparisons were then made with other first class articles to demonstrate that hair restorer occupied its proper place in the freight classification. The railway case was closed and the way thus cleared for interveners to present evidence.

The first intervener stated that he represented the National Association of Comb Manufacturers. Filing exhibit No. 12, he was able to demonstrate very clearly that his industry was in distress and should have the protection of the Hoch-Smith resolution. The number of combs demanded by the public was rapidly diminishing for the very sufficient reason that after citizens passed the age of 45 an ever increasing number were combing their hair with a towel. His final exhibit was a masterpiece which undertook to show that if the railways reduced the freight rate on hair restorer to permit its greater distribution the revenue sacrificed would be infinitesimal as compared with the additional freight charges they would receive on increased shipments of combs. He proved a good witness for the complainant, but the next intervener was a dud. After clearing his throat and taking oath he announced that he represented 87 per cent of the manufacturers of hats and caps in the United States. The complainant commenced to fidget because this gentleman would obviously support the railways. The witness also demanded protection of the Hoch-Smith resolution, for since college boys started the fad of leaving their hats at home his industry has been suffering. To reduce the rates on hair restorer and thus extend the age limit during which a man may appear hatless in public without embarrassment would be calamitous. He contended with force that it is clearly the duty of the commission to regulate railways and not the tendency toward baldness.

The next intervener announced that he would not take up much of the commission's time, but wished to record his opposition to any change in rates in hair restorer. His principals manufacture coal tar dyes used in the production of the familiar blue suitings. He contended that as long as a man has hair there is a tendency to select lighter suits to match the color of his dandruff. He admits the high purpose of the complainant, but insists that the matter of baldness may not legally be considered by the commission.

The examiner next makes his report to the commission, exceptions pro and con are filed by the parties of interest, and the lawyers are finally given an opportunity to orally argue the case before the commission at Washington. After full consideration of the 1,760 pages of testimony that regulatory body arrives at the decision that, while third class rates for which complainant contended would be too low for application to hair restorer, there are obvious reasons why first class rates are too high. The second class basis stands conveniently in the middle of the road and such rates are ordered for future application to shipments of hair restorer by the carriers.

This case never occurred, but after all is it very different from many of the proceedings before the interstate commerce commission every day?—the long drawn out evidence to prove that the tomato is a vegetable and not a fruit; that the peanut is a pea and not a nut; that there is active competition between the lowly broom and the vacuum cleaner, and that the educational value of toy alphabet blocks should be considered in the public interest. When, if ever, we get back to sanity in the matter of freight rate construction some future writer is going to be able to find a wealth of humor in the bound records of our rate regulatory body. But the law is there, and proceedings such as the above appear to offer the only method of determining what is a just and reasonable rate.

ANESTHETICS AND ANESTHESIA.

In the month of May the Chicago Medical society will dedicate the marker on a granite boulder placed by them in Washington park to commemorate the discovery of chloroform. This chemical was discovered by Dr. Samuel Guthrie of Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., in 1831. Soon after this discovery the same chemical was independently made by Liebig, in Germany, and by Souberain, in France.

Dr. Guthrie sent a paper describing the new substance and the method of making it to a chemical magazine edited at Yale university. He sent some of the liquid to Prof. Ives of Yale to use as a remedy in treating disease. It was not until sixteen years later that the important use of it was discovered—that of producing general anesthesia by inhalation.

General anesthesia for surgical purposes was done first by Dr. Crawford W. Long of Georgia. About four years later it was done by Wells, Morton, and Jackson in Connecticut and Massachusetts. But although they were experimenting with general anesthesia by inhalation more than ten years after the discovery of chloroform they did not use that chemical.

It was in 1847 that a Scotchman, Dr. James Y. Simpson, first used chloroform to produce surgical anesthesia. Using it successfully in operating on the queen of England caused this physician to be knighted.

Chloroform has a long and honorable history of great usefulness, principally in surgery and obstetrics, but somewhat of an internal agent in medicine. It is an ingredient in colic remedies. It is used as an ingredient in liniments. It even enters the humble field of remedies against red bugs.

When inhaled it acts particularly on the brain. It causes an intoxication, a stimulation of fanciful ideas somewhat akin to those of alcohol intoxication. Then follows a numbing of sensation and, finally, a loss of power over muscles. After the control of voluntary muscles is lost there follows a loss of reflexes. It has a profound effect on the heart and the blood supply. In cases of sudden death due to chloroform some disease of the heart existing prior to the anesthesia is generally found.

But the British commissions that have studied the effects of chloroform with scientific thoroughness report that when death occurs during chloroform anesthesia it is the result of paralysis of breathing. Unfortunately, chloroform anesthesia, especially where the dosage is large, may cause atrophy of the liver and destruction of the liver cells.

Among the false and misleading statements made in the Wynekoop case was one that was ascribed to an unnamed physician. He is reported to have said that when a person was given too much chloroform the drug defeated its own purpose and the sleeper came out from under the influence. Of course, such a statement could only be made by a person who was ignorant. Chloroform is a useful drug internally, externally, and by inhalation. In the last of these fields, however, it is being superseded largely by other drugs and other methods.

IRITIS.

Mrs. B. O. writes: I recently had an attack of iritis in the right eye, leaving the pupil of the eye quite round, so that sight is not as clear as in other eye. Will this condition improve with time? Are there any treatments an eye specialist can give that will restore it to normal? Sometimes small, wavering lines float in front of my eye. What causes this? Should glasses be worn? Will trying to read or sew do the eye any injury? I am 29 and had excellent eyesight before this.

REPLY.

There is a considerable likelihood that the iris is fixed by adhesions, and, if so, the pupil is not likely to again become regular in outline and right as to size.

Iritis is due to several diseases. It is a complication that is not to be taken lightly. It calls for good care.

MAY BE MIGRAINE.

Mrs. V. Z. writes: What causes flashes of light in the eyes, lasting twenty to thirty minutes at a time? Everything looks blurred. After the flashes of light have passed away I have a pain in the temple. I am 41 years old old.

REPLY.

Probably the attacks are migraine. They may be the aura of masked epilepsy. One kind of migraine is rather closely related to epilepsy.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL [Klaipeda], Lithuania.—Lithuania wishes friendly relations with Germany, but is unwilling to surrender its rights in the Klaipeda district, according to President Antanas Smetona.

Smetona denied the Kaunas government was contemplating restricting the autonomy of the Memel district. He charged the Memel government with refusing to acknowledge the equal rights of the Lithuanians in the autonomous district, especially with regard to the school sytsem. The Lithuanians are forced to support their private schools there, he said.

"The Memel district is the most favorably situated district in Lithuania, and the harbor, which is Lithuania's window to the sea, gives this part of Lithuania a special importance," President Smetona said. "Through being united with Lithuania the Memel district has obtained its natural 'hinterland,' and, although this district in the course of history developed special characteristics [German culture and language] still it cannot be separated from Lithuania proper.

"Lithuanian tribes have inhabited the Memel district for centuries and therefore it is not right that they should be treated as strangers. The immigrants into this district were the Germans. Lithuania wishes good neighborly relations with the Germans and does not wish to attempt to Lithuanianize them, but it also cannot permit that Lithuanians be Germanized. The present Memel authorities must show their respect for the statutes, which provide equal rights for both nationalities."

THE TRIBUNE's investigation of this situation reveals that conditions are different from the picture drawn by the Lithuanian dictator. It is not the Lithuanians who have resided in the Memel district for centuries who are being discriminated against, for they have been completely absorbed by the higher German culture and feel themselves German. Lithuanians who are now migrating to the Memel district in large numbers are also becoming Germanized.

The Kaunas government, according to officials here, not only wants to keep these immigrants Lithuanian but also aims to re-Lithuanianize the Germanized Lithuanians there. It is this policy which is the cause of most of the trouble in the Memel territory. In imposing the name Klaipeda on Memel, Kaunas confirms its intentions to make this territory Lithuanian and the acts of its governors and the military commanders have created a bitter feeling among the German population and their leaders, some of whom also have purely Lithuanian names.

There is another factor promoting discord and that is the Lithuanian Jews who have also participated in the migration to Memel. Their numbers have increased from 2,000 to 6,000 during the last two years. They are working to foster the antagonism which the Lithuanians are displaying towards the Germans. I was unable to discover any evidence of anti-Semitism among the Germans of Memel. Nazi racial doctrines have not yet spread here. I did find plenty of evidence of anti-Germanism among the Jews.

President Smetona's demand for equality for Lithuanians in Memel is countered by the German demand for equality with the Lithuanians. The Lithuanian press is free and the German press is censored with a fine tooth comb. Lithuanian societies have the right to meet freely, whereas German verein meetings have been prohibited. The sharp measures of the Kaunas government have helped the growth of the Nazi movement in the Memel district.

"The Memel district has developed under German culture for the last 700 years, whereas Lithuania was almost 400 years joined with Poland and 120 years under Russian rule," said a German who holds a high position in the Memel government." The same Asiatic methods which Russia utilized in ruling her minorities are now being used by the Lithuanians against Memel. The Memel diet today contains twenty-four German and five Lithuanian deputies. The five Lithuanian deputies have more to say in running the affairs of the Memel district than the twenty-four Germans.

"Appearing before the international court at The Hague, V. Sidzikaukas, Lithuanian minister to London, openly stated that Lithuania regarded the Memel autonomy as temporary and in the end this district must become Lithuanian. This viewpoint, which is the policy of Kaunas, does not agree with our own. We were 95 per cent German when our territory was occupied by Lithuania. We realized that economically we had gained by this annexation and we had no desire to return to Germany. We also realized that in the course of time our territory would become Lithuanianized. We hoped this would be effected without our losing our higher standard of living and culture. We hoped for a policy of consideration from Kaunas which would win our loyalty, respect, and friendship. We tried to behave loyally, but it was impossible for us to tear Germany out of our hearts overnight.

"The inconsiderate and brutal policy of Lithuania had a negative effect. Unfortunately for Lithuania, Memel is even more German in spirit that she was before the putsch of 1923. The situation is steadily getting worse instead of better."

CITIZENSHIP STATUS.

Chicago, April 19.—[Friend of the People.]—My husband was naturalized on July 2, 1930. We were married on June 21, 1930. I am native born. Did I lose my citizenship by marrying him?

No; marriage on or after Sept. 22, 1922, does not affect a woman's citizenship status.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT.

BUSINESS PARTNERSHIP.

Chicago, April 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband passed on leaving me one-third share in a business. It is a closed corporation and just one hundred shares outstanding, with three to share. The dividend of 1933, which is paid out in the form of salary, was not forwarded to me. The other two drew their share. The books show that there is a reserve. Just what redress have I?

H. E. S.

If you can show that the amount paid is in excess of fair salaries, you should employ an attorney to file a stockholder's bill. You have no basis for complaint on the bare facts that you state.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE OR CONTRACT?

Chicago, April 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife's sister, a widow out of employment, has a piece of property in Michigan. She sold it to A for $3,500 on time payments. A has paid $3,000 and still owes $500. For the last six months A has not paid a cent on principal or interest. A claims she can't foreclose unless she pays him $500, which she can't do. 1. Can she foreclose without paying him $500? Approximately, what would it cost to foreclose on A? A has made many improvements since he bought the place? 2. Does that make any difference? 3. The widow still holds the deed. 4. What would you advise her to do to get the money?

O. B.

1. Your use of the word "foreclosure" implies that there is a mortgage. If so, the court proceedings would cost a substantial part of $500. We advise her to place her claim in the hands of an attorney for collection.
2. No.
3. If you mean that the purchaser has only a contract, then she would be in a position to forfeit it without repaying the $500.

STATE ENFORCEMENT FOR PRIVATE PROFIT.

Chicago, April 25.—In the discussion of the NRA bill now before the state legislature, one important fact has received little or no attention.

It is bad enough to surrender state legislative rights to the federal government and to validate by state authority federal enactments of doubtful constitutionality. But this bill proposes a far more sweeping and dangerous delegation of power.

The actual regulation of business by the formulation and administration of codes is in the hands of the so-called code authorities, which are, in practice, the boards of directors, executive committees, or other governing bodies of trade associations. The NRA administration acts only to review, approve, amend, or reject their proposed measures.

These code authorities are, at best, groups of well meaning business men, inexperienced in the drawing of legislation and largely ignorant of the principles of law and equity. Nevertheless, they are actually making law. At worst, they are dominated by the influence of small and selfish groups, ruthlessly bent upon the extermination of weaker competitors.

Under the proposed bill these trade groups, subject only to the review of a Washington bureau, would have the right to make law for the sovereign state of Illinois and to have their enactments enforced by the whole power of the state. They could regulate a business out of existence or give it extortionate profits. They could interfere in every detail of production, accounting, and sales. They could levy taxes [under the name of assessments] for their own support and collect them through the courts. What would be left of liberty or democracy?

L. S. COOMBS.

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH.

Chicago, April 21.—It is seldom I become excited enough to write a newspaper—in fact, I have never written a newspaper before—but your attacks on the present administration, in your editorials, and particularly in your front page cartoons, are, I think, rather rotten.

I have been a Republican all my life. My father was a Republican and my grandfather before him. In spite of the fact that I have had to earn my income, I have been capitalistic in my thought. I still am, with limitations. But I voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt and am happy that we have him at the helm. I agree with you that a Democratic administration under Woodrow Wilson got us into the mess we are in, but I can't forget what the next three Republican administrations, under Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, did and did not do to complicate matters. Nor can I blind myself [and I am still a Republican] to the accomplishments of the present administration. Franklin D. Roosevelt has revitalized America. If the means seem extreme, the seriousness of the disease is the justification. "The old order changeth"—in spite of your newspaper and your cartoons. The last few years have taught many people to think for themselves.

F. E. WARTMAN.

IN SPITE OF THE NEW DEAL.

Chicago, April 23.—THE TRIBUNE ought to omit its financial pages entirely so that the reader might not have to question whether the cartoon on the front page and the contents of the editorial page or the financial pages are a true indication of the Roosevelt administration. It is a bit confusing to read all the criticism on the front pages and then turn to the financial pages and find that business is getting better right along.

Maybe an explanation as to why business is better and the Roosevelt administration so awful might help to enlighten my befuddled state of mind on this subject.

E. MEYER.

WHERE TO START.

Evanston, Ill., April 23.—I hear that the government is going to send out men to stop bootlegging. Why not start the drive in the bone-dry city, Evanston?

EVANSTONIAN.

AGAINST GOVERNMENT HOUSING.

Chicago, April 22.—Apropos the article in today's TRIBUNE relating that the Chicago chapter of the A. I. A. opens fight for local housing I wish to state that if land were free and $10,000 of the required capital to construct a $25,000 apartment building were donated it would be just barely possible to obtain an interest return on the remaining investment with the existing level of rentals and costs of construction.

Building costs are so hopelessly out of line with any possibility of return on the investment that it is sheer nonsense to talk of promoting "needed and legitimate new building activities."

Using United States department of labor index numbers with 1913 as the base: Food reached 219 in 1920; clothing, 287 in 1920; rentals, 168 in 1924, which have since steadily declined until today they are back approximately to the base year again. While other items in the cost of living have advanced materially, rents have continued their ruinous descent, and only recently have shown convincing indications of becoming arrested in their precipitate decline. An extensive building program at this time could operate only to still further depress real estate bonds, closed bank assets, rentals, and property values.

Certainly a nominal rise in rentals, enough to pay bare operating costs, would be equitable to present hard pressed landlords, and, under present economic stress, resulting in powerful consumer resistance as it does, there can be no danger of "exorbitant rentals," inasmuch as effective demand for housing units is conditioned on purchasing power as well as on the available supply, which undoubtedly is ample at present.

Not a single apartment or residential dwelling should be built while a surplus exists until future purchasing power can be gauged intelligently and until labor and building material costs have been so reduced that construction projects can once again become economically sound. To argue otherwise is merely to display a callous and selfish disregard of the general welfare that is beyond comprehension.

W. S. MANSFIELD.

PROGRESS ISN'T ENDED.

Chicago, April 22.—Thanks for the editorial in last Sunday's TRIBUNE showing the analogy between the depression in Rome, A. D. 33, and ours in 1934.

The fact that the Roman business men finally regained courage and confidence and ended the depression by their own private enterprise and initiative in the ivory and ostrich feather business should encourage our present day timid American business men soon to undertake the building of a couple of new transcontinental railroads, organize and equip another steel corporation equal to the United States Steel, another harvester corporation equal to the International, a couple of motor corporations equal to Ford and General Motors, etc.

THEODORE JOHNSON.

THE RICHMOND [IND.] SCHOOL OF MILKING.

Madison, Wis., April 20.—I suggest that you send Gaar Williams out and let him see how far he can get milking the average cow on the left side, as is shown in his cartoon in today's TRIBUNE. I believe that he would find it rather a difficult proposition with at least ten out of every twelve cows.

Why do cartoonists insist on milking cows on the left side and pumping with the left hand?

THE AIR MAIL CONTRACTS.

Chicago, April 21.—The air mail bids so far received and others to come ought to put a damper on the criticism of the cancelation of the air mail contracts that so much capital has been made of.

The average prices so far offered seem to run at less than 30 per cent of former prices paid. Some of the bids, to quote figures in today's TRIBUNE, "were below 20 cents an airplane mile, less than a fifth of the maximum permissible under the law."

God knows that I carry no brief for Farley, but right is right; he evidently knew what he was about. It is shameful that Lindbergh was made the goat of those crooks, and by them.

JAPAN SOOTHES BRITAIN ON HANDS OFF CHINA STAND

London Appears Ready to End Discussion.

LONDON, April 28.—(AP)—Great Britain appeared ready today to end discussion of Japan's recent "hands off China" declaration.

There remained only the task of telling the full story of the diplomatic exchanges, and this was set for Monday, when Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, plans to explain the matter to the house of commons.

Japan's official statement to Sir Francis Lindley, British ambassador to Japan, and to Joseph C. Grew, American envoy, appeared to have been accepted as satisfactory here.

"No Desire to Interfere."

In it, the Japanese foreign minister, Koki Hirota, while stating that Japan cannot remain indifferent to foreign efforts in China which "endanger the peace of east Asia," asserted that his nation has no desire to interfere with the rights of other powers in China or to infringe upon any treaties.

It was emphasized here that the British and American governments did not act in concert in asking an explanation of the statement of a Japanese foreign office statesman on April 17, which started the discussion. The governments merely informed each other of steps taken, it was said.

Seek to Oust League Sway.

GENEVA, April 28.—(AP)—A storm appeared to be brewing tonight regarding the reappointment of Dr. Ludwig Rajchman, special league of nations envoy, who is returning from China with suggestions for helping that nation economically and socially.

It was reported that representatives of certain powers, acting on Japanese suggestions, had decided not to recommend retaining Dr. Rajchman in the post after July, when his term expires. This course, it was said, would be "in the interest of harmony in the far east."

The league secretariat seemed divided as to how to handle the far eastern problem, complicated recently by a Japanese manifesto asserting Nippon's right to guard the peace, especially in China.

Some saw in the possible rejection of Dr. Rajchman's plan approval for Japan's policies and doom for the league's project to help China. Others thought the withdrawal of the envoy would better the situation in view of Japan's hostility.

TURK WHO CLAIMS TO BE 164 YEARS OLD IS STRICKEN

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 28.—[U.P.]—Zaro Agha, perennial Turk, believed to be the world's oldest man, was seriously ill at Etfal hospital today, repeating over and over that he was 164 years of age. Wrinkled and shrunken, he was sleeping when a correspondent visited him. A nurse awakened him. He smiled and quavered:

"I am better. I am going to get well. I am an old, old man, 164 years old, but there are a lot of things to see yet."

Zaro Agha yesterday left his post as a government office doorman and went home to barricade himself because 64 year old Dr. Serge Voronoff, monkey gland expert just married to a 21 year old auburn haired beauty at Bucharest, wanted to examine him to determine his age and find how he lived so long. Zaro feared he might be subjected to an operation.

Dr. Bejdet Sabit, chief hospital surgeon, said Zaro went to the hospital last night and applied for admittance. Zaro's temperature is 100.4. He ate a hearty breakfast today.

INSULL'S "PRISON SHIP" SPEEDS UP; WEATHER CALM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, En Route to New York, April 28.—Good weather is permitting the Exilona, Samuel Insull's "prison ship," to increase its speed, and Capt. Wenzel Habel today definitly announced the vessel will reach Jersey City on May 7. Boston has been canceled as the first port of call in order to deliver Insull to authorities who will take him to Chicago for trial on criminal charges.

A birthday party for Miss Lillian Burke of Toronto enlivened the dull ship routine last night. Insull gave her an Irish potato wrapped in gaudy paper. The former utilities magnate spends most of his time in the sunshine on deck talking to his custodian, Burton Y. Berry, American embassy official, about old times in Chicago.

The Exilona has crossed four time zones since leaving Smyrna, Turkey, where Insull was taken aboard April 13. The ship's clock is set back 23 minutes each midnight.

FRANCE ACTS TO CURB MAY DAY STRIKE BY KEEPING WIRES OPEN

PARIS, April 28.—(AP)—The cabinet of Premier Doumergue struck a smashing blow today at the projected May day general strike through a plan to assure communication. A picked force of trusted men was created at the cabinet's order to operate skelton wire and wireless systems in France and her colonies for the day.

This special staf, it was disclosed, will be maintained permanently to act when necessary to prevent the paralysis of the country by strikes.

It was revealed by officials that communist operators during the demonstrations of April 13 almost succeeded in a plot to seize radio stations and broadcast propaganda. They were prevented only by the prompt activity of loyal engineers in cutting power cables and wrecking some machinery.

Yanks Demand Senate Act on New Judge.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 28.—The American Chamber of Commerce today sent a strong protest to Washington over the delay of the United States senate in confirming the appointment of a new judge to the United States court here to succeed Judge Milton D. Purdy of Minneapolis, whose term expired on Feb. 26.

President Roosevelt's appointment of Judge Dwight Helmick of New Mexico was announced on Feb. 20. The senate has not as yet ratified the appointment, causing a deadlock in court affairs here.

The term of the United States court commissioner, or police judge, Alexander Krisel of New York, has also expired, leaving the American community in China without legal machinery.

Seek Extrality Revision.

The protest of the Chamber of Commerce was forwarded through the consulate to the department of justice, which now has jurisdiction instead of the state department.

The court deadlock is further complicated by China's request last Dec. 23 for revision of the so-called extraterritorial clauses in the Chinese-American treaty, which was ratified by the two nations 80 years ago.

China demanded a complete revision which, if agreed to by the United States, would eliminate or restrict the present powers of the local United States court, resulting in Americans in China being placed under jurisdiction of the Chinese courts.

American commercial interests are strongly opposed to abolition of extraterritorial jurisdiction. They allege that Chinese courts are subject to political and military influence and are not yet sufficiently strong to shoulder the responsibility of jurisdiction over foreigners.

Extraterritoriality dates back to the period of 1836-1845 when the first formal treaties were exchanged between China and foreign states. Foreigners arriving on their clipper sailing ships were unfamiliar with Chinese laws and the Chinese were equally unfamiliar with foreign regulations.

Out of the complications that developed it was mutually decided that each side should assume responsibility for the misdeeds of its own nationals. In other words, if an American committed a crime against a Chinese he should be handed over to his own consul for trial and punishment and a Chinese committing a crime against an American should be turned over to his own officials for trial and punishment.

The system worked more or less satisfactorily when the foreign trading communities were small and restricted in their activities, but in recent years the Chinese have become more and more determined to force a revision of the old treaties.

Law Interrupted During War.

The foreign position, or united front, on this issue was broken during the world war, when China abrogated its treaties with Germany, Austria and Russia.

Since the war other treaties have expired, but in most cases the countries affected refused to accede to China's wishes until all countries had taken similar action. Japan's treaty expired in 1926 but the Japanese flatly refused to accede to China's demand for the negotiation of a new treaty. France followed a similar procedure when its treaty expired. Smaller countries, such as Holland and Belgium and the Scandinavian and South American countries, agreed to revision and deletion of the extraterritorial clause, but refused to take final action pending the expiration of the American and British treaties.

HENRY FORD believes that the engine overhaul should be a factory job. For in the Ford factory are the men and the machines which produced the engine originally. Engine overhaul should have the same advantages of our precision equipment and methods which engine manufacture had. That is our proposal to you.

When the time comes for the engine to be overhauled—that will be normally after 40,000 or 50,000 miles—the Ford owner simply gets from the local Ford dealer an engine that has been completely reconditioned in the Ford Motor Company plant at Dearborn. The cost is far below the usual cost of overhauling—and there is a great saving in time, as your car is tied up for only a few hours instead of days. Besides that, the price is not guesswork—it is a fixed, known price.

MORE THAN 50% LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE

IN THE NEW Firestone

HIGH SPEED TIRE FOR 1934

THE new Firestone High Speed Tire for 1934 is the greatest tire that Firestone has ever built. With its wider, flatter tread, greater thickness, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, and greater non-skid contact with the road, you get more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

This new development in tire construction is made possible by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, whereby the millions of cotton fibers, inside the high stretch cords are soaked and coated with pure liquid rubber. Firestone tires made with this process, which provides greater strength and safety, are nearer blowout-proof than any other tires made.

Firestone engineers pioneered and developed the first successful balloon tire in 1923, and it is only natural that Firestone would lead in the further development of tire construction to meet the demands of the high powered high speed cars of today. These outstanding improvements are the result of startling developments by the staff of over one hundred Firestone chemists and tire engineers in one of the best equipped laboratories in the world.

By the discovery and development of new rubber compounds Firestone scientists found the way to design a tire embodying a greater volume of tougher rubber that gives amazing results.

When greater power and speed are developed in automobiles, tires must be engineered to withstand the additional punishment, and these new discoveries have more than proved their worth by the results of constant testing on the Firestone fleet of test cars day in and day out, twenty-four hours a day, over all kinds of roads and highways throughout the United States, twelve months in the year.

In addition to this gruelling test, Firestone rubber compounds, design, strength, blowout protection, and rugged endurance are further subjected to the most severe tests known on the greatest proving ground in the world—the Indianapolis Speedway. In fact, Firestone tires have been on the winning cars in the annual 500-Mile Indianapolis Race for fourteen consecutive years, conclusive evidence of Firestone's outstanding leadership in tire development and construction.

12 CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR KEEP GARY BUZZING

Each Party Has Six; Primary May 8.

Twelve candidates, six in each party, are making a hot campaign for the Republican and Democratic nominations for mayor in Gary in the primaries to be held on May 8.

In the Republican primary the politicians are being challenged by the mayoral candidacy of John N. Holloway, a roundhouse foreman who is running as the working man's candidate and pointing to his efforts during the last five years for better government and tax reduction.

Holloway a Dark Horse.

As president of the Lake County Better Government association and later of the Allied Council of Civic organizations, Holloway has led in campaigns against poor relief graft and for governmental reforms and tax reductions. He is regarded as a dark horse, who may be a formidable contender against Mayor Roswell O. Johnson, who is ambitious for a fourth term.

During his second term the mayor became entangled with the prohibition forces and served six months in the federal penitentiary. After his return Johnson was elected to his present term. He is a showman, and a powerful campaigner, but his stronghold on the colored vote has been broken to some extent, according to observers, by City Judge Herman L. Key, a third contender for the nomination.

Key broke into politics five years ago when he won the nomination for city judge. He is said to have a strong organization. Charles E. Greenwald, judge of the Superior court for 20 years, another candidate, is said to have strength in the foreign sections as well as among citizens of American antecedents.

Old Campaigners in Race.

The other two Republican candidates are J. Glenn Harris, a lawyer who served several terms in the Indiana legislature and who has been active in politics for over fifteen years, and Henry H. Frick, a political unknown.

Three of the Democratic candidates are holding public office now: William J. Schroeder, president of the Lake County council, who has been active in cutting tax rates; L. B. Clayton, member of the Calumet Township Advisory board and chief deputy sherif for Gary, and John Burns, minority member of Mayor Johnson's safety board.

The other three Democrats are J. J. Kelly, a real estate business man who has been active in civic work; Isaac Bloom, a business man who was active in the Roosevelt campaign two years ago, and Carl O. France, former chairman of the Democratic city committee.

Fritz Blocki, Chicago playwright and journalist, was married to Louise Barclay Boldenweck, radio actress, yesterday, in St. Paul's House chapel, 3831 North Mozart street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. A. John. Only members of the family were present. The wedding was followed by a dinner at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The couple will make their home at 830 Buena avenue after a short honeymoon.

North Western Train Kills Boy, 11, Playing on Tracks

Frank Cirignani, 11 years old, 1248 Grand avenue, was fatally injured yesterday by a passenger train on the Chicago and North Western railroad right of way at Noble street and Ogden avenue. He was playing with Abe Bigelow, 12 years old, and John Gutson, also 12, both of 127 North Clinton street, when the train approached. The Bigelow and Gutson boys leaped aside and shouted to the Cirignani boy. He was struck, and died later in St. Luke's hospital.

MISS BORLAND BECOMES BRIDE OF B. F. PLIMPTON

Society Attends Reception After Wedding.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A small but socially important wedding of the spring season in Chicago was that of Miss Beatrice Borland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland of 2450 Lake View avenue, to Barton F. Plimpton of Boston. The ceremony was read at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church by the rector, Dr. Dudley Stark, in the presence of about 60 relatives and very close friends.

The chapel was lighted only by candles and the only flowers were pyramids of white carnations at either side of the altar. Simplicity marked the floral decorations of the Borland residence, too, where a reception for several hundred was held following the ceremony.

Lovely Satin Bridal Gown.

The bride wore a lovely but simple gown of white satin and chiffon with long sleeves, a high round neckline and a long train. Her long tulle veil was held in place with a band of braided satin and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies. Her only attendant, her older sister, Harriet, wore apricot crêpe with trimmings of burnt orange velvet, a small Russian turban of the velvet and slippers of the same bright color. She carried a small muff of Joanna Hill roses.

Russell Plimpton of Minneapolis served his brother as best man and ushering were two cousins of the bride, John Borland and Cyrus H. Adams III., both of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Plimpton left immediately after the reception for New York to sail Wednesday for Paris where they have taken an apartment until Sept. 1.

One of City's Oldest Families.

The bride belongs to one of Chicago's oldest and best known families. Her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. John Jay Borland, who died last fall at the age of 85, was Harriet Blair, the daughter of Chauncey Blair, one of the city's pioneer merchants, manufacturers and capitalists. He came from the east coast about the same time that the first Potter Palmer came to Chicago.

Miss Borland and Mr. Plimpton met five years ago on a trip she and her sister Harriet took to Africa, and a year later he was a member of the party in which the Misses Borland got the material for their book, "Passports to Asia," published last fall. Mr. Plimpton is a partner in a travel company with headquarters in Boston so he and his bride anticipate that they will travel a great deal and spend much time in foreign lands.

RUTH BENDIX IS MARRIED TO CALIFORNIA MAN

South Bend, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—Miss Ruth Bendix, adopted daughter of Vincent Bendix, millionaire manufacturer of automobile and airplane parts, was married here this afternoon to William Dela Sales of Los Angeles, Cal.

The ceremony, performed by the Rev. John Cavanaugh, C. S. C., former president of the University of Notre Dame, was held at the Bendix estate and was attended by 200 guests, many from Chicago.

Following the ceremony a buffet dinner was served. The couple left on a wedding trip to the east, after which they will establish their residence in Windsor, Ont.

BOOM CROWLEY FOR DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMANSHIP

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Leo T. Crowley of Wisconsin is receiving mention in some high Democratic quarters for the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, the present party chieftain, is among those reported giving consideration to Crowley, who now is head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. His name is understood to have been suggested also to the White House secretariat.

Just now much of the work of the Democratic national committee is being carried on quietly by Emil Hurja. Several in a position to know have intimated the naming of a new chairman may be put off until after the November elections.

The chief executive has frowned upon national committeemen holding government posts or practicing before government departments. Crowley's selection as national chairman would mean immediate resignation from his deposit insurance post.

U. S. PLANS TESTS TO USE CULLS IN WINE AND BRANDY

Fruit Crop Stabilization Aim of Scientists.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Convinced that "we can make as satisfactory wines and brandies in America as anywhere in the world," department of agriculture scientists have prepared a program of experimentation which, if adopted, may lead to stabilization of the principal fruit crops of the country by using cull and surplus products in making brandy and wine.

Considerable progress has already been made in the development of a variety of cordials from citrus fruits at the department's experiment station at Winter Haven, Fla. Thus far oranges, lemons, grapefruits, limes and tangerines have been used for the purpose.

The program outlined calls for annual expenditure of $150,000 and this consideration is all that is holding up the scientists' project. Efforts are being made meanwhile to interest private concerns in the undertaking with a view to getting financial assistance from them.

Seek to Eliminate Waste.

The agricultural scientists have as their chief objective a larger return to fruit farmers by eliminating surplus and waste production through provision of a constant outlet for their products.

Thus far the principal fruits considered in the studies are apples, peaches, strawberries, pears, cherries, plums and prunes, apricots, and grapes. The first and last named of these fruits are already used in the production of wine and brandy on a commercial basis but it is felt that there is room for considerably more development.

The potential production of wines and brandies in the United States by utilizinfi surplus and cull materials alone amounts to 21,760,860 gallons of brandy and 123,544,239 gallons of wine annually. Excluding the use of grapes and raisins for the purpose, the corresponding totals of potential production are 15,872,140 gallons of brandy and 104,868,639 gallons of wine.

Surplus Crops Vary.

While the portion of the principal fruit crops classified as surplus and cull, or that on which there is little or no return to producers, amounts to only nine per cent of the total annual output, the percentage is much higher for some crops than for others.

Thus it is shown that while cull and surplus apples averaged only 6 per cent of the crop from 1930-'32, inclusive, the corresponding percentages for other principal fruits were 20 for peaches, 10 for strawberries and 15 for cherries.

The department's scientists are convinced that this annual waste production could be materially reduced if the proper technique were developed for fermentation and distillation of the various fruits.

Especial enthusiasm attaches to the proposed undertaking because of the possibility of developing American standards for both brandy and wine.

"MONKEY GLAND" EXPERT OPENS A VILLA FOR BRIDE

ROME, April 28.—(AP)—A honeymoon setting in the luxurious villa Voronoff on the balmy Ligurian coast was prepared today for 64 year old Dr. Serge Voronoff, monkey gland specialist, and his beautiful 20 year old Austrian bride, Gertrude Schwetz. The couple is expected to arrive tomorrow afternoon from Paris by way of Milan.

One attendant at the villa said that the famous "laboratory of youth" at the villa had been maintained completely but that he did not know whether Prof. Voronoff planned any experiments in continuation of his world famous rejuvenation studies during his present trip. The servant said he did not know whether the laboratory contained monkeys for the doctor's experiments.

The couple was married Thursday night at the Austrian consulate in Bucharest. The bride, a cousin of Mme. Magda Lupescu, King Carol's mistress, is the daughter of a Vienna architect.

Business in Illegal Liquor Exceeds Legal, Choate Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The bootlegger is turning out and selling more liquor than the legitimate liquor industry, Joseph H. Choate Jr., federal alcohol control administrator, declared today.

He called on congress to renew the huge appropriations of money which were common during prohibition to fight the bootlegger and moonshiner. He demanded also cheaper legal liquor, lower liquor taxes and a combination of drys and repealists to fight illegal liquor.

In revealing that the bootlegger is turning out more liquor than legal distilleries, Mr. Choate said that the capture of stills which the government is seizing alone could turn out 271,000,000 gallons of liquor a year. The legal distilleries can produce only 210,000,000 gallons, he said.

Points to Big Capacity.

"This vast illegal capacity," Mr. Choate declared, "is not there for the bootleggers' health or pleasure.

"It unquestionably is being used. The persistence year after year, of the immense numbers of seizures, shows that illicit distilleries are replaced as fast as they are seized. This could never happen unless they were needed to meet the demand of the bootleggers' business. It seems probable, therefore, that the bootleggers are now turning out from their stills alone, not counting smugglings and alcohol-divertings, a quantity of spirits which can not be much less, and may be more than we drank before prohibition. This quantity is being consumed in addition to the entire sales of legal goods, which ever since repeal, have run not far below pre-prohibition figures.

"All this means that the drinking habits of the people have increased more than has been imagined even by the pessimists, that the existing demand, if only it could be confined to legal manufacture is great enough to be at least all that the legal industry can supply, that the government is losing more taxes than it gets, and that a colossal criminal industry, necessarily highly organized, still exists and still exports its debauching tendencies on every governmental agency.

"If any progress is ever to be made in either control or temperance, if ever the expected revenue is to be realized, this criminal industry must be destroyed. Every dollar spent in rooting out the criminal producers will be recovered many times over in taxes. We must stop burying our heads in the sand and see that inforcement is brought about.

Proposes Five Steps.

"First. There should be greatly increased appropriations for enforcement.

"Second. A campaign should be started and maintained by every organization interested in temperance, including all honest drys and repealists, to arouse public opinion and compel the aid of every police and prosecuting authority, local and state as well as federal to press for efficient and drastic action.

"Third. There should be immediate adoption of every reasonable means of cheapening and improving the legal product, and to induce all decent citizens to withdraw support from the bottlegger.

"Fourth. There should be such reduction in taxes and import duties as will enable the legal producers and importers to compete.

"Fifth. There should be relaxation of such forms of sales of control as make it harder for the buyer to get legal beverages than illegal goods."

OBSCURE SPANISH POLITICIAN PICKS OUSTED CABINET

Only Premier Lerroux and One Other Missing.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 28.—Ricardo Samper Ibáñez, an obscure Valencia political chieftain, became premier of Spain tonight at the head of the government almost exactly like the one forced out by President Niceto Alcala Zamora three days ago.

Ten of the twelve ministers who resigned in a clash with Zamora over the political amnesty law are back. But the aged Alejandro Lerroux, three times premier, is not, and that is most significant. In fact it results in a crisis.

Although forced out by Zamora, Lerroux could have returned as premier had he wished, but he disregarded the great clamor of the solid right center in the last two days and made way for Samper Ibáñez.

Still Man "Behind Throne."

Lerroux thus appears in the position of having sacrificed himself in the interest of harmony and in favor of younger men in governing the Radical party. It is agreed that by his departure Spain has a Lerroux government without Lerroux.

With the government chosen, rumors that Zamora may resign as a result of the conflict over the amnesty law have been renewed. They are now coupled with predictions that if he does, Lerroux, his enemy, will succeed him.

One man in the last government besides Lerroux is missing—Salvador de Madariaga, famous writer and diplomat. Madariaga, who was interim minister of justice, was left out apparently as being responsible for the conflict over the amnesty law. Although he did not write it, he was minister of justice when it was passed and thus takes the blame for legal flaws which permitted the president to object to it as unconstitutional.

This cabinet has 13 members against 12 in the last government. The new members are Vicente Cantos, minister of justice, now a Radical, but once an undersecretary under the monarchy; Filiberto Villalobos, minister of public instruction, a right Liberal Democrat, and Vicente Iranzo Enguita, an Independent, minister of labor.

"Pudding in a School Yard."

Samper Ibáñez finds little enthusiasm over his combination or optimism over the future. The cabinet will not last longer than a pudding in a schoolyard, the conservative newspaper Luz, predicted today. Its friendliest critics see it as a makeshift body.

The future of the Samper Ibáñez government may be decided on the spot when it faces parliament Wednesday. The ten ministers, who resigned when they refused to allow Zamora to present an argument against the amnesty law before parliament, will be faced with a dilemma. The left is almost certain to ask whether they changed their minds. This they can hardly do. Neither can they start out by clashing with the president. Samper Ibáñez is so well known as an enemy of the Socialists that the left will lose no opportunity of embarrassing him.

JOHN I. HALL.

John I. Hall, who had been a conductor on the Illinois Central railroad's suburban trains since July 17, 1893, made his last run yesterday. Having reached the age of retirement, 70 years, Mr. Hall was placed on the pension list.

When his train rolled into the Randolph street terminal yesterday at 11:40 a. m. he was met by a delegation of railroad men headed by A. Bernard, superintendent of suburban transportation, and presented with a traveling bag. Mr. Bernard recalled that there was not a single bad mark on the veteran conductor's record.

Conductor Hall joined the railroad service in 1886. He was made a conductor during the Columbian exposition, when the road had an impressive upturn in suburban business. He was the last of the conductors whose service extended over the two World's Fairs. His retirement, the veteran announced, would give him a lot of time for fishing.

HITLER STRIKES NEW BLOW AT CATHOLIC WORKER

Seeks to Compel Him to Join Labor Front.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 28.—A new blow was struck at Roman Catholic and other religious organizations of Germany today when the Nazi labor front decreed that members of religious and professional associations will not be allowed to belong to the Nazi labor organization.

"Whoever belongs to both organizations will be struck off the list of the Nazi labor front immediately," the decree read.

This action closes practically all doors to employment to those who choose to remain as members of the old Catholic unions. For some time a majority of Germany's employers have been giving preference to the Nazi labor front in picking their workers. The labor front claims a membership of 20,000,000 "workers of brain and brawn."

Issue Labor Cards.

Several professions have started issuing labor cards. Only a person holding a card of the official labor front may be employed. Consequently workers who are not in the front rank are regarded as second class. This move had been carefully prepared, as evidenced by the fact that a few days ago Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of staf of the storm troops, advised storm troops and members of the Hitler Guard to join the labor front "to avoid difficulties later on." On May 1 the labor front will close its ranks to new members.

The official organ of the labor front explains that the purpose of the Nazi labor organization is "to create a spirit of unity in factories."

Claims Division Causes Conflicts.

"This cannot be achieved if small trade organizations, especially religious associations of workers and apprentices, divide the workers," the article continues. "It is bound to lead to conflicts. This does not interfere with religious associations dealing only in cultural or charity problems."

In West Germany the Hitler Youth organization has challenged Cardinal Michel Faulhaber. They attacked him fiercely in their organ, the Fanfare, which boasts a circulation of about 500,000. The organ has a tremendous influence over the youth movement. It attacks the cardinal because of sermons in which, in the course of the winter, he referred to the old Germanic tribes of the pre-Christian era as barbarians who were lazy and frequently intoxicated.

Heap Insults on Cardinal.

"Cardinal," the Fanfare challenges, "we will not allow you to pollute the blood and honor of our race. Young Germany stands up against writings which might create the impression of sabotage of Chancellor Hitler's reconstruction work."

Coarse insults are heaped on the cardinal, and loyal Roman Catholics are perturbed by the "systematic poisoning of youthful minds."

In Bonn, the famous student corporation Sigfrida, has received official permission to continue as a Roman Catholic student organization, but, according to the Saarbrueckener Landeszeitung, it is the only one permitted to survive in Germany.

Volkszeitung, the Catholic organ at Cologne, has been suppressed until May 7.

De Paul Groups Honor Bishop O'Brien at Dinner

The Rev. William D. O'Brien, recently elevated auxiliary bishop of Chicago, was the guest last night at a banquet given for him in the Palmer house by students, alumni, and members of the faculty of De Paul university. Bishop O'Brien was a member of the first graduating class of St. Vincent's college in 1899. The college later became the nucleus of De Paul university.

COUGHLIN DEFENDS SILVER PURCHASES; ATTACKS MORGENTHAU

Detroit, Mich., April 28.—[U. P.]—The purchase of 20 contracts of silver on behalf of the Radio League of the Little Flower revealed as being made by "A. Collins, Royal Oak, Mich.," in the treasury report, was made on the word of President Roosevelt that commodity prices would be restored to 1926 levels, according to a statement issued by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin today and signed by Miss Amy Collins, secretary of the league.

Both statements were handed out by Father Coughlin and both were copyrighted.

Miss Collins statement said that she invested in silver futures entirely of her own volition and in her capacity as an officer of the league. In doing so, she added, she followed Father Coughlin's policy of investing surplus funds of the league in commodities and investments. The holdings are 500,000 ounces.

Father Coughlin, in his own statement, dealt with the investment in silver only indirectly. His statement in the main was a broadside against Morgenthau and a denunciation of the silver investigation.

The Radio League of the Little Flower was organized by Father Coughlin to make possible the continuation of the broadcasting of his regular Sunday afternoon addresses from the shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak, Mich.

AUSTRIA TO BAN TRIAL BY JURY IN CONSTITUTION

VIENNA, April 28.—(AP)—Democracy's old friend, the ballot box, will still have a place in Austria after the proclamation of a new constitution Monday, but trial by jury will be abolished.

Women will vote the same as men, but neither will be permitted to do so except when the government desires an indication of popular opinion. The press will be free in principle, but government authority will impose whatever censorship may be required "in the public interest."

All citizens will be equal before the law, except where practical considerations justify discrimination. Religious liberty is guaranteed, and religion will be no legal bar to holding office except in the field of public instruction.

The text of the new charter will not be made public until Monday, when a rump session of the long-shelved parliament meets to approve all emergency decrees of the government, including the constitution and a concordat with the Vatican.

GANDHI DEFIES DEATH IN DRIVE FOR THE LOWLY

CALCUTTA, India, April 28.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, undismayed by his narrow escape during an attack this week on his automobile at Buxar, said today he was willing to be killed if martyrdom would assist his campaign in behalf of the lowest classes.

Another mild demonstration against him occurred this morning at Jashidi, but the little nationalist leader was not hurt. Otherwise his tour of India in behalf of the nationalist cause and the untouchables progressed peacefully.

The Indian press, meanwhile, unanimously condemned the Buxar attack which the mahatma described as the sixth attempt on his life.

Venezuela Chief Reports Healthy Treasury Balance

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 28.—(AP)—Improved business conditions and a healthy treasury balance were reported to the Venezuelan congress today by President Juan Vincente Gomez in his annual message. The president said there was an increase of 415,000 tons of petroleum exported during the last year, for a total of 16,586,660 tons, and that the government had spent 33,046,843 bolivars in carrying out an extensive public works program. As of March 15, President Gomez said, the treasury reserve amounted to 83,619,100 bolivars.

SILVER MEN PLAN TO PRESS ISSUE IN FALL ELECTION

Reach Decision After New Rebuff by Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Realizing that mandatory remonetization of silver legislation cannot be passed in this session of congress over the President's opposition, some of the more powerful members of the silver bloc are planning to carry the issue into the November election.

Senator Borah, while not insisting that it be made an issue in the elections, is confident that "wiser and broader legislation" can be obtained in the next congress. By making it an issue throughout the silver and farm states, the silver bloc leaders estimate that the next congress will be predominantly in favor of increasing the currency through the use of silver.

President's Views Unchanged.

Decision to inject silver into the fall campaign was reached quietly by those who have dominated the silver agitation after the White House today authorized the statement that the President's attitude was unchanged and that he was standing firmly behind the London conference agreement, satisfied that the United States could not make silver a monetary commodity except by international coöperation. He holds that the United States should not act until other nations join with us in a full determination of the question. This statement offset published reports this morning that he had proposed a compromise.

President Roosevelt was represented as feeling that concerted action of the silver-producing and silver-using countries as outlined in the London agreement, will afford all the help for silver that is feasible at the present time. This country and the other signatories to the agreement have taken the measures called for under the pact and the President wishes to see this experiment thoroughly tested before embarking on any new policy.

Stands By London Proposal.

The President is standing by the agreement offered at the London Economic conference for a silver reserve equal to 25 per cent of the gold reserve and not exceeding in any case 30 per cent. But this reserve is to be set up by all the countries in an international agreement and not by one country alone.

"I should like to see silver legislation at this session, but, after all, failure of congress to act at this session might have its compensation," Senator Borah said. "If those who believe in the restoration of silver are right, the situation next winter will give us wiser and broader legislation than we can secure at this time."

BEGIN COURT ATTACK IN DENVER ON GOLD ORDER OF PRESIDENT

Denver, Col., April 28.—[U.P.]—An attack upon the legality of President Roosevelt's gold order of last August was begun in federal district court today by attorneys for Edith M. Thomas, daughter of Charles S. Thomas, former United States senator and former governor of Colorado.

Asserting that the executive order directing the making and filing of a return as to the possession of gold violates the "due process of law" provision in the fifth amendment to the constitution, attorneys for Miss Thomas filed a demurrer challenging the legality of a federal grand jury indictment against her on a charge of gold hoarding.

Miss Thomas was indicted Jan. 9, 1934. She admitted having $3,000 in gold in violation of President Roosevelt's order and dared the government to prosecute her. Previously her father, an 86 year old retired lawyer who once was high in the Democratic councils of the nation, had challenged the government to attempt to prosecute him for "gold hoarding."

14 Sandino Men Reported Slain in Nicaragua Battle

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 28.—(AP)—Dispatches reaching here today from Nicaragua told of a battle Tuesday on the banks of the Segovia river between a detachment of guardsmen and a group led by former followers of the slain rebel, Augusto Sandino. Fourteen of the outlaws were killed, the dispatches said, including the wife and daughter-in-law of the leader, Pedron Altamirano. Two lesser chieftains were reported to have been captured.

Their exquisite patterns in softly glowing Oriental colors achieve the same romantic charm as priceless hand-made Orientals. The luxurious, deep pile and silky, lustrous sheen of Bokara Rugs rival the costliest hand-woven Orientals—for lasting service as well as gorgeous beauty. Only the finest, long-fibered, imported new wool yarns are used.

2—Jacquard Wilton weave—not Axminster or Velvet
3—Closer woven, with extra thick nap
4—Skein dyed yarn (not stock dyed or printed)
5—Finest sun and water fast Nealon dyes (not acid dyes)
6—Hand finished (not machine finished)

POLICEMAN WINS HIS 2D TRIBUNE HERO REWARD

Shoots and Kills Armed Bandit.

Patrolman Edward Lynn of the Fillmore police station is the winner of THE TRIBUNE's monthly hero award of $100 for the second time in four years. He won the March prize when he killed John Glasscott, parole violator and gunman, in an exchange of shots while the latter was attempting to rob a drug store in the Midwest Athletic club.

Informed of the robbery by a citizen, Lynn and his companion officer, Lawrence McElligott, hurried to the drug store shortly before 1 a. m. March 31. McElligott went to the front entrance while Lynn entered the side door. It was all over before McElligott got inside.

Bandit's Revolver Drawn.

A lone man stood with revolver drawn, his back to Lynn. Five men and two women, patrons and clerks, were lined up against telephone booths with their hands raised.

Not wishing to endanger the others, Officer Lynn entered with revolver in hand and ordered the holdup man to "stick 'em up." Instead the latter wheeled and opened fire.

The bandit's first shot was wild, the second cartridge failed to explode. Lynn emptied his service pistol, all six shots taking effect, and the gunman crumpled to the floor. He died instantly. The victim later was identified by finger prints as John Glasscott.

Glasscott was well known as a holdup man, had a police record and was wanted for violation of parole following his release last Feb. 3 from Pontiac reformatory. He was armed with a .38 calibre revolver. In Glasscott's pocket was $65 which he had taken form the drug store cash register.

Identified as Killer.

Glasscott was further identified at the county morgue as the man who shot and killed William Ernstein, a taxicab driver, on March 4.

Officer Lynn became a member of the police force in 1924. He lives at 1213 North Austin avenue and is unmarried. He weighs 210 pounds. At present he is a plain clothes officer detailed to the 25th district.

The other occasion on which Lynn's courage won him THE TRIBUNE award was a restaurant holdup in August, 1930. Three men had entered a restaurant at 508 North Franklin street. They were armed with sawed off shot guns. The customers, Lynn among them, were lined up facing the wall with their hands raised. The officer caught the robbers off guard, turned, and killed two of them.

WARNS FOX RIVER POWER PLANTS TO CONSERVE WATER

State Acts; Stream Is Running Low.

Owners of power plants along the Fox river from Elgin south almost to Aurora were warned yesterday to cut down on water withdrawals, which with the continued lack of rainfall are drying up the stream. All of the plants, were visited by Dr. Walter M. Smith, acting chief engineer of the state division of waterways.

With an eight inch deficiency in rainfall since Jan. 1 and the failure of some power plant owners to keep a gentleman's agreement not to let the water drop below a specified level, several state enterprises are threatened. Robert Kingery, director of the state department of public works and buildings, said 200 Civil Works administration workers spent three months in beautifying the banks of the river at Aurora, Geneva, and St. Charles.

"The new parks will not be attractive with a parched river bed as an accompaniment," Mr. Kingery said. "Another loss to residents is in the harm done to large fish stocks put into the river last year and early this spring by the state department of conservation. The Izaak Walton league and citizens have filed a protest."

YOUTH DIES "HOPPING" TRAIN.

Moline, Ill., April 28.—(AP)—Joseph Tacl, 18, of Waukesha, Wis., died in a hospital this morning of injuries received when he was crushed against a railroad freight train as he was attempting to "hop" the train last night.

NEW YORK NEWS BREAKS THROUGH LAKE ICE FIELD

3 Other Tribune Ships Still in Barrier.

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

Capt. Brown, skipper of the New York News, will in all probability again have the honor of delivering the first newsprint cargo at Chicago for the season 1934, but he can credit his victory to the ability of his vessel as an ice breaker rather than a consideration of speed.

At 3:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the News together with Nicholson's auto carrier, Coralia and the coal carrier Alpena penetrated the ice barrier at Lansing Shoals in the north end of Lake Michigan. The other three vessels of THE TRIBUNE paper fleet, Chicago Tribune, Shelter Bay, and Thorold, are still struggling with the ice 18 miles astern. As there is no more ice ahead of the New York News she will doubtlessly be comfortably berthed in the Chicago river under the TRIBUNE cranes before daylight Monday morning.

The voyage from Thorold will have consumed a total of 180 hours as compared with the average summer schedule of 90 hours, four days spent battling with ice is the Straits of Mackinac under the most trying conditions.

The New York News is an ocean type vessel and with her cargo is drawing fourteen feet of water. It is a rather odd commentary on the race that she should have outstripped her rivals constructed as orthodox lake types and distinctly in their own element. The answer probably lies in the fact that the lines of the ocean vessel, as well as power and other considerations, were developed to meet more difficult navigation, and when these occur, even on the lake, she shows her superiority.

DR. JOSEPH STOLZ.

On the following day the speakers will be Dr. A. L. Lassen, president of the Chicago Rabbinical association, and Dr. S. L. Goldenson of Temple Emanu El, New York, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis. Dr. Felix A. Levy of Chicago will pronounce the benediction.

ROOSEVELT ASKS O. K. FOR INDIAN HOME RULE BILL

Urges Passage in Twin Letters.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—What's good for the country isn't necessarily good for the Indians, it was explained in administration circles today as President Roosevelt appealed for passage of the Wheeler-Howard Indian home rule bill.

"Certainly the continuance of autocratic rule by a federal department over the lives of more than two hundred thousand citizens of this nation is incompatible with American ideals of liberty," said the chief executive, dropping his rôle of father of the New Deal to assume that of the Great White Father. "It is also," he added, "destructive of the character and self-respect of a great race."

He expressed himself in twin letters to Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], and Representative Edgar Howard [Dem., Neb.], chairmen respectively of the senate and house Indian affairs committee. The Wheeler-Howard bill is aimed at correcting the exploitation of Indian lands, mineral and timber rights by private interests abetted by agents of the Indian bureau.

"We can and should, without further delay," the President wrote, "extend to the Indian the fundamental rights of political liberty and local self-government and the opportunities of education and economic assistance that they require in order to attain a wholesome American life. This is but the obligation of honor of a powerful nation towards a people living among us and dependent upon our protection.

"The continued application of the allotment laws, under which Indian wards have lost more than two-thirds of their reservation lands, while the costs of federal administration of these lands have steadily mounted, must be determined," he went on. "Indians throughout the country have been stirred to a new hope. They say they stand at the end of the old trail. Certainly, the figures of impoverishment and disease point to their impending extinction, as a race, unless basic changes in their conditions of life are affected."

Then he added: "I do not think such changes can be devised and carried out without the active coöperation of the Indians themselves."

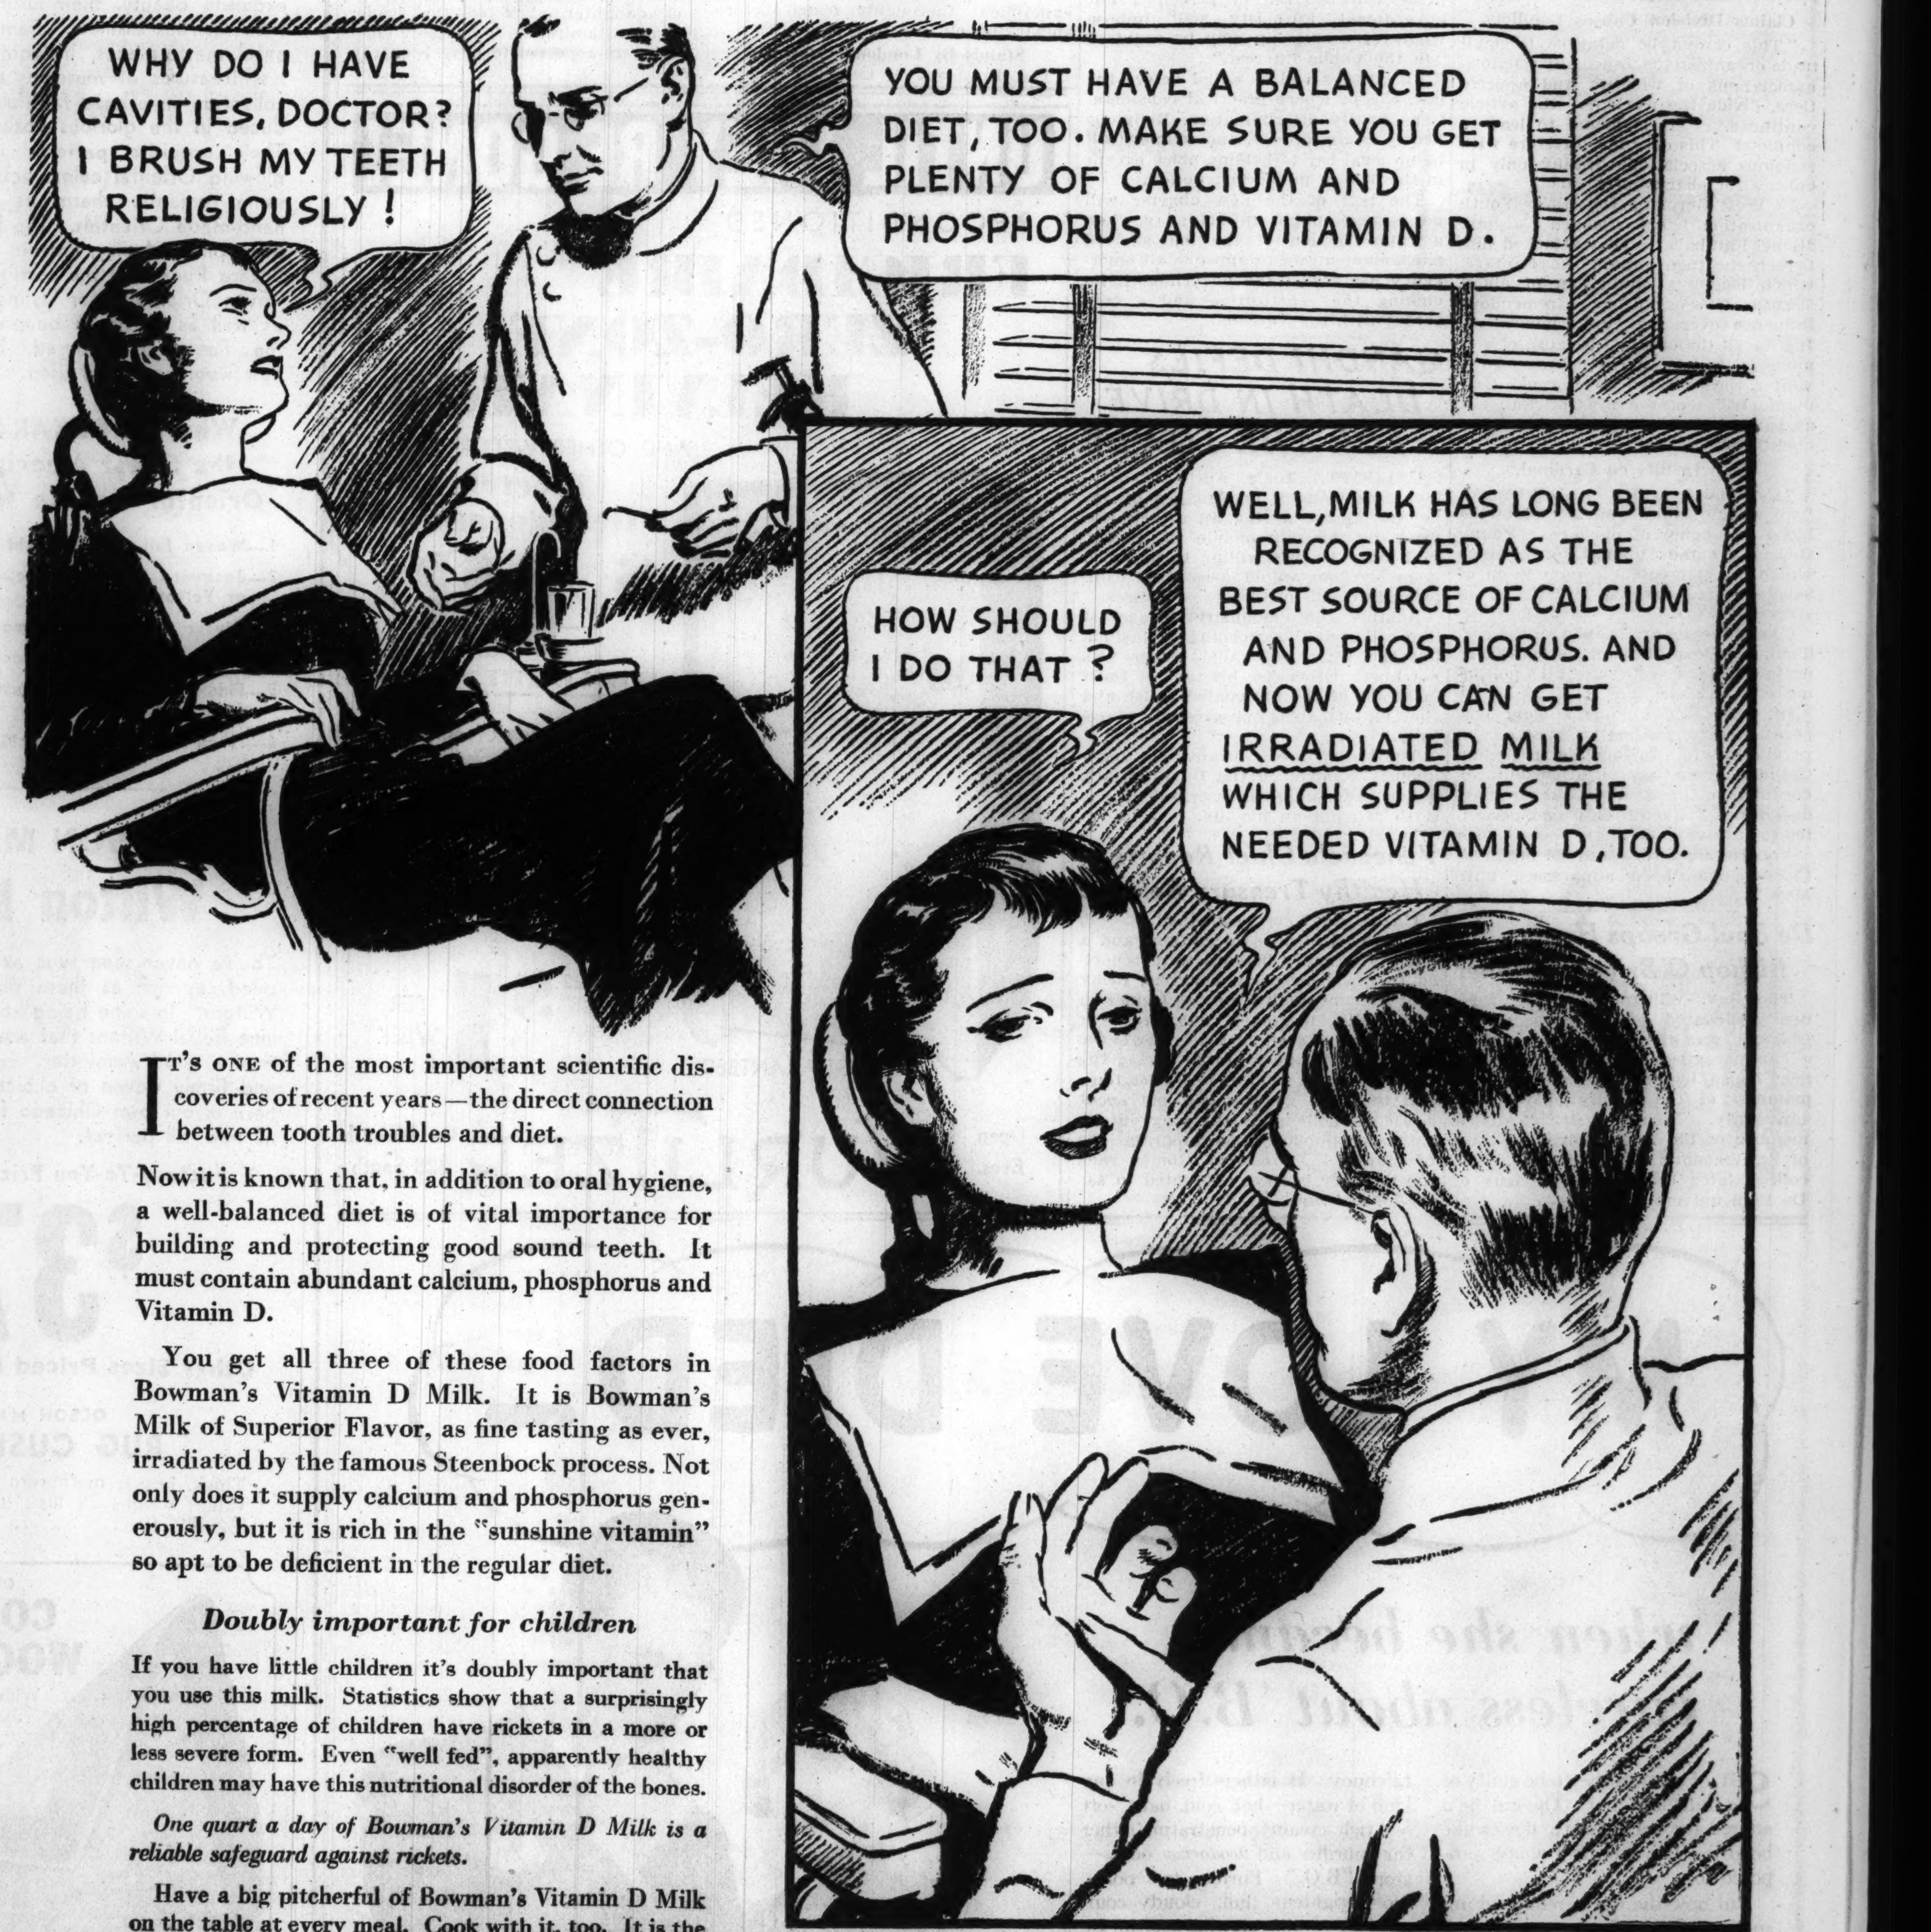
BOWMAN'S VITAMIN D MILK

prevents rickets, helps build sound teeth



WHY DO I HAVE CAVITIES, DOCTOR? I BRUSH MY TEETH RELIGIOUSLY!
YOU MUST HAVE A BALANCED DIET, TOO. MAKE SURE YOU GET PLENTY OF CALCIUM AND PHOSPHORUS AND VITAMIN D.
HOW SHOULD I DO THAT?
WELL, MILK HAS LONG BEEN RECOGNIZED AS THE BEST SOURCE OF CALCIUM AND PHOSPHORUS. AND NOW YOU CAN GET IRRADIATED MILK WHICH SUPPLIES THE NEEDED VITAMIN D, TOO.

Now it is known that, in addition to oral hygiene, a well-balanced diet is of vital importance for building and protecting good sound teeth. It must contain abundant calcium, phosphorus and Vitamin D.

You get all three of these food factors in Bowman's Vitamin D Milk. It is Bowman's Milk of Superior Flavor, as fine tasting as ever, irradiated by the famous Steenbock process. Not only does it supply calcium and phosphorus generously, but it is rich in the "sunshine vitamin" so apt to be deficient in the regular diet.

Doubly important for children

If you have little children it's doubly important that you use this milk. Statistics show that a surprisingly high percentage of children have rickets in a more or less severe form. Even "well fed", apparently healthy children may have this nutritional disorder of the bones.

Have a big pitcherful of Bowman's Vitamin D Milk on the table at every meal. Cook with it, too. It is the easiest and most economical way of providing an effective amount of Vitamin D in the diet, for this milk costs only one cent a quart more than regular Bowman's Milk.

Tell the Bowman route salesman you want Irradiated Vitamin D Milk from now on. Or call Superior 6800 or your local Bowman Dairy office.

ACCEPTED AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN. Committee on Foods

HEALY DEMANDS PRISON FOR 17 IN RACKET TRIAL

Prosecution, Is Defense Reply in Final Arguments.

Two attorneys representing defendants in the long drawn out racket conspiracy case declared last night, in closing arguments to the jury in the court of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan, their clients were being "persecuted for doing just what the government's codes of industry now require business men to do."

Following these arguments the case was adjourned until tomorrow at 10 a. m. Previously Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy had demanded all the 17 defendants be found guilty and given the maximum penalty of one to five years in prison.

Charges Perjured Testimony.

The defense attorneys who spoke are Joseph Harrington and Frank R. Reid. Mr. Harrington disclosed many of the state's witnesses had perjured themselves and the Employers' association was aiding the prosecution in the hope of wrecking union labor. Mr. Reid declared the defendants were ahead of their times in striving to pull themselves out of the depression by honorable means.

Mr. Healy declared conspiracy was a mild charge to bring against the defendants, but was the only one that would bring out the full scope of their activities. He added:

Proves Case, He Says.

"We have proved a case and a good one—a case that stands out like a mountain against their feeble defense. They deserve the maximum punishment—one to five years in the penitentiary—for what they have taken out of the community."

Attorney Sapiro's activities in connection with the laundry industry here was the subject of Mr. Healy's denunciations. He read to the jury the tapped telephone conversation between Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, another of the defendants, and various persons which the state contends definitly proves the conspiracy charge.

Kaplan, he asserted, was the leader of all four of the Chicago service industries, allegedly involved in the conspiracy, namely, the laundry, dry cleaning, linen supply and carbonated beverage trades.

"Sapiro had always been in rackets," Mr. Healy told the jury. "He racketeered in New York as councilor for the Master Cleaners' association."

Contract Used as Club.

"This contract was used to force reluctant laundry owners into the Chicago Laundry Owners' association," he asserted, "by holding out, as an incentive, a lower wage scale for their drivers if they were members of the association than if they were not members."

The prosecutor constantly used the terms "brain trust" and "new deal" in referring to those he charged with conspiring to dominate the laundry trade.

Judge Finnegan's courtroom was crowded as the session began. There had been no morning session because of the funeral for County Treasurer McDonough.

She didn't take him seriously, she said, because he had made a similar threat some time ago when he had received poor marks.

IRISH LABORITES DECLARE 'WAR' ON BLUE SHIRTS

Charge O'Duffy Movement Is Akin to Fascism.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, April 28.—Irish labor organizations, alarmed at the progress of Gen. Owen O'Duffy's Blue Shirt movement and its Fascist tendencies, today issued a call to action. They will hold a series of demonstrations throughout the Irish Free State beginning Sunday, May 6. A manifesto said they fear that Fascism, if adopted here, will, as in European countries, destroy trade unionism and overthrow democratic government.

The manifesto said the Blue Shirt movement has all the marks of the continental prototype, namely: inflammatory oratory, spectacular parades, the glamor of a uniform, appeals to youthful enthusiasm, political gasconading, the promise of material reward, and, behind all, a private political army through which control of the state is to be seized.

List Evils of Fascism.

The manifesto further contended that:

Today, in continental countries, trade unions and other popular organizations have been destroyed and their funds confiscated, and their leaders are in jail or dead. The corporate state, as advocated by O'Duffy, would be the grave of civil liberty. The corporate state would put unemployed men in so-called reconstruction camps, another name for forced labor gangs. The issue, therefore, is a life and death matter for democracy and trade unionism.

The group which issued this manifesto includes the labor deputies in the dail eireann who are helping President Eamon de Valera to pass his bill to abolish the senate. This, the opposition charges, will place him in the position of an actual dictator, since, with the aid of labor, he can force any measure he wishes through the legislature, once the senate is abolished.

Observers believe labor's new move has the approval of, and probably is inspired by, the De Valera government. The inference obviously is that both the government and the opposition Blue Shirt party are engaged in a tense struggle for complete dictatorial control.

De Valera Has Upper Hand.

In his fight De Valera holds a commanding position, since he is in control of the state and definitly refuses to give the electors an opportunity of declaring their views. In the ordinary course, a general election is not due for four years, and when the senate dies in 18 months nothing remains to prevent him from passing a bill prolonging the life of the existing dail eireann for an indeterminate period.

De Valera's attitude is further revealed by his refusal to see a deputation representing the Chambers of Commerce of Dublin and seven principal cities, which have asked permission to urge the setting up of some form of second chamber in place of the senate now being removed.

Two Wounded by Shotgun Blasts in Farmers' Row

George Gasparac, 21 years old, and his brother, Victor, 24, farmers living on the drainage canal bank east of Harlem avenue, in Stickney township, were wounded, the latter seriously, with buckshot last night in a brief gun battle with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shafarsky, neighbor farmers. Earlier in the day Louis Gasparac, 13 year old brother of George and Victor, had led several cows over the Shafarsky property and was ordered off. He told his brothers, and they visited the Shafarsky place, opened fire with shotguns and were fired on in return by Mrs. Shafarsky and her husband, who is a cripple.

Woman Aids Gunman in Produce Store Holdup

A gunman, aided by a woman, stole $164 last night in a robbery on the Avenue Produce company store at 3134 North Cicero avenue. While the gunman held Frank Cholakis, 4934 North Whipple avenue, owner, and two clerks in a rear room the woman emptied the till. Cholakis and the clerks did not see the woman accomplice, but outside witnesses did.

Same Vandal Twice Hurls Bricks Through Window

An unidentified vandal on two separate occasions last night hurled bricks through the windows of a Meadowmoor dairy cut rate store at 1438 East 67th street. The window smashings were three hours apart. Witnesses described the man as being 30 years old, ordinarily dressed. Peter Mangas, owner of the store, attributed the attacks to competitors.

MRS. WALTER KIRK ASKS DIVORCE FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Maude Hambleton Kirk yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan against Walter Radcliffe Kirk, wealthy soap manufacturer. The bill alleged Kirk deserted his wife in 1932.

Mrs. Kirk did not ask alimony and it was reported that a large property settlement would be made out of court. The hearing will be before Judge Ralph J. Dady tomorrow and the suit will not be contested.

The Kirks were married at Santa Barbara, Cal., in 1903. They have two daughters and two sons. One daughter, Beatrice Kirk, was married two weeks ago to Capt. C. Ross Cuthbert. The other daughter is Mrs. Lawrence Williams, the former Barbara Kirk, and the sons are Radcliffe Kirk and Walter Hambleton Kirk.

The Kirk family home is the Villa Vallombrosa at 1000 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, but neither Mr. nor Mrs. Kirk are residing there at present.

Reports had been current in Chicago society for some time that the Kirks had separated. This report was supported by the fact that Mrs. Kirk has been living at the Drake hotel for several months and her husband is residing at the Ambassador East hotel. They appeared together at the wedding of their daughter, Beatrice, two weeks ago in the Lake Forest home.

3 SLAIN, 20 HURT; CHILEAN STRIKERS RIOT OVER NAZIS

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 28.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and about twenty were injured today in a riot which developed at a meeting of striking municipal workers.

While reports of what precipitated the trouble varied, witnesses agreed that the strikers, whose walkout has attracted little attention, found "Nazistas"—Chilean Nazis—among them and undertook to expel them.

Carabineros appeared as the fight continued and fired several shots. Two carabineros were among those wounded. All the persons killed were civilians.

Rules 40 Beasts

Clyde Beatty, famous wild animal trainer, will join the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus at the Coliseum Tuesday afternoon, and present a wild animal act.

Armed with a whip and a folding chair as his only protection, he will enter a cage containing forty African, Bengal and Siberian tigers, both male and female, and put them through difficult stunts. This will be one of the largest assemblages of such beasts in a circus arena.

Beatty has had four narrow escapes from death in his training of wild animals. The last time occurred twelve weeks ago at the shows' winter quarters in Peru, Ind. At that time he was torn and seriously hurt when attacked by a maddened beast. The injuries kept him in a hospital for nearly three months.

OFFICERS HUNT CLEWS TO FATAL ROADHOUSE FIRE

Kenosha, Wis., April 28.—[Special.] Working on the theory that fire which destroyed the $12,000 Lagoon roadhouse on highway 41, was of incendiary origin, the investigation being conducted by Deputy Fire Marshal William A. Greenwald was well under way tonight. Coöperating with Mr. Greenwald were Coroner James A. Crossin and Sherif Clarence F. Ericksen.

The fire claimed the lives of two men, members of the Lagoon orchestra. The victims were Ralph King, 27, and his brother Louis, 19. Ralph and his brother entered the building to get their instruments and never were seen again.

When Coroner Crossin arrived he found nothing but the charred bones to show where the two men lay. Funeral services are waiting the arrival of relatives on Sunday.

George F. Wetzel, Waukegan, owner of the establishment, carried no insurance on the property. Lee Arnold operated the roadhouse for "The Jolly Eight," a club organized to take over the business a month ago.

MENDIETA PICKS 'BRAIN TRUST' TO HELP RULE CUBA

Technical Council of 15 Chosen by President.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, April 28.—Cuba's "revolutionary constitution" was modified today by the government. It abolished the clause creating a council of state of 60 persons, originally intended to act as an advisory board to President Mendieta and the cabinet.

Instead, a technical council of 15 financial, business, and political leaders was created. It will be presided over by Carlos de la Horre, former dean of Havana university. Among the council's members are Pablo Desvernine, former secretary of state; former President Aurelio Hevia, and Dr. Fernando Ortiz, an economic expert.

The new body will help the government to solve the iland's political and industrial difficulties.

Ends Political Haggling.

"The council is composed of men picked for their technical knowledge, rather than their political affiliations, and will lose no time in haggling over petty party policies," the president explained. "I felt that the time is short between now and the presidential elections, which will be held without fail before Dec. 21. It is necessary to prepare electoral laws and organize elections. This will be impossible with a large and unwieldy legislative body. A council of 15 can work fast."

The outlawed council was to have represented all political parties and revolutionary organizations which coöperated to end the régime of Gerardo Machado. In addition, 40 members were to have been chosen to represent every sphere of national activity.

Meanwhile, dispatches from two eastern provinces, Camaguey and Oriente, said a revolutionary movement had flared into open fighting between guerrilla bands and troops. Antonio Guiteras, a member of former President Grau San Martin's government, and Aurelio Alvarez, president of the senate under former President Menocal, are leading the movement.

Troops Capture Rebels.

Soldiers captured 300 rebels near Cascoto in Camaguey this morning. A former army officer was in command of the rebel group. Troops arrested suspected rebels in Moron, Ciego de Avila, Florida and Nuevitas.

Soldiers routed guerrilla bands in several towns. Before fleeing the rebels looted stores. Three revolutionaries were slain in a clash in Florida. Dispatches said 150 had been taken prisoners there by soldiers.

Similar disturbances were reported in Gibara, Mir and Cacocum in Oriente province.

Batista Sends Troops.

Batista declared the revolutionary movement was led by 15 members of the Havana university student directorate, besides Guiteras and Alvarez.

"Apparently the 3,000 soldiers recently discharged for communistic ideas are involved in the outbreaks, along with about 360 of the 500 army officers who lost their ranks after the National Hotel battle here last October," he said.

MARTIN L. STRAUS ASKS DIVORCE FOR DESERTION

MACHADO ASKS PLEDGE OF BAIL, IT IS REPORTED

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—There will be no bargaining with Gerardo Machado, former president of Cuba, or his representatives, on the matter of bail as a condition of his surrender to the federal authorities, it was learned from authoritative sources at the federal building today. Machado is being sought here by the police and federal agents on a provisional warant for extradition to Cuba, where he faces charges of murder.

Associates of the former Cuban president are said to have hinted that Machado was prepared to surrender if he could receive assurances that he would be admitted to bail and thus avoid going to jail.

If Machado surrenders he will have to take his chances on getting bail afterwards, it was explained. Bail has been granted in extradition cases at the federal building here only twice over a period of many years.

U. C. L. A. TEAM BREAKS DRAKE MILE RELAY RECORD

EAST WINS 1ST GAME OF POLO SERIES, 15½ TO 7

Scores 8 Goals in 2d Period Attack.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The East beat the West, 15½ to 7, in the first game of the intersectional polo series last night before 13,000 fans who filled every seat and every inch of standing room in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

After Bill Nicholls, Maxwell Corpening and Doc Wilkinson had fought their foes to a standstill in the first period, the Eastern riders launched one of the most tremendous and brilliantly sustained assaults ever seen in indoor polo.

Get Eight Goals in 2d Period.

With Billy Reynolds galloping in the vanguard, Winston Guest weaving in and out at a breakneck pace, and Art Borden slamming long shots from the rear of the attacking column, the Eastern team pounded home eight goals during the second period. That gave them the commanding advantage of 9½ to 3.

The fans thought it was all over after that, but the Western team fought back gamely. Although their teamwork lacked the perfection of that of their opponents, Nicholls, Corpening, and Wilkinson performed with an individual brilliance which brought a brief hope to their constituents. By the end of the third chukker the score had worked to 12½ to 7 and the Westerners were holding out a promise that a sustained rally might make the game a close one after all. But they were stopped completely in the final period, while the Eastern team drew away steadily.

Guest fulfilled the expectations of the crowd that had come to watch him in particular. He played hard and fast when occasion demanded, but knew when to take his time when haste might make an error. Occasionally he was almost leisurely as he dug the ball from under threshing hoofs and delivered it to the mallet of Reynolds or slammed it into the goal. He made eight points during the evening.

Guest Makes First Goal.

A foul on Guest for improper use of the mallet put the East half a point in the red just after the start. Then Guest flipped in a short shot to give the East a lead of half a point. Again Reynolds' mallet found the ball. He knifed in ahead of Corpening and scored from about ten feet out.

Nicholls took the ball beside his own goal and rapped it to the side wall. While all five players raced beside him he carried it the entire length of the field and scored, making the count 1½ to 1.

Immediately afterward, Wilkinson sent a long back shot toward the goal. Corpening got it after a duel with Guest and scored giving the West a lead of 2 to 1½.

At the toss-in which started the second chukker, Reynolds took the ball and carried it along. Momentarily he lost possession of it in front of the goal, but recovered it from his opponents and scored.

Nicholls Puts West Ahead.

Galloping along the sideboards well down the field, Nicholls delivered a terrific back shot which carried to the goal, making it 3 to 2½ for the West.

Then came a flurry of mallets and a stamping of hoofs before the West's goal. Out of the mêlée the ball rolled to Reynolds, waiting just in front of the posts. He pushed it across to take the East into a 3½ to 3 advantage. Borden's powerful back shot made it 4½ to 3.

Again the eastern riders swept down the field. Guest passed to Reynolds and the latter scored another. Then it was Guest's turn to tally out of a mêlée in front of the goal. Guest scored again on a pass from Borden, and it was 7½ to 3. He followed this with another and yet another to make it 9½ to 3.

As the third period began, Reynolds took a short pass from Guest and

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., April 28.—The 11 year old one mile university relay record, antedated only by one all-time mark in the Drake carnival, was broken today by a quartet of quarter-milers from the Los Angeles branch of the University of California.

In the crowd of 18,000, near capacity attendance and the largest throng in the 25 year history of the games, were the four men who, when running for the University of Iowa, had established the record.

This afternoon this team of oldsters—Morrow, Noll, Brookins, and Wilson—first predicted the record run and then remained to pass out the championship awards to the Pacific coast men who had achieved a greater success.

Luvalle Decides Event.

The Californians ran the one mile in 3 minutes 15.9 seconds, one second faster than the Iowa team of 1923. Their effort is even more unusual, for only four picked men have ever been able to do better. The usual run of athletes at any university or college cannot begin to match it.

Jimmy Luvalle, who holds the eastern intercollegiate 400 meter championship, anchored the U. C. L. A. team. He ran his quarter in 48.6 seconds despite a strong southern wind which handicapped all the trackmen. Preceding Luvalle were Jimmy Miller, Sinclair Lott and Ray Vejar, running in that order.

Texas and Ohio State pressed U. C. L. A. until Luvalle took to the track. At the end of the first lap Texas led with Ohio State a close third, and during the next two laps U. C. L. A. had only a few feet advantage. But when Luvalle set out, the result was imminent. All that remained was the announcement of the record breaking time.

Torrance's Mark Stands.

The university mile relay climaxed the final day of the Drake relay silver anniversary, just as Jack Torrance, new world's record holder in the 16 pound shot put, had held the spot in the preliminaries yesterday. Torrance today was unable to better his mark of 55 feet 1½ inches, but it was unnecessary. Irwin of Texas Aggies, his nearest rival, could only do 49 feet 4 inches. Torrance in nine throws during the two days' competition had eight of more than 52 feet. The other was 51 feet 11 inches.

Three university records were broken today and one was tied, which with Friday's grist brought the total to five university record breaking performances and two ties. In addition, North High of Des Moines and Kansas Vocational High of Topeka set records in the two mile and one mile races, respectively, in class A high school competition.

Louisiana State athletes made three of the five new Drake records. They were Torrance, Nathan Blair, the new javelin champion, and the two mile relay team from Baton Rouge. This team, anchored by Glenn Hardin, national collegiate quarter mile champion, ran the two miles in 7:42.8, six seconds faster than Notre Dame's two year old mark. Louisiana State was pressed by Purdue's team of McQueen, Moore, Popejoy, and Crossman, with Washington State third and Notre Dame fourth.

Purvis Quits Meet.

Blair set his record on his final attempt in the javelin, which he threw 209.21 feet. John Kuck, competing for Emporia [Kas.] State Teachers, set the former mark of 207 feet 7 inches eight years ago. Duane Purvis, the national collegiate champion, who left after yesterday's preliminaries to attend the funeral of his mother, landed in fourth position with 198.88 feet.

Texas' half mile relay team of Rockhold, Edwards, Cox, and Wallender, tied the Drake mark of 1:26.6, set by Michigan in 1930.

Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist, who tied the meet record in the high hurdles yesterday, was forced to be content with 14 6-10 seconds against the wind today but he won the championship from Willis Ward of Michigan, conference title holder. Ward had a poor week-end. He did not place in the high jump, which might be excused as it was his first competition out of doors.

Metcalfe Wins Dash.

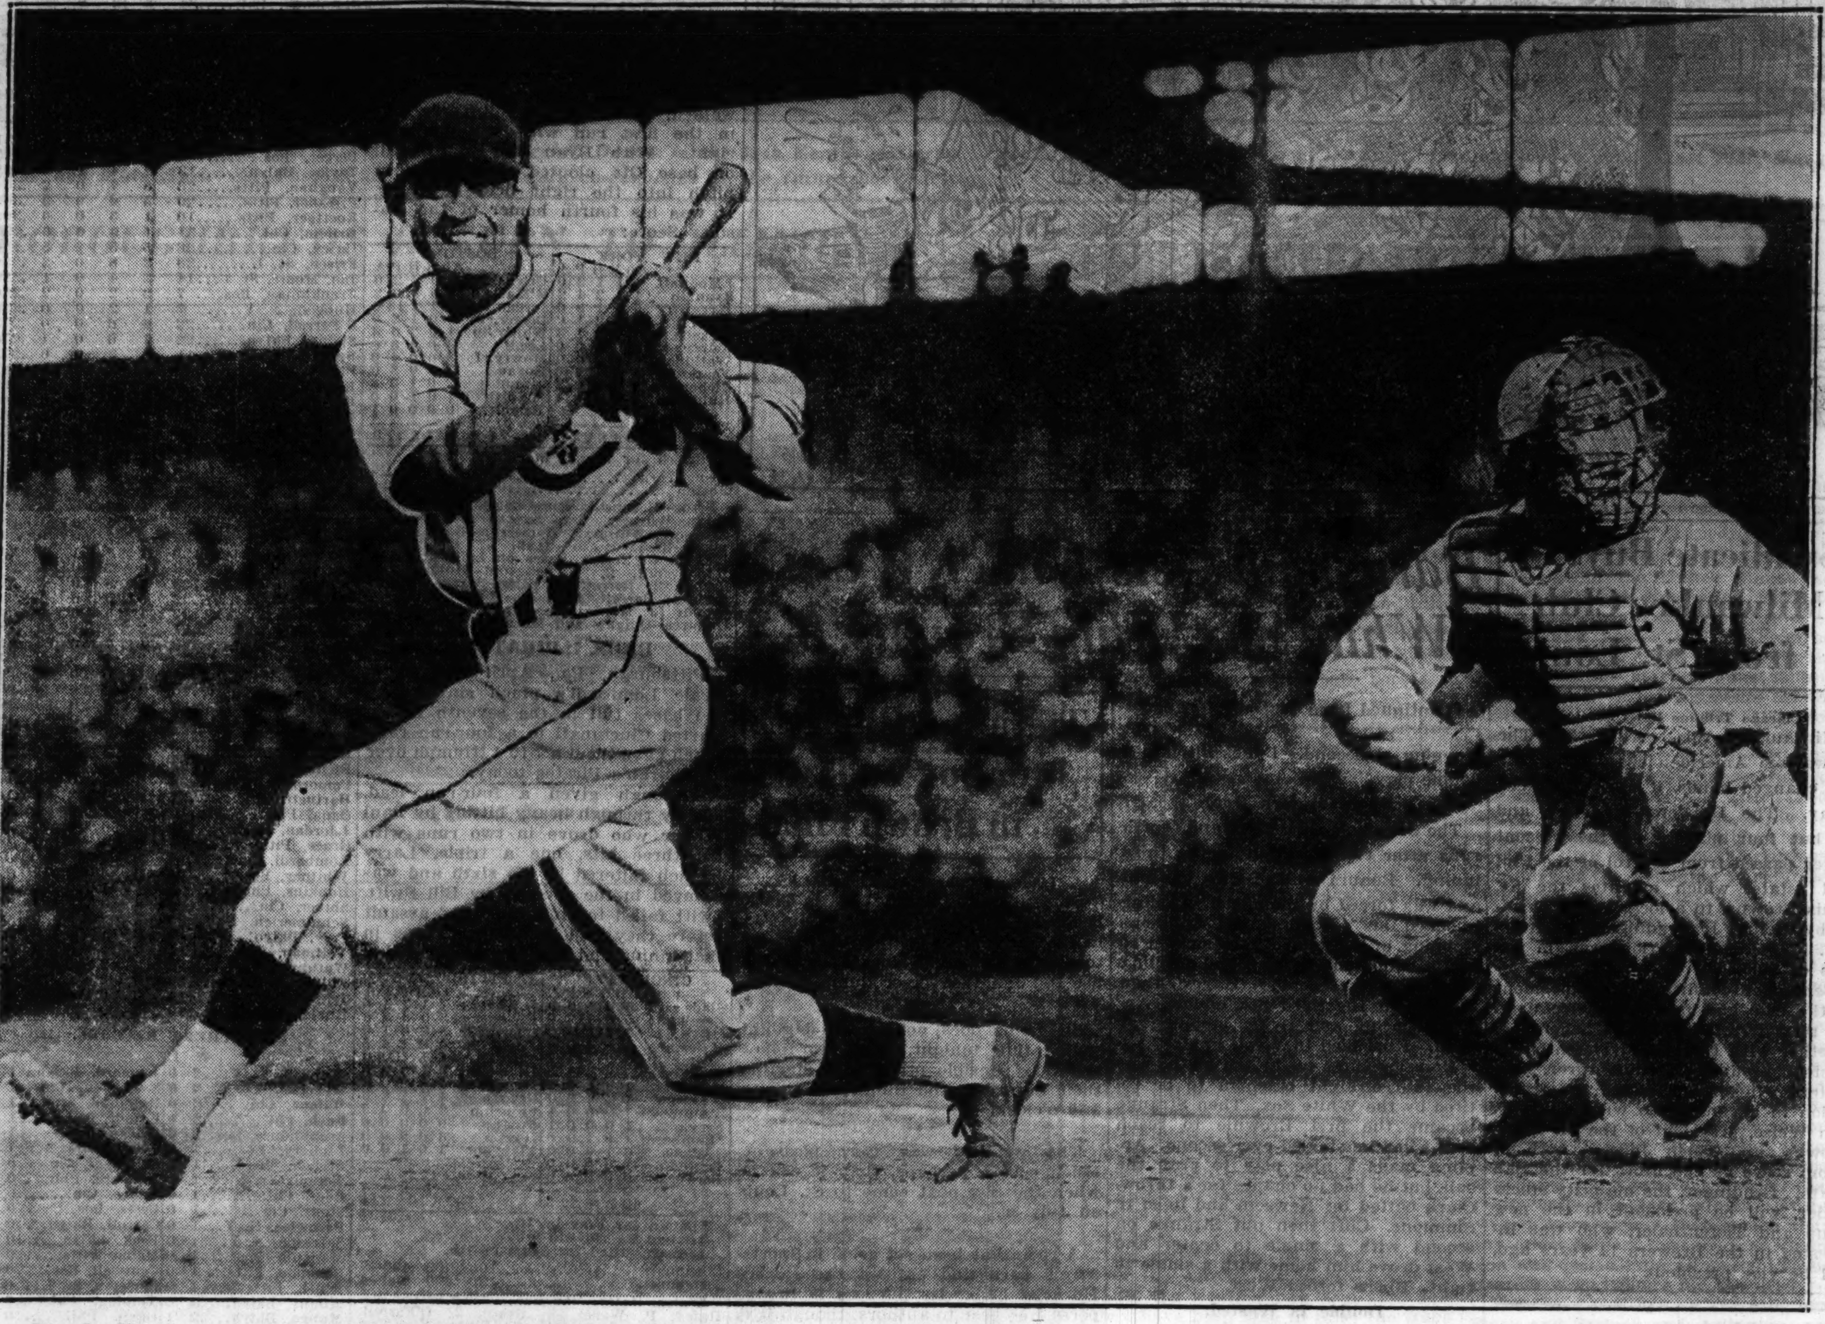
SLUGGER BUSH HITS A TREMENDOUS FOUL



The Cardinals may look at this picture to learn just how lucky they were that Guy Bush didn't connect. Mr. Bush does a lot of pitching for the Cubs. He tries almost as hard to hit a home run. It is his ambition to knock one out of the park. In this picture, taken in the eighth inning, the Mississippi "slugger" had just a tip foul. The catcher, Virgil Davis, is looking for the ball. Bush hit a single earlier and stole second.

POLES TO SELECT FIGHTERS TODAY FOR CHICAGO TRIP

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POZNAN, Poland, April 28.—Weeks of bitter rivalry and strenuous preparation will come to a climax in this city and Warsaw tomorrow night when two teams of Polish boxers meet the amateur champions of Germany and Austria in the final tests for places on the squad which will fight the Golden Gloves titleholders at Chicago May 23.

The headquarters of the Polish Boxing union, the offices of the American consulate, and THE TRIBUNE offices at Warsaw have been the scene of long and spirited debates the last week as officials arranged a tentative list of boxers to make the Chicago trip which starts next Thursday.

Competition Is Keen.

Boxing union authorities have made some selections, but in the majority of weights competition has been so close that only the results of tomorrow's fights can decide the places. Pending the outcome of these bouts, officials have refused to make public any preference.

The squads in tomorrow's fights have been evenly divided as to strength. One will meet the German champions, three of whom competed in the 1932 International Golden Gloves bouts in Chicago, at Posznan, and the other group is matched against the best amateur fighters in Austria, at Warsaw.

Big Boost for Boxing.

Invitation from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to compete in the fourth annual Golden Gloves meet has precipitated for boxing the greatest advance any sport has known in Poland. Clubs that were of little importance athletically suddenly became the headquarters of scores of eager and ambitious youths. All tournaments took on national importance over night. Rivalry among clubs was intensified and arguments arose in athletic circles over the supremacy of this boxer and that, confronting the union officials with an extremely delicate situation in making definite selections.

The matches tomorrow are expected to attract record sport crowds in this country. The Warsaw bouts will be watched by government officials and acting general consul, Marcel E. Malige.

Train at Warsaw.

Immediately after the selection of the team the eight men chosen will gather at Warsaw for four days training before boarding a train at 10:45 o'clock Thursday night for Cherbourg by way of Paris. The squad, including boxers, a representative of the boxing union, a coach and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE representative, will sail from Cherbourg on the Berengaria Saturday.

Don't Be Blocked Out.

Polish societies of Chicago are buying large blocks of seats for the international bouts between Chicagoland's Golden Gloves champions and the best amateur fighters of Poland at Chicago Stadium, May 23.

The supply of nearly 20,000 tickets cannot last long, for other boxing fans also are rushing their mail orders to the Golden Gloves, ticket manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. If you want to see the best fighting of the spring or summer, mail your reservations at once. Don't be blocked out!

Prices are $1.10, $1.65, $2.20 or $3.30. Send money orders or checks. All seats are reserved.

Stanford University, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—Walter Marty of Fresno State college today bettered his own high jump record with a leap of 6 feet 9⅛ inches. His former mark of 6 feet 8⅝ inches was set in Fresno last year.

Marty's jump was the highlight of a meet that saw Fresno State college go down to defeat, 76 13-15 to 53 2-15, before Stanford. Marty cleared the bar at the greatest height in the history of modern track and field competition after missing his first two attempts.

Gus Meier, co-holder of the official world's record in the high hurdles, suffered the fracture of a wrist in a spill on the third hurdle of the 220 yard event.

BAN TRAINER AT JAMAICA COURSE ON DOPE CHARGE

New York, April 28.—(AP)—First action of the year to stop the stimulating of race horses in New York state was taken today when the stewards at Jamaica ordered the license of Trainer P. Finamore suspended and the entries of Owner J. E. Mann refused following the reported finding of strychnine in the saliva of the horse Transgressor. The case was referred to the Jocky club for further action. Dr. J. G. Catlett, veterinarian, made the report after test of the saliva by Chemist C. E. Morgan. Transgressor ran Monday and finished out of the money.

EARNSHAW GETS UNDER WAY; SOX BEAT BROWNS, 5-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—George Earnshaw and the White Sox played perfect baseball against the St. Louis Browns for five and one-third innings today and, though George bogged down thereafter, his mates' early brilliance was such that the Chicagoans triumphed, 5 to 2. The victory lifted the Comiskey lads out of the American league cellar.

Until one was out in the sixth nary a Brownie got to first base. Melillo, however, got close when Jimmy Dykes plunked on the seat of his bloomers while capturing Oscar's bouncer with two out in the fifth. But Jimmy kept perfection alive by making a successful throw from a sitting position.

It Was Inevitable.

Following the White Sox custom and as a splendid tribute to the rockin' chair spring training policy, Earnshaw got in trouble shortly after the conventional five inning span of superior pitching, allowing three hits for a run in the sixth, a double in the seventh and a single in the eighth. Possessed of perfect control in the first eight innings, he became so tired in the ninth that he walked the first batsman and hit the second with what otherwise would have been the fourth ball. At this point the weary hero was replaced and Joe Heving came in to retire the side with the scoring of only one run.

Earnshaw's splendid work and the errorless support given him were not the only cheering items of the afternoon's performance. A home run by Al Simmons, his first extra base hit of the season, caused excitement that amounted to giddiness in the presidential box, occupied by Owner J. Louis Comiskey and party. Al scored two runs and also knocked a single, for a day's batting average of .500. His season batting average soared to .182.

The Boys Fatten Up.

Other knockers of two hits were Jack Hayes, who with a double and a single lifted his season batting mark to .344; Dykes, who boosted his abbreviated season showing to .412; Luke Appling, who is hitting .333, and Earnshaw, who is batting .400. Frenchy Bordagaray and French Uhalt got only one hit each, but they were doubles.

The Sox made ten hits before Buck Newsom was able to pitch a hitless inning, the fifth. Four of these produced two runs in the first inning, despite the blighting effect of a double play. Bordagaray led off with a double and scored on Uhalt's double. Bonura fouled to Burns, and Uhalt took third after the catch. Simmons then singled to left center, scoring Uhalt. Appling singled to right, Simmons

KLEIN KNOCKS 5TH HOME RUN; BUSH FANS 8

Dizzy Dean, Brother Routed Again.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs refuse to concede that Jerome [Dizzy] Dean of the St. Louis Cards is an expert in the art of pitching. They polished him off again yesterday, 7 to 1, in an easy struggle featured by the highly efficient mound work of Guy Bush and Charles [Tiger] Klein's fifth homer of the season. It was the second blast given Dizzy by the Cubs this year and the fourth in a row since last July when he buried them under 17 strikeouts.

Bush was the pitching victim when the 17 strikeouts were piled up so anything he did yesterday is easily understood. He did plenty. He fanned eight Cardinals, once getting three in succession by this method. He restricted them to seven hits, all well scattered. He added to his own pleasure by reeling off a single. But the Cards gave him something that wasn't so pleasing when a line drive cracked him on the right hip in the seventh. However, he recovered from the blow and didn't yield another hit.

Klein's Homer Near Record.

Dizzy Dean's tenure yesterday was confined to three innings, the same as when he faced the Cubs last Sunday. Five runs were registered before he could be removed for a pinch hitter. Then Paul Dean appeared and he too suffered as of last Sunday. Brother Paul was limited to a two inning stretch. He was serving in the fourth when Bush broke loose with his single and Klein with the homer which was almost a park record breaker for distance. After this inning the Cubs didn't make much use of their bats. They produced only one single in the last four chapters.

The yarn wouldn't be complete without mention of a few fielding achievements in which both factions shared. The headliner of several outstanding feats was Buster Mills, who tore back to the scoreboard in the sixth and crashed into the wall just as he made a back handed catch of a drive by English. Next in importance was a running one handed catch by Klein, who raced into left center for a drive by Manager Frisch. Cuyler also made a couple of catches bordering on the sensational. On the other hand Babe Herman, just to see if he remembered any of his Brooklyn baseball, lost a pair of flies in the sun, but it proved harmless fun.

Davis Scores Collins.

Bush was thumped for two doubles in the first two innings, but only one of them did any damage. The one that didn't hurt was by Frisch with two out in the first. Medwick ended this with a grounder to Jurges. Bush started the second by giving a pass to Collins. V. Davis hammered a two bagger into the left field corner and Collins scored. The three subsequent batters accomplished nothing.

Babe Herman started the Cubs on a profitable venture when he led off in the home second with a single and continued to second on Medwick's fumble. The Babe scored on Cuyler's single over second. Grimm fanned and Cuyler was doubled trying to steal on the third strike. Then Jurges singled to center and Hartnett was plunked in the back by a pitched ball. That gallant batsman, Mr. Bush, almost shook himself apart on three strikes and that was the end of the inning.

Big business for the Cubs began when English opened the third with two bagger to left. He came home on Billy Herman's drive which rolled around the right field corner for three bases. [illegible] Durocher and W. Herman scored. Babe Herman [illegible] which Cuyler [illegible] Klein [illegible] Grimm's [illegible] Durocher [illegible] Jurges [illegible] grounder [illegible]

SENATORS' RALLY IN 8TH DEFEATS ATHLETICS, 7 TO 6

Foxx Hits Home Run with Bases Full.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx hit a home run with the bases full in the sixth inning today, but Washington's Senators came back with a rally that beat the Athletics, 7 to 6, in the eighth. It was Foxx's third homer.

Washington went out to win the ball game in the first inning. With two on, Manush failed twice to lay down a sacrifice bunt and then hit a homer. Travis, Senators' third baseman, contributed a single and the score was 4 to 0 before the inning ended.

Burke replaced Thomas in the sixth after Foxx's homer. Pinch Hitter Madjeski hit a double that scored two runs and put Philadelphia temporarily in the lead.

Travis tripled to open the Senators' eighth inning attack. Harris batted for Burke and lifted a long fly that sent Travis across the plate with the tying run. Kuhel walked, Myer singled to center, and Kuhel scored on Finney's fumble. Score:

Tommy Bridges went the route for the Tigers, giving the Indians only five hits. Cleveland's tally in the third inning was practically a gift from Goose Goslin, who fumbled Averill's fly ball with two men out. Vosmik hit a double to bring him home. Score:

GOPHER BOARD TO RECONSIDER TENNER'S STATUS

Minneapolis, Minn., April 28.—(AP)—Members of the eligibility board, who yesterday announced Robert Tenner, University of Minnesota football star, was ineligible for further competition today announced they would reconsider their decision.

Tenner will take a spring term examination in the medical school which will make him eligible for graduation before next fall's gridiron season.

There still was uncertainty in the minds of some board members as to his exact status, however, since there have been changes in requirements since Tenner entered the medical school.

OHIO STATE POLO SQUAD DEFEATS MISSOURI, 8 TO 6

Columbia, Mo., April 28.—[Special.]—Ohio State's poloists scored four goals in the fourth chukker to beat Missouri, 8 to 6, here this afternoon. The Buckeyes avenged a 13 to 1 defeat here Thursday.

Missouri was without the services of two star players most of the battle. Brown, No. 1 regular, already had been lost with a fractured shoulder when a dislocated shoulder sent Jones No. 3 player, out in the third chukker. Thompson and Sirilio, Ohio State scored 3 goals each. Sirilio also accidentally scored a Tiger goal with a back shot.

Syndicate Buys Milwaukee Club from St. Louis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 28.—The Milwaukee American association club has changed hands, it was announced today. The Brewers' franchise and all but four players on the present roster passed from control of the Phil Ball estate, which operates the St. Louis Browns, to a local group, headed by Henry J. Bendinger, an attorney. The consideration was in excess of $100,000.

Bendinger confirmed announcement of the sale and purchase price upon his return from St. Louis, where he, together with Eugene F. Tiefenthaler, a steel products manufacturer, late yesterday afternoon closed the transaction in a conference with Louis B. Von Weise, president of the St. Louis Browns, and Ellen Jacoby, both of whom serve as executors for the Ball estate. Bendinger, the majority stockholder, will be president in the new setup and Tiefenthaler, who was interested in the Brewers 14 years ago, will be vice president.

MAJ. GRIFFITH ANSWERS REBUKE BY GOVERNOR

Des Moines, Ia., April 28.—(AP)—Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, today asserted that "there is no public office to which I aspire and I have never held public office."

His statement was in reply to one by Gov. Herring, who did not attend a Drake relays coaches' dinner last night because of Griffith's recent criticisms of the Roosevelt administration.

"If I understand Gov. Herring's thought as expressed in the newspapers," Griffith said, "it is this:

"Because I worked three years at Morningside college, ten years at Drake university, two years in the army and since that time for ten midwest universities; therefore, I should not be permitted to hold or express opinions concerning questions of public policy.

"Apparently it is Gov. Herring's view that if a man spends the best part of his life working for an eleemosynary institution, he thereby forfeits his rights of citizenship."

Wright, Sculls Champion, Gets Blood Transfusion

TORONTO, April 28.—(AP)—Joe Wright Jr., former holder of the diamond sculls, who has been seriously ill from an internal hemorrhage, today suffered a relapse. He received a second blood transfusion. His condition became so critical early today that his wife, Martha Norelius, former famous United States swimmer, was called to his bedside. The trouble started a week ago when Wright pulled an ingrown hair from his wrist. Blood poisoning developed.

stopping at second. Dykes hit into a double play.

Hayes Bumps One.

The Sox made their third and fourth runs after two were out in the third inning. Bonura walked with one out and was forced by Simmons. Appling knocked his second single, Simmons stopping at second. Dykes singled to center, Simmons scoring and Appling stopping at second. Hayes then rapped out the third Sox double, Appling scoring and Dykes stopping at third. Ruel flied to West.

Hemsley, first up in the sixth, was the 15th straight batsman to be retired by the White Sox. Then Strange became the first Brownie to reach first when he singled over second. Appling made a nice play to grab the ball, but he had no chance for a throw. Clark batted for Newsom and lined to Simmons. Clift then put Strange on second with a single to center and West drove him home with a single to right. Burns forced West.

Double Is Wasted.

After Puccinelli had struck out for the second time to start the seventh, Campbell doubled off the right field screen and reached third while Hayes was throwing out Melillo. Hemsley fouled to Bonura.

Knott, who took over the pitching job at the outset of the seventh inning, got by nicely until he faced Simmons at the start of the eighth. Al knocked the ball over the roof of the right field stand. Appling, Dykes, and Hayes then were retired in order.

Garms, batting for Knott, got the fifth hit off Earnshaw with one out in the eighth, but no Brownie got farther than first during the inning.

Burns drew the first pass off Earnshaw after a three and two count to start the St. Louis ninth. Earnshaw pitched three balls and two strikes to Puccinelli, then hit him in the ribs. This brought about Heving to the rescue. Bonura grabbed Campbell's grounder over first with his gloved hand and stepped on the bag for the putout. Hayes made a nice play to throw out Melillo, Burns scoring. The game ended when Appling threw out Pinch Batter Pepper.

Tietje to Pitch for Sox Today in Brown Final

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—Les Tietje is scheduled to work for the White Sox in the series final against the Browns tomorrow. Manager Hornsby said he'd use Big Jim Weaver or Bump Hadley.

St. Louis does not go on daylight saving time tonight. But they follow the very sensible practice of starting their Saturday and Sunday games at 2:30 o'clock.

The weather was very pleasant. Much cooler, perhaps, than it will be when the Sox next come to St. Louis on July 30.

A room has been set aside in Sportsman's park and entitled the Rogers Hornsby club. Its purpose is to disperse free beer to authors, though it is named after a man who never took a swig of beer in his life.

J. Louis Comiskey's health has improved to the point that Mrs. Comiskey, who is with him, predicts he'll soon resume golf and dancing. He used to be very good at both, take her word for the dancing and THE TRIBUNE correspondent's for the golf.

GIANTS' ATTACK IN FIFTH BEATS BRAVES, 4 TO 1

Ott's Homer with Two on Base Climaxes Rally.

Boston, Mass., April 28.—(AP)—Melvin Ott, right fielder of the New York Giants, provided the hit that gave the world champions a 4 to 1 victory today in their first Boston appearance of the season and also gave Carl Hubbell his third triumph on the mound.

Ott hit a home run with two on base in the fifth inning to provide the climax of a four run rally that broke up a southpaw pitching duel between Hubbell and Ed [Dutch] Brandt.

A crowd of about 10,000 braved near freezing weather to see the game.

The Giant rally started with one out in the fifth. Joe Moore hoisted a double over first. Blondy Ryan walked, then Manager Bill Terry sent in the first run with a single into right. With Ryan and Terry still on base Ott clouted Brandt's first pitch into the right field bleachers. It was his fourth homer of the season. Score:

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 28.—(AP)—Ernie Lombardi's pinch single with the bases full in the seventh inning started Cincinnati to a four-run rally which gave them a 7 to 4 triumph over Pittsburgh's Pirates today.

Although given a four-run lead, largely through heavy hitting by Paul Waner who drove in two runs with his three hits, one a triple, Larry French faltered in the sixth and was relieved in the seventh by Bill Swift. Swift failed to stop the Reds' assault before they had scored four runs in that inning and won the game. Score:

MARANVILLE TO TAKE OLD PLACE BY JULY, HE SAYS

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 28.—[U. P.]—Rabbit Maranville, veteran second baseman of the Boston Braves who suffered a broken leg in an exhibition game here March 28, left today confident that he would be playing baseball again by July.

Maranville boarded a train for Washington where he will watch the Washington-Philadelphia game tomorrow from a box. He will go on from there to his home at Rochester, N. Y.

The injured leg still was in a cast when Maranville left. Both broken bones are perfectly set and well knit X-rays showed this week.

"The cast will come off the week of May 7," Maranville predicted today, "and I will be in uniform by June 15 and playing again by July 4."

Mills Open Play with 2 Games Today

The Chicago Mills, sans several veterans who now are with minor league teams, but bolstered by promising recruits, open the season this afternoon at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, in a double header with the House of David team of Benton Harbor, Mich. Malcolm Moss, former Chicago Cub pitcher, will pitch for the Mills in the first game, which will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Al Nesser, a new pitcher, may share the first game pitching duties with Moss, according to Manager Bill Harley. Russ Bowers, 19 year old star from Lakewood, Wis., and Dave Lawless, Jacksonville, Ill., will work the second game. Nesser, Bowers, and Lawless earned their chances to pitch by performing brilliantly in recent workouts.

Among the veterans who will be playing another season with the Mills are Al Stokes and Babe Goldwaite, catchers; Wally Shaner, Johnny Conlan, and Bert Atkinson, outfielders, and Press Cruthers, second baseman.

Work on the park grandstands has been completed. Women will be admitted free.

The Logan Squares will play their second game of the season, meeting the Spencer Coals at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenues. Marvin Carlson will pitch for the Spencers, while Jim Vaughan has been named to pitch for the Squares.

Opening games will be played today in the Midwest Baseball league. Five contests will be staged in both the class A [semi-pro] and class B [amateur] divisions.

President Ed Boissy announced that nearly 60 teams have enrolled for the season's play. The league will move into its new headquarters at 30 North Wells street tomorrow night.

Toronto Leafs Plan to Play Night Games

TORONTO, Ont., April 28.—(AP)—Floodlights will be installed in the Maple Leafs' stadium, home of the Toronto club of the International league, it was announced today. The Leafs probably will play their first night game at Toronto during their second home stay late in June.

Worcester, Mass., April 28.—(AP)—A smoothly swinging Yale crew, displaying fine sprinting speed, defeated the Massachusetts Institute of Technology by 2½ lengths over the Henley distance on Lake Quinsigamond today. The Yale varsity time for the mile and five sixteenths was 6 minutes 46 1-5 seconds.

Yale's 150 pound crew came from behind to finish a length and a half ahead of Tech, which beat Cornell by six feet after having led for nearly three-quarters of the distance.

The victors were unofficially timed at 7 minutes 2 seconds for the mile and five-sixteenths.

American Auto Driver Wins International Trophy Race

BROOKLANDS, England, April 28.—(AP)—Whitney Straight, young American automobile racer and former Cambridge undergraduate, drove to a thrilling victory in the 260 mile international trophy race today. With an average of 89.62 miles an hour Straight finished ahead of Brian Lewis, last year's winner, who averaged 89.59 miles per hour.

CUBS POUND DEAN BROTHERS, BEAT CARDINALS, 7-1

Klein Hits 5th Home Run; Bush Fans Eight.

for a triple. V. Davis walked. This completed the setting for Bush's strikeout exhibition. The first of the three successive victims to fall in this manner was Mills. Moore was sent up to swing for Durocher and after three swings departed. Then Riggs batted for Dizzy Dean and three more strikes dashed his hopes.

As a fitting celebration over his strikeout achievement, Bush opened the home fourth with a single off Paul Dean. English flied to left. Billy Herman fanned and Bush added to his glory by stealing second on the third strike. Then Klein boosted his homer into the wind, the ball dropping into the far end of the right field bleacher, just a few feet short of the scoreboard, 436 feet distant from the plate. Only Messrs. Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson and Rogers Hornsby have hit 'em farther at Wrigley field.

Card Hits Are Harmless.

Bush was forced to surrender a couple of hits in the sixth but they caused no complications. The first happening of the inning was a called third strike on Collins. V. Davis singled to left. Cuyler took a fly off Mills' bat. Whitehead singled to center. A pinch hitter, Orsatti, was ordered up to swing for Paul Dean. An infield tap disposed of him. The only hit by the Cards after this was Rothrock's drive which bounced off Bush's hip in the seventh. This happened with one out and the next two men caused no excitement.

Pat Malone will try to use the Cardinals as a means of capturing his third straight victory for the Cubs this afternoon. The St. Louis starter will be Lefty Walker, former Giant. The Cards thus far have played four games with the Cubs and all have gone into the right side of the Cub ledger.

Guy Bush now has won his three successive starts and has yet to require the services of a relief pitcher. Warneke also has pitched three complete winning games. Malone has figured in two full games, and Root in one. Root had to have help in the only defeat inflicted on the Cubs in their ten games.

If Roy [Lefty] Joiner isn't needed for rescue work in the final against the Cardinals this afternoon, he'll probably be given his first major league start tomorrow when the Cubs open a three day stay at Pittsburgh.

Chuck Klein's single and homer yesterday drove in three runs, giving him a total of 13 for the season.

The Cardinals used four pinch hitters and Bush enjoyed meeting them. Three of the four succumbed on strikes. The other bounced into a force out.

Tuck Stainback, who had been holding Cuyler's center field job, will not accompany the Cubs to Pittsburgh because of trouble with his left ankle, which was sprained severely during spring training. He played too soon after the injury and his present condition is the result.

HIGGINS AND OTT JOIN BIG SIX IN DAY OF SLUGGING

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Two new members joined the Big Six yesterday. Pie Traynor made another pinch hit to shoot his average up 22 points to .579 to hold the lead. Carl Reynolds, American league pace setter, gained four points with two hits in four times up. Hack Wilson improved his mark for third place in the sextet by ten points, hitting two out of four. Bill Dickey and Joe Moore dropped out of the Big Six, their places going to Pinky Higgins and Mel Ott, respectively. The standing:

FAVORITES OR LONG SHOTS? TAKE YOUR PICK IN BLUEGRASS STAKE

KENTUCKY FANS CHEER 2 FILLIES IN DERBY DRILLS

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—The folks in old Kentucky watched their beloved thoroughbreds run for the first time this year at Churchill Downs this afternoon, when the spring racing season opened.

All the old traditions of the south were in evidence. Up and down the lawns promenaded Kentucky's widely heralded beautiful women in their fashionable frocks. At the bar patriarchal colonels sipped mint juleps made of legal Kentucky bourbon. And as they siped they talked of horses.

It was the sixtieth Kentucky Derby, now only a week away, and the ever intriguing speculation as to "who will win it," which sent the colonels from one argument into another and from one julep into another julep. As the afternoon wore on the arguments became more heated and usually terminated in a wager.

Star Fillies Work Out.

These Derby wagers became a bit more spirited after the two leading fillies in the race had displayed their speed and running ability in public trials which took place between races this afternoon.

The colonels forgot all about their juleps and strutted and hobbled out to the rail to see the works, for the fillies on parade were Mata Hari, one of the heavily backed Derby favorites, and Bazar which will be Col. Edward R. Bradley's color bearer.

Bazar's trial was considered by many to be more impressive, for she went the Derby route of a mile and a quarter in 2:08 1-5 and she did it so easily with full Derby weight up that the customary poker countenance on Col. Bradley faded away and became all smiles.

Colonel's for Her.

He watched the training move from Col. Matt Winn's private box directly in line with the finish mark. His farm manager, Barry Shannon, was with him and so was Col. Winn.

"I believe she can win it," Bradley remarked to Col. Winn and Shannon after the trial. Of course he had the Derby in mind when he made the remark. A few weeks ago he picked Cavalcade to win the Derby. He was informed of Cavalcade's brilliant victory in the Chesapeake stakes at Havre de Grace today.

"That's fine," Bradley remarked, "but I believe Bazar can beat him."

A year ago Bradley's early Derby selection was the favorite Ladysman. A few days before the race he told his friends Brokers Tip would likely win. And Brokers Tip did win.

To many Mata Hari's trial was spectacular, for she galloped a mile in 1:39 2-5 and finished out the mile and an eighth in 1:52 2-5, which is but two-fifths of a second slower than the track record.

Yet a few of the colonels were not impressed despite the speed she displayed. One of them thought her hair was standing on end and remarked that was a sure sign she had enough of training and might not be as good a week from today as she was this afternoon.

The Mata Hari backers scoffed at him and were jubilant. They had a right to be, for if she goes about her work in the same stride in the Derby it will take a fast horse to keep within hailing distance of her.

Not So Good, Folks.

The western Derby candidates who were out on the track to do some racing in the Clark handicap and the south Louisville purse this afternoon made a sorry showing. They were such a makeshift crowd, however, that few people expected them to do anything else.

Howard, from the barn of J. W. Parrish, the banker of Midway, Ky., was the only Derby eligible to start in the Clark. Esseff, a 4 year old mare from Dixiana stable from which Mata Hari also hails, was an easy winner with Col. Edward R. Bradley's entry of Barn Swallow and Tick On running second and third. Howard finished next to last in the six-horse field.

Esseff tied the track record when she ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44.

The fact that Esseff and Barn Swallow—both fillies—ran one-two in the Clark handicap was believed by many to be an omen that a filly will win this year's Derby.

15,000 See Races.

There were 15,000 in the crowd on which a warm southern springtime sunshine was beating down. It was twice the size of the opening day crowd here a year ago. In the counting room at Churchill Downs official announcement came that the sale of reserved seat tickets for next Saturday's Derby is slightly more than double the complete sale of last year.

There was also a substantial increase in the betting today over the wagering on opening day a year ago. The exact increase was not announced by the track officials.

WHEN THOROUGHBREDS RETURN TO ILLINOIS

Aurora's new odds board, which measures 130 feet long and is 18 feet high, will be in operation Tuesday when Illinois racing season opens. The board is largest in Chicago district.

Cavalcade Is Havre Victor in Record Time

Havre de Grace, Md., April 28.—(AP)—Cavalcade, Mrs. Dodge Sloane's leading candidate for the Kentucky Derby, today justified his short odds in the future books by winning the $7,500 Chesapeake Stakes in track-breaking time at Havre de Grace. Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian was second and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery third in the field of nine, eight of which are eligible for the Derby.

Guided by the veteran Mack Garner, Cavalcade ran the one and one-sixteenth miles in 1:43 3-5, two-fifths of a second faster than the time hung up by Mr. Khayyam in winning the same event last year. He carried 119 pounds, seven pounds less than he will be asked to pick up in the Derby next Saturday.

Discovery Away First.

Discovery was away in front, but gave way to the fast moving Cavalcade at the half mile post. Cavalcade went on to wing going away by one and one-quarter lengths. Agrarian, second to Cavalcade in the latter's race on Wednesday, just got up to beat Discovery by a nose for the place.

Coupled with Time Clock, winner of the Florida Derby, in the betting, Cavalcade went to the post the heavily played favorite. The entry returned $4.20 for $2. The victory was worth $6,750 to the Brookmeade stable.

Derby Eligibles Trial.

Back of the three leaders in order trailed Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's Time Supply, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the $100,000 Belmont Futurity last fall; Time Clock, C. V. Whitney's Jabot, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Soon Over, and Mrs. C. S. Bromley's Chance Flight. All except Chance Flight are eligible for the Derby.

HIGH QUEST WINS

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Dodge Sloane's High Quest, an eligible for the Preakness and Belmont stakes but not the Kentucky Derby, captured the Wood Memorial at Jamaica today before an enthusiastic crowd of 12,000 fans who made the Sir Gallahad III. colt the favorite in a field of ten. He won by a length.

J. H. Louchheim's Speedmore and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Spy Hill, both Derby eligibles, finished as named, three-quarters of a length apart. The winner was held at 9 to 5 after his stablemate, Anarchy, was scratched and was timed in 1:43 4-5 at the end of the mile and 70 yards. The victory was the more impressixe in that High Quest had up top weight of 120 pounds and was conceding from eight to ten pounds to each of his opponents.

Spy Hill Breaks in Front.

The start of the Wood was a good one from in front of the grand stand. All were away well with High Quest breaking from the outside post position.

Spy Hill was the leader in the run to the first turn with Vicar and Speedmore close up. Bellizzi, however, had High Quest with the leaders as the first bend was rounded. He went to the inside and was in front when straightened out in the backstretch run.

Vicar held on well enough to the far turn. There he faded as Speedmore moved more prominently into the picture. Spy Hill always was a contender and the two went after High Quest. Going to the top of the stretch it seemed as if either or both might pass the leader, but Bellizzi had speed in reserve with his mount and was holding the others safe as the finish line was crossed.

AURORA OPEN TO VISITORS TODAY; RACING TUESDAY

Jockies will be digging brilliant racing silks out of the battered trunks piled in the tack rooms at the Aurora race track today and trainers will be casting an eye over the condition book, seeking spots which seem to offer chances for their horses to win purses, for on Tuesday will come the opening of Aurora's twelfth annual spring meeting.

For 20 days Aurora will see the battles through the stretch and the tight finishes which give gray hairs to the race followers. Washington Park will follow, then Arlington, Hawthorne, and Lincoln Fields. In October the half mile Sportsman's Park race course will wind up the season.

Gates Are Open Today.

Not all of Chicago's thousands of turf enthusiasts are expected to await Tuesday's official opening, however, for a sight of race horses in the flesh. President Robert S. Eddy has declared today public inspection day at Aurora, and advance indications are that several hundred racing followers will be on hand to watch the thoroughbreds step through their training paces and to check up on the numerous improvements that have been made at the course.

An expert crew has been working over the Aurora racing strip, and because the weather has been favorable they have been able to raise the track to a higher pitch of speed than it has known in other seasons. With the aid of the higher banking on the turns horses have been working all week in close to actual racing time. And since Sunday is the logical time to give final tighteners to the good sprinters that will be seen in the $1,200 Inaugural handicap that is scheduled as the opening day feature, some of the fleetest racers quartered at the track are likely to be seen in action early today.

Most striking of the Aurora changes has been the installation of a 120 foot odds board in the infield. The figures are so large that the board may be read from every point along the stretch without the aid of binoculars.

Plenty of Horses on Hand.

One situation that has been causing racing associations the country over a great deal of worry—the threatened shortage of race horses due to the building of so many new tracks—has ironed itself out at Aurora. More than 600 thoroughbreds are already on the grounds.

The most potent factor in attracting horses of the better grade to Aurora this season will be the $10,000 added Illinois Derby, at a mile and a furlong, which winds up the meeting on May 23. The values of stakes for 3 year olds have been undergoing such drastic cuts in recent seasons that a $10,000 added fixture offers a prize few stables care to pass up. Such potential 3 year old stars as Sir Thomas, Mata Hari, Collateral, Plight, and the Bradley pair of Blue Again and Boy Valet have been named, and it is likely the present list of 35 nominees will be swelled to almost double that number.

In the interest of permitting racegoers to return home in time for dinner Aurora will stage only seven races daily this year. But domestic arrangements will have to yield on Saturdays, for there will be eight races on this day. The daily double on the second and third races and the quinella, or "one-two" bet on the seventh race, will be offered daily.

How to Get There.

The track, which is situated 3½ miles north of Aurora on the Lincoln highway, is easily accessible to motorists from all parts of Chicago and northern Illinois. South siders may drive west to Cicero avenue and then north to Ogden avenue or Roosevelt road, both of which lead directly to the track. North siders may take Harlem avenue, River road, Mannheim road, or any main north-south artery to North avenue, thence west to St. Charles and direct to the track.

There will be daily bus service from Sunnyside avenue and Sheridan road on the north side and from Madison street and Kedzie avenue on the west side. Special race trains will leave the Union station over the Burlington Route 12:40 and 1 p. m. daily, daylight saving time, at a round trip fare of 90 cents. Race trains also will leave the Wells Street station of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin Electric Lines at 11:05, 12:05, 12:50, 1:05, and 2:05 p. m., daylight saving time.

Stake Blanks for Arlington Racing in Mail

Nomination blanks for five Arlington Park stakes, whose total gross value may exceed $80,000, are being distributed to every outstanding racing stable in the United States and Canada with the expectation, based on past experience, that the entries of all the leading horses will be received. The five stakes, to be run during the 30 day meeting starting June 25, will close June 1. Final payments for the Arlington Futurity and Arlington Lassie stakes, which together will be worth nearly $100,000, are due May 15.

The Classic, second richest race of the season for 3 year olds with $35,000 added, and most important of the five events closing June 1, will be more popular than ever, Roy Carruthers, secretary of the Arlington Park Jocky club predicted yesterday.

Where Champions Are Crowned.

In each of its five previous runnings the Classic has drawn the most notable 3 year olds still in action in July. Blue Larkspur and Gallant Fox, the first two Classic winners, captured the championship in annexing the Arlington special, while in the other renewals Mate, Gusto, and Inlander made claims on the title that were not decided until much later in the season. Mate and Twenty Grand, the latter finishing third in the 1931 Classic, dominated the 3 year old division that year, while the 1932 winner, Gusto, earned more money that season than any other horse. Last year no champion was decided, but all of the Classic starters were bidders for the title.

The two handicaps on the program, Stars and Stripes and Arlington, are expected to draw the nominations of the nation's best 3 year olds and older horses topped by the mighty Equipoise. The latter did not start in the Stars and Stripes last year, but he scored one of his most notable triumphs in the Arlington Handicap, in which under 135 pounds he mastered Watch Him, Gallant Sir, Dark Secret, Plucky Play, and Larranaga.

Star Juveniles in Action.

Arlington racing has seen more and more important 2 year olds being developed there each year with the Arlington Futurity, Lassie stakes, and Hyde Park stakes last summer being dominated by many of the youngsters which fought for the championship in the fall. Mata Hari and Far Star dominated the Lassie; Far Star, Hadagal, and Singing Wood were principals in the Futurity, while the Hyde Park field included Cavalcade, Singing Wood, Dartle, and Black Buddy. Other smart 2 year olds which raced at Arlington included Discovery, Spy Hill, Wise Daughter, Prince Pompey, Cloud d'Or, and Sun Tempest.

KING, 100,000 SEE BRITISH SOCCER FINAL

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—Nearly 100,000 soccer fans packed Wembley stadium today to see Manchester city team defeat Portsmouth 2 goals to 1 in the final playoff for the British association football cup. This is the one day set aside every year for the great soccer carnival and the British press without exception gave the best part of front pages to reports of the event.

Some member of the royal family always is present, usually King George and one or two of his sons. This year it was reported that both King George and Queen Mary would attend. Owing to bad weather, however, Queen Mary was unable to be present, but when King George arrived the throng stood and cheered for several minutes.

Come from Foreign Countries.

From 2 o'clock this morning thousands of football fans packed special trains and motor coaches and poured into London from all parts of the British isles, while many an enthusiast came from France, Holland, and Belgium, some flying from Berlin and Vienna.

All tickets were sold long beforehand. Anybody having a ticket for even the cheapest seat or standing place could have sold it immediately for 10 or 15 times its ordinary value. Many members of the gentry sold their tickets, a number of which were forged. There was a strong force of detectives on duty, ready to arrest unofficial ticket sellers.

Portsmouth Scores First.

Portsmouth scored 27 minutes after the start and held the lead well into the second half. It was not until 17 minutes before the end of the game that Manchester scored its first goal. Two minutes before the end Manchester scored its second and winning goal.

ILLINI CONQUER WILDCATS, 6 TO 3, AND KEEP LEAD

Al Masek Pitches Third Straight Victory.

Northwestern came from behind twice to tie the score. Frink started the Illini off with a home run in the first inning only to have Harris duplicate his efforts in the Wildcats' half.

Northwestern tied the score with a four hit barrage in the sixth, which accounted for a pair of runs. up lame in the finish of the quarter mile university relay trials yesterday with a kink in a thigh muscle. Despite internal bleeding in the muscle, the injury responded to treatment and this afternoon Metcalfe won his third consecutive Drake dash championship. His time of 9 7-10 seconds was one-fifth of a second slower than the record, of which he is a co-holder.

Metcalfe later anchored the Marquette quarter mile relay team and came from two yards behind to win by that distance over Ecker, the last runner for Illinois. Today's dash victory was Metcalfe's 78th out of 85 events since he began competition for Marquette. He never has lost a college 100 yard dash.

Indiana Wins Three Relays at Penn; Six Records Fall

Philadelphia, Pa., April 28.—[Special.]—Indiana's co-captains, Charles Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, turned the 40th annual Penn relay carnival into a personal triumph today as these smooth striding national champions gave the Hoosiers their second and third victories of the meet.

Before a record crowd of 45,000 at Franklin field, Indiana added to the sprint medley title that it had won the day before both the one mile and two mile crowns.

The midwesterners were not alone in producing a triple winner. Their domination of the meet was challenged by Cornell as the latter added the half mile and shuttle hurdles laurels to the 440 yard honors captured yesterday.

Manhattan Wins 4 Mile.

Nearly all of the other colleges were shut out of the picture by the sweeps of these two teams. Manhattan's squad of distance runners gained the four mile championship and, together with yesterday's distance medley success, marched off with two crowns. Ninth of the major titles went to Columbia as the result of a freshman victory.

The Cornell hurdlers equaled the carnival mark of 1:02.5 in a heat and then clipped a tenth of a second off it in the final, and the record harvest continued until there were six in all.

Glenn Cunningham of Kansas set the tempo for the special events by running a 4:11.8 mile for a new meet mark that was well off the world's record but was still a grand performance. Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania was far behind.

Spitz Breaks Jump Record.

Other standards were eclipsed by George Spitz of New York university with a high jump of 6 feet 7¼ inches; by Ralston Legore, North Carolina javelin thrower, with a heave of 214 feet 8⅞ inches; by Mike Zori of North Carolina State with a discus toss of 151 feet 1 inch, and by the St. Benedict relay team in the one mile prep school race.

All of the new marks were set today with the field presenting a remarkable transformation from the quagmire of yesterday. The track was hard packed and fast.

It was the triple triumph of Indiana, however, that furnished the major thrills. The Cornell successes were over so short a route that the tests were finished almost as soon as they had begun.

What made the Hoosier triple so distinctive was that Hornbostel and Fuqua raced on all three winning teams—the former with two half miles and a quarter and Fuqua with two quarters and a half.

They started their operations today in the two mile relay and added that crown to the sprint medley honors, captured with another pair of runners the day before. This time they teamed up with Herb Chattin and Marmaduke Hobbs and covered the route in 7:46.3, the second fastest time in the history of the carnival.

Fuqua, a 220 and 440 man, raced a half for the second time in his career and recorded a 1:57 performance.

When he handed the baton to Chattin he had a ten yard margin over Clarence Jensen of Columbia. John Grady pulled the Lions into the lead on the second leg but Hobbs regained the ascendancy over Ken Gilmore as the result of his 1:57 half and Hornbostel had that ten yard advantage back again.

Charley Shows Speed.

The lean Indianian had his first real chance to run. It took him more than two minutes to plow through yesterday's mud, but on today's firm path he was timed in 1:51.6 and won from Bill Patterson of Columbia by 30 yards. This Lion quartet is the combination that won the intercollegiate indoor championship. Summaries:

OPEN WISCONSIN, MICHIGAN TROUT SEASON TUESDAY

Illinois Pike Are Due for Trouble Same Day.

BY BOB BECKER.

While the state of Indiana is about to close its season on some game fish, Illinois stands ready to open its fishing season on the same species. This is an example of the confusion of fishing laws which the midwest angler is up against when he picks up his tackle and wants an outing at this time of the year.

In order to clear up some of the details of our fishing regulations with respect to open and closed seasons, here is a brief compendium of laws governing the taking of game fish in Illinois and neighboring states. It will tell the spring fisherman just what can be caught at which time.

In Illinois the pike and pickerel season will open next Tuesday, the same day that the trout fishing season gets under way in Wisconsin and Michigan

Wisconsin Fee $3.

The size limit is placed at 13 inches and the daily bag limit is 10. [Grass, Pistakee, Marie and other lakes in the Fox lake chain are pretty good bets for pickerel or so called northern pike.] Now that the pickerel season is about to begin Illinois fishermen have a choice of angling for this species or rock and white bass, sunfish perch, bluegills and crappies.

Wisconsin practically stands pat on its fishing laws for 1934. The license fee is $3 and the fisherman must pay an additional $2 for shipping coupons. [Here is where Michigan has been smart in competition with Wisconsin by reducing its license fee to $2 and putting in a "tourist's special" good for 10 days of fishing and costing only $1.00.]

The Wisconsin trout season opens Tuesday. Muskies and pike can be taken beginning May 25, and black bass starting June 20. The size limit on trout is 7 inches and if you are so lucky as to find plenty of them willing to take your lures you can keep 15 per day.

Rainbows in Michigan.

Michigan will start its 1934 trout season Tuesday. It has the same daily bag limit of 15 as Wisconsin. When May 1 comes fishermen think of Michigan in terms of rainbows, because there are more streams in that state which have spring rainbow trout runs than Wisconsin can boast. The black bass season in Michigan opens five days later than Wisconsin's—June 25.

Wood, Parker Hurler, Turns In No Hit Game

Kenneth Wood, 16 year old pitcher on the Parker High school baseball squad, added his name to the no hit roster of the Chicago Public High School league when he hurled his team to a 3 to 2 victory over Hirsch at Hamilton park yesterday. It was Hirsch's fifth consecutive defeat and Parker's fourth victory.

Hirsch scored its two runs on errors, the first in the fourth inning and the second in the seventh. Parker collected seven hits off Kelly, who pitched for Hirsch.

Marshall defeated Oak Park, 10 to 4, in a nonleague game at Oak Park. The winners drove out 13 hits off two Oak Park pitchers, Mundt and Mattmiller. Scores:

Hirsch	000	100	1—	2	0	2
Parker	000	200	1—	3	7	2

Batteries—Kelly and Peterson; Wood and Soenen.

				R.	H.	E.
Marshall	211	042	0—	10	13	1
Oak Park	210	100	0—	4	5	7

Lindblom won the senior gymnastic championship of the City league for the ninth consecutive year at the University of Chicago fieldhouse yesterday. The champions scored 536 points. Tilden was second with 508, and Senn was third with 489. Lindblom also won the novice title, scoring 530 points.

Hyde Park won the fencing title of the Chicago Public High School league, piling up 155 points in the annual meet at the University of Chicago yesterday. Senn, second, had 149 points, and Lindblom, defending champion, and Calumet tied for third place with 146 points.

Alex Wilson, Loyola university track coach, and Kenneth Wilson, Northwestern athletic director will attend a carnival at Amundsen High school May 10 and 11. Proceeds will be turned over to the Amundsen athletic fund. The University of Chicago gymnastic team, Big Ten conference champion, also will appear.

FRESHMAN BACK STARS IN PURPLE FOOTBALL DRILL

Spring football practice came to a close at Northwestern university yesterday with a regulation game between picked teams. The Whites, composed largely of regulars, defeated the Purple, 27 to 0.

Starring honors were shared by last year's first stringers and freshmen. Chuck Duvall, varsity full back, plunged over for two touchdowns and Bob Swisher, fleet freshmen half back from St. John's Military academy, scored twice on long runs. He returned a punt 60 yards for his first score and then intercepted a pass on the goal line and ran 98 yards for the second.

The White backfield was composed of George Potter, quarter back; Duvall, Walter Cruice, and Swisher, half backs. The latter was the only first year man in this combination. The line had one freshman, Abe Epstein, 215 pound tackle from Sioux City, Ia. The other linemen were letter men from last fall.

STATE HIGHWAY ENGINEERS PLAN SANE PROGRAM

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—After many years of wastefulness, both through omissions as well as commissions, the state highway department is now developing a construction program based upon sound economics, designing improvements in accordance with trafic requirements rather than upon rules of red tape.

The reform is coincident if not the result of substantial curtailments in available road funds. The diversion of $12,000,000 of gasoline tax revenue for teachers' salaries, authorized by the legislature this week, makes a total of $179,750,000 for general corporate purposes, mainly charity, that the motorists must pay in fuel taxes during the next quarter of a century.

Horner Gives Promise.

The outstanding omission has been the failure of the state to construct an elevated highway in Chicago in return for the $20,800,000 a year paid by the trafic in this city annually in state gas tax and license fees. Gov. Horner six weeks ago pledged his administration to such construction, but he has been so active in legislative affairs that his engineers still lack his orders to proceed on a specific project or projects under a specified financial plan.

State Highway Engineer Lieberman has prepared a summary of the various through trafic projects that have been advanced for Chicago—the Congress street widening, the McClintock-Massen proposals for elevated structures in existing streets, and the Chicago plan commission scheme for elevated highways abutting existing railroad embankments. With this summary before him, the governor is expected to announce a decision this week.

Other omissions have included the neglect of trafic facilities in all of the larger municipalities of Illinois. It is understood that the program for the future will include much city building.

Farmers Have Complaint.

Farmers likewise have a complaint that Illinois has more miles of dirt and mud roads than either Indiana, Michigan, Ohio or any of the progressive eastern states. This is due to a sin of commission in the past. Illinois built miles of expensive concrete where a cheaper design and material adequate for trafic requirements would have doubled or tripled the mileage of secondary roads.

The Chicago Motor club estimates that $32,000,000 was wastefully spent on 1,609 miles of such lightly traveled routes. The $32,000,000 representing the difference between the cost of the concrete and what the cost would have been with an adequate, dustless, all-weather surface for these miles.

The program for the future, it was learned, includes 150 to 200 miles of low cost bituminous treatment of state bond issue routes and many more miles of county highways. This will be the first time that a state bond issue route has been built with other than concrete, brick or asphalt with a concrete base. Almost all of these routes built in the past have been of slab.

Hard, Durable Surface.

The bond issue law specifies a "hard, durable surface," and in past administrations this has been interpreted to mean concrete or a pavement with brick or asphalt surface on a concrete base. The cost has averaged approximately $30,000 a mile, including grading and small bridges. The cost of the proposed all-weather, dustless bituminous macadam is estimated at from $10,000 to $12,000 a mile.

The general rule adopted in drafting the future construction program is that the money spent on an improvement should be determined to a large measure by the earning power of the improvement, by the revenue the state will receive from the gasoline to be burned on the new facility. Engineers have estimated that an elevated highway in Chicago will pay for itself through its stimulation of motor transportation, not counting the saving in reducing accidents and in lessening the wasteful delays of surface street congestion.

The same rule is to be applied in the state's future maintenance work. On US-66, the busy main road between St. Louis and Chicago, the engineers are considering a parallel twenty foot slab from Joliet to Springfield that can be used while the existing pavement is rebuilt to make a four lane superhighway from Chicago to the capital. On the existing concrete that is little traveled but is deteriorating from weather influences, research is under way in developing a bituminous resurface cheaper than any resurface now in general use and more economical than the growing maintenance bill on such slabs.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Robert C. Graham, executive vice president of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation, has announced the introduction of a new eight-cylinder Graham car equipped with supercharger, to sell at a price substantially below that of the supercharged custom eight which was presented at the Automobile Show in January. The engine of the new model is the same size as the Graham special eight, except that the cylinder bore has been increased to 3¼ inches.

Reo is displaying its new Flying Cloud passenger car line for 1934, with the patented self-shifter transmission. The new models were given a preshowing last winter at a few of the larger automobile shows but details and prices were withheld until the cars were in production. Further evolutionary development and improvement of the aerodynamic styling pioneered by Reo in 1930 is clearly evident on the first glance at the new cars, yet there is no approach toward the radical or revolutionary.

Persistent rumors of an early spring introduction of a new Pierce-Arrow have been verified by Roy H. Faulkner, vice president of the company A brand new line at the lowest Pierce-Arrow price in the history of the company is announced.

This new car is typically Pierce-Arrow in design, construction and size. With a wheelbase of 136 inches and powered with an eight cylinder engine of 135 horsepower, it is, in every sense, a large luxurious automobile built for that section of the automobile market which demands fine car individuality and performance at a price in keeping with the present economic trend.

The tenth annual Champion National Change Week will be celebrated May 7 to 14 this year by all local Champion spark plug dealers. According to R. A. Stranahan, president of Champion, National Change Week has been amazingly successful, each year outstripping the previous one in importance.

"Champion originally sponsored and fostered the changing of spark plugs every 10,000 miles," he said. "Based on years of engineering research and testing we discovered that after 10,000 miles in one year of service, all spark plugs had deteriorated to such a point that it was no longer good economy to keep them in the engine. Moreover engine performance—power, speed, acceleration, ease of starting, had all been greatly impaired."

The Oldsmobile plant at Lansing is now running day and night with two shifts in operation. With the addition of the extra shift, employment has now reached a new all time high, even exceeding the peak in 1929. Oldsmobile production for the month of April will be more than three times as large as it was last year.

Retail deliveries of Buick automobiles during the first 10 days of April were greater than during any similar period in the last two years, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, announced. Moreover, sales figures reveal that Buick dealers in 157 cities throughout the United States sold more cars in the first quarter of this year than they did in all of 1933.

Lee Cosart, manager of the Chicago region of the Dodge sales organization, announces the appointment of J. A. Cook as truck representative in the Chicago city district.

TOURING NOTES FROM KENTUCKY AND TENNESSEE

Spring Flowers Abloom, Birds Singing.

The Great Smoky National park, 427,000 acres of wooded mountains, including much virgin timber, will be dedicated on July 1. Last year the park was visited by 375,000 tourists. Spring flowers are abloom and the forests at this time of the year include groves that are white with the flowers of the dogwood, and groves that are purple with the flowers of the redbud. Knoxville, Tenn., near the entrance to the park, is 592 miles from Chicago.

In the mountains of eastern Tennessee fox skins are offered for sale to passing tourists. The pelts hang from rail fences without price tags, the price being determined by a match of wits between the motorist and the hill billy.

No Sunday Gas.

Gasoline stations in Nashville, Tenn., are closed on Sunday. This doesn't force motorists to attend church, however, because they buy their fuel just outside the city limits. Incidentally, the Sunday drivers in the south seem to be slower than anywhere in the United States, loafing on the highways at twelve to fifteen miles an hour.

In addition to its civil war associations, Nashville has two buildings that attract tourists from all parts of the United States. As the "Athens of the South," the capital of Tennessee has a Parthenon that is supposed to be the only authentic reproduction of the Grecian architectural masterpiece.

Andrew Jackson's Hermitage.

A few minutes' drive from the city is the Hermitage, the home of Gen. Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States, preserved with its ante bellum furnishings, a monument of Dixie aristocracy.

In a barn on the Hermitage property is a carriage that was used by Gen. Jackson on trips between Washington and Nashville. A poster states that this overland journey behind horses required approximately a month.

At dusk a gravel road north of Camden, Tenn., the roadster was stopped by a small creek with woods on both sides of the highway. Birds were singing their evening songs. Probably a dozen voices were in the air. Bob Becker, TRIBUNE outdoor editor, when told of the incident, said the variety was due to this being the migratory season.

Just a Flat Tire.

After dark, driving north through Kentucky, this road reporter was cogitating on how much pleasure of the outdoor is missed by motorists who dash through the countryside without a stop except for gasoline. A hiss of escaping air from a rear tire brought the car to a halt on the wet clay shoulder of the highway. There was a bright moon overhead, Whippoorwills were whistling. But with a flat tire the appreciation of nature is not its keenest.

A flashlight kept in the car for just such emergencies proved to be dead. The jack was shoved under the rear end of the automobile blindly. The sense of feel had to be relied upon to find a place for the lifter to grip. After the wheel had been removed it was discovered that the jack was lifting the car by the little arm of a shock absorber. Moral: Look at your flashlight.

UNPADDED CAR CEILINGS.

Chicago, April 26.—Rounding a curve at just ordinary rate of travel, the rear wheels went off the pavement. The car hit the ditch and toppled over. Then we found out how dangerously cars are still being constructed, despite all the popular conceptions of safety construction.

Cars have wooden ribs under the top covering merely hidden by a thin cloth. The tip over of the car threw my wife against one of these sharp ribs, striking the top of her head, with very nearly fatal results.

No one has ever thought yet to eliminate this danger. What the auto people tell me is that this is such a rare occurence that it warrants no recognition, which may be true as far as rarity goes, but still it is a substantial and potential menace, vitally in need of correction.

MANY UNMARKED STREETS.

Chicago, April 24.—If the taxicab drivers of Chicago had any voice in the matter of street signs, every one of us would say they cannot be put up too soon.

Every night many of us have all kinds of trouble trying to find some unmarked street, sometimes when an accident or death has happened, and it means a lot for us to get the passenger to the street he wants in the least time possible.

It seems strange that nobody seems to care if the streets are marked or not, but you would not think so, if you heard the complaints of our passengers, some of which you could not print in your paper, because the language is so bad.

MARTIN HARDY.

UNSAFE BRIDGE.

Chicago, April 25.—Will the city or state authorities ever do anything to check the great number of accidents happening on the old, narrow, unlighted, and poorly paved bridge on South Western avenue, between the 2700 and 2800 block—just north of the Drainage canal? I have occasion to pass over this dilapidated old structure daily, and frequently I have found it impassable because of accidents. In the last three years I have seen at least fifty accidents, actually witnessing and narrowly escaping several myself.

It is a structure unworthy of even the most obscure country road and has no place in a city like Chicago on one of its busiest and most important thoroughfares.

MURPHY WINS IN BUTTERFIELD GOLF OPENING

300 Compete for Prizes in Annual Tourney.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Yesterday may have been April 28 in most places, but it looked like the middle of August at the Butterfield Country club, where more than 300 eager golfers sought to share the handsome prize list offered in the annual spring invitational event. Andy Anderson, the club manager, and Tom Grace, chairman of the sports and pastimes committee, reported that it was the grandest opening day in the last five years. Officials were forced to borrow caddies from neighboring clubs.

The bespectacled Eddie Murphy of Midlothian, solved the sturdy southwest wind with a 76, playing the second and third nines. Ed's score was the best of the day, winning first low gross for members. Ed Collins took the member honors with an 81. Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, playing in the same foursome with Murphy, won the second low gross prize for guests with an 81, finishing up well after having found the breeze too brisk on the first nine. Thomas Hosty was second among the guests in this department, coming home with an 84.

Guests Get Prizes.

Low net prizes for the guests went to Henry O'Callaghan Jr., 87—20—67; L. H. Drollinger, 88—20—68, and C. D. Eveson, 95—26—69, while the native visitors included P. L. Griffins, 88—20—68; J. J. Kehoe, 98—30—68, and J. J. Walsh, 90—21—69.

Prices also were awarded for guest low net foursome, the winners including J. F. Roche Jr., 89—20—69; R. J. Regney, 111—30—81; John Nash, 104—30—74, and P. L. Griffins, with a net total of 292, and Thomas Kelly, 87—15—72; J. J. Walsh, 90—21—69, Tom Ryan, 96—23—73, and Michael Howlett, 112—30—82, with an aggregate of 296.

Eddie Starts Well.

Par out	534	443	444—35
Par in	444	353	544—36—71
Murphy out	335	454	444—36
Murphy in	544	463	536—40—76

Eddie began his round with no fear of the elements, driving two shots up to within five feet of the green and chipping out. The wind caught him on the third, however, and he came down with a five. On both fifth and sixth, he overshot the greens and finished the first nine one over par. He hooked his drive at the tenth, three putted the thirteenth and fourteenth, sank a five footer for a birdie at the seventeenth, and took a penalty shot on the creek at the home hole.

Leading net scores follow:

Henry O'Callaghan Jr.	87	20	67
L. H. Drollinger	88	20	68
J. J. Kehoe	98	30	68
P. L. Griffiths	88	20	68
J. J. Walsh	90	21	69
J. F. Roche Jr.	89	20	69
George Hensley	82	10	72
Joseph Kelly	87	15	72

CHICAGO GOLF CAPITAL

With optimism already rampant among club officials, managers, professionals and players, the Chicago golf district is looking forward to one of the best years in its history. In view of this happy situation, it is now timely to present the 1934 arguments for the case that Chicago boasts the greatest golfing center in the United States.

Numerically, the district rates with any in the country, there being more than 250 private, municipal, and daily fee courses within the Chicago area. Included in this number are three of the strongest organizations in the game today—the Western Golf association, which embodies courses from Buffalo, N. Y., to the Pacific coast; the Chicago District Golf association, the parent body of the district, and the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, the one organized group of its type in the country.

Pros Rate at Top.

From the standpoint of leading professionals, Chicago need bow to none, for the district boasts a half dozen of the greatest playing pros practicing today. Oak Park Country club has its pro Horton Smith, a member of the Ryder cup team and winner of the recent Masters' tournament at Augusta, Ga., the most prized honor of the winter campaign.

At Medinah can be found the Silver Scot, Tommy Armour, who has won every major title open to professional competition, including the American and British open crowns. With him this year will be his older brother Alex [Sandy] Armour, recognized as one of the ablest instructors in golf, who came to Medinah after seven years at the Congressional club of Washington, D. C.

Another newcomer to the Chicago district this year is young Dick Metz, who has more than made his mark in the last two winter tournament schedules.

Two other perennial threats in any big tournament are found in Harry Cooper of Glen Oak and Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, both of them seasoned money competitors.

Westland Leads Amateurs.

On the amateur side, the district claims one of the most consistent golfers today in Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, who will represent Chicago shortly in the Walker cup matches at St. Andrews, Scotland. Westland is the present holder of the western amateur championship.

Other Chicago district amateurs who have made themselves known in tournament competition include George Dawson, Warren Dawson, Don Armstrong, John Lehman, John Ames, Jimmy Garard, and Hank Bowbeer.

Probably no district in the country can compare the Chicago area in the matter of watered courses.

BUTTERFIELD HOLDS ITS FIRST GOLF TOURNEY OF YEAR

Lugging heavy golf bags 18 holes or more is not easy work, but these caddies rush to their duties as if it were play. The opening of the Butterfield tournament season means that they are back in the money.

Baby Ruths Win Classic League Title

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

With the approach of May bowlers are putting away their ten pin equipment until fall. Many leagues already have called it a season, but a few are holding on for a week or so longer.

A long season for members of the men's Classic league will come to a close this evening. The Baby Ruths won both halves of the split season race and Ad Carlson is the individual champion. After catching Dick Winsberg last week, Carlson assured himself of the second half crown by registering a 718 series, one of the four turned in during the week.

Four matches will be rolled tonight, and in addition there will be a postponed series held this afternoon. The schedule:

This afternoon—Budweisers and Olive Can at Madison-Kedzie Arcade, 2:30.

Here and There.

Matty Luecker, the secretary of secretaries, showed the Gold Coast Major leagues some bowling with a 726 series that topped the windup session of the league. Next was Lloyd Strouse with 718 with the help of a 290 game. E. Zajac clicked with 712. Next Thursday at the league's sweepstakes Hackbush and Waterson will receive watches for rolling 300 games. . . . The Liberty alleys of Wheaton shot a 1,154 for high game of the season and their second victory of the night over the Chicago Guernsey Farm of Hinsdale in the West Suburban Traveling league. Then the Guernseys came back with 1,157 to snatch high game honors.

Bud Wright, substituting for Larry Dunn, cashed in with 278, 245, 207, for a 730 series in the Woodlawn Major league. Swanson registered 235, 266, 205, for 706. After a 700 series the week previous, Lee Calloway joined the 400 club with 492. He had company in Krynecki, 461; Pheney, 497, and Reinert, 481. . . . A sweep of a postponed series and two other victories moved the Tavern Pales closer to the championship in the Garden Major league. Pete Petersen tuned in with totals of 704 and 658.

The Al Horans swept their final series and won the championship in the Stevenson and Schalk National league. The Chatham Coals were second, one game behind.

The Blue Ribbons whipped the Ald. Toman Boosters, 3008 to 2850, in a special match last night at the Novotony alleys. Games were: Blue Ribbons, 1003, 986 and 1019; Tomans, 946, 914 and 990.

Tournament.

A total of 3,156 gave the Strachan Coals first prize in the fourth annual Acacia tournament at the Lincoln Square alleys. Second were the Kruse Undertakers with 3,132. In the doubles, B. Hochstadter and C. Levine blasted out 1,346 for first place. Other high combinations were: A. Luckner-C. Rudhman, 1,326; M. Grau-E. Desjardines, 1,312; H. Steers-F. Wright, 1,309; E. Kurz-P. Kaad, 1,308. B. Anderson's 720 was best in the singles, his count being five better than that of W. Pecha. The all-events title went to A. Woodrich with 1,958. G. Souhrada had 1,951; A. Dolezal, 1,946; J. Kalivoda, 1,940; H. Kluge, 1,926; J. Kallal, 1,914; J. Milnarik, 1,910.

North End League.

The Birk Brothers vaulted into first place in the North End Traveling league with two victories over the Luxor Cigars while the Fox's De Luxe were being jolted twice by the ninth place Kaads. The Michelobs and Superbs tied for high team honors with 3,115 apiece, the former winning two from the Nationals and the latter sweeping their series with the Tavern Pales. Frank Kartheiser shot 714 for the Michelobs and Joe Sinke 694 for the Superbs. The Birk Brothers-Fox's tussel at Kaadland should settle first place tomorrow.

About the Women.

A close race for the individual title is enlivening the finish of the Monte Cristo Women's league. It's a duel between Mrs. C. Ehrns and G. Ritchie, who are going into the final lap with 168 averages. High scores at the last session were: Jung, 575; Matt, 566; Sullivan, 504; Heding, 532; Ritchie, 525; Sbertoli, 524; Wohlers, 513 and Ehrns and Behrns, 502.

KENTUCKY DERBY FACTS.

The sixtieth Kentucky Derby will be run at Churchill Downs track, Louisville, next Saturday. The Derby was inaugurated in 1875, first won by Aristides, still referred to as "The Little Red Horse."

The highest price ever paid against a winner was $91.45 for $1 on Donerail in 1913. Stone Street in 1908 paid $60.80 for $1. The last long shot was Zev in 1923, with $19.20 for $1. Singularly enough, Zev had been winter book favorite until shortly before Derby time, when a poor showing in the Preakness shot his price skyward.

The shortest price against the winner was 1-3 against Halma in 1895. The last odds-on winning choice was Twenty Grand in 1931, paying 88 to 100.

Twenty Grand holds the record of 2:01 4-5 for the present distance of one and one-quarter miles. Prior to 1896 the distance was one and one-half miles, the true Derby route, but considered too exacting a task for 3 year olds so early in the season.

The largest number of starters was 22 in 1928, when Reigh Count triumphed over a heavy track. The smallest number was three, several times in the early history of the race.

Heaviest play through the mutuels on Derby day was $2,096,000 in 1926, when Bubbling Over was winner. The smallest play of recent years was $745,603 in 1933.

The track, or racing surface, has been classed in condition for the 59 races thus: Fast, 32; good, 8; dusty, 2; slow, 4; heavy, 8; muddy, 4; sloppy, 1.

The only filly to win the event was Regret in 1915. This history, perhaps, gave rise to the turf axiom, "Fillies don't win Derbies." Regret died within the last month.

Gelding winners were Vagrant in 1876, Apollo in 1882, Joe Cotton in 1885, Macbeth II. in 1888, Old Rosebud in 1914, Exterminator in 1918, Paul Jones in 1920, Clyde Van Dusen in 1929. All others were colts.

Idle Hour farm of E. R. Bradley has produced the greatest number of winners—Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, Burgoo King, and Brokers Tip. Jockey Earl Sande on Zev, Flying Ebony and Gallant Fox, and Isaac Murphy on Buchanan, Riley and Kingman, each rode three winners.

Highest net value to the winner was in 1928, when Reigh Count earned $55,375 for the Leona Farm stable of Mrs. John D. Hertz. Net value last year was $48,925. It will be less this year because added money has been reduced from $50,000 to $30,000 owing to current turf depression.

Nominations for the 1934 Derby closed Feb. 7 with 124 nominations at a fee of $25 each. This subscription holds good until Derby day, when it costs $300 additional to start. Formerly starters paid $500 additional. The highest number of nominations was 196 in 1928.

Women owners have won three of the last ten Derbies—Mrs. R. M. Hoots with Black Gold in 1924, Mrs. John D. Hertz with Reigh Count in 1928, and the Greentree stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney with Twenty Grand in 1931. Colts owned by feminine turf enthusiasts have exceptionally good chances next Saturday.

Maidens, which is turf vernacular for nonwinners but not for lady equines, have been Sir Barton in 1919 and Brokers Tip in 1933. Sir Thomas is a highly regarded maiden for Saturday.

In three years the Derby and Preakness at Pimlico [this year May 12] have been won by the same horse—Sir Barton in 1919, Gallant Fox in 1930, and Burgoo King in 1932. In 1927 Bostonian won the Preakness for Harry Payne Whitney, with Whiskery of the same stable third, while Whiskery won the Derby, with Bostonian outside the money.

Attendance figures are not official. Estimates as high as 75,000 have been made. This probably was an exaggeration. Newspaper commentators last year placed the crowd at from 35,000 to 40,000.

Chicago at one time sent as many as 10,000 visitors to Louisville for this event. With legal racing in Chicago the number decreased. Greater enthusiasm than for several seasons is apparent this year.

The Wake has attended each Derby since 1919, when Sir Barton won.

Col. M. J. Winn, presiding genius of Churchill Downs, to whom is given credit for making the Kentucky Derby the most talked of stake in America, will witness his sixtieth Derby, which comprises the entire list. He has been associated with racing affairs for 40 years.

East Wins 1st Game of Polo Series, 15½-7

made it 10½ to 3 for the East.

Nicholls slammed a long shot from the sideboards which stopped short of the goal. Corpening, following up, got the ball from Borden and scored, making it 10½ to 4. Guest then coaxed the ball along the end boards and rolled it into the goal.

West's Attack Picks Up.

From an angle, thirty feet out, Wilkinson delivered a crisp shot which flashed to the mark. Then Nicholls found an open field and dribbled in to score, making the count, 11½ to 6. Corpening's tremendous back shot from far down the side boards carried to the goal and it was 11½ to 7.

Guest dribbled the length of the field and scored while Borden rode down the center to keep Nicholls out of the play. That made it 12½ to 7.

After prolonged skirmishing in the final period, Reynolds took a rebound of his own shot and scored. Again Reynolds captured the ball and carried it all the way down the field to tally. Guest's high backshot added another for the East, making the final score 15½ to 7.

The 122d Field Artillery won the western championship of the division for teams rated less than seven goals by beating the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals, 7 to 6, in the game which opened the program.

BRILLIANCE OF CROWD MATCHES POLO PROGRAM

Rathborne Comes from East to See Guest Play.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

The hard riding of Winston Guest, ten goal eastern polo star, and the spectacular silent drill of the Shattuck Military school squad were equaled last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory only by the brilliant crowd that filled the box ring and overflowed into the upper bleachers. It was the fourth night of the National indoor polo tournament and the first match between the east and the west in the open division.

Center of interest in the official box overlooking the north end of the armory was J. C. Rathborne, member of the famous old Aiken team, who came west to see Guest in action last night. His partner was the striking, blonde Jean Stevens who wore a handsome chinchilla trimmed evening wrap over her formal gown.

Haffners Hosts to Party.

Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner were host and hostess to the party that occupied the official box. Others among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. McPherson Holt, Mr. and Mrs. William Burry, the Arthur Dixons, Mr. and Mrs. Jay N. Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Copeland, Harry Wilmerding, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan McKenna, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, and Capt. and Mrs. Charles A. Wilkinson.

Capt. Wilkinson remained in the spectator gallery only long enough to see the 122d Field Artillery team defeat the 124th Field Artillery, 7 to 6, for he replaced Lieut. Larry Smith last night in the western lineup. Preceding the game this party had dinner as the guests of Col. and Mrs. Haffner in the Officers' club in the armory.

Smart New Spring Outfits.

Smartest among the many new spring outfits on parade at the games was that of Mrs. S. Prentice Porter, whose husband is well known in local polo circles. Mrs. Porter wore a tomato red woolen suit heavily furred in silver fox with a matching brimmed hat. Among the box guests of the Porters were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Laflin.

Nearby sat a group that included Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Gen. and Mrs. Roy Keehn, Lawrence Whiting and the William Spencers. Another smart spring ensemble was the citron woolen suit worn by Miss Mildred Lawrence, who came with the Curtis Girds, the George Channers, and the George Perrusseys.

Miss Barbara Eldridge and Miss Evelyn Bouscaren were in formal dress. They occupied places in a box on the east side of the armory with the Charles Elmses, Miss Frances Weary, William Drake, Theodore Tieken, and Hoyt Thomas.

Armory's Largest Throng.

Still others glimpsed in the throng of 13,000—the largest number the armory has ever accommodated at one time—were Miss Louise Lackner, escorted by Dutton Morehouse, the Frank Berings, and Ernest Byfields. After the game Mr. Bering with Herbert Lorber was host at a polo ball at the Sherman hotel. All of the polo players—eastern and western—attended.

After this party Guest returned east by plane. He will be back in Chicago Wednesday for the second game of the open series.

Wiater, Evans Box Tomorrow for 8 Rounds

Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, and Ernie Evans of Milwaukee will fight eight rounds tomorrow at Marigold Gardens. It will be their second meeting. Evans was awarded a decision over the Green Bay boxer last year at Milwaukee. The loss is the only one that Wiater has suffered since he turned professional a year ago. He has scored 13 consecutive victories.

Probably Wiater's outstanding pro victory was registered over Johnny Pacek at Marigold April 2. Pacek handed Adolph a whipping to win the 1933 Golden Gloves heavyweight title.

Evans claims a record of nine straight triumphs. He is a stablemate of Dave Maier, who finished second to George Nichols in the National Boxing association's light heavyweight tournament at the Stadium. Maier, who recently resumed fighting after a long layoff, is expected to second Evans against Wiater.

Paul Dazzo, west side fighter, will leave today for Louisville, Ky., where he will attempt to dethrone Freddy Miller as featherweight champion in a 15 round bout Friday.

Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, Pa., heavyweight, and Vince Dundee, middleweight champion, will head this week's national boxing program. Loughran opposes Walter Neusel, claimant of the championship of Germany, at New York Friday. Dundee is to defend his crown against Al Diamond, Paterson, N. J., youngster, at Paterson in a 15 round match Thursday.

Dundee will be making his second defense of the title he won by trimming Lou Brouillard of Worcester, Mass., at Boston in 15 rounds last Oct. 30. He whipped Andy Callahan at Boston Dec. 8. The champion has engaged in three overweight contests against Ben Jeby, Joe Kaminski, and Al McCoy, all of whom he defeated.

Diamond earned the title shot by whipping Ben Jeby at Paterson Feb. 8. His showing was such that handlers have guaranteed Dundee $5,000, with a privilege of 37½ per cent of the gate receipts, just for a chance at the championship.

The Loughran match is considered by the fans as a buildup for Neusel, inasmuch as the Philadelphian indicated in a championship battle with Primo Carnera at Miami, Fla., March 1, that some one else will have to be given the honor of dethroning Carnera. Carnera won a 15 round decision.

Neusel was awarded a hairline decision over King Levinsky at New York March 9. Madison Square Garden had announced that Levinsky was being groomed for a title scrap and when he lost to the German its plans were changed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—Irregularly higher prices in quiet trading characterized dealings in bonds on the exchange during the two hour session today. Prices fluctuated within generally narrow limits in all groups.

United States government long term bonds closed slightly higher in transactions totaling only $390,500. The turnover for the listed market as a whole was $6,820,000, against $9,820,000 last Saturday.

German Bonds Higher.

With the German foreign creditors' conference in Berlin now under way, German bonds pointed generally higher under the leadership of the government 7s and 5½s, which are not expected to experience an interruption in debt service at this time. Other Europeans bonds were steady.

News affecting the domestic list was meager and traders and investors were unusually timid. Scattered profit taking, however, was generally well absorbed. There was a mild demand for some of the rails and moderate advances were recorded by many issues.

Steady on Curb.

Domestic bonds on the curb were steady with rallying tendencies. By far the most active trading continued to be done in the New York Central convertible 6s, due 1944, dealt in on a "when issued" basis. This issue receded fractionally.

Foreign loans on the curb pointed higher in light trading.

Convertible Bonds.

Last Sunday, in response to many requests, there appeared in this column a list of bonds on which interest was payable in either domestic or foreign currency, as a possible hedge against inflation. No study of inflation hedges would be complete without a discussion of convertible bonds.

Such bonds may be a good hedge, provided they are selected with care. During periods of low commodity prices [deflation] the holder has a steady, regular income which increases in purchasing power every time commodity prices drop. During inflationary periods, when commodity prices, and with them stock prices, rise, the holder is in a position to convert the bond into stock, which should share the rise, and protect himself against the penalties of rising prices. Much depends upon the terms under which conversion is provided for.

In considering the following bonds two factors should be kept in mind. The price of a convertible issue is ordinarily higher than a comparable nonconvertible issue. The investor must pay a premium for his privilege of conversion. Secondly, the bonds listed below are of varying grades. We are not recommending any of them. Some are sound and some are not.

Detailed reports concerning individual issues may be obtained by addressing an inquiry to Investor's Guide.

TARIF BARRIERS CURB U. S. TRADE WITH JUGO-SLAVS

Buying Power of Farmers Also Much Reduced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, April 28.—High tarifs, government red tape and restrictions, difficulty of getting foreign exchange and dwindled purchasing power of the people are obstacles immediately presented in any inquiry in Jugo-Slavia into the possibilities of extending the market for American goods. Here, as in Hungary and most of central Europe, business is bound up with political intrigues and economic advantages are traded for political support.

The country is as hard up as it has ever been in the short fifteen years of its history and there is no talk of a definite turn for the better having been reached. In February of this year, in fact, trade reached its low mark since the beginning of the crisis. The winter was disturbing and adding to trade troubles of the civil war in Austria and the devaluation of the Czechoslovakian kronen, these countries being, with Italy, the three to which Jugo-Slav exports are chiefly directed.

Farmers' Buying Power Low.

The farmers in the country cannot find sufficient markets for their wheat. What they get for their wheat does not bear an economic or proportional value to what they can obtain for it in goods. Purchasing power accordingly has slumped to a minimum. The government allows the import of only the most essential goods and the public must content itself with the products of only local industry.

Tarifs are high on all classes of goods and where desired by the government they are prohibitive. In consequence of the generally difficult economic situation exporters to Jugo-Slavia are always besieged for the most liberal terms and as collections are sometimes bad it is the usual practice now for foreign concerns to consign their shipments for the account of the Jugo-Slav purchaser to a reliable bank, which controls the goods till payments are made. The banks have erected warehouses to take care of this kind of business.

Some Favorable Factors.

These are the adverse factors to a revival of trade and consequently to placing more American goods here. On the other hand a greatly restricted basis of trade, due to the curtailment of imports, the trade balance has been favorable to Jugo-Slavia for the last couple of years.

Other encouraging factors for 1933 were that the crops were generally good and an improvement was shown in the operation of the textile industry, which meant improvement in imports of raw cotton, of which we are a large supplier. But while raw cotton imports increased to 20 per cent of what we sold the Jugo-Slavs in 1933, the import of machines of all kinds from the United States dropped heavily.

There is sure to be a demand for rolling stock and railway material as soon as the government can afford to undertake new construction, which has now largely been turned over to foreign enterprise, chiefly French. Great stretches of the southern part of the kingdom are totally unserved by railways or even good roads.

CHICAGO BANKS' SHARES WEAKEN; HARRIS TRUST UP

An improvement of 12 points by Harris Trust and Savings bank stock to 247 bid, 257 asked was a prominent exception to the generally weaker trend shown last week by local bank stocks.

Continental Illinois National shares, ranging between a low of 47½ and a high of 51, closed at 47½ bid, 48½ asked, or 2 points lower. First National declined 2 points to 115 bid, 117 asked. Northern Trust was off 4 points at 400 bid, 405 asked.

Terminal National finished unchanged at 10 bid, 11 asked. A gain of 5 points was recorded by American National at 100 bid. Chicago Title and Trust fell 6 points to a close of 76 bid, 78 asked.

March Sugar Consumption Off; Gain Shown in Quarter

Sugar consumption in the United States during March totaled 470,310 tons, a decrease of about 8 per cent from a year ago, according to B. W. Dyer & Co. Consumption for the first quarter is placed at 1,293,943 tons, an increase of 1.6 per cent over the 1933 period.

CREDITORS SCAN GERMAN ABILITY TO PAY ON DEBTS

Money Control, Trade Subsidy Examined.

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP)—Germany's claim that her foreign currency situation makes it impossible to continue payments on her foreign obligations was closely scrutinized today by representatives of bondholders abroad.

One group began investigations of the actual amount of foreign currency available and another delved into the organization of Germany's foreign currency control. A third study may be made of the so-called German "export subsidy" method through the repatriation of German bonds abroad and dealings in scrip and blocked marks.

Opposing Sides Watch Wits.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, and the creditors' agents are matching equally firm attitudes across the conference table. Schacht and other German financiers have persistently emphasized that declines in foreign trade, tarif barriers and American and British currency moves have made a continuation of interest payments on German obligations impossible.

It was reliably indicated, however, that the creditors minimize the international significance that German financiers attach to the present transfer problem. In this connection it was understood strong hints have been given that Germany must not overlook a certain "unreceptive" mood abroad.

German Press Backs Schact.

That Dr. Schacht has the complete backing of the German press in his stand was indicated further today by Propaganda Minister Goebbels' newspaper, which termed a British warning against a moratorium as "useless diplomatic gestures."

Rumors that the debt conference, which opened yesterday, was already on the verge of a breakdown because of Schacht's firm stand that Germany cannot transfer her payments were denied by Leon Fraser, American president of the Bank of International Settlements and chairman of the present meetings.

The newspaper Allgemeine Zeitung struck this pessimistic note: "As long as amortization and interest service of the Dawes loan and interest on the Young loan require 110,000,000 marks annually and German trade yields no surplus currency at all, it is questionable, despite Germany's will to pay, whether even the slightest possibility of a transfer can be devised."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—The Atlas corporation, together with the Fleming group of investment trusts in England, was the real purchaser of the 200,000 shares of Fox Film corporation stock sold this week at $15 a share by the Chase National bank. At the time of the sale it was merely announced by the bank that the stock had been sold to Balfour, Boardman & Co., British investment bankers, for the purpose of placing a portion of the stock in British investment hands.

This step marks the second time in the last few years that the Atlas corporation has taken a substantial position in the motion picture industry. It was one of the principal noteholders of the Film Securities corporation which held 660,900 shares of Loew's, Inc. When the noteholders took over the assets, it received its proportionate share of the stock, which it was stated today it still holds.

COMMODITY PRICES IRREGULAR; DROUTH REPORTS AID WHEAT

Drastic liquidation in the May deliveries of grains and in other commodities was under way in leading markets early last week and resulted in considerable irregularity in price movements. However, a drought scare which developed late in the week sent wheat and rye up sharply and they closed slightly higher as compared with the previous week, while corn continued under pressure until the last and was off 1½ cents.

Lard, bellies, eggs, hides, and coffee all showed moderate losses for the week, and silver dropped sharply. Rubber sold at a new high for the year and scored a fair net gain for the period.

BASIS LAID FOR VAST EXPANSION IN BANK CREDIT

New York "Fed" Cites Higher Reserves.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—The basis has been laid for a large increase in the volume of bank credit and deposits, the federal reserve bank of New York declares in its annual report for 1933.

Of the two conditions which are requisite to this expansion of bank credit, namely, demand for credit on the part of borrowers whose ability to repay appears reasonably assured and confidence of depositors in banks and of banks in the stability of depositors, the reserve bank says that the second has been fulfiled and it indicates that the first is approaching fulfilment.

"The accumulation of reserves in excess of current requirements in member banks has provided a basis sufficient, if put into active use, for an expansion of the country's total money supply to a volume even larger than that of 1928 and 1929," the reserve bank says.

Member Bank Reserves Higher.

"In those years the reserves of member banks averaged around $2,350,000,000, whereas at the end of 1933 member bank reserves were in the neighborhood of $2,675,000,000."

Remarking that the shrinkage in the money supply during the last four years has not been in the amount of currency outstanding, which was $900,000,000 larger at the end of 1933 than at the end of 1929, the bank offers a brief discussion of the relative importance of currency and bank deposits in the monetary system.

This section of the report offers an answer to the arguments that have been presented by certain groups of monetary theorists during the year under review. In it the bank comes closer than in any other portion of its report to taking a positive stand on some of the contraversal money questions with which it, as a part of the monetary system, was concerned last year.

Holds Currency Less Important.

"The importance of currency in the money supply of the United States had been declining almost without interruption for more than fifty years prior to 1930," it says, "while the importance of bank deposits as a means of payment had been steadily rising."

As a result of the banking crisis of last year and the subsequent efforts at reconstruction, the banking system of the country has been established on a sounder basis, the reserve bank declares in its review of the banking situation last year. The bank presents several tables showing the volume of withdrawals faced by banks in this district by days throughout the period of the bank crisis which indicate the cumulative pressure that was put upon the banking community.

Lumber Orders Last Week Increase 7 Million Feet

Washington, D. C., April 28.—New business for the week ended April 21, as reported from 1,517 lumber mills by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, jumped more than 7,000,000 feet as compared with the previous six day period. Orders for the week totaled 208,804,000 feet and for the previous week 201,282,000 feet. Production dropped to 218,490,000 feet, compared with 217,704,000 feet, and shipments dropped to 199,084,000 feet from 201,158,000 feet.

Link-Belt Shows Profit; Had Deficit a Year Ago

Net income of the Link-Belt company for the first quarter of 1934, after all charges and taxes, totaled $118,077, against a deficit of $205,672 in the same period last year, the company announced yesterday. Current assets as of March 31 totaled $11,058,344, and current liabilities $656,924, against $11,861,833 and $497,318, respectively, on the same date a year earlier.

VIEWS COCONUT OIL TAX RUIN OF SOAP INDUSTRY

Rep. Welch Asserts Japan Will Get Business.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Representative Welch [Rep., Cal]., today declared Japan would fall heir to the American soap manufacturing business as the result of congressional action taxing Philippine coconut oil.

Speaking before the house insular affairs committee the Californian said the tax would undoubtedly destroy much of the soap manufacturing industry in America, ruin one-fourth of the Philippines, hurt American farmers and severely harm Philippine chances of independence.

Gets Support of Democrat.

Chairman McDuffie [Dem., Ala.], agreed with the statement and asked Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader, who was present, what was to be done about the tax. The tax, contained in the revenue bill, has been a bitter source of dispute here and Manila for many months.

"We've got the President in a hot spot on signing that revenue bill," McDuffie said.

"Why doesn't your side do something then," Robinson asked. "The house originated the tax."

Welch said he understood Senator Tydings [Dem., Md.], chairman of the territories committee, would introduce shortly a joint resolution to suspend the effect of the tax on the Philippines Islands for one year. By that time, he said, the tax probably would be repealed because of its harmful effects.

Sees Farmers Misled.

"Farmers have been misled into believing a prohibitory tax on coconut oil would help the animal fat industry," he said. "Animal fats form the base of soap, to which coconut oil is essential. If manufacturers cannot afford to buy this coconut oil, they'll have to quit making soap, and the farmer will lose a tremendous market for his animal fats. Japan will jump in and capture the soap making business.

"It is the most damnable tax I ever heard of. It is a national disaster to the Philippines, and they are helpless. Latin America will note and never forget our treatment of a Spanish-speaking country."

While maintaining a considerable margin over the volume of last year, business as measured in checks in the Seventh federal reserve district decreased moderately last week below that of the preceding week.

One hundred fifty-one banks in 40 leading clearing house cities reported to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for the week ended April 25 that their debits to individual deposit account aggregated $895,172,000, or 7.1 per cent less than the total of $963,240,000 in the preceding week.

The figure of $892,357,000 for 37 cities was 42.1 per cent below the total of $627,940,000 for the corresponding week of 1933.

Debits to individual deposit account for Chicago were $550,053,000, against $429,529,000 a year ago; Detroit, $160,945,000 against $60,995,000; Milwaukee, $43,739,000 against $37,151,000; Indianapolis, $27,917,000 against $22,416,000.

DENIES INTENTION OF RECEIVERSHIP FOR MUNSON LINE

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Robert C. Burnsides, president of the Asbestolith Manufacturing company, today testified he had no intention of petitioning the Munson Steamship line into bankruptcy. At a hearing on a motion to dismiss the bankruptcy petition filed several weeks ago Burnsides said he had instructed his attorney not to use his claim of $390 against the steamship line for that purpose. Joseph Henry, a cook who had signed the petition as a creditor for $342 back wages, also said he did not want the bankruptcy action.

AGREE ON PLAN TO REORGANIZE MIDDLE WEST

Banks, Bondholders Prepare Outline.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Reorganization of the Middle West Utilities company will be attempted at an early date as a result of an agreement reached last week between representatives of the company's debenture holders and creditor banks. The agreement was reached at a four-day conference in New York. Chicago bank officials and note holder representatives returned from the conference yesterday.

Among those who attended the meeting were Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank; A. J. Stilwell, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company; S. S. Colt, president, and H. H. McGee, vice president of the Bankers Trust company, New York; and Attorney Robert N. Golding, counsel for the holders of the company's $40,000,000 of debentures.

Charles A. McCulloch, receiver for the company, was also in New York and was instrumental in bringing the creditors' group together. He is not, however, taking an active part in the negotiations.

Plan Further Parley.

The group will meet again in the next few days in either New York or Chicago at which time each of the participants will be prepared to put forward concrete proposals for lifting the equity receivership under which the company concern is now operating.

Reorganization plans have been speeded up considerably by the decision of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley vindicating the receivership of Charles A. McCulloch, the validity of which had been attacked by Attorney Samuel Ettelson.

Present plans contemplate the creation of a new company with one class of stock which will be prorated among the various creditor groups. Creditor banks as well as noteholders will be asked to accept new common in exchange for their present claims. Common and preferred stock of the present company will be washed out with the probability that the senior shareholders will be given the opportunity of subscribing for securities in the new company.

Eliminate Abuses.

The charter of the new company, as now contemplated, will place rigid limitations on the powers of the new concerns. Safeguards will be written into the charter to prevent such practices as "upstream loans," fictitious bookkeeping and other abuses which prevailed during the Insull régime.

The new company by reason of its single issue of common stock will have no fixed charges at the outset and it is planned to keep the top company entirely free from burdensome long term debt.

Because of complications involved it is not believed the initial reorganization program will include any provisions for simplification of the system's structure below the top concern. It is hoped that after the receivership is lifted it will be possible to overhaul the capital structure of underlying properties and eliminate many of the intermediate concerns. This end, it is emphasized, cannot be accomplished immediately.

No Dividends for 3 Years.

It is not expected that dividends can be paid on the shares of the reorganized company for a period of from 3 to 5 years. Before underlying properties can resume dividends it is necessary to build up cash reserves which were at low ebb when receivership overtook the parent company.

In many cases common stock of the subsidiary properties is worthless. The parent company's holding in the subsidiaries is mainly common stock, although in many instances senior securities are also held. The new company is expected to have little difficulty to obtain funds which may be necessary to protect its present investments. Preferred stock of the subsidiaries may be bought up at present depressed prices in order to increase the equity of the parent concern.

The tentative plans as they now stand spell a complete loss for the common and preferred stockholders, a development which comes as no surprise.

Bank Reopenings Rise; 45 Resumed Last Week

The American Banker reports the opening of 45 banks last week, compared with 32 the week before. Total openings for the first four weeks of April were 196, the largest number for any month since March, 1933.

Wheat Jumps Nearly 2 Cents on Crop News

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Reports of serious lack of subsoil moisture over a large part of the winter wheat and spring wheat territory east of the Rockies and extending into the Canadian northwest brought a new rush of buying of futures yesterday. Heavy short covering and increased buying by commission houses carried the May option up to 78¾ cents before profit taking and week-end evening up on the part of longs checked the bulge. The market showed little disposition to react, however, and closed within a fraction of the top at net gains of 1½ to 1¾ cents. May closed at 78⅝ to 78½ cents.

Strength in wheat was the main influence in other grains. Corn advanced ⅝ to ⅞ cent, May showing the least strength, due to persistent liquidation, and closed at 44 to 44⅛ cents, or 3⅛ cents under July. Oats were ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, rye ½ cent higher and barley unchanged to ½ cent higher.

Country Interests Buy.

Yesterday was the first time in a considerable period that country interests entered the grain markets. Minneapolis and Winnipeg reported unfavorable weather and crop reports were being backed by buying orders.

Winnipeg wheat gained ½ to ⅝ cent and Liverpool was up ¼ to ⅜ cent.

Irreparable damage has been done to the winter wheat crop in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, according to reports received by Chicago firms, and unless rain is received shortly it was predicted the plant will collapse, as it did last year in South Dakota.

In parts of North Dakota, it was said, 40 to 50 per cent of the wheat seeded had either been blown out of the ground or covered with soil to such a depth that reseeding would be necessary.

Insect Damage Expected.

B. W. Snow, the Bartlett Frazier expert, in discussing the probability of insect damage this season said, "Chinch bugs have wintered over in increased numbers in Indiana, central Illinois, southern Iowa and Missouri and the situation is suggestive of serious possibilities. In northern Oklahoma, eastern and central Kansas and southeastern Nebraska green bug damage has been heavier than in recent years, although there is no general visitation of the pest.

"Grasshoppers have not hatched out to any considerable extent, but reports indicate the soil is full of eggs in the western two-thirds of South Dakota, and to a dangerous extent in the western half of North Dakota and in Montana."

STOCK CONTROL BILL LOBBY WILL BE HOUSE TOPIC

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Lobbying activities against the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market regulation bill are to be discussed in the house Monday when the administration measure is submitted for consideration. This was made known today by Representative Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], co-author of the measure and chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

"The campaign of fright and misrepresentation waged by opponents of this bill has touched every corporation, every broker and clerk," Rayburn said. "I will discuss it in my speech explaining the bill."

The Texan said Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, and Roland Redmond, counsel, were among the leading lobbyists against the measure.

The measure is to be considered under procedure allowing seven hours of debate and the offering of amendments.

BELL SAVINGS UNIT TO PAY OFF SHARE MATURITY

The Bell Savings Building and Loan association has voted the maturity of its ninth series of instalment shares and will distribute the proceeds, $144,300, to 127 members May 1. The maturity frees four homes from mortgage indebtedness.

According to J. S. Robson, president of the association, which has 7,550 members, most of whom are employés of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, operations for the first nine months of the company's fiscal year showed a marked increase in new money invested as well as a substantial gain in real estate loaning activity, while an improvement in the number of loans for construction of small homes was noted.

During the last quarter bank borrowings were reduced from $200,000 to $50,000 and cash on hand at the end of the nine month period was $120,114, he said.

Reliance Manufacturing Quarter Sales Set Record

The Reliance Manufacturing company yesterday reported earnings of $145,196 after all charges for the first quarter of 1934, equal after preferred dividends to 52 cents a share on common stock. First quarter earnings in 1933 were $56,880, in 1932 were $101,502, and in 1931 were $141,264. First quarter sales were the largest for any opening quarter in the company's history.

Why Not? U.S. Wants "Teeth" in Everything

BY MAGPIE.

Philip W. Kniskern of New York City, appraisal advisor to the Home Owners' Loan corporation board of directors at Washington, who recently presided at a banquet given by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers at the Union League club, told how unintentional humor often softened the difficulties confronting HOLC officials.

"A woman bothered William H. McNeal, manager of the HOLC, with several requests for a loan, but was evasive regarding details," said Mr. Kniskern. "At last the usually calm Scotsman, thoroughly annoyed over her persistence, wrote a rather sharp note asking what she wanted the money for.

"'I haven't got a home,' she replied 'I don't own any property and I haven't got a mortgage. I want that money to buy a new set of teeth.'"

Another letter received by Mr. McNeal, according to Mr. Kniskern, was an exuberant epistle from an aged man who had just had a loan negotiated through the HOLC. "Thank God for Uncle Sam," he wrote. "For the first time in my life I'm out of debt."

Economic planning reminds Silas H. Strawn, internationally known attorney, of a concession on A Century of Progress Midway last year. This was a motordrome in which a young woman forced a snarling lion to sit in a small roadster while she drove it some 70 or 80 miles an hour around the wooden circle, the car and occupants standing vertically from the wall when full speed was attained.

"The young lady was more or less sure she would get down all right but the lion, roaring and thrashing the air with his tail, had very grave doubts," said Mr. Strawn. "I feel just the way the lion did."

He also said that while he was president of the United States Chamber of Commerce several experts were employed to study economic planning. After several months' work Mr. Strawn and two associates had to write their report.

"The experts couldn't agree," he said.

Chicago was the scene the other day of a wild hunt for the coat of arms of the republic of Cuba. A Milwaukee concern built twenty motorcycles for the Cuban government. The order required that each machine bear the Cuban coat of arms. When the order was about to be shipped, it was discovered that while Milwaukee was long on beer it was short on coats of arms. The Illinois Central which was to carry the machines to the shipping port, was asked to help in the hunt. The road's agent skurried all over town without success until some one suggested a Chicago company which makes decalcomanias. This company was able to provide a half dozen and they were rushed to Milwaukee, saving the day for the motorcycle concern.

NEW BOND FINANCING TOPS PREVIOUS WEEK, EXCEEDS A YEAR AGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—Eight issues of state and municipal bonds and notes, aggregating $16,083,000, comprised the new bond financing this week. The principal offerings were those of $5,000,000 city of Seattle municipal light and power bonds, $4,660,000 city of Pittsburgh, Pa., various improvement bonds, and $3,000,000 city of Boston temporary loan notes. In practically all instances the new offerings were well received.

This week's new financing showed a small gain over last week, when new bonds in the amount of $12,726,000 were marketed. This week a year ago new flotations totaled only $1,750,000. The irregular trend of prices in the general bond market failed to halt the steady demand for high grade municipal issues. Virtually all of the sales of new bonds by the various communities occasioned keen competition from many banking groups:

Offerings of new bonds in the New York market for this and last week follow:

	This week.	Last week.
State and municipal	$16,083,000	$10,020,000
Railroad	....	2,706,000
Total	$16,083,000	$12,726,000

New state and municipal bond offerings scheduled for next week total $11,025,669, says the Daily Bond Buyer. The largest item is a $5,000,000 block of state of New Jersey emergency relief bonds, to be sold Wednesday.

DOLLAR STRONG AGAINST FRANC; POUND HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—The dollar rose slightly against the franc today but weakened against sterling and some other currencies. The franc was ¼ point lower at 6.64¾ cents, which was equal to a value of 58.93 cents for the dollar, compared with 58.91 cents Friday.

Sterling rallied ½ cent to $5.14¾. Guilders were up 5 points to 68.20 cents. The Canadian dollar advanced ⅛ cent to a premium of 7-16 cent. Marks rose 7 points to 39.75 cents, and lire fell a point to 8.56½ cents.

Gold declined 2 pence to 135 shillings 9 pence [$34.90] a fine ounce in the London open market, at which price approximately $2,313,540 was purchased.

Several consignments of gold from England arrived yesterday on the steamships President Roosevelt and Aquitania, but only $507,000 was reported by the federal reserve bank.

Charge Plan to 'Pack' Beef Tax Meeting

The disagreement among cattle men over the feasibility of a federally supervised production control plan was revived again yesterday. A "committee of five," claiming to represent the western breeders of the American Live Stock association, issued a statement charging that "others than real cattle men" attempted to pack the meeting last Thursday at the Hotel Sherman.

The meeting was called by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to obtain an expression of sentiment regarding production control and was featured by a number of violent protests against any proposal to put a processing tax on beef cattle.

Say Stockmen Asserted Rights.

Despite the alleged attempt to pack the meeting, the committee of five stated, "producers and feeders of live stock finally asserted their rights and controled the meeting."

The committee members, who said they were appointed to represent the association at a convention in Alberquerque last January, are Charles E. Collins, Kit Carson, Colo., chairman; Dolph Bricoe, Uvalde, Tex.; J. Elmer Brock, Kaycee, Wyo.; C. J. Abbott, Hyannis, Neb., and Hubbard Russell, Los Angeles.

The committee asserted that it favored a careful study of a definit cattle production control program, but hoped that there would be no immediate need for a processing tax.

Urge Moderation in Taxing.

In the event a tax eventually was found necessary, the committee said that the tax should not be greater than 10 cents a hundred pounds to begin with and should never exceed 25 cents.

The committee further declared itself as favoring a program calling for the expenditure of $1,000,000 a year by the secretary of agriculture for a national beef advertising campaign, elimination of diseased cattle from consumptive channels, and purchase by the government of 3,000,000 producing cows for relief purposes. It opposed any downward revision through reciprocal treaties of tarifs on cattle or cattle products.

PRESIDENT SIGNS HOME LOAN BOND GUARANTY BILL

Rate on New Issue to Be 3 Pct.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—The bill guaranteeing the principal as well as the interest of Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds was signed by President Roosevelt today. Immediately thereafter John H. Fahey, chairman, announced that new bonds to be issued by the HOLC will carry an interest rate of 3 per cent. Fahey said that the rate had the approval of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

In addition to guaranteeing fully the $2,000,000,000 of home loan bonds authorized by the last congress to relieve hard pressed home owners, the measure will permit advances for rehabilitation, enlargement, repairs and maintenance.

Interest Formerly Guaranteed.

The government guarantee of the old bonds covered only interest for eighteen years. Legislation for the full guaranty provided that the Home Owners' Loan corporation should fix an interest rate not in excess of 4 per cent. The corporation said that the market price, with the rate as established, "should conform approximately to the current market on the long term 3 per cent bonds of the United States government." The issue of 3 per cent treasury bonds closed Friday at 99 29-32.

The new bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation will be noncallable for a period of ten years, being due and payable on May 1, 1952, and redeemable on and after May 1, 1944.

Exchange Provisions.

"Holders of the present 4 per cent bonds," the corporation said, "have the privilege of exchanging them for the new bonds at any time during the period of six months through presentation of their bonds at the United States treasury department unless the board should decide to retire them at an earlier date. In that event, under the provisions of the law, they would be taken up at par. The corporation, beginning yesterday, has ceased to issue further authorizations for the delivery of the 4 per cent bonds."

Gov. William I. Myers of the Farm Credit administration said today before a session of the Atlantic states division of the National Association of Marketing Officials that approximately $3,000,000 in bonds of the new Federal Farm Mortgage corporation were being loaned to farmers each day by the federal land banks. These bonds, paying 3¼ per cent and maturing in thirty years, also are now fully guaranteed as to principal and interest by the federal government.

Volume Shows Increase.

The volume of mortgage loans closed in these bonds has increased steadily during the last three weeks, Gov. Myers said, adding that the bonds "are being accepted readily by creditors in payment of claims held against farmers who are being refinanced." About 1,000 loans, he said, were being made by the banks each day and paid in the bonds.

"The bonds are enabling the federal land banks to continue adequate refinancing of farm mortgage indebtedness at low rates of interest," Gov. Myers said, "benefiting not only the farmers refinanced but also the creditors, local banks and other investors who become holders of the securities."

OIL COMPANY INCREASES PAY BY 14 PER CENT

Bartlesville, Okla., April 28.—(AP)—Pay increases of approximately 14 per cent have been ordered for employés of the Phillips Petroleum company. The new scale, retroactive to April 1, affects all field employés up to and including lease foremen. It follows a recent increase in the marketing and sales department.

Bondholder Asks Receiver for Laclede Gas & Light

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—(AP)—Receivership for the Lacleed Gas and Light company was sought in a suit filed in federal court here today by Joseph Walter Zeller, New York, bondholder of the company. Zeller's suit was based on four $10,000 bonds of the company's $10,000,000 issue which matured April 1. His petition charged payment had not been made and that the company's assets are insufficient to pay its liabilities in full.

Plan Reserve Loans Direct to Industries

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—A bill providing for direct loans for industrial purposes by federal reserve banks was introduced in the senate today by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], and shortly thereafter reported back favorably by the senate banking and currency committee, to which it had been referred. The bill amends the Federal Reserve act as follows:

"In exceptional circumstances, when it appears to the satisfaction of a federal reserve bank that an established industrial or commercial business located in its district is unable to obtain requisite financial assistance on a reasonable basis from the usual sources, the bank may make loans to, or purchase obligations of such business or may make commitments with respect thereto, on a reasonable and sound basis, for the purpose of providing it with working capital."

Loans Limited to Five Years.

No obligation shall be acquired or commitment made with a maturity exceeding five years, the bill provides.

Each bank shall also have power to discount for or purchase from any bank, trust company or other financing institution operating in its district, obligations having maturities not exceeding five years, entered into for the purpose of obtaining working capital for any such established industrial or commercial business, according to the bill.

"For the purpose of aiding the federal reserve banks in carrying out the provisions of this section, an industrial advisory committee is to be established in each federal reserve district," Senator Glass explained. "Each member of this committee shall be actively engaged in some industrial pursuit within the federal reserve district in which the committee is established and each member shall serve without compensation."

Committee to Judge Applications.

Each application for a loan, advance, purchase, discount or commitment must be submitted to this committee, under the proposed bill, and after an examination of the industry the committee will submit the application to the federal reserve bank with its recommendation.

The secretary of the treasury is authorized, upon the enactment of the bill, to pay to each federal reserve bank such portion of the sum of $139,299,557 as may be represented by the par value of the holdings of each bank of Federal Deposit Insurance corporation stock.

"All amounts required to be expended by the secretary of the treasury," the bill continues, "in order to carry out the provisions of this act shall be paid out of the miscellaneous receipts of the treasury created by the increment resulting from the reduction of the weight of the gold dollar under the presidential proclamation of Jan. 31, 1934."

Heavy penalties are provided for in the act for false statements made in applications for loans.

Youngstown, O., April 28.—(AP)—Steel production in the Youngstown district next week will rise to the highest point of the year and will nearly equal peak operations of the last year with resumption of a Bessemer unit and of several open hearth furnaces. Steel output for next week is estimated at about 63 per cent of capacity as compared to about 59 per cent this week.

Levin Rank Named Head of Parmelee Transportation

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Election of Levin Rank, formerly secretary and treasurer of Parmelee Transportation company as president of the company was announced today. The office had been vacant for some time. R. J. Wyatt succeeds to the positions held by Rank.

BANKERS NAMED CO-RECEIVERS OF SURFACE LINES

Cummings, Brown Picked by Judge.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday appointed co-receivers for the transportation companies that make up the Chicago Surface Lines after counsel for the receivers had stated that inasmuch as the traction situation now is practically the same as existed before the passage of the 1930 transit ordinance a single receiver for each of the properties is insufficient.

JUDGE WILKERSON.

Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, was named co-receiver with Guy A. Richardson for the Chicago Railways company, the north and west side lines. Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National bank, was appointed co-receiver with Harvey B. Fleming of the Chicago City Railway company and other south side lines. The compensation to be received by the co-receivers was not mentioned.

Had Expected Consolidation.

In a statement to the court made jointly by Weymouth Kirkland and James M. Sheean, counsel for Mr. Richardson, and Harry P. Weber, attorney for Mr. Fleming, it is recited that while it was contemplated that the 1930 consolidation ordinance would take effect soon it was believed that the single receiver for each of the properties was sufficient, but that now, with the situation practically the same as existed before the passage of the ordinance, co-receivers should be appointed.

When the Chicago Railways went into receivership, John J. Mitchell, Henry A. Blair and Frederick H. Rawson were appointed receivers. On the death of Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Blair, Mr. Rawson was retained as sole receiver. He resigned in January, 1933, and Mr. Richardson was appointed as his successor.

Changes in Receivers.

The original receivers of the Chicago City Railways and other south side lines were Leonard A. Busby and Edward N. Hurley. Following the death of Mr. Busby, Mr. Hurley continued as sole receiver until his death, when Mr. Fleming was appointed in his place.

After he had been appointed yesterday, Mr. Cummings issued the following statement:

"Judge Wilkerson has drafted me to serve as a co-reciver with Mr. Richardson of the Chicago Railways company. I have accepted the appointment as a matter of civic duty and in the hope that with some background of traction experience I shall be able to help in working out a plan of financial reorganization for the company and assist in untangling some of the problems of Chicago's Surface Lines."

Securities Commissioners Asked to Aid in Code Work

The session of the Association of Securities Commissioners at the Hotel Sherman, attended by commissioners of thirteen states, was closed yesterday with an informal talk by Arthur G. Davis, field secretary of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, on the new code for investment bankers. He solicited the securities commissioners' suggestions and coöperation and suggested that they and the code authorities to be appointed "join forces for enforcement." All officers—Walter Hutchinson, Iowa, president; S. Paul Skahen, Minnesota, vice president, and Miss Olga Stieg, Wisconsin, secretary—were reëlected.

STOCKS DECLINE IN DULL TRADE; STRIKES FEARED

Motor and Textile Issues Under Pressure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—Stocks drifted lower today in one of the dullest week-end sessions of the year. Only 563,630 shares changed hands in the two hours of trading and prices generally idled in narrow grooves. Selling speeded up in some directions toward the close and a sprinkling of speculative favorites finished with net losses of as much as a point.

Automobile and textile shares turned in about the most disappointing group performances of the lot, the first named being adversely affected by labor strikes and threats of a possible spread of them in the automotive industry and the textiles backing down anew in the face of the price reductions which hit this industry's products around the middle of the week.

Chief Motor Issues Decline.

Among the motors Chrysler, General Motors, Nash, Mack Truck, and Hudson gave up large fractions to nearly 2 points. Industrial Rayon and Celanese, the big two of the textile division, were cut down more than a point each.

The metals, long one of the most active divisions of the list, were firm. International Nickel was traded in some large blocks at prices around the best of the year, and Anaconda, Kennecott, and Phelps-Dodge met with demand at intervals. Net losses of the group were generally confined to small fractions.

Oil stocks were little influenced by the New York legislature's action in levying an emergency tax of a cent a gallon on gasoline sold in this state, raising the tax here to 4 cents. Statistics under perusal around the board rooms showed that the average tax on "gas" throughout the country is 5 cents a gallon, which must come off the product before the oil companies get their compensation.

Cite Mounting Gasoline Taxes.

Indications are, it was said, that this year's rakeoff of the tax gatherer on this industry will exceed last year's total of half a billion dollars. Trading in the shares of this group was extremely quiet today and losses were small.

Farm stocks got no help from the upturn in wheat and other commodity prices in the early trading, and this helped to unsettle the market generally. Alcohols held up well. Schenley was one of the few bright spots of the list, countering the trend f.. a gain of nearly a point.

The utilities were quiet around their previous closing levels. Moderate speculative selling sent the rubbers to easier levels. In the communications group, Western Union sagged to a new low for the movement under 53.

Estimates of a further rise of 2 per cent in the steel production figures failed to help the shares of this group. Bethlehem and U. S. Steel lost about a point each.

COTTON CLOSE IRREGULAR AFTER EARLY ADVANCES

Cotton futures held within relatively narrow limits yesterday. Scattered commission house buying and a subsidence in the recent liquidation effected a moderate upturn early, which was largely lost later when stocks started to weaken. The close was .05 cents higher to .02 cents lower in Chicago and .02 cents higher to .02 cents lower in other markets.

Talk of probable curtailment in textile production due to threatened strikes had some effect. Spot cotton was unchanged, with New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston quoted at 11.20 cents per pound and New York at 11.15 cents. Prices:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was firmer today on increased covering and commission house buying of July, September, and December, promoted by strength of grain, steadiness of cotton, and firmness of crude oil. Final prices were 8 to 10 points net higher. Sales, 19 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; May closed 5.10c; July, 5.39c; September, 5.62c; October, 5.70c; December, 5.80c.

BUTTER CONTRACTS SHOW STRENGTH; EGGS LOWER

Butter futures came into their own for the first time in some weeks and closed ⅜ higher.

While there was nothing especially new in current developments, the trade as a whole was impressed by continued reports of backward conditions in the country. General lack of rain over the main producing sections apparently has retarded grass and pastures.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today, with prices unchanged at 2.80 cents por spots. No sales were reported. Futures moved within a range of 1 to 2 points, and closed net 1 point higher on the spot month and unchanged on other deliveries. Firmness at the opening was attributed to reports that President Roosevelt would sign the sugar bill early next week.

BELGIUM PUTS BANKING RATE IN REVERSE GEAR

London Is Not Happy Over Far East Tension.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—A sign of the times which struck the City [financial district] forcefully this week was the paradoxical action of the National Bank of Belgium in lowering the bank rate from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent. Normally a central bank lowers its discount rate when it wishes to reduce the cost of money and promote industry so as to raise prices. That is the way the device operated in the past, but in this strange present day world the old rules no longer work, and the Belgians reduced the bank rate to help industry cut prices.

Like Italy, Belgium is still deflating and still trying to reduce prices to maintain the country's competitive ability. Unquestionably it will help the banks—at least up to a point—but it makes hopelessly out of date all handbooks on banking.

Far East Tension Felt.

The tension in the far east has not made the City very happy. Japanese bonds had made a good recovery from last year's lows when Tokio's unofficial spokesman got on the front page just a week ago. Steady selling of Japanese and Chinese issues gradually infected the whole section of foreign government bonds. This had been a fairly cheerful section for some weeks, until the Japanese began throwing fast ones about far east control.

London continues to absorb silver from all and sundry, especially New York. Even the Irish Free State turned seller, and for the week ended April 19 it dumped about $300,000 of English silver coins which it had been gathering. The Free State has, of course, its own new coinage and prefers to get rid of foreign coins.

It has taken London a long time to make up its mind just what the effect of the American copper code would be, but opinion now has veered to the belief that there is no hidden catch in the admittedly favorable copper statistics and that the time is ripe to buy Rhodesian shares.

The dividendless one pound shares of the Rhokana corporation have touched £6 and the 5 shilling shares of Roan Antelope are at 31 shillings.

French Bonds Rise, Slip Back.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—The burst of confidence exemplified by the big rise of French rentes [bonds] Monday, due largely to Premier Doumergue's encouraging address Saturday night, gave way later in the week. The relapse was due to rumors of a new loan—denied officially—and to concern regarding the outcome of expected revolutionary disturbances May 1.

The main thing seems to be, however, that the country is waiting to see whether the government's deflation program will succeed in effecting appreciable recovery. There is still some fear lest political sabotage will destroy the psychological advantage enjoyed by Doumergue's national union cabinet.

LARD HIGHER ON EASTERN BUYING, RISE IN GRAINS

Buying of lard futures by houses with eastern connections, which was regarded as adding to already liberal sized long lines, combined with the strength in grains and the probability that the government would increase its purchases of hogs in May for relief purposes, resulted in a sharp advance in prices yesterday.

The close was at the top, with net gains of 12½@20 cents on futures. Cash lard was 10 cents higher at $5.82½; loose, unchanged at $5.40, and leaf, 12½ cents higher at $5.50. Bellies were unchanged to 5 cents higher, with cash lots steady at $7.75. Prices:

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., April 28.—Continued dull trade in the Boston wool market during the past week failed to bring about any marked changes in wool prices. Grease basis prices were off a little on some lines of spot fleeces as a result of the lower prices at which a few houses were offering to sell new clip wools for future delivery direct to mills, but the ranges of scoured basis quotations were unchanged. Quotations were fairly firm on spot western grown wools even though some new wools were offered to be delivered slightly lower than prices asked on old clip wools remaining on this market.

NATIONAL CITY BANK TO SELL HAITIAN BRANCH

Marks Rapid Passing of U. S. Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—An agreement between the Haitian government and the National City bank of New York whereby the Banque Nationale d'Haiti, a branch of the New York bank, is to be sold to Haiti, has been completed. The contract of sale is en route by air to Port au Prince in the custody of Albert Blanchet, the Haitian minister.

The arrangement will have to be ratified by the Haitian legislature. Details were withheld but the agreement is understood to provide for payment over a period of years.

American Control Passing.

If carried out the sale of the bank will remove one of the chief obstacles to early removal of American fiscal control over the financial affairs of Haiti. Along with the withdrawal of the last United States marines by the end of October, 1934, this would end the American occupation of Haiti started in 1915.

When the Haitian government proposed several months ago to have the fiscal control and receivership of customs transferred from the fiscal representative appointed by the president of Haiti on the nomination of President Roosevelt, to the Banque Nationale, objection was made at the state department to the American ownership of the bank. It was felt that if American nationals were to supervise Haitian finances they should be appointees of this government, under government control.

To Pay By Instalments.

James L. Perkins, chairman of the National City bank offered about two months ago to sell the Haitian branch to the government of Haiti. This appeared to solve the problem, except that the Haitian treasury did not have the funds. Instalment payments were then worked out.

From unofficial descriptions of the contract of sale, it would appear that the transfer of fiscal control will provide continued protection for the American holders of $11,000,000 of Haitian bonds outstanding. It is understood that the governors' board of the banque will, until the external indebtedness is liquidated or funded, have a majority of American members, selected from slates nominated by the foreign bondholders' protective council and by the National City bank as fiscal agent of the Haitian government in the United States.

BRITISH FIGURES SHOW NEW GAIN IN EMPLOYMENT

Number at Work Best in Three Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—Improved employment conditions in the United Kingdom were reported by the commerce department today in its weekly survey of foreign business conditions based upon reports from commercial attachés abroad.

The March returns of persons registered in Great Britain as seeking employment, the department said, show a reduction of 116,000 applicants from the preceding month, and of 575,000 as compared with March, 1933. The figures for most of the major industries reveal better employment. The total of registered unemployment in March was 2,202,000, of which 1,797,000 were listed as wholly unemployed. The figure given for employment is now above 10,000,000, the highest in more than three years. Smaller emigration and a larger number of entrants into industry, particularly juveniles, allow for a good employment showing without necessarily a corresponding decline in unemployment.

Belgian Conditions Discouraging.

Reports on conditions in other countries follow in part:

BELGIUM—Business conditions continue discouraging. Most branches of industrial and commercial activity showed little or no improvement during March and retail trade was particularly slow, notwithstanding the fact that the Easter season should have stimulated sales. Unemployment has risen, according to the latest statistics, and financial sentiment is less confident.

GERMANY—The contrast between the apparent pickup in domestic employment and the precarious position of German foreign trade and international finance was very striking toward the end of the first quarter of 1934. Domestic employment, industrial production and consumption were spurred by the government's new drive for the absorption of another couple of million unemployed. The improved industrial situation, however, was overshadowed during the first quarter by the unfavorable position of the foreign trade and a loss of gold by the national bank.

Italian Foreign Trade Adverse.

ITALY—The development of foreign trade continues to be adverse as compared with last year, although exports are slowly increasing from the low point reached in January. The adverse balance, which was only 90,300,000 lire in March last year, advanced to 217,600,000 lire in March, 1934, and for the first quarter of this year the import excess has been 70 per cent larger than in the same period of 1933 despite a considerably smaller total turnover.

JAPAN—Reaction to a bullish movement on the stock market has resulted from the adverse situation in the raw silk industry and sharp declines in cotton and rayon prices. Heavy liquidation occurred in practically all security issues, but particularly in rayon and mining shares. Increased supplies of raw silk and a decline in cocoon prices to the lowest point since last November present an unfavorable outlook for the immediate future.

RUBBER CONSUMPTION RISES.

CATTLE OUTSELL SWINE BY NEW RECORD MARGIN

Beef Industry Fighting Processing Tax.

Interest of the live stock markets during the last week centered around the fight the beef industry is waging to block the levying of a processing tax on cattle, such as that which has depressed hog prices to within a few cents of the lowest April level in almost 40 years.

Never in the history of the markets have cattle outsold swine by such a wide margin. While steers are selling $1 above the high point of 1933 the tax burdened hogs are $1.60 below that time. Sensational advances in the cattle market carried top weighty steers to the highest levels since November, 1932, and increased the average per head value $20 over the low time of the depression. Some of the big weights which were almost unsalable a few months ago at $4 to $5 are selling now at $8 to $8.60. Those at the latter price show an increase of $50 per head over the low of last winter.

Heavier Kinds Sell Best.

Competition last week centered on the heavier cattle, those weighing over 1,200 pounds selling to the best advantage. These kind were elevated 25 to 50 cents, while an oversupply of unfinished lighter weights attracted by the big margins of profits for the farmers in almost all classes of bovine stock, caused a reaction in 1,000 pound averages and lighter weights. They closed 25 cents lower for the week. Cows and hefers were strong to 25 cents higher and calves showed a rise of 75 cents.

The general average price for beef steers for the entire week was raised to $6.65, the highest in 18 months and highest for this time of the season in three years. This price is 75 per cent above the hog average for the week, whereas the cattle price for the corresponding period in 1933 was only 30 per cent over hogs.

Hogs at Low Level.

Adversely influenced by the tax and declines in provision markets, hogs registered losses that brought the average for the week down to $3.50. The price is only 15 cents above the lowest spot for April since 1896. Because of the processing tax the spread between the price the consumer pays for pork, and the price the farmer gets for his hogs, is the widest in history.

Fresh pork loins closed the week at 11½ to 14 cents a pound, as against a range of 7 to 9 cents a year ago, yet the week's average price of hogs paid to the farmer is 10 cents under a year ago.

The week-end receipts of live stock were mostly billed direct to packers from other points. Of the 9,000 hogs received yesterday only about 500 were offered on the market, the rest going to packers.

Down 10 to 15 Cents.

Prices declined 10 to 15 cents in the better grades, while scattered lots of packing sows were sold steady. As the general average sank to $3.60, tops were halted at $3.70. One load of fancy light butchers was bid $3.75, but the salesman held it over for Monday's trade.

Lambs during the week pursued the same course as cattle to the highest price levels in several years. The general average for the week at $9.85 was highest since July, 1930, and above any April price in five years. Evidence of weakness in the wool trade, which has slipped a little since the arrival of new clips, was counterbalanced by the active demand for dressed lamb at higher prices.

BUMPER FRUIT CROP IN STORE FOR MICHIGAN

Thousands Visit State in Blossom Time.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—Millions of tiny buds on the fruit trees which grace the hillsides of Michigan's western shores are about to burst into bloom. The prospect of another glorious blossom time—the signal for merrymaking in town and countryside as tens of thousands of visitors come to share the delights of lavish bloom and rich fragrance—has set this region agog.

The southwestern Michigan blossom time festival starts next week-end and continues a week. Preparations have been made to entertain 150,000 visitors. The fruit farmers are up at dawn, pruning and spraying their trees, grooming the vineyards and piling up the dead wood for the big bonfires which will light up the skies here a week hence.

Prepare For Merrymaking.

In the cities and villages townsfolk are organizing into groups to decorate the floats for the big festival parade; selecting their beautiful young ladies to compete for the honor of becoming the queen or a member of her court; grooming their lawns and roadsides as the setting for the gorgeous riot of bloom that is imminent.

Nature has endowed this region with climatic conditions that have been combined with nearness to Chicago and some 13 million people who look forward each summer to the luscious fruit, berries, melons and grapes that are picked here—ripe—on one day and served on their tables the next.

The temperatures of the lake serve to control the western winds which sweep over these clay loam hillsides. Aided by the scientific developments in modern farming and transportation the volume of perishable foods produced here has grown steadily in recent years. At the same time the variety of products, and their improved quality, has maintained a steady income for the farmers who grow them, the townsfolk who make the baskets, boxes and other supplies demanded, and for the thousands from Chicago and other cities close by who engage in the farm to consumer distribution processes.

Spurn Federal Aid.

There seems to be no inclination to seek for government or other outside influence in their affairs, except to encourage measures of grading the crops for quality or to share with the county agencies in evolvinlg new scientific practices of production. In fact only recently this region has been in protest against federal or state regulation of the trucks that have largely replaced trains and steamships in hauling the produce to market as well as against the use of government funds in financing marketing agencies.

From the time the first asparagus is ready to market, in another fortnight, until the last winter apples are shipped next December, there will be a constant flow of new wealth out of and into this region. Factories are busy now, and have been for some time, making the chemicals for the sprays, converting timber into light boxes and baskets, printing billions of labels in gay colors, and making and selling of special machinery and fertilizers. Most of these materials are produced right here in this region.

Yielded 5 Million Last Year.

It is estimated that this region yielded more than $5,250,000 last year as the price paid to farmers for their finished products. On the Benton Harbor market alone the sales reached $2,633,673 for the contents of 6,073,282 packages, which required the equivalent of 136 trains of 50 box cars each to ship to markets.

The peach crop is largely lost this year. The same frosts that killed the peach buds, except on some of the early varieties, here took most of the peach crop in southern Illinois, Indiana and the eastern peach growing areas.

But those who ordinarily buy peaches during the summer will turn to other fruits and to berries, melons, tomatoes, and grapes, and the Michigan fruit farmer knows this.

Then, too, Chicago's millions of visitors for the World's Fair have brought increased demands for Michigan produce, and with this market in prospect the fruit belt welcomes blossom time as nature's heralding of a busy summer season.

20,000 BARRELS OF WHISKY BURN IN $5,000,000 FIRE

Lexington, Ky., April 28.—(AP)—Twenty thousand barrels of whisky, some of it 21 years old, were destroyed in a spectacular five million dollar fire that swept the Schenley owned James E. Pepper distillery near Lexington today.

A night watchman, Stanley Travis, 24, died in a Lexington hospital from burns received when he was trapped between two blazing buildings. Investigators said the fire started about 1 o'clock this morning when Travis threw gasoline into a heating stove. The flames quickly swept four warehouses, the gauging room, and bottling plant.

Firemen had the fire under control after three hours of intensive work, but the ruins were still smoldering today. A new $400,000 distilling plant nearing completion was saved.

Sleeper Airplanes to Go Into Service on May 5

Sleeper airplane service will be inaugurated for the first time on May 5 between Dallas, Fort Worth and Los Angeles, it was announced yesterday by Lester D. Seymour, president of the American Airlines. The interior of the sleeper plane is arranged into six sections with berths for 12 passengers. The seats are of the lounge chair type and are convertible into upper and lower berths. Cruising at approximately 160 miles an hour, the Curtiss-Wright transport planes will bring the terminal cities within 11 hours of each other.

ADVISES PLACING YOUNG OFFENDER IN FOSTER HOME

Report Urges Study of Each Case.

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—[U.P.]—The experiment of placing juvenile offenders in foster homes rather than in correctional institutions, unless they require special care for particular handicaps and problems, was recommended today in a fact finding report to Gov. Henry Horner by the Illinois Conference on Social Welfare.

The report, which is based on discussions at a joint conference of welfare agencies on correctional education at Chicago April 6, declares that correctional institutions should be "reserved for exceptional offenders and children who seem to demand custodial placement." It stressed handling each case according to its needs.

Included in the report is a letter written by A. L. Bowen, Springfield, director of the state department of public welfare, in which he said that if juvenile schools at Geneva [for girls] and St. Charles [for boys] are to continue "they must adopt methods which will fire the imagination of their pupils."

Commitments Show Drop.

"It seems to me we have been putting too much emphasis upon driving out evil spirits and not enough warming into life the talents and genius so many of these young people possess," Bowen wrote.

Marked falling off in the number of inmates at the two schools was reported by Bowen and attributed by him to social and educational forces in the local communities.

"It is gratifying to report marked falling off in the population of the two schools," Bowen stated in the report. "July 1, 1931, St. Charles had 750 boys enrolled. A year later enrollment was 649. At present it is 516. Geneva had present July 1, 1931, 556; 446 a year later, and 311 today.

Interest Is in Prevention.

"We should expect this reduction. Social educational forces in the local community, the various volunteer agencies in behalf of children should vindicate themselves by such graphic results. These results lead many of us to believe the two schools have completed their mission."

Findings and recommendations by the conference included the following:

"At the best little can be done in the way of education and training in a correctional institution. The area for real work lies in the field of prevention.

"In changing the environmental effect of poor homes, poor community resources, etc., by providing better facilities for recreation, greater economic security, adequate education, and satisfactory homes in normal community life.

Salvaging the Individual.

"A wider educational emphasis in our correctional institutions is needed to overcome the evils of social life today. Out of recreational activities, home life activities, educational activities, and through careful consideration for the mental and physical health of the boys and girls enrolled, shall come a rehabilitation of these individual offenders."

CONTRASTS U. S. RADIO PROGRAMS WITH ENGLAND'S

Contrasts between English and American radio programs was discussed here yesterday by Roger Eckersley, director-in-chief of entertainment for the British Broadcasting corporation, a visitor in Chicago at the Blackstone hotel.

In explaining the differences between the two systems, Mr. Eckersley, who visited the Columbia Broadcasting corporation studios here at Radio City in New York, revealed that there are no programs sponsored by advertisers in England.

"Here in America," he said, "one can rarely listen to a program of exquisite music without having a voice chime in to extol the virtues of soap or whatever the product may be. In England, listeners pay a yearly fee of ten shillings [$2.50] and in return receive uninterrupted programs."

POLICE TO GUARD WILD FLOWERS IN FOREST PRESERVE

This is the wild flower season, but hunters are warned that those who pick the blossoms in the forest preserves will be arrested and prosecuted. Emmett Whealan, president of the forest preserve board, announced that special policemen would be on duty in all the preserves today to enforce the no plucking rule. The action was taken, he added because the breaking off of the blossoms causes the death of the plants that produce them.

Tells Architects More Apartments Now Would Be a Calamity

BUILDING COSTS BOOSTED BY NRA, FRENCH STATES

Materials Are Up a Third Since July.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

EARL H. REED JR.

Practically every form of union labor could be put back to work on thousands of well built apartment buildings in Chicago if labor and building material costs were lowered, according to Milo B. French, secretary of the First of Englewood Bond and Mortgage corporation. Mr. French made this statement in a reply to Chicago architects, who objected to the petition protesting against federal housing signed by several hundred real estate men, property owners, bankers, and others and sent to Public Works Administrator Ickes.

In a letter addressed to Earl H. Reed Jr., president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Mr. French took up point by point the program announced last Sunday by which the architects hope to promote more local housing.

Answers Charges.

He quoted the following paragraph from a report by an architectural committee: "We have reason to believe that certain selfish interests are seeking to bring about this abnormal and unsatisfactory condition in an attempt to revive thousands of buildings in Chicago which are so fundamentally defective and undesirable that they can operate profitably only during a period of actual housing shortage."

"If self-preservation means 'certain selfish interests' then I am guilty of being placed in the category of 'selfish interests,' because any more apartment buildings in this town at the present time are not only going to fail," Mr. French replied, "and the sponsors be sorry that they started them, but they will work a definite hardship on our present apartment buildings that are struggling along trying to emerge from the darkness. Any more apartment buildings at this time would be a calamity."

Material Prices Rise.

"I still firmly maintain that practically every form of union labor could be put back to work if labor and material costs would come down on thousands of well built apartment buildings in Chicago, none of them over twenty years old, and these men would be steadily employed over a longer period of time.

"Under the NRA bathtubs that were selling last July for $22 are $38 today. Lumber, radiation, plaster, electric supplies and all other items used in the construction and repairing of buildings are at least a third higher than they were a year ago.

"I am in receipt of a communication from a builder who has spent his life in the building business in Chicago, and who has erected hundreds of all types of housing structures. I quote from his letter:

"'If your letter and petition will cause Harold L. Ickes to make a further study of the situation before starting the proposed housing plan [and I believe it will], you have performed a great work.

Points to England.

"'Your effort will be instrumental in saving the taxpayers throughout this country hundreds of millions of dollars. The two hundred million dollar loss suffered by England a few years back on a similar project would only be a drop in the bucket compared to the money that would be lost by the government by reason of such action.'"

Mr. French then considered the following point in the architects' program: "Conduct an active campaign of publicity which will point out to the public true facts of present inadequacy of housing, imminent shortage of housing of all types and danger of exorbitant rentals resulting from an effort to block normal new construction."

He replied: "I would be very much interested to see the results of this active campaign of publicity and have the light of day thrown on this housing situation.

"I don't think there is much danger of exorbitant rentals. Before we can collect exorbitant rentals on these apartment buildings, people have got to get back to work. We are certainly not getting exorbitant rentals now at $6, $7, $8, $9, and $10 per room. We are back to about the 1916 level of rents and on the 1929 level of operating expenses—way out of balance."

Marks Brothers, Jewelers, to Have Second Loop Shop

Marks Brothers, jewelers at 148 North State street, have leased for a term of years the store at 218 South State street, in the Consumers building, and will operate the two establishments. L. A. McHale of the Kesner Realty trust represented all parties. The new store is to be remodelel and a new front installed.

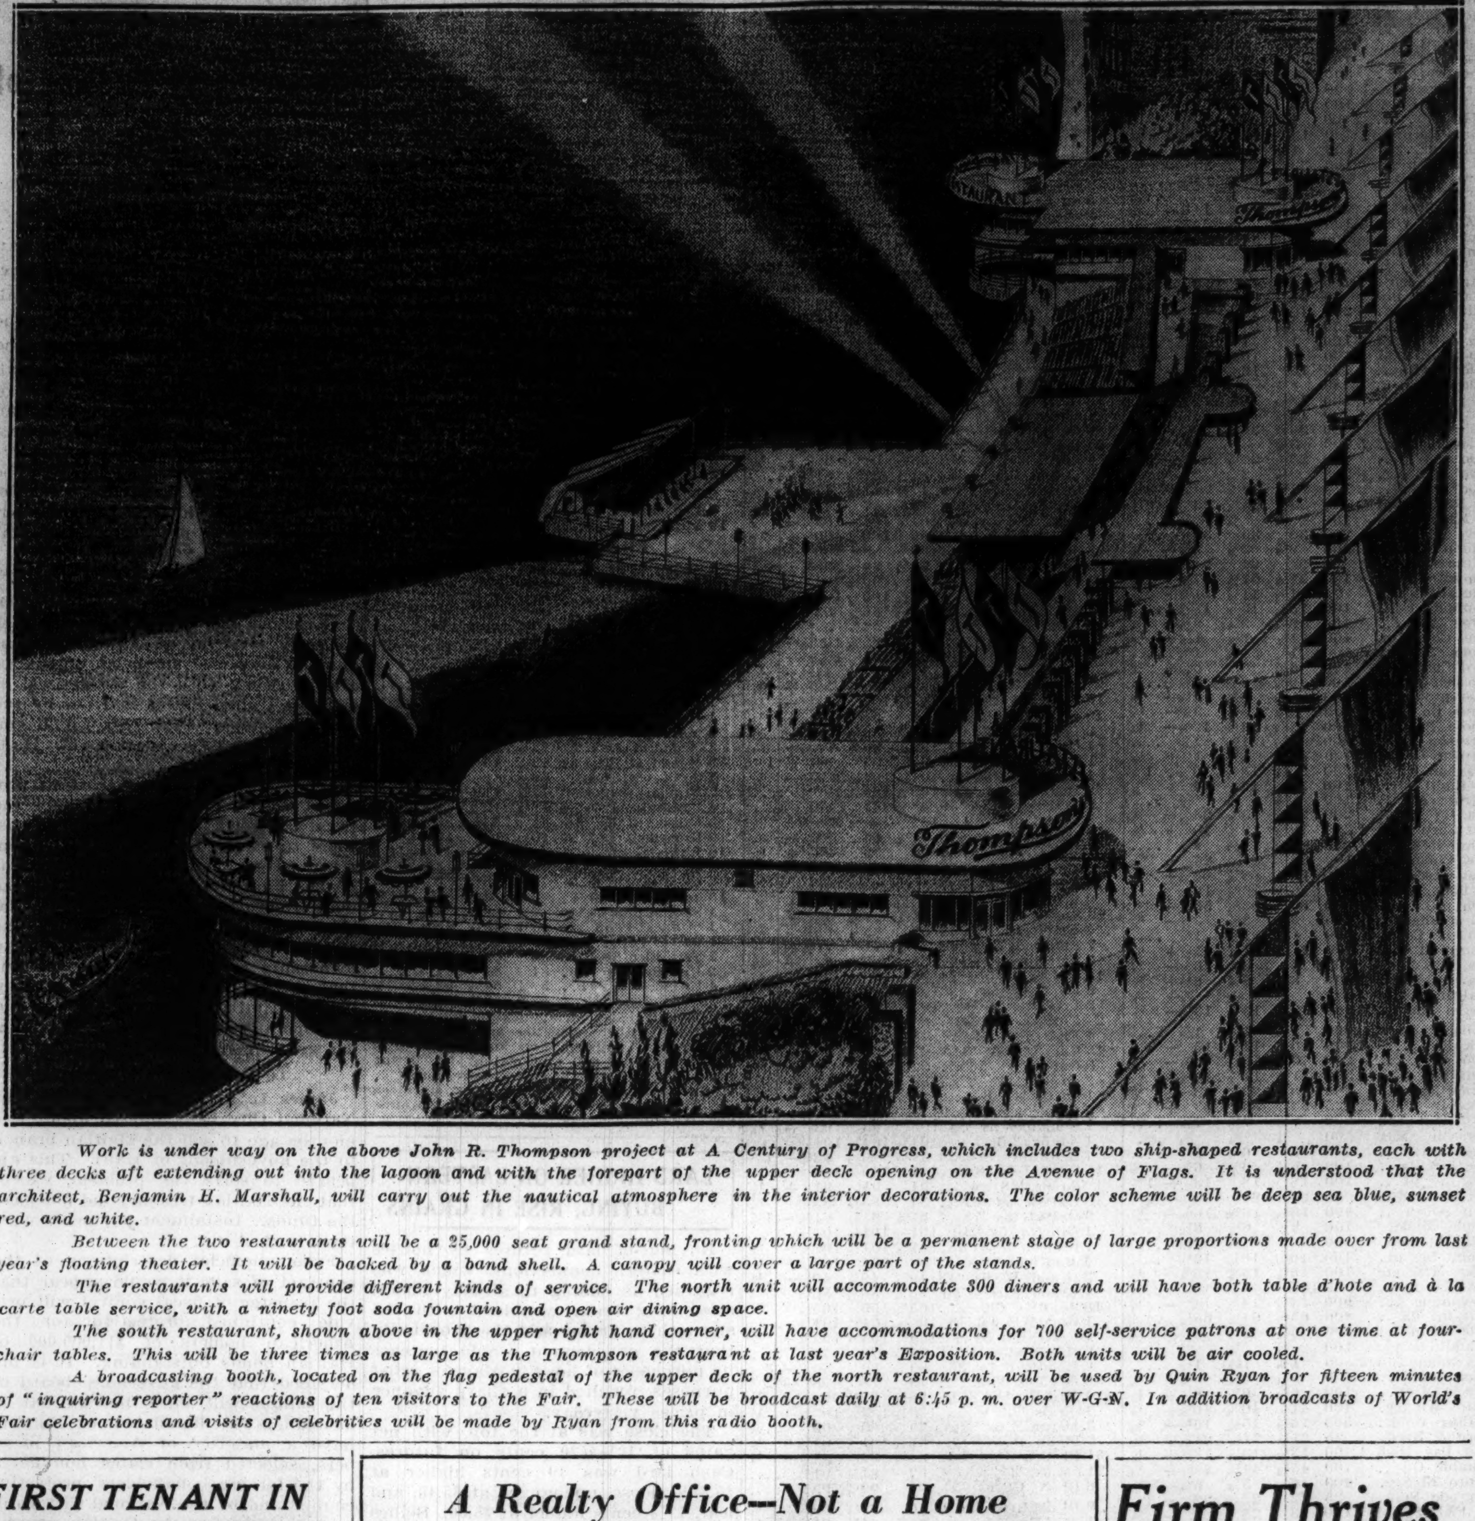
TWO NAUTICAL CAFES FOR A CENTURY OF PROGRESS



Work is under way on the above John R. Thompson project at A Century of Progress, which includes two ship-shaped restaurants, each with three decks all extending out into the lagoon and with the forepart of the upper deck opening on the Avenue of Flags. It is understood that the architect, Benjamin H. Marshall, will carry out the nautical atmosphere in the interior decorations. The color scheme will be deep sea blue, sunset red, and white.

Between the two restaurants will be a 25,000 seat grand stand, fronting which will be a permanent stage of large proportions made over from last year's floating theater. It will be backed by a band shell. A canopy will cover a large part of the stands.

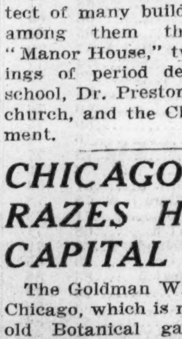
The restaurants will provide different kinds of service. The north unit will accommodate 500 diners and will have both table d'hote and à la carte table service, with a ninety foot soda fountain and open air dining space.

The south restaurant, shown above in the upper right hand corner, will have accommodations for 700 self-service patrons at one time at four-chair tables. This will be three times as large as the Thompson restaurant at last year's Exposition. Both units will be air cooled.

A broadcasting booth, located on the flag pedestal of the upper deck of the north restaurant, will be used by Quin Ryan for fifteen minutes of "inquiring reporter" reactions of ten visitors to the Fair. These will be broadcast daily at 6:45 p. m. over W-G-N. In addition broadcasts of World's Fair celebrations and visits of celebrities will be made by Ryan from this radio booth.

FIRST TENANT IN FIRST NATIONAL MOVES UPTOWN

J. E. O. Pridmore, who claims the distinction of being the first tenant in the First National Bank building, and who has maintained offices in that structure for more than three decades, has moved to the headquarters of the Colonial and Nassau Building corporations, of which he is the executive officer, at 5959 Winthrop avenue. When Mr. Pridmore rented his office on the seventeenth floor of the First National Bank building he had to climb ladders to reach it.



J. E. O. PRIDMORE.

Mr. Pridmore is nationally known as architect of playhouses—he designed the Cort, the Adelphi, the Sheridan, the Nortown, and many others here and in other cities. He also was architect of many buildings in Edgewater, among them the "Gables" and "Manor House," two apartment buildings of period design, the Stickney school, Dr. Preston Bradley's People's church, and the Church of the Atonement.

CHICAGO FIRM RAZES HISTORIC CAPITAL THEATER

The Goldman Wrecking company of Chicago, which is now demolishing the old Botanical garden buildings at Washington, D. C., has been awarded two more contracts at the capital. One whole block on Pennsylvania avenue, between 9th and 10th streets, extending to C street, is to be torn down to make way for an extension of the Internal Revenue building. Washington's oldest playhouse, "The President," is on this site. It was built in 1803 and was the scene of several inaugural balls beginning with that for President Adams in 1825.

The Chicago concern also will wreck another entire city block in Washington to provide for an extension of the federal warehouse.

Two Chicago contracts also were awarded. The five story building, 200x100, at 1458-72 West Kinzie, owned by Sol Goldsmith, is being wrecked. The three story Bennett building at the northeast corner of Ravenswood and Wilson avenues, 100x150, is to be torn down.

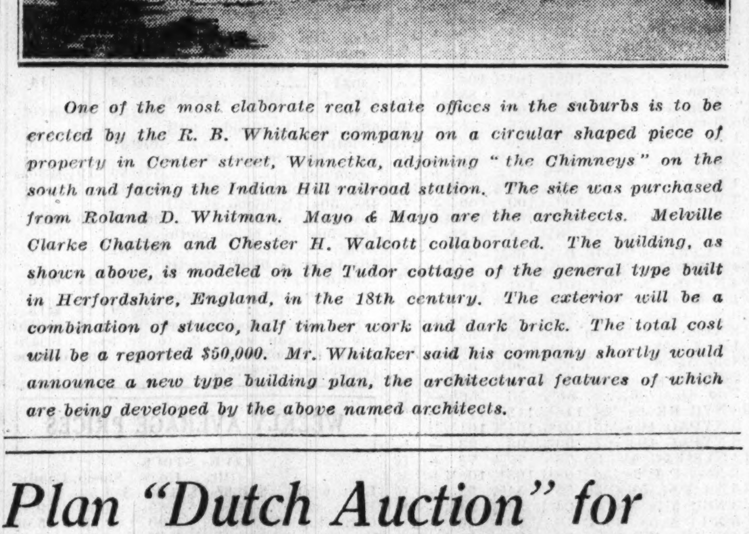
White Castle Chain Builds Steel and Porcelain Unit

What is said to be the first porcelain paneled exterior, steel fabricated building in Chicago has just been erected in twelve working days at the northwest corner of Kedzie and Archer avenues by the White Castle system of lunchrooms. This is its eighteenth Chicago branch; the other seventeen are of white enamel brick. The 39x30 site was leased from the Central Republic Trust company through Thor W. Johnson & Co.

Sixty-three Year Old Gold Coast Cottage Is Leased

The sixty-three year old frame cottage at 71 East Walton place has been leased by Judge Clarence N. Goodwin to Albert Horodesky for five years for occupancy by a unit in the chain of Royal Blue stores. Sudler & Co. and P. C. Oleson were brokers. Judge Goodwin purchased the property from the Grimm sisters, Anna and Walburga, daughters of Xavier Grimm, who built the house immediately after the fire of 1871. The lessee has remodeled it.

A Realty Office—Not a Home



One of the most elaborate real estate offices in the suburbs is to be erected by the R. B. Whitaker company on a circular shaped piece of property in Center street, Winnetka, adjoining "the Chimneys" on the south and facing the Indian Hill railroad station. The site was purchased from Roland D. Whitman. Mayo & Mayo are the architects. Melville Clarke Chatten and Chester H. Walcott collaborated. The building, as shown above, is modeled on the Tudor cottage of the general type built in Herfordshire, England, in the 18th century. The exterior will be a combination of stucco, half timber work and dark brick. The total cost will be a reported $50,000. Mr. Whitaker said his company shortly would announce a new type building plan, the architectural features of which are being developed by the above named architects.

Plan "Dutch Auction" for River Forest Residence

Taking his cue from leisurely Holland, where auction prices go down instead of up; where the auctioneer does the bidding, each time at a lower figure, and the prospective buyers merely stand idly around until they decide to say when, Buckingham Chandler, president of the First Realty company of Chicago, is to give the middle west its first "Dutch auction."

BUCKINGHAM CHANDLER.

He announced yesterday that the eight room residence at 612 Clinton place, River Forest, owned by Miss Ruth Abendroth, will be sold at auction by the Holland method beginning May 1. Briefly, this is the "Dutch auction" system. Prospective buyers are invited to look at the property and purchase it, if any one cares to, for $12,000.

If there is no buyer the price will be marked down the next day, with the selling price of that day, May 2, posted on the building. The following day the price again will be lowered and daily this will be done until the price appeals to some one as a bargain.

"I believe this method will work out successfully in not only liquidating the property for cash but getting a fair figure for it, so that the person who must sell can know he can force a sale and get money in an orderly, safe, and conservative manner," said Mr. Chandler. "I also believe that the buying public can get cash bargains and at the same time have plenty of time to look through the property and make up their minds as to what they wish to pay, which facility is not given them in the old, stereotyped form of auction."

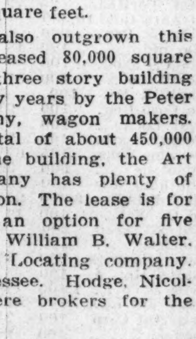
Firm Thrives All Through the Depression

Closing of one of the largest industrial leases of several months—80,000 square feet at 2509 West Cermak road—yesterday disclosed a business which was started just prior to the beginning of the depression and which has thrived throughout the era of hard times.



BENJ. WEINBERG.

The Art Publishing company, of which Benjamin Weinberg is president, and which is a subsidiary of the Regensteiner corporation, started in business in November, 1928, with 2,500 square feet of space and twelve employés, at 511 South Laflin street. Mr. Weinberg had decided that there was a big market for well framed but low priced reproductions of good pictures.

His idea apparently was correct and within a year he had outgrown his quarters and moved to 900 West Lake street, where he used 10,000 square feet, or four times as much as he started with. A year and a half later he outgrew this space and rented three times as much at 1750 Fulton street, or 30,000 square feet.

Now he has also outgrown this space and has leased 80,000 square feet in the big three story building occupied for many years by the Peter Schuttler company, wagon makers. As there is a total of about 450,000 square feet in the building, the Art Publishing company has plenty of room for expansion. The lease is for five years with an option for five years additional. William B. Walter, of the Industrial Locating company, represented the lessee. Hodge, Nicolson & Porter were brokers for the lessor.

Mr. Weinberg said that his company makes everything but the glass in the framed pictures. The reproductions are made, the wood is purchased in the south and cut into framing and the job is completed by the 260 employés now on the pay roll. Not only are the framed pictures sold in the chain stores but also in some of the big State street department stores.

Allen B. Wrisley Company Again to Enlarge Factory

The Allen B. Wrisley company, soap manufacturers, who last June added a new unit of 15,000 square feet to its 100,000 square foot plant at 6801 West 65th street, in the Clearing Industrial district, yesterday arranged for 30,000 square feet additional to meet increased business demands. The district is to erect a one story addition, 140x240. H. P. Phelps, vice president of the district, and George Wrisley, vice president of the Wrisley company, conducted the negotiations.

FIELD BUILDING OPENING TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Structure Is Finished on Schedule.

The new 43 story Field building, Chicago's largest office structure, at La Salle, Adams, and Clark, will be opened officially tomorrow, on schedule time. The first section has been occupied for several months. The entire building will be opened on April 30 with 42 elevators giving service to all floors, and the arcade extending from La Salle to Clark will be opened to the public.

ROBT. CARPENTER.

Robert Carpenter, manager of the building, yesterday told of the vast amount of material which went into the construction of this huge structure. Twenty-five thousand tons of steel, 43,000 barrels of cement, 340 miles of copper wire, and 130 miles of conduit were used.

Use 150 Tons of Aluminum.

There are 3,300 aluminum framed windows for which 150 tons of aluminum were used; 120,000 square feet of marble, and 500,000 board feet of walnut lumber and veneers. On the exterior walls there are 158,000 cubic feet of Indiana limestone. There are 31,000 electric outlets throughout the structure.

The building site covers 61,000 square feet and the structure has a floor area of 1,400,000 square feet, of which 1,000,000 square feet is rentable. The total height is 535 feet.

Wreckers began to tear down the old Home Insurance building, at La Salle and Adams on Sept. 26, 1931. Since that time the builders have never fallen behind their schedule; at times they were six weeks ahead.

Four Floors Air Conditioned.

Shops will open on the block long arcade between La Salle and Clark and in addition the lower level arcade will have a safe deposit vault, physical training facilities, barber shop, and restaurants. Special elevator service will be provided from the vault room to all floors for the convenience of brokerage and banking houses.

The arcade and the first four floors of the building will be air conditioned.

FAIR HOME IS SOLD BEFORE IT IS BUILT

Selling a World's Fair model home before it is erected is reported by General Houses, Inc. The company stated yesterday that the new prefabricated steel panel residence now being erected at A Century of Progress has been purchased by Brown, Schlessman & Owen, investment bankers, of Denver, Colo. At the close of the Exposition the house will be taken apart, shipped to Denver and reërected there. The panel units are merely bolted together.

First Chicago House with Elevator to Be Made Cafe

The three story, brown stone, fourteen room residence erected in 1885 by P. C. Hanford, an oil magnate of his date, at 2008 Calumet avenue, was sold yesterday by William R. Barnes of New York to Jack Chaderjin for an undisclosed consideration. The house, which was the first residence in the city to have a private elevator installed, will be remodeled and opened late in May as the Club Internationale, under the direction of Pedro Mosgofian, a Turk, who at one time operated the Petrushka club and the Club Stamboul. James R. Sterling, of Ross & Browne, was broker for all parties.

OAK PARK ASKS 21 MI. STATE ROADS

WEST SIDE RENT RATES SHOWING UPWARD TREND

Apartments More than 95% Filled.

BY GLADYS PERROW.

No longer will May 1 play the pied piper and lure west siders into the maelstrom of spring moving. "Moving Day" has passed into history, as far as the old stampede out one door and in another is concerned, in the opinion of leading real estate men of the west side.

Looking back over the week's activity, they report an average of slightly less than 5 per cent of vacancies before and after May 1. Joseph B. Ford of the Ford Realty company, whose territory lies between North avenue and Roosevelt road, and Ashland avenue and Austin boulevard, indicated that a decided upward trend in rental rates apparently had not disturbed the majority of tenants under his observation.

"Nearly 40 per cent of my apartments have been raised from $2.50 to $10.00 each," he explained, "but the tenants appear to realize that business is on the upward swing and prices are not far behind." Good omens were reported found in the relatively prompt payments made everywhere in this particular district, with the exception of tenants in the employ of the city or county.

In an area of duplex apartments and cosmopolitan races, therefore, real estate activities are mainly steady, showing an optimism which expresses itself in a majority of tenants and landlords alike. Vacant property is dormant, however, according to Mr. Ford.

Expiring Leases Renewed.

Only the "old elephants," apartments out of date and in need of immediate repair, are vacant in another west side district, according to William J. Klibanow, head of one of the prominent realty companies. From 26th street south, to 6500 north, and 6000 west, the new apartment buildings are all rented.

"Out of 250 families giving notice of removal on May 1, only 65 actually carried out their plans," he said. Further hopeful signs were noted by the same company when 95 per cent of 1,000 expired leases were immediately renewed, with avowed intentions to keep up regular payments. "People aren't all working yet, but they have confidence that when they do they'll be better paid than ever," another realtor remarked.

North Austin, with its homes, duplexes, and bungalows, will continue on approximately the same rent levels. "Our collections have been better since Jan. 1 than for some months," Otto A. Kling of the Kling Real Estate Service revealed. "We are not raising rents, with the possible exception of the very low ones, until the fall. And that is not certain."

Building Income Better.

A general consensus disclosed that completely occupied apartment buildings had a splendid effect upon the incomes from the buildings. "We'd rather have tenants at the present rates than to have a lot of vacancies," the group agreed.

F. N. Thuerk of the F. C. Pilgrim company, whose business covers the territory from 48th avenue to Austin boulevard and North avenue to Harrison street, declared himself in favor of immediate redecoration of several of the buildings in his district. "The only drawback is not so much the expense, as the lack of decorators. We simply can not find any, in spite of the code prices and salaries."

Mr. Berge explained the fundamental details of the organization, and the specific requirements for all who desired federal loans.

The real estate board was organized seven months ago with the purpose of serving not only the individual members but the public as well, according to Joseph B. Ford, president. Other officers of the group include Arthur Davidson, vice president; Mrs. W. H. Wright, secretary, and Joseph Shodin, treasurer.

OAK PARK C. OF C. MAY DAY TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY

The third annual May day to be held under the auspices of the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Tuesday. Thomas Hungerford, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has urged merchants to enter the sales event wholeheartedly in offering real values, advertising their merchandise, and properly displaying their wares.

"Unless you tell your customers what you have they will never find out," he declared. "People are not looking into nooks and crannies to purchase merchandise. The merchant who has attractive stock on display, real values to offer, and tells the public about it, is the merchant who gets results."

Each year Oak Park's May day sales events have grown more successful.

The Junior Theater group was organized by Mrs. Krinley for the purpose of introducing the better children's plays so that west side children could play in them and learn to appreciate the better type of drama as they grow older.

Morry Stein, a newcomer to the group, will play the title rôle of Daddy Long Legs, and Dorothy Brownstein will play the part of Judy. The two will be supported by the following cast: Alma Samuels, Minnie Samet, Eve Pregozen, Seymour Friedman, Muriel Rosenthal, Fay Quateman, Jaqueline Seifer, Eli Samet, Mary Singer, Lila Horowitz, Miriam Rosenberg, Sophie Wesellman, Albert Dubov, Gertrude Shapiro, Herman Samet, Lois Klibanow, Charlotte Nelson, Dorothy Horowitz, Joseph Mellowitz, Yvonne Grossblatt, Evelyn Rosenthal, Fred Kharasch, Libby Miizus, Ruth Tarson, Sylvia Silverstein, Blossom Gombiner, Jeanette Schaifer, Sam Balikov, and Oscar Miller.

JEWISH PEOPLE'S INSTITUTE WINS BOGAN'S PRAISE

Held 'Refuge from Results of Depression.'

Describing the Jewish People's institute as an "institution which takes its pattern from the varied needs of all the people of the community," William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools in Chicago, expressed recently his approval of the aims and accomplishments of the entire center. "The astonishing success of this great institution . . . directs educators and social workers everywhere to a possible solution of some of their perplexing problems," he declared.

Supt. Bogan pointed out that the older types of educational institutions, such as the universities, have traditions that fix their form and circumscribe their activities. "The institute is not only a people's university; it is more than that," he added. "Nothing human is alien to its purposes. The work there recognizes that is it not possible to solve the problems of today by economic measures alone. By their wide range of stimulating activities they are providing a refuge from the most serious results of the depression. No greater service can be rendered to the nation."

The institute combines recreational facilities for boys and girls, camps, clubs, and scouting, with a fine series of lectures and concerts for the people of the neighborhood. Its patrons are aided in becoming familiar with the classics in literature and the best in contemporary material.

The lectures include the subjects of psychology, philosophy, child study, economic trends, the moving forces of world history, the drama, health, human ideals, and other topics.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

A LADY of offices and honors is Miss Mildred Stengl, Harrison High school graduate who "made good" at the University of Illinois. She has received three of the highest honors Illinois has to confer upon its women: Election to Phi Beta Kappa, Mortar Board, and presidency of the women's group system. This brought her automatically the vice presidency of the women's league, and of the student council. She is president of the Wesley Players, a national honorary dramatic club, and member of Sigma Delta Phi, national speech sorority. And when Miss Stengl rounds out her work in several other organizations, she will manage to graduate as a speech major to "teach, I suppose, or coach plays"—so she says. Her four years as one of the leading women on the campus have given her "a splendid outlook for the future," she opines.

Friends of Mrs. Emily A. Carr, 416 Home avenue, have been congratulating her upon reaching her 95th year recently. Mrs. Carr celebrated her birthday with a tea in her home, at which numbers of her friends and relatives were present. She was born in April, 1839, on a farm near Decatur, Ill., and has been a resident of Oak Park for the last 37 years.

AS a result of her marked ability in the field of English, Miss Mary Virginia Weber of Oak Park has been awarded the Rosary college graduate scholarship offered by the University of Illinois for the year 1934-'35. The award was made upon recommendation of the faculty.

Attended by one of the largest crowds of the current season, Mrs. Charles M. Moline of Berwyn won the woman's handicap golf tournament at the Lakewood Country club in St. Petersburg, Fla., recently. Mrs. Moline is a member of the Nordic Country club where she already won many golf trophies.

Slipping back into the shades of the 14th century, with its heavily medieval costumes and lavishly laid banquet tables, Miss Dorothy Strahl, 3636 Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, will join her classmates at Wooster college for the third annual Chaucer banquet. Miss Strahl will appear in the garb of the Yeoman, of "Canterbury Tales" fame, tomorrow evening. She is a senior at Wooster and is majoring in the departments of English and French.

WEST side Boy Scout troops have reason for rejoicing as records from the Chicago counsel recently indicate that 294 Scouts in the west side districts have advanced a rank or obtained merit badges during the first quarter of 1934. The rank of Eagle Scout, the highest obtainable, has been won by 18 year old John MacKenzie, 741 North Long avenue. John started his Scouting career in 1928 with Troop 393.

Edwin V. Erb, 2138 West 21st street, Scoutmaster of Troop 292, has been awarded the Scoutmaster's Key, given in recognition of at least five years' service as a Scout leader, and the completion of four courses in general and two in specialized Scout leadership. Mr. Erb has been a Scout and a Scout leader for nine years.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Falk, 1326 South Kildare avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to George Kummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Kummel of Chicago.

GEORGE W. GRIFFIN of Elmhurst recently returned from his fifth journey to Australia and New Zealand. He spent a month in Sydney visiting his son, Walter Burley Griffin, and two months with his daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Lippincott, in Aukland. Mr. Griffin has been an Elmhurst resident for forty years.

Roy Connors, East Aurora High school student, has a sketch he made of President Roosevelt which the latter autographed and returned to him with a word of appreciation. The sketch is one and one-half life size and is in pencil.

YORK PLAYERS WILL PRESENT "STREET SCENE"

The single setting, that of a three story tenament building, is being created by Louis Putnam and his associates.

Mr. York will combine his three groups, the regular acting company with his juvenile and Children's theater groups to meet the stringent requirements of the script, which contains 50 speaking parts.

The long cast is headed by Miss Beverly Mills, Miss Marjorie Lamie, Miss Dorothy Reed, Miss Lillian Clinnick, Miss Genevieve Patterson, Miss Ruth Warneke, Miss Mary Broughton, Miss Mary Kissock, Miss Lauralee Howser, Willia Stewart, Philip Gusler, Robert Hearl, Henry Finlay, Dr. George Ocshier, Louis Putnam [in debut on stage], Allen York, and others.

$60,000 OUTLAY ESTIMATED FOR STREET PROJECT

Funds to Come from Gasoline Tax.

A resolution intended to resolve approximately 21 miles of Oak Park streets into state highways has been submitted by the village board to the department of public works and buildings of Illinois for approval.

Under the plan of procedure drawn up by the board under the direction of President Willis McFeely and Commissioner Dudley Meyers, the following streets would become arterial highways: Division, Lake, Madison, Jackson, Harrison, Garfield, Wisconsin, Oak Park, East, and Ridgeland.

According to present estimates, Oak Park is scheduled to receive $60,000 for this project from funds received by the state under the new motor fuel tax law. Under this law one third of the gasoline tax fund goes to schools, the remainder being divided equally between the state treasury, the county, and municipalities. For the first year the department of public works will base its estimates of various amounts to be spent on the population. Oak Park will, therefore, be the recipient of the above amount, according to this plan. The money will be spent under the direct supervision of the state highway officials, mostly for resurfacing and repairing curbstone, it is reported.

Draw Up Detailed Estimate.

The system of highways drawn up by village officials is being supplemented by a detailed estimate of the amount of work required on each of the streets named. This survey will also be submitted to the highway department for further approval, according to Commissioner Meyers.

The resolution reads as follows: Be it resolved by the president and board of trustees of the village of Oak Park that the following described streets be designated as arterial streets, subject to the approval of the department of public works and buildings, state of Illinois: Beginning at the intersection of Division street and Harlem avenue and extending thence in an easterly direction along said Division street to an intersection with Austin boulevard. This route to be known as arterial street No. 1.

No. 2 on Lake Street.

Beginning at the intersection of Lake street and Harlem avenue, along Lake street to an intersection with Austin boulevard. This route to be known as arterial street No. 2. Beginning at the intersection of Madison streets and Harlem avenue, along Madison street to an intersection with Austin boulevard. This route to be known as arterial street No. 3. Beginning at the intersection of Jackson boulevard, along Jackson boulevard and Harlem avenue to an intersection with Austin boulevard. This route to be known as arterial street No. 4. Beginning at the intersection of Garfield street and Harlem avenue, along Garfield street to the intersection with Ridgeland avenue. This to be known as arterial street No. 6. Beginning at the intersection of Harrison street and Harlem avenue, along Harrison street to an intersection with Austin boulevard. This route to be known as arterial street No. 5.

Beginning at the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and Roosevelt, along Wisconsin avenue to the intersection with Chicago avenue. This route to be known as arterial street No. 7.

Oak Park Avenue to Be No. 8.

Beginning at the intersection of Oak Park avenue and Roosevelt road, along Oak Park avenue to an intersection with North avenue. This route to be known as arterial street No. 8. Beginning at the intersection of East avenue with Roosevelt road along East avenue to intersection with North avenue. This route to be known as arterial street No. 9. Beginning at the intersection of Ridgeland avenue and Roosevelt road along Ridgeland avenue to the intersection with North avenue. This route to be known as arterial street No. 10.

The streets in Oak Park now under that classification include Harlem, Austin, Roosevelt, North, Chicago, and Washington. Work on the project is expected to commence about June 1, according to Commissioner Meyers.

The affair will be held in the school auditorium. The first concert will be given by the band and the freshman-sophomore chorus; the second, by the orchestra and the junior-senior chorus. The concerts were initiated thirteen years ago, and have been a notable part of the musical activities, both of the school and the two villages.

Lusk, recording secretary; Henry Jadeh, financial secretary; Joseph A. Spasenka, treasurer, and Rudolph Helebrant, sergeant at arms. This will be Mr. Mrkvicka's ninth term as president of the group. Dr. Lusk will start his eighth term as secretary of the association.

The association, one of the largest civic bodies in the Lawndale-Crawford district, was organized in 1925 with fifty members. The membership now totals 350. FARRAGUT HIGH SCHOOL ACTS TO RETAIN RATING

Principal Ritzma Explains Association's Criticism.

Efforts to rectify Farragut High school's lack of certain teaching facilities were already under way before the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools made its recent report, according to Principal Peter B. Ritzma. In a public statement Mr. Ritzma explained that the report, which put Farragut upon the unaccredited list, lumped all the ten new Chicago high schools together and did not criticise each individually.

The charges brought against the schools include improperly trained teachers, inadequate equipment, defective library facilities, and excessive teaching loads. "Our apparent lack of textbooks will be relieved by the large number of orders for books to be delivered in the fall," Mr. Ritzma said.

Funds Granted for Books.

"Since we were a junior high school until last September we naturally had no books for the sophomore, junior, and senior groups, but the board of education already has appropriated enough money to make up for this deficiency. Equipment in the way of maps, charts, and laboratory apparatus will be completed as a result of an $800 grant from the school board. Everything is being taken care of adequately," Mr. Ritzma continued, "with possibly one exception, and the problem of the teaching load—that is, the large number of students assigned to each teacher is up to the school board to solve, we hope by next fall."

Students of Farragut will be permitted to enter the University of Illinois without examinations this year, although the report is intended to refuse accredited standing to students of all ten schools. Next year, on the basis of a new report to be made by the association committee, the high school will either be fully accredited or students then desiring to continue their education will have to take the examinations at the higher institutions.

Association's Report Fair.

"The report made by the association was thorough and very fair," said Mr. Ritzma. "We are glad to repeat that Farragut will undoubtedly take its place among the accredited schools next year, and that our year of 'suspended action,' as named by the association report, will serve to emphasize the absolute necessity of adequate educational facilities for all Chicago High schools."

The nine other schools criticised by the association are Amundsen, Forman, Harper, Hirsch, Kelly, Kelvyn Park, Sullivan, Manley, and Von Steuben.

WEST SIDE CLUBS PLAN SEASON'S FINAL PARTIES

New Officers Take Over Women's Groups.

As the hum of busy days in winter club activities gives place to farewell luncheons and the prospect of a quiet summer, west side clubs are installing their new officers and getting club records in ship-shape. The majority of women's groups have slipped out of the publicity limelight for the time being but there are still several clubs due for spring luncheons and "annual" days. Among these is the Berwyn Woman's club, which will hold its spring luncheon at the Masonic temple, next Friday afternoon.

Mrs. W. C. Kordsieman is chairman of arrangements, and the music department is in charge of the day's program. Newly elected officers in this department include Mrs. M. C. Wagner, chairman; Mrs. J. M. Smith, vice chairman, and Mrs. H. W. Pederson, secretary.

Election of officers for the other departments is scheduled to follow the luncheon, when the following slate will be presented: Mrs. B. H. Skinner, for American Home chairman; Mrs. G. E. Salmon, secretary; Mrs. Frank Tobias, assistant chairman; Mrs. J. H. Piltz for art and literature department chairman; Mrs. L. B. Orr, secretary; Mrs. A. R. Moore, assistant chairman; Mrs. E. S. Davidson, for civic and philanthropy chairman; Mrs. J. C. O'Donnell, secretary, and Mrs. F. W. Ford, assistant chairman.

Mrs. J. Henry Eger will again head the Austin North End group, as a result of the elections held last Tuesday. Other officers for the coming year include Mrs. O. G. Grenzebach, first vice president; Mrs. Albert Kane, second vice president; Mrs. William Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. E. F. Bauer, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Harry Kindness, treasurer. Chairmen of the various departments are to be announced later.

The annual May breakfast and business meeting of the Naperville Woman's club will be held at the Spanish tea room next Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. Ardon Huebner and Carl Finkbeiner will furnish the entertainment.

In preparation for the annual club day May 9, the following members of the Longfellow Woman's club were nominated at a recent meeting: for president, Mrs. E. E. Motter; first vice president, Mrs. George W. White; second vice president, Mrs. A. F. Vroom recording secretary, Mrs. W. W. Crapo; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. B. Effigener; financial secretary, Mrs. H. D. Long, and for treasurer, Mrs. Richard Martin.

The Clyde Woman's club is rejoicing over the completion of election returns from the annual meeting held last Tuesday. Mrs. M. R. Peters will begin her second term as president of the club; Mrs. E. A. Moore will act as first vice-president for another year; Mrs. Joseph Peter is the new second vice president; Mrs. V. P. Barta will serve her second year as treasurer, and Mrs. Otto Vytlacil is the new recording secretary.

Chairmen of the various departments remain the same with the exception of conservation and gardens, whose new chairman is Mrs. Fred Meinie; education, Mrs. Earl Phillips; motion pictures, Mrs. Robert Pacl; music and travel, Mrs. Lee Jolidon, and radio, Mrs. David Seaberg.

The club also is making plans for the closing event of the year, which will be the mothers' and daughters' banquet to be held May 12 in the Clyde Park community house.

The garden circle of the Austin women's group recently elected their new committee for the coming year. Mrs. Joseph P. Kampp is tours chairman; Mrs. Arthur Porter, hostess chairman; Mrs. Norman Lind, librarian; Mrs. John R. Harger, treasurer and Mrs. E. C. Akridge, secretary. At the same meeting, the sum of $15 was set aside to purchase garden books which will be a gift to the library. The garden picture, owned by the circle, is to be loaned to the Austin library in the near future.

The Sixth Congressional district has announced the election of three new officers for the coming year to serve the group with Mrs. A. J. Phlman, who will serve as president for one more year. They are Mrs. J. F. Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. Francis J. Waindle, recording secretary and Mrs. H. A. Levy, and Mrs. Clarence Lund, directors.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ceska Beseda [Bohemian club], will hold their annual installation of officers Thursday evening in the club house, 3659 Douglas boulevard. The new officers include: President, Mrs. Rose Zahrobsky; vice president, Mrs. Sylvia Hruby; secretary, Mrs. Bess Kirchman, and treasurer, Mrs. Mary Kostecka.

CICERO CLUB LEADERS

MISS LOUISE TOWNSEND.

Songs composed by a resident of LaGrange, Miss Louise Townsend, provided a novel musical program at a recent meeting of the La Grange Kiwanis club. Miss Townsend is a niece of Walter P. Saunders, president of the village, and the event was made the more enjoyable in that Mr. Saunders, with whom music is an avocation, sang the ballads to Miss Townsend's accompaniment.

The composition "Two Brown Eyes," introduced by Jane Froman, sung frequently by Grace Wilson and played by several bands and orchestras, has been popular over the radio since its publication a few months ago.

Other songs, to which Miss Townsend has written words and music are "Sometime—If I Only Knew When," "What to Do with the Moon and No You," and "Loving You."

Miss Townsend has a classical musical background. She was a student of the Chicago Musical college where she won two scholarships for piano. She is a prolific writer of modern ballads.

DRAMATIC CLUB GIVES MINIATURE FAIR TOMORROW

VIRGINIA NUNES.

The dramatic club of Calvary Episcopal church, 3162 West Monroe street, is giving tomorrow night a "Miniature World's Fair" under the direction of Miss Virginia Nunes, who frequently has been awarded recognition by the Chicago Drama league and who has been a member of this parish all her life.

Henrye Saller, president of the club, decided that features which proved attractive at A Century of Progress might, on a smaller scale, provide equally good amusement for a parochial affair.

He selected, therefore, Marjorie Fidler, Ruby Zimmer, Edith McCarthy, Jimmy Cornell, Erwin Stevenson and Fritz Black to act in the Apache dances in "The Streets of Paris," with Dick McClaren as master of ceremonies for these and other side shows.

Refreshments will be served in cabaret style by Maybel Bish, Grace Stevenson, Mary Walker, Ruth Ralston and Frances Payne with Miss Helen Schwartz visiting each table in the guise of Fortune Teller.

LOMBARD LEGION BAND LAUNCHES MEMBER DRIVE

The Lombard Legion-Lions band has started a drive to restore its personnel to full strength in preparation for another active season. First appearance of the organization will probably be at the Lilac Pageant in the middle of May. R. G. Clarke, band president, has issued a call for all former players and others interested to report to him. Ralph M. Howell, conductor, is also active in rounding up new recruits.

THERE WILL BE NO 'BUTS' WHEN CLUB GREETS SPRING

Members of the West Side Kiwanis club will be musing upon the truth of the famous Harry Lauder refrain Tuesday morning, "Oh, it's nice to get up in the morning, but . . ."—there won't be any "buts," as the telephone committee of the club rings each member at 6 o'clock.

This will be followed by a check-up call at 6:30 o'clock to remind Kiwanians that setting up exercises in the gymnasium begin at 7. If sleep still proves too powerful, there will be cool dips in the Midwest Athletic club pool for all who wish and "can stand it," according to Sol Westerfield, immediate past president of the organization.

Next on the program will be ham and eggs, when all sufficiently aroused members will realize that the occasion is the club's official recognition of spring and is being given at the athletic club in place of the usual noon day meeting. Rev. Howard Stone Anderson, honorary member of Kiwanis, will offer the invocation, and Dr. John M. Tindal, member, will echo the refrain by a discussion of "It's Great to Get Up in the Morning."

"If our members are not fit for the day's work Tuesday, it will not be the fault of the program committee," said H. F. Gilson, president of the club.

WEST SUBURBAN DRAMA GROUPS ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Little Theater Units Are Eligible.

In order to coöperate to the best of advantage in the expression of the drama in respective communities, the Troupers of Glen Ellyn, the Glen Ellyn Drama club, and the Dramarians of Hinsdale, have announced the formation of the West Suburban Drama League of Greater Chicago. The league is open for membership to any Little Theater groups in the western suburbs.

The Glen Ellyn Drama club was host at a tea last Sunday afternoon for the two other groups, at which time the formation of the league was decided upon. Everett Mesenbrink, director of the Dramarians, was nominated as temporary chairman, with Miss Jeanne Baker as temporary secretary.

Advisory Board Named.

An advisory board consisting of the directors of the three groups, and one member at large from each group, was also appointed to complete plans for further organization. These plans will be presented to the league following a series of one act plays to be given the evening of May 24 at the Union church, Hinsdale. The three directors of the advisory board are: Mrs. I. Dyer Kuenstler, The Troupers; Mrs. Vallance A. Cooper, the Glen Ellyn Drama club and Mr. Mesenbrink, the Dramarians.

The league will have the usual offices of president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer, but the control will rest with a board of directors, composed of two representatives from each member group, presided over by the league president. These offices will be filled by the elections to be held the same evening of May 24.

5,000 in Pageant.

An invitation from Alfred Stury was extended to the newly formed organization by Mr. Mesenbrink to participate in the Epic of the Prairie state, a pageant of the history of Illinois to be given at Soldiers' Field, June 30, under the auspices of the Illinois Police association. Charles K. Freeman will direct the production, which will include over 5,000 performers and use the whole of the Soldiers' Field area.

CATHOLIC YOUTH SCOUTS' BANQUET POSTPONED WEEK

Delay Caused by Absence of Bishop Sheil.

The fourth annual scout leaders' banquet of the Catholic Youth Organization, which was originally scheduled to be held tomorrow night at the Lake Shore Athletic club, has been definitly set for Monday night, May 7. This was announced by the Rev. Walter H. Chelminski, director of the Catholic troops of the Boy Scouts of America, who is in active charge of the committee on arrangements.

BISHOP SHEIL.

The change in date was made imperative by the absence during the next several days of the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Chicago and director general of the Catholic Youth Organization, who is in New York City to assist in the consecration of Auxiliary Bishop Designate Stephen Donoghue.

Will Award Scout Honors.

Because the absence of Bishop Sheil, who is to be the guest of honor, would have disappointed the hundreds of friends of the Boy Scouts and the C. Y. O. youth program who have made reservations to attend, it was deemed advisable to postpone the date one week and thus make it possible for Bishop Sheil to be present.

The high light of the banquet this year will be the conferring by Bishop Sheil of the Order of the Silver Star upon these laymen whose efforts in behalf of Catholic youth during the last year have produced the greatest good for the greatest number.

The Order of the Silver Star is the highest honor that can be bestowed in Catholic scouting, and only ten men have merited it in the four year history of the Catholic Youth Organization, under whose auspices scouting among the Catholic boys in Chicago and vicinity is conducted.

Scout Chief to Attend.

Distinguished guests who will attend the dinner include Perry A. Lint, scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America; Judge Francis Allegretti, Judge Joseph Graber, Frederick Massman, K. S. G.; William J. Campbell, John J. Collins, Msgr. T. P. Bona, Msgr. Daniel Byrnes, Msgr. J. J. Horsburgh, Msgr. T. F. Egan, the Rev. Louis F. Kroeck, and the Rev. Timothy Rowan.

YOUTH IN DOWNERS GROVE

MISS RUTH MELKA TO BE LOMBARD'S 1934 LILAC QUEEN

York High Senior Will Rule at Festival.

With the realization that the girl chosen would be surrounded by courtiers, flower girls, pages and all the glamor accorded a queen in the most dramatic of fairy books, on the occasion of Lombard's Lilac pageant, the contest was a breath-taking affair.

Formal announcement of her election was made to Miss Melka Monday night at the DuPage theater by L. S. Whitbeck, president of the Lilac league. Members of the vote canvassing committee, with Mr. Whitbeck, were Mrs. Clarence Gerber and Mrs. George Dopp. Date of the pageant will depend on the blooming of the lilacs.

High School Senior.

Miss Melka is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Melka, 415 South Meyers road, residents of Lombard for 19 years. She is a senior at York High school. It was a concentrated vote of her neighbors that helped bring her the honor.

At the theater program held in connection with the announcement of this year's queen, Mrs. Katherine Reynolds, who will direct the pageant, was in charge. Dance numbers were directed by Mrs. Edith Garrett. Miss Melka was presented with a basket of flowers.

The roster of lilac queens includes Miss Adeline Fleege, 1930; Miss Alice LaFetra, 1931; Miss Rebecca Howe, 1932, and Miss Mildred Fryer, 1933. The first three queens have married, and the 1933 queen, now living at Princeton, Ill., has sent word that she is returning to the old home town for this year's lilac fête.

Rehearsals for Pageant.

Rehearsals for the pageant have been under way for several weeks. Its climax will be the coronation of the queen. There will be mounted guards and heralds, a dashing prince, a group of pipers and a flock of lilac girls.

VACCINE CURBS WHOOPS.

A vaccine has been developed to prevent whooping cough. Some contract the disease after taking it, but the attack is very mild.

DOWNERS GROVE PUPILS WILL GIVE HISTORY PAGEANT

Samples of Handicraft to Be Displayed.

Hundreds of samples of handicraft created by boys and girls of Downers Grove will be placed on display next Saturday as one of the opening features of the Youth Week celebration in that suburb. The program for the entire week is being sponsored by the Alexander Bradley Burns post No. 80 of the American Legion of Downers Grove in coöperation with school authorities and various other village organizations.

A parade in the form of a "Pageant of History" will mark the first event on the Youth Week program. Pupils of five schools will portray famous characters and noted events in each of the five major periods of American history as follows: Columbus, John Alden, John Smith, William Penn, Indians, and others of colonial times, the Longfellow and Whittier schools; George Washington, and Martha Washington, the "Spirit of '76," Thomas Jefferson, Commodore Perry, and others of the revolutionary period, the St. Joseph school; the period of expansion with Andrew Jackson, John Brown, and others, the Avery Coonley school; Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee, and heroes of the civil war and reconstruction period, the Washington school; and the present régime of the 20th century, by the Lincoln school, who are preparing a feature number, alphabetical combinations of the "New Deal."

A banner emblematic of the first place award in the pageant, will be given for the best and most realistic representation of the period.

Menorah Society Holds Annual Symposium Tonight

The 14th annual symposium of the Menorah society of Northwestern university, McKinlock campus, will be held at 8 p. m. tonight at the Stevens hotel. During the symposium the three best essays written on Jewish thought or life will be read by the authors and a prize will be awarded for the best one submitted. Fred P. Ptashne, 5444 Kimball avenue, is chairman.

DU PAGE COUNTY CZECHOSLOVAKS FORM LEAGUE

What will be known as the Czechoslovak league of Du Page county has been organized. It is estimated that nearly 3,000 Czechoslovak families reside in the county, and this is the first opportunity given them to get together to give expression of opinions in matters of common welfare.

Officers of the league are: Otto J. Hruby, president, Hinsdale; Louis J. Zavorka, vice president, Downers Grove; Charles J. Matousek, secretary, Naperville, and Robert Kakuska, treasurer, Lombard.

President Hruby said that as a result of a meeting of the officers held last Sunday contact will be made with officials of tax paying bodies and civic organizations of the county for the purpose of coöperation.

The first Czechoslovakian trend into the county began about thirty years ago, and the former residents of Chicago, home owners in the majority of instances, have settled particularly in Lisle, Westmont, Lombard, and Villa Park.

Lisle is the location of St. Joseph's orphanage and St. Procopius college, which were sponsored by St. Procopius parish of Chicago.

MORTON PLAY TO BE A SATIRE ON LATE GOLDEN ERA

A gay satire on the so-called era of prosperity, entitled "Beggar on Horseback," will be presented by the sophomore class of Morton Junior college Friday evening in the Morton High school auditorium. A Broadway hit several years ago, written by George Kaufman and Marc Connelley, the production is being produced under the direction of R. W. Teeter.

The swift moving action of the comedy requires eighteen shifts of scenery as it moves rapidly from a young composer's studio through offices and homes to an art "factory."

ANSON WEEKS TO W-G-N WHEN KING TAKES VACATION

Agnew, Weems Will Join Station Schedule.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

ANSON WEEKS.

When Wayne King disbands his orchestra for a six weeks vacation on May 19 Anson Weeks and his orchestra will open a six week's engagement at the Aragon ballroom and over W-G-N, according to an announcement made yesterday by President Andrew Karzas of the Aragon-Trianon corporation. The waltz king and his family will make a long planned trip to the west coast during their vacation.

Weeks has one of the best known orchestras on the coast, having played at the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco for six years. He was one of the favorites on that Magic Carpet broadcast on NBC. Bob Crosby, younger brother of the famous Bing, is featured as vocalist with the orchestra. Following the Aragon engagement Weeks will probably be shifted to the Trianon during the summer months while Jan Garber will play an engagement at Catalina Island. Garber leaves the Trianon May 31 and returns Sept. 1.

They'll Substitute for King.

While King is vacationing his commercial broadcasts will be filled by a group of MCA orchestras. Included will probably be Ted Weems, Seymour Simons, Harry Sosnik, Hal Kemp, and Charlie Agnew.

The Weems band replaces Richard Cole's in the Empire room of the Palmer house and on W-G-N beginning May 10. Cole will make a tour and will probably play a week at the Trianon. All broadcasts from the Palmer House will continue to be exclusive for W-G-N.

Charlie Agnew's band, Emrie Ann Lincoln, Dusty Roades, Frank Casey and his singing ensemble return to the Boulevard room of the Stevens and W-G-N May 26. Margaret Conrad and her trio of instrumentalists come back to the Colchester room and W-G-N tomorrow. They were heard on THE TRIBUNE station last season.

When Harry Sosnik leaves the Edgewater Beach May 5 for a tour of theaters he will be supplanted by Carl Hofmayer and a new orchestra. Hofmayer is an arranger for Vincent Lopez and was formerly associated with Paul Ash, and with Warner Brothers. Sosnik will return June 9 to open the Beachwalk. . . . Jack Russell is on the air from the Canton Tea Gardens. . . . Eddie Duchin will bring his orchestra to the Dells this summer, while Hal Kemp will hold forth across the street at Lincoln Tavern.

Chicago Symphony to Fair.

In the wake of the report that Henry Ford will bring the Detroit Symphony orchestra to the Fair comes the announcement that the great Chicago Symphony orchestra will play at the Swift exhibit at the Fair and that concerts will go on the air from this spot.

Ed Wynn's Anniversary.

The shriek of a siren last Tuesday evening across the nation sounded the second anniversary for Ed Wynn as radio's Fire Chief. Coincident with this birthday party news leaked out that Ed and his sponsor are definitly headed toward a parting of the ways. . . . Mme. Schumann-Heink's speaking as well as singing voice will be heard when she inaugurates her new radio series at 9 o'clock tonight from local NBC studios. Memoirs of her career as a singer and mother will be interspersed with songs. . . . Lanny Ross goes back to Hollywood May 18 to appear in four more pictures. Like Bing Crosby he clicked. Crosby, incidentally, shows considerable talent as a comedian in his latest picture, "We're Not Dressing."

Rehersals on that Beauty Box program starring Gladys Swarthout run 35 hours each week, it's reported. The program shows that it is worth it. It's the outstanding new network show of the year and a grand answer to those critics who are always complaining that radio isn't what it used to be. . . . "Silken Strings," a fine program when it started, is growing even better. . . . The addition of the Northerners to Monday night airfare fills a big gap on that evening. Fine choral singing under the direction of Harry Walsh and solo work by Edward Davies, and Rheinhold Schmidt. . . . Packed too tightly at its premiere, the so-called "Program of the Week" has been satisfactorily slowed to a beer drinking pace. Henry Busse's sparkling music continues the feature of the show. The staccato presentation of the Dillinger case on Friday was a great piece of work.

A Preview of Bernie's Picture.

Ben Bernie will give a preview of his soon to be released picture, "Thank Your Stars," on his broadcast at 8 p. m., Tuesday. Songs from the movie, including Pianist Al Goering's "A Bowl of Chop Suey and Youey," will be featured. The Old Maestro will present other stars of the picture—Jack Oakie, Dorothy Dell, Arline Judge, Alison Skipworth, and Roscoe Karns. . . . Ben and all the lads will tour Texas during May and may return to Hollywood to make a second picture. Little likelihood that they will be here for the Fair.

Dad Pickard and Family have abandoned plans to spend the summer down home in Tennessee. When they were all ready to leave they found all their friends were coming up to the Fair. So they went back to the air waves. They have an hour's show on KYW beginning at 6:30 tonight. Week nights they're on at 6 o'clock except Fridays. . . . Amos 'n' Andy are on the way back home from a vaudeville tour with one interruption since last August. They have played to millions during the tour, 123,000 in Detroit in seven days. . . . "First Nighter,"

THE FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

"The Friendly Neighbor," commentator and adviser on W-G-N's new program by this name which will be presented at 10:15 each morning of the week except Sunday, beginning tomorrow. "The Friendly Neighbor" will offer household hints as well as a series of humorous and homely stories of happenings in the homes of your and her neighbors.

Charles P. Hughes' great dramatic show, on the air for three and one-half years, has signed for another year. . . . Dave Rubinoff's $50,000 Stradivarius rode across the continent the past week to the west coast in a lower berth. Owner wouldn't trust it to the baggage coach. . . . Alice Joy is at the State-Lake this week. . . . Phil Baker, Bottle, and Beetle, back from New York, are packing them in at the Palace.

ARTHUR MILLET ADDED TO W-G-N ANNOUNCER STAF

Girl's Suggestion Brings First Radio Job.

Arthur N. Millet has joined the W-G-N announcers' staf. Millet comes to W-G-N from station WRR of Dallas, Texas, and WIND of Gary, Indiana.

Born in Chicago at 55th street and Michigan avenue, Millet and his family moved to Dallas, Texas, during Art's early grammar school days. He attended Tulane university in Louisiana, where he studied medicine but during his third year at the university he contracted a variety of diseases which kept him out of school for two years.

Told to Report Next Day.

When he recovered he was compelled to seek out-of-door work and started on the career of an insurance salesman in Baton Rouge. A couple of years of this salesmanship brought him back to Dallas. One evening when calling on a girl a remark was made that he possessed a good voice for radio work and the following day he applied to John Thorwold, manager of WRR, the Dallas municipal broadcasting station, for an audition as an announcer.

Heard on Morning Hour.

After two years with WRR during which time he was announcer and program director, Art cast off for Chicago last August and finally in September landed a job as announcer on WIND. Recently he was accepted as announcer for W-G-N.

Art is unmarried. He is heard every morning on the 7 to 9 a. m. "Good Morning" program and on a regular schedule throughout the day and evening on W-G-N.

REMINISCENCES OF SIMONS WIN LISTENERS' FAVOR

Much attention is being attracted to Seymour Simons' "Reminiscing" programs which emanate from the Blackhawk café over W-G-N Sunday nights until 12:30 a. m. Many old timers come in for their share of the musical spotlight. Featured in the choruses of the old songs are the voices of lovely Dorothy Page, Simons' singing lady; Clyde "Doc" Davis, and Nelson Bitterman. Simons, who is attaining rank with the topnotchers in popularity as a radio bandmaster, is now doing 23 periods a week over W-G-N, a weekly total of nine hours' air time.

CLEAN YOUR TEETH
As Your Dentist Does—

USE POWDER

POWDER CLEANS TEETH—as nothing else can
Outlasts Tooth Paste 2 to 1

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

No Grit—No Pumice

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay.

Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

"Mighty Monarch of the Walls" writes an enthusiastic user about the CLEANING MERITS of HRH the MASTER PAINT CLEANER

10c

"It was not until December 31, 1932, that I found a place to work for my board and room; they put me to work washing walls with sal soda, but it would not cut the dirt. I told the superintendent to get a box of HRH and try it and see the difference, and also how cheap it was. He would not listen to me and said that it cost too much and it wasn't any good, etc., so I let it go at that as far as they were concerned. I borrowed a dime from a nurse and got a box of HRH and washed four rooms. Soon the superintendent came to inspect my work and said that they looked fine and it didn't take any rubbing to do it, so I told him the secret. You should have seen his face. So he bought 3 boxes and when that was gone he got a dozen, and now he has bought a case of it. With all that I get to work washing the whole hospital and stay here until summer.

"Thanks to HRH . . . but I wish that the name be changed to 'The Mighty Monarch of the Walls' . . . 'cause it is."

Talk about "confidence" . . . he sure has it in HRH . . . It had never failed him before and he knew it wouldn't fail him now.

There are millions of homes where HRH in the yellow package has made enthusiastic friends during two generations. It's the water-softening quality and chemical action that does such perfect cleaning with little effort.

PLOP!
OUCH! RIGHT IN MY EYE-
SO YOU WOULD PULL ONE ON YOUR POOR OLD FATHER, EH- WELL-NOW TRY AND REPEAT THIS ONE- SEE IF YOU CAN GET THE WORDS RIGHT-
LET 'ER GO- I'M READY-
OF ALL THE SAWS I EVER SAW SAW- I NEVER SAW A SAW SAW- AS THIS SAW SAWS-AW GEE-
AND WHILE YOU ARE ON THE SUBJECT OF CHICKENS- DO YOU KNOW WHERE THE HEALTHIEST PLACE IN THE WORLD FOR CHICKENS IS?
WHERE?
RIGHT OUT IN OUR OWN FRONT YARD- LOOK!
YOU NEVER SAW ANY DEAD ONES AROUND THERE- DID YOU?
HAW! HAW! HAW! AND WHAT DID THE LITTLE BOY SAY WHEN HE SAW THE JUGGLER PICK UP A CENT WITH HIS TOES?
HE SAID- THAT'S NOTHING MY DOG CAN PICK UP A SCENT WITH HIS NOSE-
AW- YOU'RE ALWAYS FOOLIN'-
AND NOW LET ME ASK YOU ONE- WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A HEAD OF LETTUCE AND A BOX OF STRAWBERRIES?
I DON'T KNOW WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A HEAD OF LETTUCE AND A BOX OF NICE FRESH STRAWBERRIES?
YOU'D BE A FINE ONE TO SEND AFTER STRAWBERRIES-

Little Orphan Annie
Z.Z. HARE- THE FAITHLESS FRIEND- THE RENEGADE- CRINGING- FEARFUL HIS SECRET WILL BE DISCOVERED- HERE WE FIND HIM, A HUNTED THING, SKULKING EVER FARTHER FROM THE HAUNTS OF MEN, STILL CLUTCHING THE MILLIONS HE STOLE FROM "DADDY" WARBUCKS-THOSE NATIVES IN THAT LAST VILLAGE- THEY STARED AT ME- THEY LOOKED LIKE BANDITS- BUT I ESCAPED IN THE NIGHT- IS THERE NO PLACE I CAN HIDE?
IN A FOREIGN COUNTRY, UNDER A NEW NAME, WITH MILLIONS IN CURRENCY- IT LOOKED SO EASY- I'D BE A WEALTHY GENTLEMAN OF LEISURE- I'D BE SAFE- HARK! WHAT WAS THAT?
I DON'T FEEL LIKE READIN' TH' FUNNIES TO-DAY- GEE- POOR "DADDY"- THEY SAY HARE STOLE ALL THAT MONEY FOR "DADDY", AND NOW "DADDY" IS FIGGERIN' ON MEETIN' HARE 'WAY OFF SOME PLACE AND DIVIDIN'- THAT'S NOT TRUE-
BUT WE KNOW HARE REALLY STOLE THE MONEY FROM WARBUCKS-SURE- I GAVE THAT LITTLE JELLY FISH THE IDEA, FIGURING ON TAKING IT ALL AWAY FROM HIM LATER- BUT WE CAN'T LET THAT GET OUT-
BUT HOW CAN THEY PIN ANYTHING CROOKED ON A MAN LIKE WARBUCKS?
HA! THAT GANG IN THE PROSECUTORS OFFICE COULD FRAME AN ARMLESS MAN FOR PICKING POCKETS- THIS'LL BE GREAT PUBLICITY FOR THOSE POLITICIANS-
AND NOW WE SWITCH YOU OVER TO THE OFFICE OF PROSECUTOR PHIL O. BLUSTER, WHO IS IN CONFERENCE WITH HIS POLITICAL PALS, WARD HEELY AND BILL McBRIBE-
WE'VE BEEN TURNING LOOSE TOO MANY CROOKS LATELY, PHIL-
YES- THE PUBLIC IS BEGINNING TO GET SORE, PHIL-
THIS WARBUCKS CASE IS A PERFECT BREAK FOR US-
HARE MUST NOT BE CAUGHT- HE'D SPOIL EVERYTHING-
SURE- WE CAN GET HIM AND THE MONEY LATER-
WE MUST CONVICT WARBUCKS- THINK HOW THE VOTERS WILL EAT THAT UP- WHY, THE PUBLICITY WILL BE PRICELESS-
DO YOU THINK YOU CAN GET AN INDICTMENT?
SURE- PICK A JURY OF POOR BIRDS, WHO NEVER SAW MORE'N SIX DOLLARS AT ONCE IN THEIR LIVES- TO GUYS LIKE THAT, A MAN WHO'S MADE AS MUCH AS WARBUCKS WILL BE GUILTY OF EVERYTHING IN THE BOOK-
NOW TUNE IN ON "DADDY" AND HIS LAWYER------
THEY'LL TRY TO HOLD ME FOR THE GRAND JURY-
YES- AND THEY HAVE A STRONG CIRCUMSTANTIAL CASE- BUT WE'LL FIGHT IT-BLUSTER AND HIS GANG ARE SHREWD POLITICIANS- HE'S A GLIB TONGUED DEMAGOGUE- HE'LL TRY TO INFLAME PUBLIC OPINION- EVEN NOW PLENTY OF PEOPLE SEEM TO THINK ANY MAN WHO HAS MADE A LOT OF MONEY MUST BE CROOKED-
BUT WE MUST WIN- YOUR CAUSE IS JUST-

DICK TRACY
By Chester Gould
SPALDONI
AFTER TRAILING SPALDONI, FIRST ON HIS BICYCLE THEN IN A TAXI CAB, JUNIOR DISCOVERED THE CROOK-LAWYER'S HEADQUARTERS TO BE AN OLD ABANDONED STEEL MILL AT THE CITY'S OUTSKIRTS... WHEREUPON THE BOY RETURNED TO TOWN AND SUMMONS TRACY....
YOU SAY YOU FOLLOWED THEM TO AN OLD STEEL MILL?
YES SIR, TRACY! SPALDONI AND HIS GANG HAVE A SECRET HIDEOUT IN AN OLD STEEL MILL AND I HEARD SPALDONI SAY HE WAS THE ONE THAT KILLED JEAN PENFIELD!
THE QUESTION IS, WHERE ARE THEY NOW? IT'S MORE THAN LIKELY THAT THEY WENT TO THE STEEL MILL ONLY FOR A TEMPORARY MEETING BEFORE SKIPPING TOWN.
MEANWHILE, ALTHOUGH JUNIOR THINKS HIS SHADOWING OF THE CROOKS WENT UNNOTICED...CONVERSATION AT THE OLD STEEL MILL PROVES QUITE THE OPPOSITE..
BUT, SPALDONI, WHEN WE HEARD THAT NOISE, AND SAW THE KID CREEP OUT FROM BEHIND THOSE FURNACES AND BEAT IT, WE KNEW HE'D DISCOVERED OUR HIDEAWAY. DIDN'T WE?
CERTAINLY!
THEN WHY DID YOU INSIST ON LETTING HIM GET AWAY? HE'LL BRING THAT DETECTIVE PAL OF HIS BACK HERE, AND-
THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT I WANT HIM TO DO- BRING THAT DETECTIVE PAL OF HIS BACK HERE!
DO YOU SEE THE CAT WALK ABOVE THAT OLD FURNACE? WELL, THERE'S A TRAP DOOR RIGHT AT THE MOUTH OPERATED BY THIS LEVER.
YEAH? WELL WHAT ABOUT IT, SPALDONI?
WHEN THE DETECTIVE COMES IN HERE...I WANT ONE OF YOU BOYS TO LET HIM GET A GLIMPSE OF YOU - THEN RUN ACROSS THAT CAT WALK AND HIDE BEHIND THOSE FURNACES.
AS THE DICK GOES AFTER YOU AND PUTS HIS FOOT ON THE TRAP DOOR, I'LL PULL THIS LEVER- HE'LL TUMBLE INTO THE FURNACE AND.. NOW LOOK!
CLANK
BY PULLING THAT RELEASE ROD FIVE TONS OF SCRAP IRON WILL DROP FROM THAT CONVEYOR LADLE RIGHT IN AFTER HIM, SEE? WHAT? HEY MILREY- DON'T PULL THAT!
CRASH
GEE, SPALDONI- I DIDN'T MEAN TO DUMP IT!
WHY, YOU DUMBBELL! NOW WE'VE GOT TO GO UP TO THE CHARGING ROOM OF THE FURNACE AND RELOAD THAT LADLE WITH SCRAP IRON!! COME ON!
EASY, BOYS! I HEARD YOU WERE HERE.. AND THOUGHT I'D CALL. I CAME IN THROUGH THE CAST HOUSE AND OVER THE ROOF OF THE INGOT SHED. STICK 'EM UP HIGH!
SEARCH THEM, JUNIOR...TAKE THEIR GUNS! AND KEEP 'EM UP, YOU GUYS!
THE SURPRISE APPEARANCE OF THE DETECTIVE AND BOY TAKES SPALDONI OFF HIS FEET. HE HAD NOT EXPECTED THEM SO SOON. FOR A MOMENT HE IS DAZED, THEN.. HIS UPRAISED HAND MOVES TOWARD A DANGLING CHAIN...

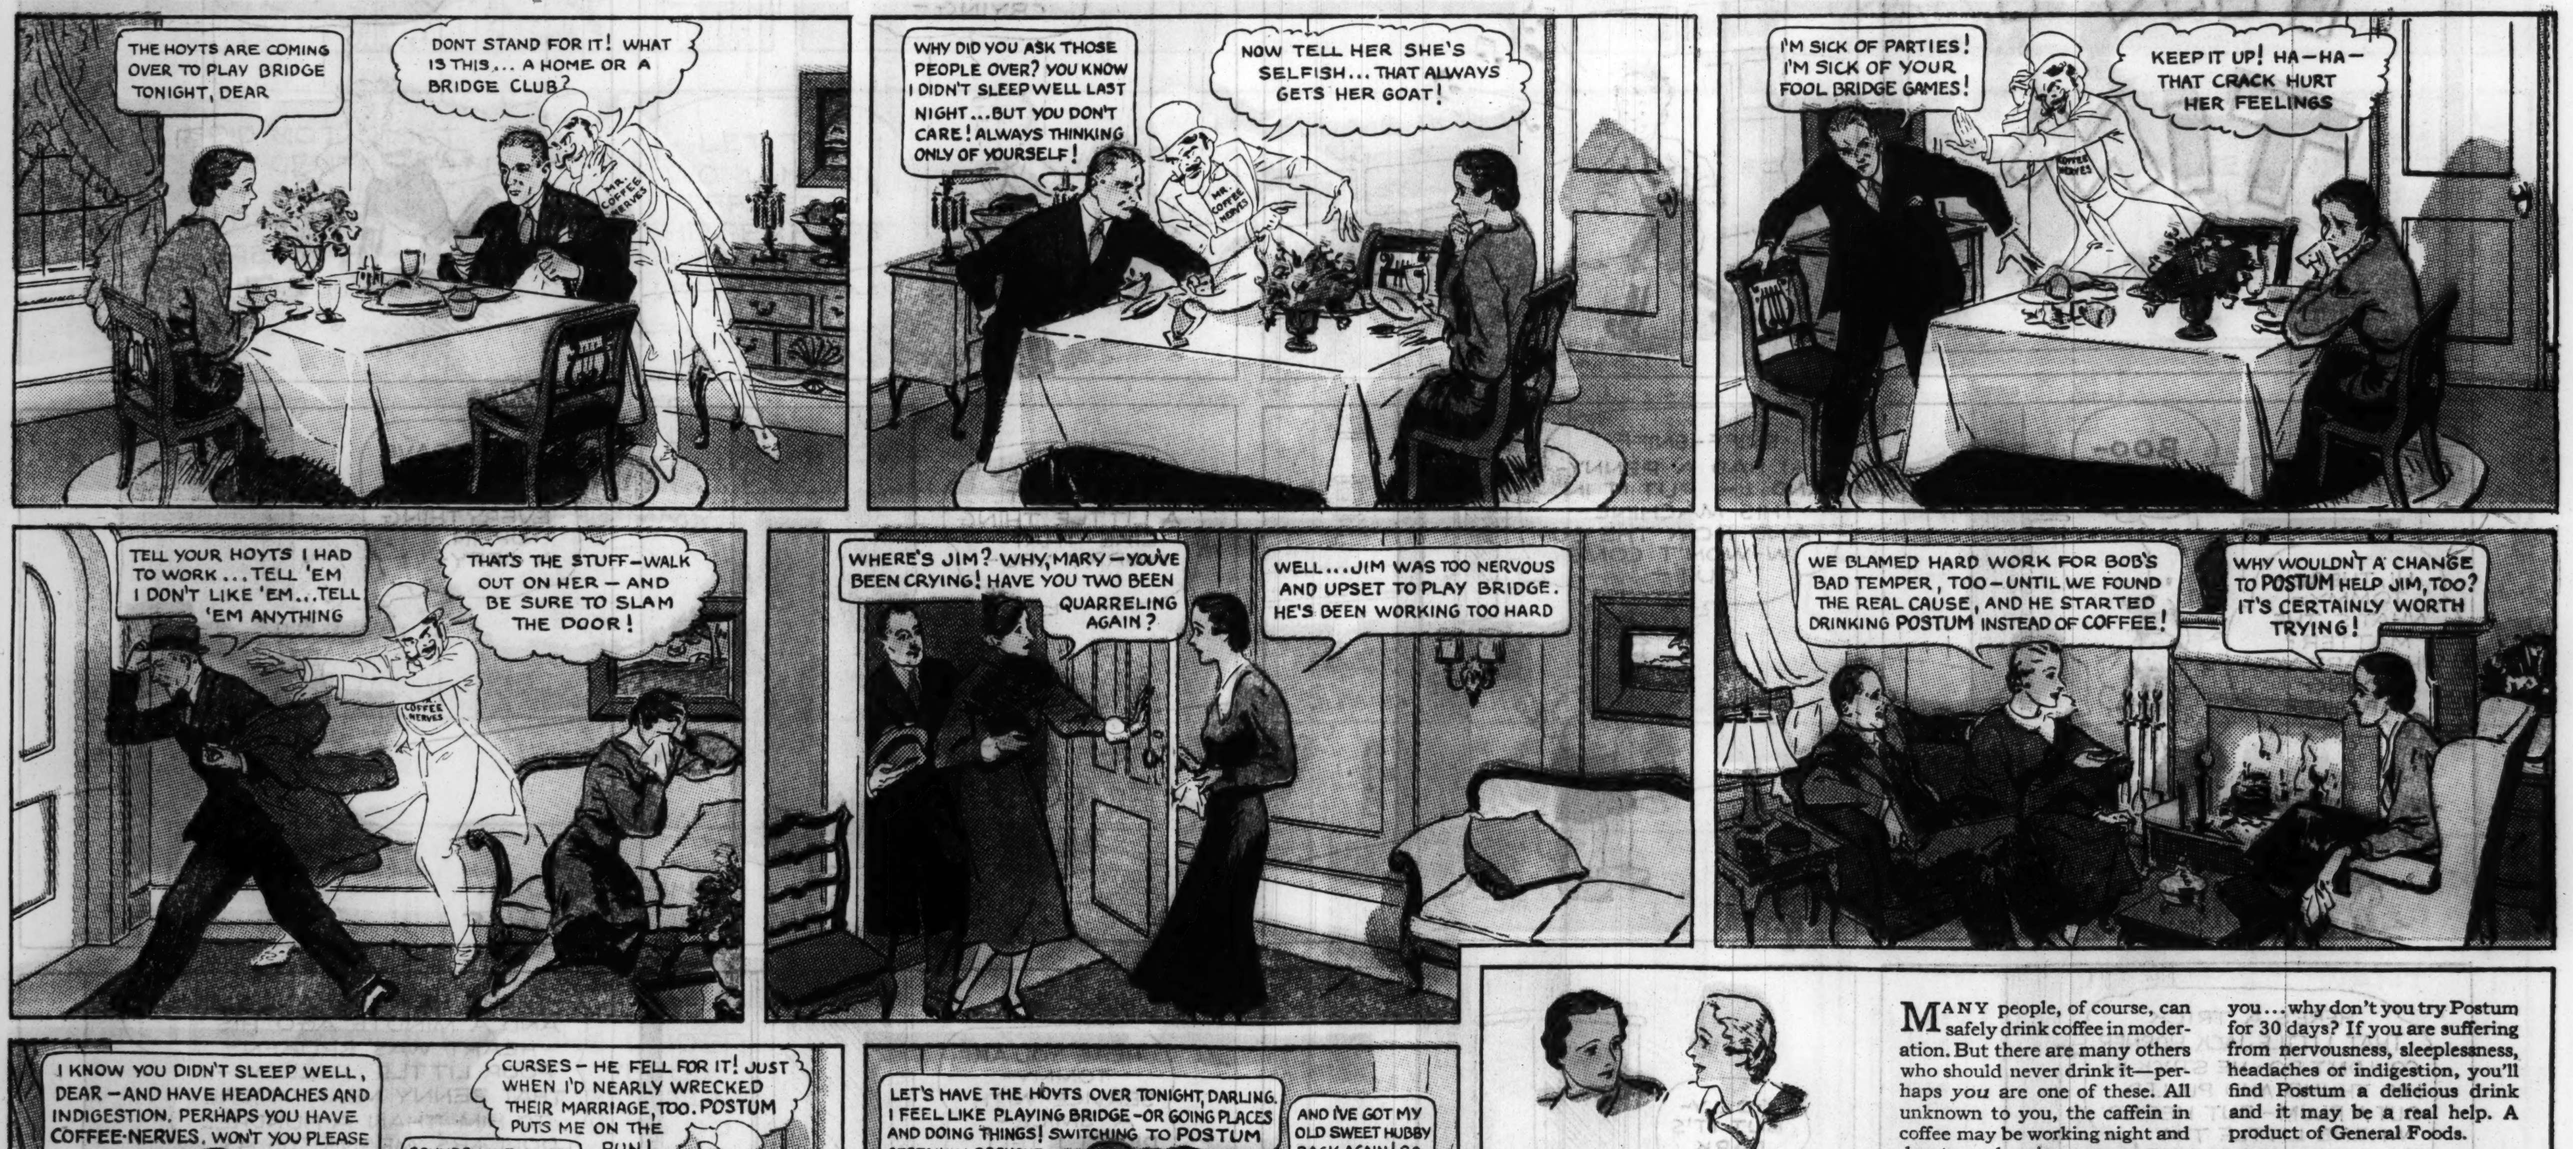
Mr. COFFEE-NERVES...he's on the run!

AN ADVERTISEMENT of GENERAL FOODS



THE HOYTS ARE COMING OVER TO PLAY BRIDGE TONIGHT, DEAR
DONT STAND FOR IT! WHAT IS THIS... A HOME OR A BRIDGE CLUB?
MR. COFFEE NERVES
WHY DID YOU ASK THOSE PEOPLE OVER? YOU KNOW I DIDN'T SLEEP WELL LAST NIGHT...BUT YOU DON'T CARE! ALWAYS THINKING ONLY OF YOURSELF!
NOW TELL HER SHE'S SELFISH... THAT ALWAYS GETS HER GOAT!
I'M SICK OF PARTIES! I'M SICK OF YOUR FOOL BRIDGE GAMES!
KEEP IT UP! HA-HA-THAT CRACK HURT HER FEELINGS
TELL YOUR HOYTS I HAD TO WORK...TELL 'EM I DON'T LIKE 'EM...TELL 'EM ANYTHING
THAT'S THE STUFF—WALK OUT ON HER—AND BE SURE TO SLAM THE DOOR!
COFFEE NERVES
WHERE'S JIM? WHY, MARY—YOU'VE BEEN CRYING! HAVE YOU TWO BEEN QUARRELING AGAIN?
WELL...JIM WAS TOO NERVOUS AND UPSET TO PLAY BRIDGE. HE'S BEEN WORKING TOO HARD WE BLAMED HARD WORK FOR BOB'S BAD TEMPER, TOO—UNTIL WE FOUND THE REAL CAUSE, AND HE STARTED DRINKING POSTUM INSTEAD OF COFFEE!
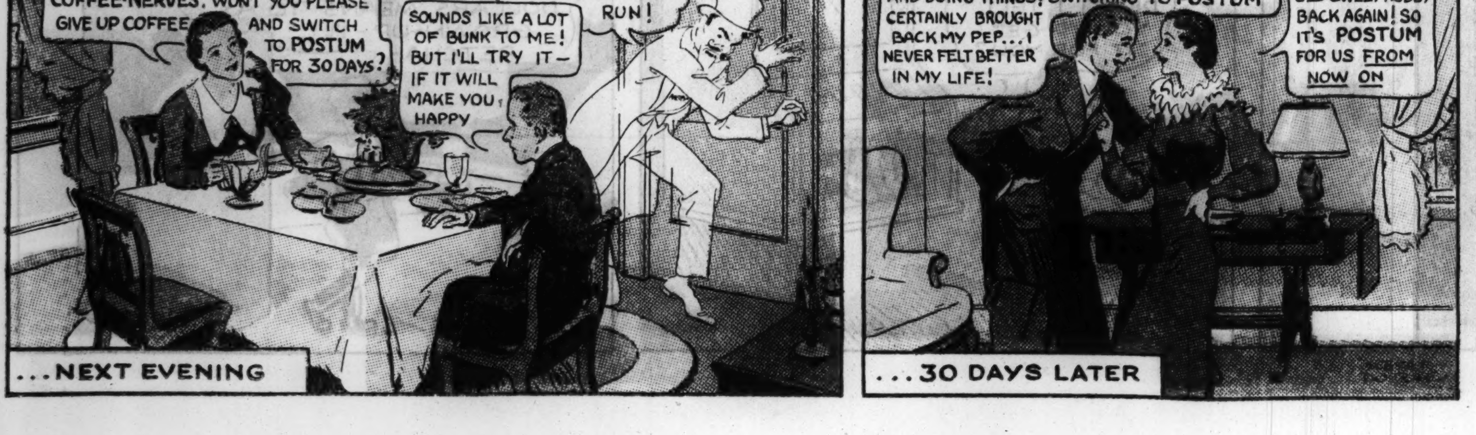
WHY WOULDN'T A CHANGE TO POSTUM HELP JIM, TOO? IT'S CERTAINLY WORTH TRYING!



I KNOW YOU DIDN'T SLEEP WELL, DEAR—AND HAVE HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION. PERHAPS YOU HAVE COFFEE-NERVES. WON'T YOU PLEASE GIVE UP COFFEE AND SWITCH TO POSTUM FOR 30 DAYS?
SOUNDS LIKE A LOT OF BUNK TO ME! BUT I'LL TRY IT—IF IT WILL MAKE YOU HAPPY
CURSES—HE FELL FOR IT! JUST WHEN I'D NEARLY WRECKED THEIR MARRIAGE, TOO. POSTUM PUTS ME ON THE RUN!
...NEXT EVENING
LET'S HAVE THE HOYTS OVER TONIGHT, DARLING. I FEEL LIKE PLAYING BRIDGE—OR GOING PLACES AND DOING THINGS! SWITCHING TO POSTUM CERTAINLY BROUGHT BACK MY PEP... I NEVER FELT BETTER IN MY LIFE!
AND I'VE GOT MY OLD SWEET HUBBY BACK AGAIN! SO IT'S POSTUM FOR US FROM NOW ON ...30 DAYS LATER

"I didn't think that coffee could have such an effect on a grown man like Jim!"

"Oh—many grown-ups, like all children, should never drink coffee! The caffein in coffee upsets their nerves, robs them of sleep, or causes headaches or indigestion."

"But why did Jim's troubles disappear after he switched to Postum?"

"Because there's no caffein in Postum. So his system had a chance to get rid of the bad effects of the drug. Then, his headaches and indigestion disappeared . . . and he was able to sleep soundly again."

MANY people, of course, can safely drink coffee in moderation. But there are many others who should never drink it—perhaps you are one of these. All unknown to you, the caffein in coffee may be working night and day to undermine your nervous system—to rob you of sleep, upset your digestion or dull your zest for living.

If you have any reason to suspect that coffee disagrees with you . . . why don't you try Postum for 30 days? If you are suffering from nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches or indigestion, you'll find Postum a delicious drink and it may be a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE: To start you off in your fight against coffee-nerves let us send you your first week's supply of Postum — FREE! Simply fill in and mail the coupon below.

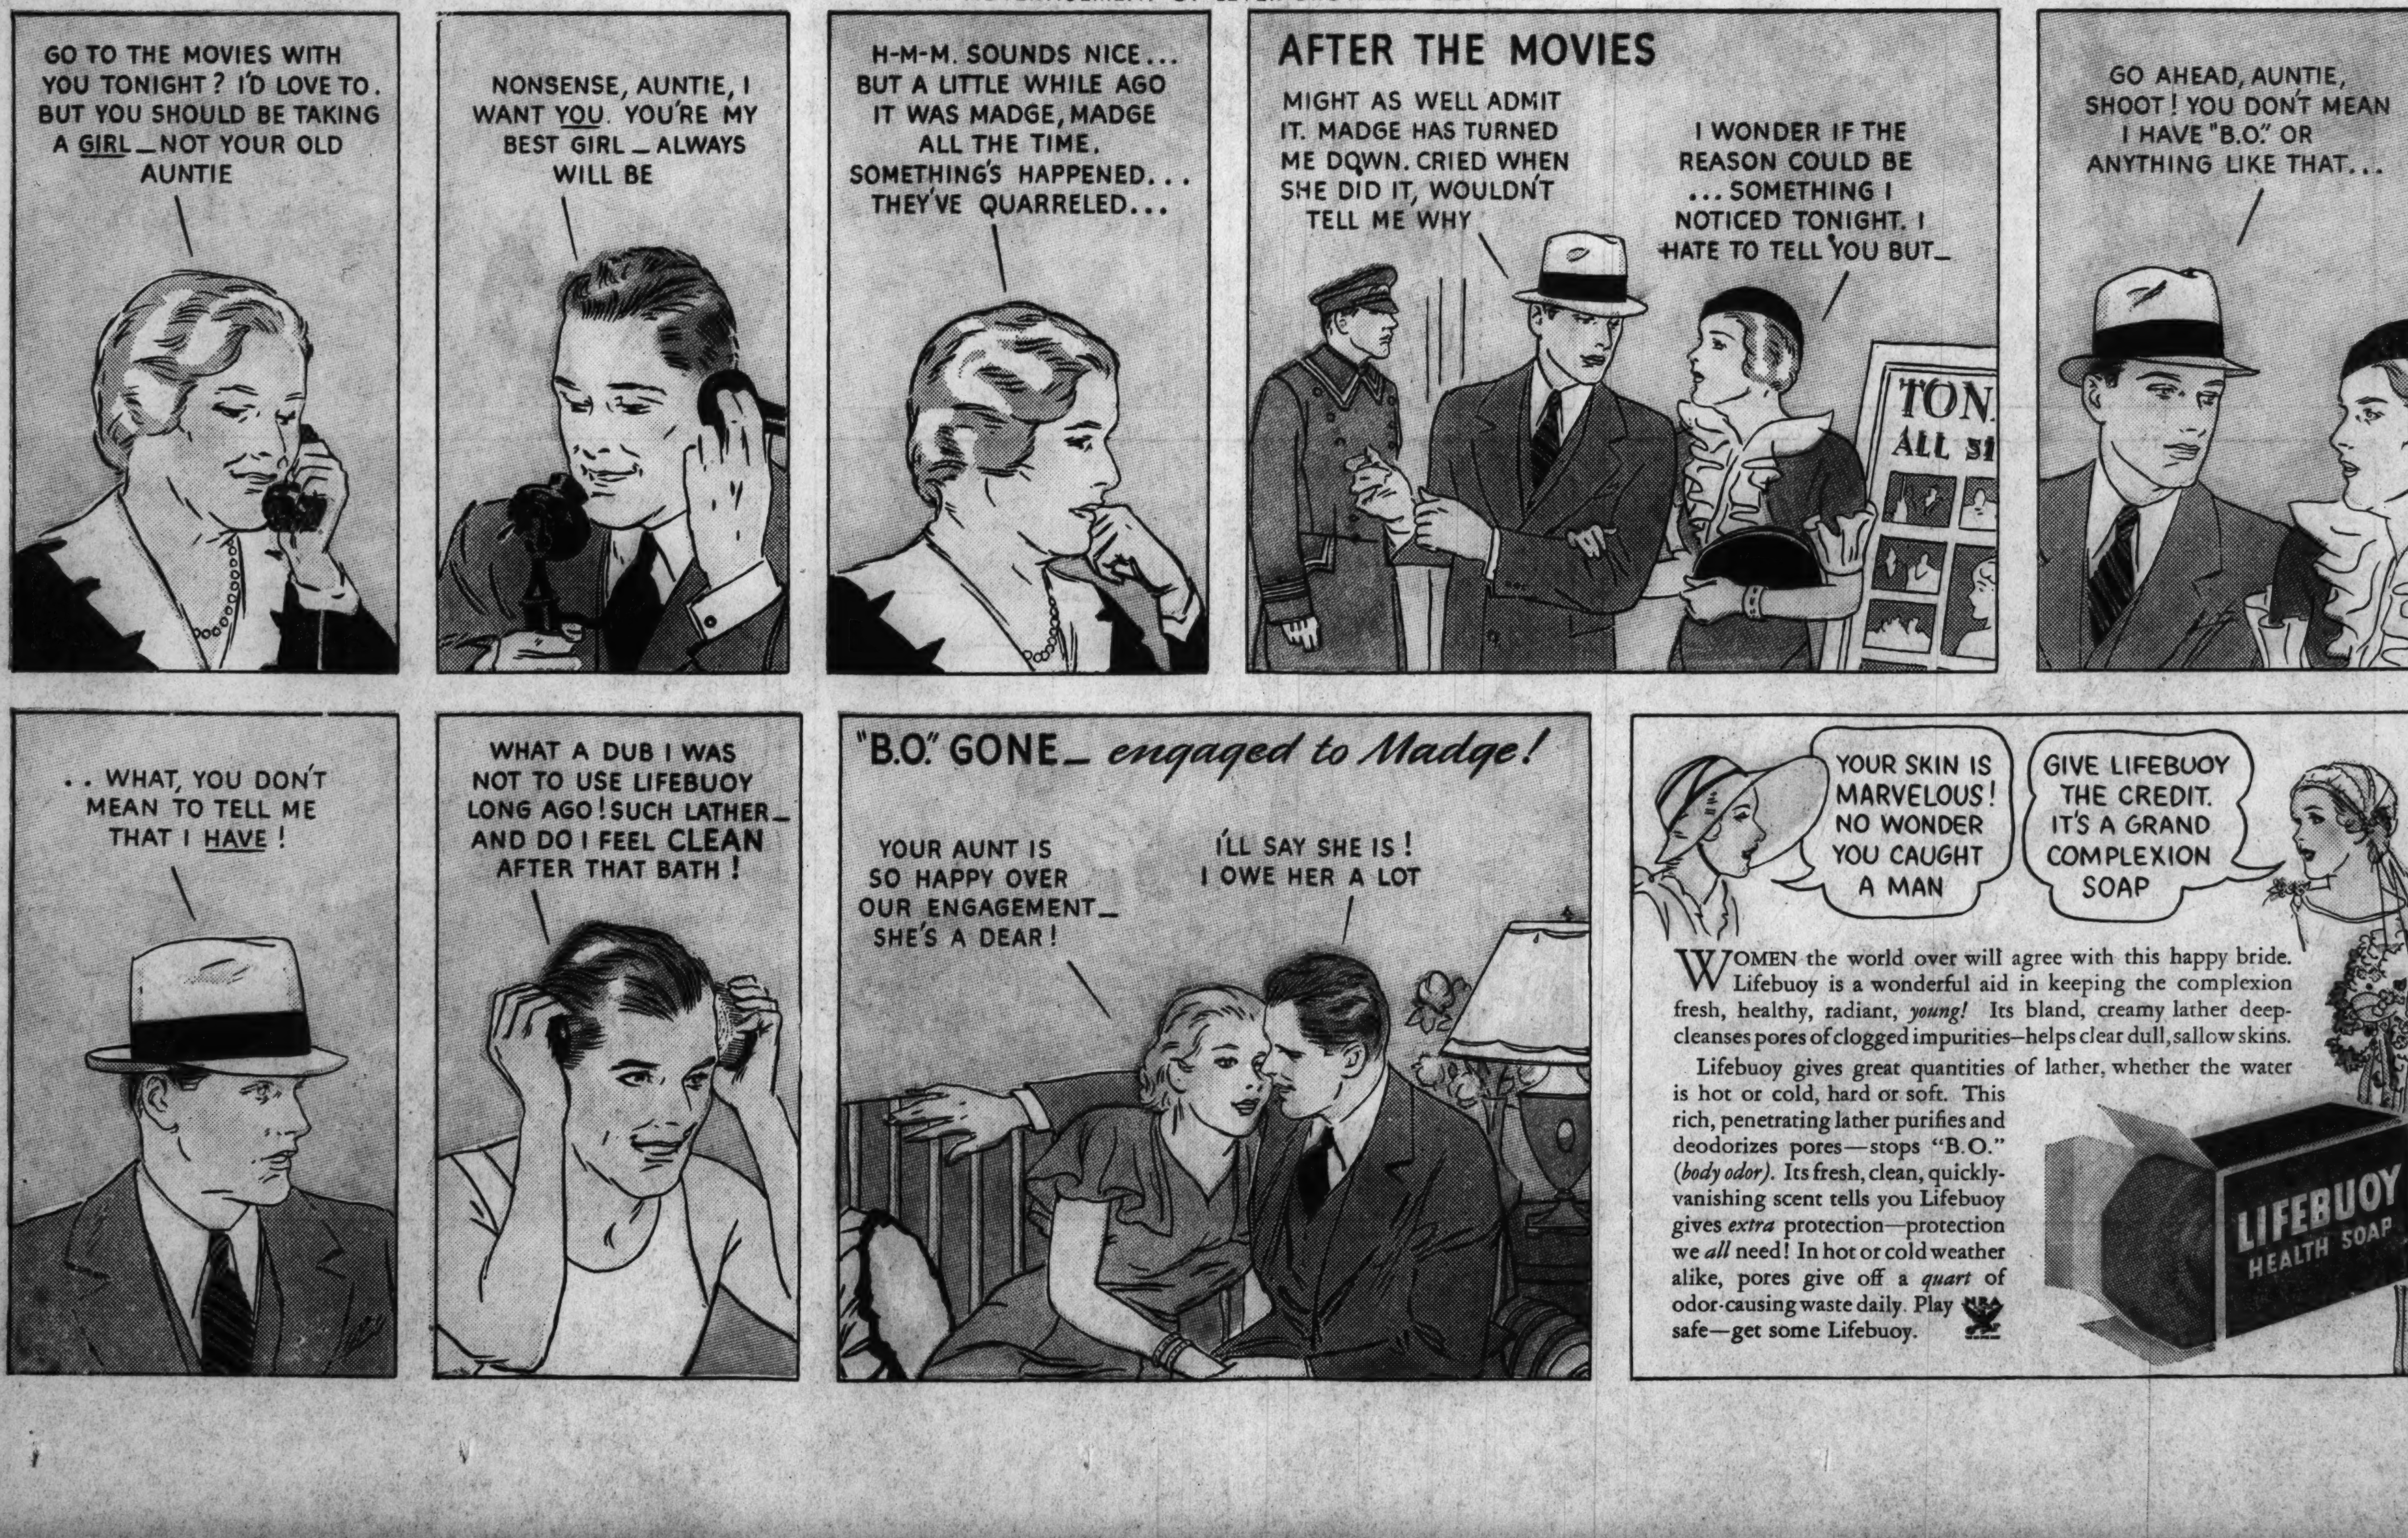
AUNTIE'S NOT HIS BEST GIRL NOW

AN ADVERTISEMENT OF LEVER BROTHERS COMPANY



GO TO THE MOVIES WITH YOU TONIGHT? I'D LOVE TO. BUT YOU SHOULD BE TAKING A GIRL _ NOT YOUR OLD AUNTIE
NONSENSE, AUNTIE, I WANT YOU. YOU'RE MY BEST GIRL _ ALWAYS WILL BE
H-M-M. SOUNDS NICE... BUT A LITTLE WHILE AGO IT WAS MADGE, MADGE ALL THE TIME. SOMETHING'S HAPPENED... THEY'VE QUARRELED...
AFTER THE MOVIES
MIGHT AS WELL ADMIT IT. MADGE HAS TURNED ME DOWN. CRIED WHEN SHE DID IT, WOULDN'T TELL ME WHY
I WONDER IF THE REASON COULD BE ... SOMETHING I NOTICED TONIGHT. I HATE TO TELL YOU BUT_ TON ALL SI
GO AHEAD, AUNTIE, SHOOT! YOU DON'T MEAN I HAVE "B.O." OR ANYTHING LIKE THAT...
.. WHAT, YOU DON'T MEAN TO TELL ME THAT I HAVE!
WHAT A DUB I WAS NOT TO USE LIFEBUOY LONG AGO! SUCH LATHER _ AND DO I FEEL CLEAN AFTER THAT BATH!
"B.O." GONE _ engaged to Madge!
YOUR AUNT IS SO HAPPY OVER OUR ENGAGEMENT _ SHE'S A DEAR!
I'LL SAY SHE IS! I OWE HER A LOT
YOUR SKIN IS MARVELOUS! NO WONDER YOU CAUGHT A MAN
LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP
NRA

WOMEN the world over will agree with this happy bride. Lifebuoy is a wonderful aid in keeping the complexion fresh, healthy, radiant, young! Its bland, creamy lather deep-cleanses pores of clogged impurities—helps clear dull, sallow skins.

Lifebuoy gives great quantities of lather, whether the water is hot or cold, hard or soft. This rich, penetrating lather purifies and deodorizes pores—stops "B.O." (body odor). Its fresh, clean, quickly-vanishing scent tells you Lifebuoy gives extra protection—protection we all need! In hot or cold weather alike, pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily. Play safe—get some Lifebuoy.

DeLEE With
MME. LOUISE

Exclusive beauty shops want operators who have been trained the DeLEE way under Mme. Louise. Madame Louise, internationally famous hairdressing and beauty culture expert, will aid personally in training you for a BETTER POSITION and a larger income.

At DeLEE you will find the ideal "set-up" — capable instructors who have had years of teaching experience and up to date 100% equipment. Classrooms are colorful, light, and airy.

An Accredited School

The DeLEE University of Beauty Culture is the only beauty school which has been permitted to incorporate as a University in Illinois. DeLEE is fully accredited by the Illinois Department of Education and Registration and is recognized by the beauty profession as a high class institution of learning.

Why be satisfied with an old-fashioned "trade-school" training when the DeLEE "university type" of schooling is available at no greater cost? Previous experience or a high school education NOT necessary. Tuition reasonable and payments can be arranged to suit your convenience.

Visit DeLEE First

A visit to DeLEE won't obligate you. It will open your eyes. Come in and talk with the DeLEE dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, and let her explain just how DeLEE prepares you for a BETTER POSITION AND MORE PAY.

Talk with Henri Gorden, famous Hollywood make-up artist. He'll tell you how he has made up movie stars, and how this new art of make-up is taught EXCLUSIVELY at DeLEE under his supervision.

MEN.
NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS.

April 1, 1918 from 312 W. Madison-st., I started an organization which grew until 1925 when we covered 26 states with several thousand employés doing a business of several million dollars annually.

I have recently returned to Chicago with a most unusual electrical unit that has established unusual acceptance in almost every country of the world, and for which there is a constant increasing demand.

I have just completed my offices and am now ready for action. If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs, let me set you up in a profitable business of your own backed by our prosperous company.

If on a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable and trustworthy, and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates earning as much as $50.00 on percentage basis in a single day, and after they become experienced handling our business, receive a sizeable monthly income not regulated by seasons, as ours is a year around business.

Selling experience is not necessary, as if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all the expense of your business, such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account, carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We fiance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as same has increased every month of the last four years, with 1933 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in this territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements, you will be granted a personal, confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Monday between 2:00 and 4:00 p. m., Suite 404, Maryland Building, 63d-st. and Maryland-av. [One block east of Cottage Grove. Ask for E. T. Lovell.

MEN

WE WILL START A LIMITED FEW ADDITIONAL MEN IN OUR BRANCH AT ONCE. IF YOU WANT FULL TIME WORK IN A PERMANENT POSITION AND HAVE GOOD CHARACTER REFERENCES, COME IN MONDAY FOR AN INTERVIEW.

If you are adaptable to this work, if you have the disposition to study and strive to acquire skill in what you do, and if you have good reputation and the will to succeed, we will employ you and back you in permanent work that is regularly paying qualified men in all parts of this country and throughout the world, $4,000, $5,000, $6,000, $7,000 and $8,000 per year and higher. These incomes are cash—and just as stable and permanent as any business or professional positions possibly could be. Such earnings represent success, and they are available to men who can think and work successfully.

This electrical specialty company is now in the greatest success of its history. This has been its most progressive year, and its men throughout the nation have consistently grown stronger, happier, and more and more prosperous. 1934 will be our fifth consecutive record sales year.

Those who are inexperienced in specialty sales work must take the necessary time to learn and acquire skill. During this time they must be willing and satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125 to $200 per month [some men $105 to $140]. We cannot tell you how long it will take you to do this—whether one month or six months—but we do know that if you have the qualifications to satisfy our requirements to secure a position with us, you can, with reasonable study, practice, good character and diligence—with these things you can be genuinely assured of making a success which will in commissions alone afford you the higher incomes.

We are not interested in men satisfied to get along on part time earnings. A minimum schedule of 48 hours' work per week is required, with several hours additional for instruction.

If you feel you can qualify and if you really would like to learn how to do this work and to make the kind of money successful men in this company are making, call for personal interview at our branch general offices, 9 S. Kedzie-av., cor. Madison, Suite 329, Monday only, between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. See Mr. Eckman.

Will You Work for a REAL OPPORTUNITY?

This is not difficult or monotonous work—just hard enough to make it worth while. And we want only men who believe that what is worth having is worth going after. Those we select must be men with determination and loyalty and capable of following instructions that have made the successful executives they will see around them. An electrical specialty which has met with unique and outstanding success and should make regularly to start about $40 a week commission. But you will find that the possibilities of the position will soon exceed that figure. Also there are many sales executive positions to be filled very soon through this work. Married men with car preferred. Good references required. Apply Employment Dept., 7th floor, Monday 9-10 a. m.

"PERFECTLY SATISFIED"

at FONTANA, CALIFORNIA.

READ! F. M. St. John writes:

"Three years ago—we purchased 4½ acres, and in May of the same year we had it planted to Marsh Seedless grapefruit. Our trees have done wonderfully well, and are bearing a little fruit this year. We have about 700 laying hens. They have averaged us about $50 per month NET returns—If it hadn't been for our little ranch we do not know how we could have gotten through the last three years—We have had to depend entirely on our place. We have grown beautiful vegetables and berries of all kinds, and with our chickens and milk goat, our cash outlay for living has been very little. We love Fontana and the people here, and are perfectly satisfied and happy."

Paris Suggests Filmy Ensembles of Net for Dog Days

Sheer Fabrics Fashioned Into Tailored Suits

By BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—(Special.)—Let the torrid weather menace when it will, the Paris dressmakers are ready to defy its barrage of mounting, killing temperatures. They have created sheer chic for the time ahead when even crêpe de chine is an unbearable weight along the shoulders, and they have done the job well.

Here in Paris eighty is considered a heat wave, and the style mongers have, in the past, contented themselves with designing silk ensembles that filled the bill for Parisiennes but that were hopelessly inadequate when our American thermometers get on the rampage and rise to the higher units of the nineties. This season some of them appear to have learned about weather behavior in the U. S. A. for the collections bloomed with clothes fit to wear in tropical climes.

Suits Mere Nothings.

Along with the smart little numbers in taffeta with long sleeves and closely fitted lines, the dressmakers showed tailored suits in net and georgette that were no more cumbersome than a chiffon handkerchief.

When you think of net in this connection forget the sleazy stuff which we are familiar with and which becomes shapeless in a day. The fabric makers of France have created a new cotton and linen net that has enough body to keep the lines in which the dressmakers cut it.

They have taken this brand new conception of net and made it into suits that are as trim as a woolen tailleur from the hands of a tailor and into sportive jacket ensembles to wear in high degrees of Fahrenheit. The wearer looks as demure and correct in these clothes as she does in her cold weather garments.

Bodices of Organdy.

Long, tailored coats of marquisette and georgette are also part of the sheer chic drive of the Paris couturiers. They are to be worn over sleeveless sheer frocks and are usually in a dark color.

Garden party and other formal clothes that come in the category of sheer chic have bodices of sheer organdy and silk skirts, and they are the height of style as well as being delicious and feminine. Organdy jackets are supplied as wraps for such ensembles.

Top coats made of semi-sheer white and natural colored linen are on tap in Paris, intended to supply a weightless wrap for the street in warm weather.

Hats for midsummer have also joined this sheer chic movement. The milliners here make them of transparent straw, organdy, net, and fine cool straws that are not transparent.

Even Gloves Made of Chiffon.

Gloves are another accessory that are as sheer as you like, for they come in all the dressy materials, even chiffon. Georgette gloves are the smartest hot weather item here.

Open sandals and low cut pumps are in this picture, and the Paris bottiers make them of linen, silk, and of open crochet, which feels like a feather on the feet.

Jeanne Lanvin's stunning cotton net suit, shown at the left, is a winning number in the sheer fashions competition. The net of which the original model was made was striped with hairline stripes of white and navy blue. The jacket is straight and loose, cut in four pieces, with the stripes making a chevron design at the front and back. The raglan sleeves also show a chevron pattern up the seam on top of the arms. A bias band edges the jacket closing. The net skirt is also a four gore, chevron patterned model and is worn over a pearl gray satin slip. The sleeveless blouse, in the original, is of gray satin with a big bow at the neck. Three pink roses are tucked in the skirt belt. The dark blue straw beret which Lanvin showed with this had pink roses piled up at the back.

Mainbocher's Stripes Undulate.

Second from the right, foreground and background, are a dressy frock and jacket for hot weather created by Lucile Paray. This model has a blue taffeta skirt flared at the bottom by set-in gores and a corded hem. There is a corded taffeta sash at the back of the waistline. In the Paris model the blouse is made of sheerest white organdy tucked in clusters to make stripes. It has long sleeves and is low cut at the back. There is a straight white organdy jacket trimmed with tucks and fastened with a big organdy bow under the chin, The desperado hat also is made of white organdy.

At right: Mainbocher uses net to make this jacket ensemble with a sports frock and a cardigan jacket.

Unique Dishes Utilize Lamb from Yesterday

Other Ingredients Assist Meat in Second Day Comeback at Dinner.

By MARY MEADE.

IT seems that Mary had a little lamb—but, unfortunately when she came to consider it carefully, she found that there was much too little of it to go around. For it wasn't the gamboling variety with fleece and a baa, but the left-over from last night's lamb roast. And, if it were going to follow Mary junior to school, or stay at home for the family's next meal, something would have to be done.

So, considering herself a very smart meal manager, Mary looked over the possibilities.

She considered Lamb Ring, first of all. It would be done in this fashion:

LAMB RING.

2 cups cooked lamb, ground.
18 crumbled soda crackers.
1 cup meat stock [or 1 cup boiling water and 1 bouillon cube]
1 egg, beaten.
2 teaspoons minced onion.
2 tablespoons butter.
Salt and pepper to taste.
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning.

If you are using the water and bouillon cube combination, dissolve the cube in the water, then combine this with the other ingredients, mixing carefully. Butter a ring mold and turn into it the lamb mixture, brushing over the top with melted butter. Bake half an hour in a hot oven (425 degrees F.). Turn out at once onto a large hot platter and fill the center with peppily seasoned, hot, creamed vegetables. Almost any vegetable flavor will be enjoyed by the lamb, so be artistic and choose one which adds a good sparkle in color to the dish. Outside the ring, in little cups of lettuce leaves, arrange tiny forms or mounds of mint jelly to flatter the mild flavor of the lamb.

Currying Does Delicious Trick

Then, not to seem narrow minded, Mary looked over the possibilities in the curried field. The result:

CURRIED LAMB.

3 tablespoons butter or meat drippings.
¼ cup minced onion.
1½ cups chopped celery and tops.
¾ cup lamb gravy or meat stock.
⅛ teaspoon curry powder.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Melt the fat in a frying pan and simmer the onion and celery in it until tender and slightly yellowed. Add the rest of the ingredients and, if the mixture seems too dry, add boiling water to moisten. Serve in a table casserole decked out with a border of hot, flaky, steamed rice and a garnish of parsley.

But perhaps there wouldn't be all this time, so just in case, Mary dug out for herself a hurry-up recipe which wedded lamb and mushrooms into a thing of beauty and a joy for at least one more festive meal. It read like this:

SAVORY LAMB AND MUSHROOMS.

Clean and slice ½ pound fresh mushrooms and cook, together with ¼ cup of minced onion, in 3 tablespoons of butter. Use a frying pan. Season well with salt, pepper, and Worcestershire sauce, adding 1 cup of lamb gravy to the ensemble. Now add 2 cups of sliced cooked lamb and heat. Have hot toast fingers ready and spoon over them the lamb and mushrooms. If mushrooms aren't growing at your grocer's, use canned ones instead. Add them with the lamb.

Potatoes Co-operate for Fluffiness.

But the dish which finally drew the votes and really rated Mary's little lamb, was the Lamb Puff.

LAMB PUFFS.

2 cups chopped, cooked lamb.
Salt, pepper and paprika to season.
Gravy.
2 cups hot mashed potatoes.
Flour.
1 egg.

Season the lamb and add enough gravy to make spreadable. Beat the egg, add to the mashed potatoes, together with seasoning. Then stir in flour until the mixture is stiff enough to roll out on a floured board. Roll one-quarter inch thick and cut with a very large biscuit cutter. Now, into the center of each round drop a spoonful of the lamb mixture. Bring up the edges, forming a three cornered puff. Press the edges together and brush with melted butter. Slip the puffs off the board onto a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven until hot and browned.

SKETCHED IN A CHICAGO SHOP.

A two piece costume of sheer fabric combined with gay plaid taffeta for the petite but older figure. The long line of the jacket creates an illusion of height.

Above: The perennially popular redingote, this time assembled with a sheer wool coat having cape sleeves and a colorful print dress trimmed with fluting.

A dignified, slender dinner gown of field flower print against a dark background. The hat is one of the season's seductive cartwheels, trimmed to match the dress.

New Ensembles Subtly Flatter Mature Figures

Matronly Curves Are Assets When Limned by Svelte Jackets, Frocks.

By Rhea Seeger.

HERE'S fashion news that will cheer thousands . . . news for all those interesting and interested shoppers who are searching for clothes suitable for the every day life of one who has conquered birthdays with poise and graciousness. A smart Chicago shop has turned an entire section of one floor into an intriguing spot where all kinds of such good looking clothes may be found, inspected, approved—and worn immediately.

The department overflows with dresses for street, for afternoon, for dinner and evening wear, with coats, suits, and ensembles that will garb you properly and most distinctively through every hour of the day. Stunning, distinguished clothes of faultless sweep of line and suavely fitted silhouette, of new high fashion fabrics and color combinations and expert workmanship.

Frocks Reduce Both Gawkiness and Plumpness.

Tall shoppers who demand clothes designed for their own particular needs . . . short, inclined-to-be-graciously-curved women who yearn for frocks that slice inches from their streamlines . . . and short petite figures that are nevertheless mature and therefore need gowns and ensembles that sartorially depict that maturity and charm, will all be fitted and more than pleased. Three of the newest spring into summer models have been sketched.

At the center . . . the always popular and always becoming and most wearable redingote . . . this time assembled with a sheer wool coat that is a miracle of slimness and smartness, made with cape sleeves that swing becomingly just below the elbow. It is worn over the colorful and small patterned print dress. This dress also has a trim sleek silhouette and intricately fashioned sleeves trimmed with narrow flutings or plaitings. This is the most practical of spring and summer ensembles. The coat can be worn with cottons and sheer silks, the dress can be worn with a contrasting colored velvet or velveteen coat or, on warm days, without a coat.

Long Lines of Jacket Kind to the Short Woman.

At the left . . . a two piece costume of sheer fabric combined with gay plaid taffeta. This is a clever ensemble for the petite but older figure, the sort of a two piece outfit that will take you through a busy day with charm and ease. Other similar costumes featuring other "silk and" combinations are available. Notice the friendly longer line of the jacket, a length that is effectively becoming and suitable for shorter figures that are rather cut in two by a brief jacket.

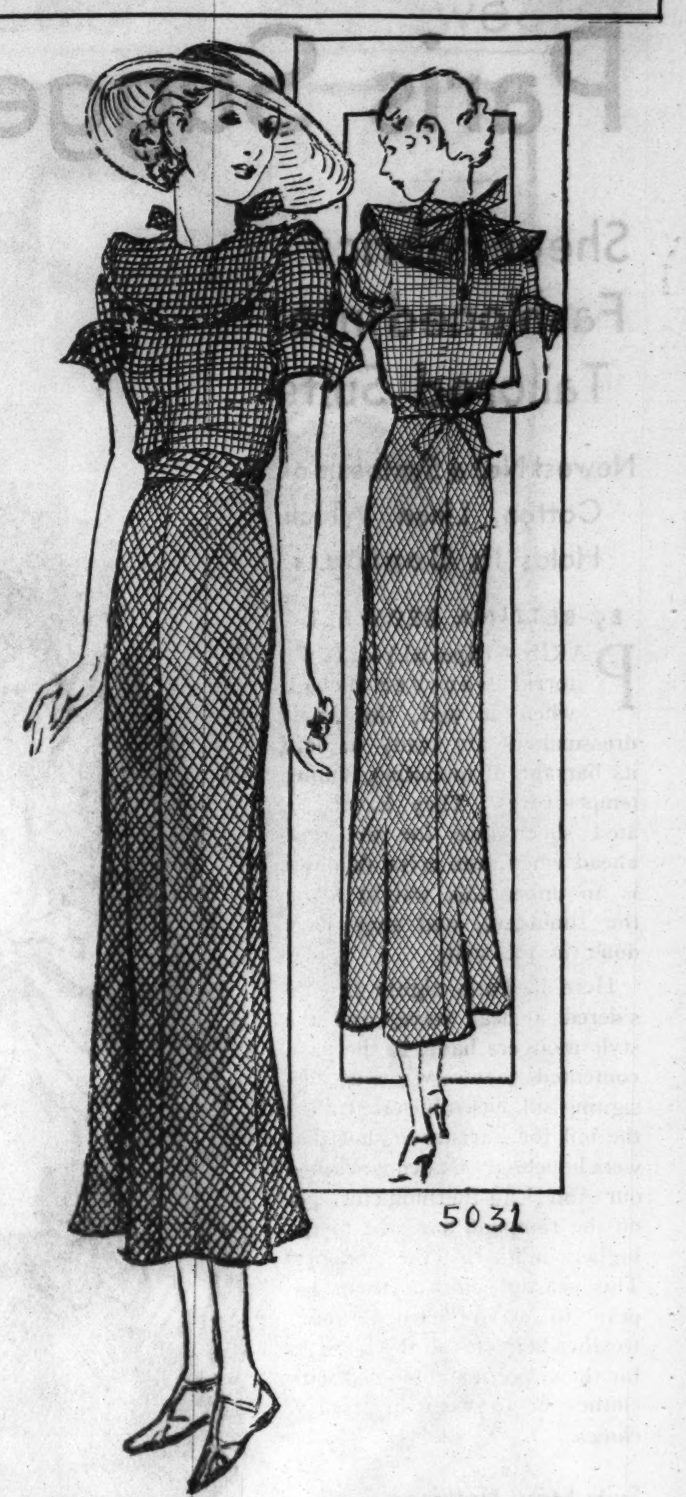
Cheerful Checks Distinguish Paris Pattern Summer Frock



No. 5031—The Paris Pattern for this frock is available in sizes 12 to 20.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The pattern today, No. 5031, is designed in Paris for those followers of fashion who are anywhere from twelve to twenty-some years old. It is very chic and effective when made of checked material, either real gingham or gingham checked silk.

You can make this dress in a day and you can wear it all summer. The round collar has a hem that is turned over and sewed down with invisible stitching on the outside so that it looks like a set-on bias band. The cuffs are finished with the same hem, and so is the slit at the back which provides a means of getting in and out of the dress easily. It is fastened with a checkered bow right at the back of the neck.

The skirt should be cut on the bias so that the checks run diagonally, and don't be frightened for this is as easy to do as cutting it on the straight. The seams come at the center front and back. A small sash of the material finishes the waistline.

You can make the neck bow and the sash of white organdy, piqué, or silk if you prefer white touches.

This dress is very effective, too, made of striped material, and you can make it of plain fabric, in which case you should make the bow and the belt of printed material or of white lingerie.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

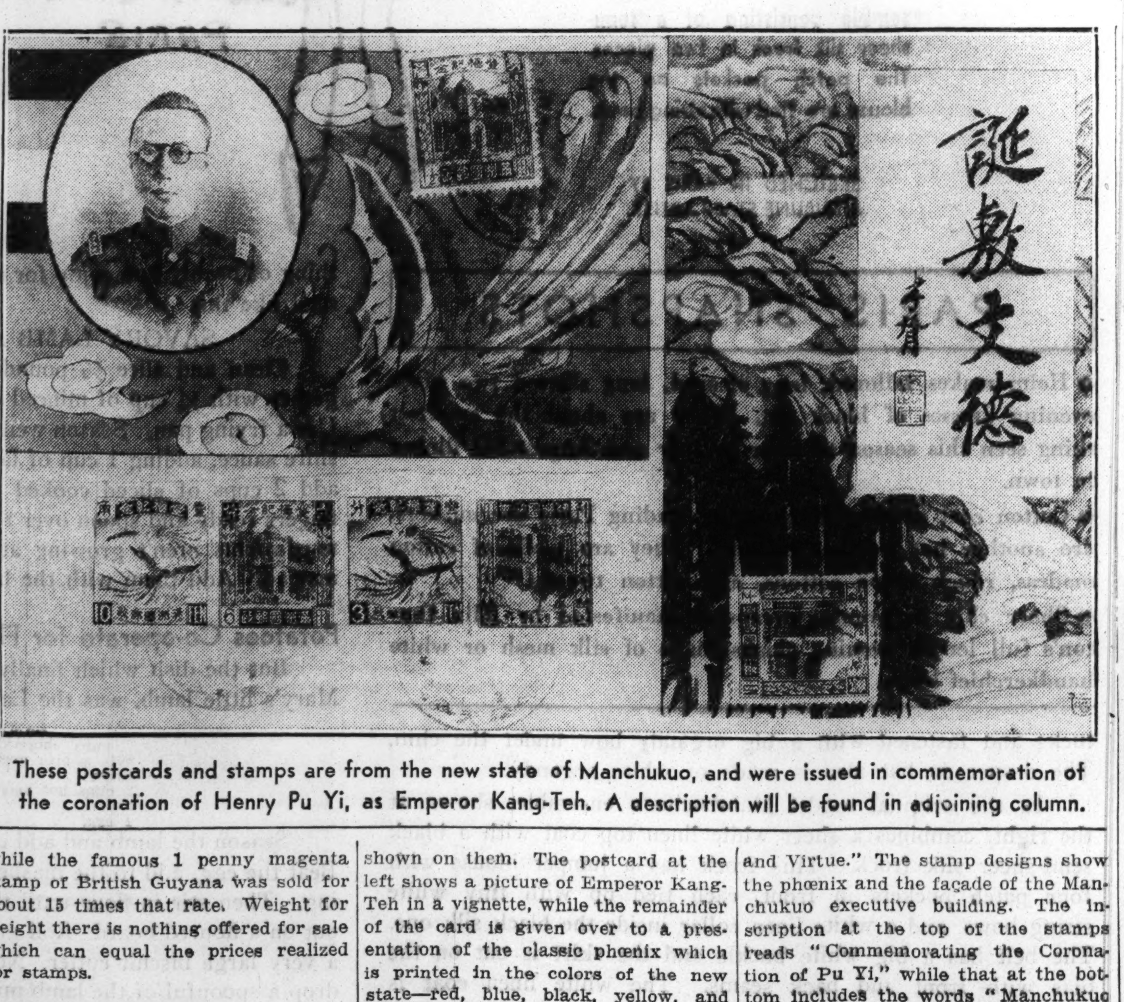
By Richard McP. Cabeen

Booklets by Mr. Cabeen: "Starting a Stamp Collection," 5 cents by mail; 3 cents at Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn or Tribune Tower. "Philatelic Agencies," 5 cents by mail; 3 cents at Public Service Offices. If you ask questions when ordering booklets, inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

TO BE "worth its weight in gold" has always been a standard of value, and without compromising the assertion that value and profit are secondary to the other merits of stamp collecting, it may be interesting to compare stamps with things which possess great value. Ordinary used United States stamps weigh about 37 grams per thousand, while the same number of unused stamps with gum weigh about 57 grams. Expressed differently, there are about 840 used, or 550 unused stamps per troy ounce. With gold at the new base price of $35 per troy ounce, any used stamp valued at 4 cents, and any unused one at 6¼ cents is worth its weight in gold, while the very rare stamps which sell between ten and fifty thousand dollars each are worth up to a million times their weight in gold.

Radium selling at $50 per milligram is at the top of costly elements, for a milligram is only a thousandth part of a gram, yet the average size stamp weighing 50 milligrams need sell for but $2,500 to equal the value of radium, while the rarities sell at rates varying from two hundred to a thousand dollars per milligram.

Precious stones are measured in terms of carats of 200 milligrams, and reach their maximum value in the exquisite emeralds, at a price duplicating that of radium, or $10,000 per carat. The United States 24 cent airmail stamp of 1918, with inverted center, sells at the last rate mentioned, while the famous 1 penny magenta stamp of British Guyana was sold for about 15 times that rate. Weight for weight there is nothing offered for sale which can equal the prices realized for stamps.



These postcards and stamps are from the new state of Manchukuo, and were issued in commemoration of the coronation of Henry Pu Yi, as Emperor Kang-Teh. A description will be found in adjoining column.

Manchukuo Souvenirs.

John Powell, TRIBUNE correspondent in Shanghai, has provided the stamp collector with the Manchukuo postcards and stamps shown in the large illustration, together with an explanation of the various symbols shown on them. The postcard at the left shows a picture of Emperor Kang-Teh in a vignette, while the remainder of the card is given over to a presentation of the classic phœnix which is printed in the colors of the new state—red, blue, black, yellow, and white.

The card at the right contains an inscription written by Premier Cheng Hsiao-hsu, which means "Birth and Spread of Culture and Virtue." The name taken by Henry Pu Yi when he became emperor means "Prosperity and Virtue." The stamp designs show the phœnix and the façade of the Manchukuo executive building. The inscription at the top of the stamps reads "Commemorating the Coronation of Pu Yi," while that at the bottom includes the words "Manchukuo Postage" and the value of the stamp. Those shown are printed in blue, green, red, and brown, respectively.

Stamp from Liberia.

The stamps of Liberia are always interesting to the young collector for they picture all of the living creatures of that curious African state. The animal shown on this stamp is a palm-civet of a variety found only on the west coast of Africa. It is somewhat larger than an ordinary cat, but may be easily domesticated.

Sporting Section.

This Belgian stamp of 1920, issued in connection with the seventh Olympian games, pictures the ancient Greek runner who is commemorated in the modern Marathon race. This race of about twenty-five miles was introduced in the first revived Olympian games at Athens in 1896, and was won by a Greek peasant. It was named the Marathon race in honor of the messenger who was said to have brought to Athens the news of the victory of the Greeks at Marathon, dropping dead when his task was finished. The classical games of Greece included no footrace of such a length as this.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Home Facial Based on Oatmeal Takes Two Minutes

By Eleanor Nangle.

YOU'LL probably tell us we're completely mad when we say that every woman can give herself a daily facial with practically no time or trouble at all. You'll probably picture yourself surrounded by jars and bottles, shrouded in white towels, with a headband to top off the picture, taking time out for an hour while the roast burns or the children fall down and break their little bones just to spite you for your vanity.

But we stick by our guns, because we know all there is to know about a certain oatmeal powder facial which you can give yourself every day and which can be over and done within two minutes flat. And it's a crackerjack as beauty treatments go, practically sure fire insurance for that gardenia complexion.

Oatmeal Is Secret of Grandma's Beauty.

Our great-grandmothers beat the skin specialists and the beauticians to it when it came to appreciating the beauty value of oatmeal. In what are referred to at this comfortably safe distance as the "good old days" thousands of them who worked and slaved and raised large families had gorgeous skins, although they didn't know a beauty shop from a kitchen. In fact, although they never realized it, the kitchen was their beauty shop. Look over the old cook books of those times and you'll find all sorts of recipes for oatmeal bags and oameal lotions to soften and beautify the skin.

Since then oatmeal has been an item on the beauty books, but in a quiet way. Right now it's looming up with a bang. About a year ago a skin specialist began experimenting with it, and after discarding a lot of the scratchiness and messiness of the old time oatmeal treatments, and adding a few other delightful things, he evolved a soft, silky powder that you simply blend to a cream with water and use for your facial. This powder is now on the market, and proving a tremendous success.

Treatment Takes Only Short Time.

A treatment with this blend-it-yourself paste takes, as we say, about two minutes. After the usual makeup removal you apply the fragrant coolness of the cream to your face, giving an extra bit of massage to the blackhead regions around the nose and chin. Then you rinse it off and that's all there is to it.

The oatmeal facial whitens the skin a bit, and what it does for its health and beauty will surprise you. But it's the daily doing that does it.

If you're of the oily skinned type, and if you are, you're far outnumbered, especially in the middle west, by the dry skinned women, you can use your favorite skin tonic astringent in mixing the thin paste.

All the beauty experts moan about us women because we won't take time to give our skins daily care, and they're quite right. We get all worked up once in a while and either to a salon or have a beautifying orgy at home, then wonder why our skins aren't consistently bedazzling. We don't take the time for this daily care. Here's where the two minute facial with this oatmeal product fits in, because it's so short and snappy that there's no excuse for not making it daily routine. As a pickup it's grand, too. A short session with your greenish-blue tin of oatmeal powder and both the old philosophy of life and the complexion take on a rosy hue.

Oatmeal Treatment Is Fine for Backs.

It's a life saver, this oatmeal skin treatment, when you have to put on the evening regalia or the backless sports frock, revealing the not-so-good back and arms and shoulders to a critical world. Mix your cream, spread it completely over face, neck, back, arms, and shoulder blades, and let it dry, which it will do almost immediately. Rinse it off, and to the final rinse water add a teaspoonful of the powder and pat dry gently.

Since summer frocks are elbow revealing frocks, again the oatmeal powder can be called upon to do some beautifying.

A thin paste made with a fine oatmeal powder is the material for a delightful facial that takes no more than two minutes.

A beauty treatment with the cool paste puts the skin of the back and shoulders in shape for inspection

Since summer frocks are merciless to rough elbows, a quick treatment with the oatmeal powder can be routine.

A FRIEND IN NEED - - - -

By Sally Joy Brown

When Poverty and Illness Are Linked Together the Situation Becomes Acute; Your Help Is Solicited to Care for Persons in Distress.

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have discarded articles which are still useful, please tell me. I can place such things with needy persons. Address Sally Joy Brown, The Tribune, Chicago.

IT'S no fun to do without things [as most of us have realized unwillingly in the past few years] but, to use popular phraseology, you can "take it" if you have a sound body and mind. In many instances, self-denial has been a good tonic. But poverty plus illness equals a pretty unhappy situation. Life doesn't seem worth much to any one during a serious illness, but it's doubly difficult to bear when one has none of the small comforts money can provide! A man in just such a situation has written me for assistance. His wants are small, and I'm sure you'll want to help him if it's at all possible, after reading his letter.

"Dear Miss Brown: I came into this sanitarium from a shelter infirmary. I have been unable to supply myself with bathrobe, pajamas, or slippers. A nurse very kindly borrowed a robe for me which must be returned and of necessity I have disobeyed rules by wearing my shoes in the hospital. My needs include a pair of slippers, size 6½ or 7, pajamas size B, and a robe. My height is 5 feet 9 inches. If any one has discarded articles in these sizes, I will be most grateful.—G. L."

Mr. L. is a patient in a large sanitarium which does try to equip needy patients, but is minus a regular appropriation for this purpose, hence the supply often fails to meet the demand.

Here is another case of illness.

"Dear Miss Brown: You seem to help so many people in need that I, too, feel here may be a chance of your helping me, or rather my child.

The oldest of my three children, a girl nine years old, has leakage of the heart, a condition which does not permit her to do any hard playing or running about. To counteract this enforced lack of activity, my doctor has suggested that she take up music. My problem exists in the fact that my husband has been unemployed for the past three years, and I am consequently unable to purchase an instrument for her. If any one or your readers has a guitar, violin, or any other instrument for which he has no further use, I would be delighted to call for it.

Here's just the place for that discarded furniture you're going to have on hand tomorrow or the next day!

"Dear Miss Brown: We are writing you regarding a deserted wife with a small girl six and a son in high school. This family appears to have high standards and the mother is an intelligent woman. The boy has an excellent school record. This family, we think, can do better things if given an opportunity. At present they are living in a small furnished apartment, which is not in the best condition, and we would like to move them to new quarters if we can obtain enough furniture and household articles. They have none at all, and we would appreciate your help in securing a bed, stove, curtains, or rugs.—A. B."

◆

The O. family, consisting of the parents and ten children, lives on the outskirts of the city and has no gas. Their old kerosene stove is beyond repair and they have no other means of cooking. Although Mr. O. is employed, his wages are inadequate to take care of his living expenses, and it is impossible for him to purchase a new stove. Is some basement harboring a kerosene stove which might be put to work for this family?

◆

Miss G. has appealed to me for assistance for the W. family. Mrs. W. has two children and her aged mother living with her. They are in need of furniture of all kinds, especially chairs and a spring for a double bed. Can you help them?

◆

J. W. may be able to secure work, after two years of unemployment, if he can secure a suit, size 37. If it is possible to secure such clothing, he will be happy to call for it.

Variety Needed in Daily Routine of Adolescents

Ideal Schedule Allows Plenty of Time for Fun and for Just Loafing.

For those who are interested in teen age boys and girls we have a new, written-in-full booklet called "Understanding the Adolescent," which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

HERE is a request which the mail has never brought us before:

"Have you any information on an ideal twenty-four hour day routine for an adolescent? This subject is being discussed in our parent education group through the Parent-Teachers association."

At first this seemed like such a large order I though I would not attempt to answer it. So many things would have to be considered—the age of the adolescent, whether the child was a boy or girl, the physical type, his or her temperament and special interests—I decided I would have to cover too much ground to answer it adequately.

And then when I came across the letter again I changed my mind. I am in close contact with the younger adolescents and I thought I might in the space of a Sunday article make some worth while suggestions.

First let us see what the twenty-four hours should contain in the way of physical routine.

Lots of sleep for one thing, in spite of the boys' and girls' newly found interest in late hours. This is not easy. Adolescence is the time at which sleepiness is not so apt to weigh down young eyelids. A book to finish, the talk of grownups, something jolly on the radio, or the following up of a hobby breed a disregard of bed. If you give in to the pleas of "O daddy, let me stay up, Barbara stays up till eleven," or, "Aw mom, none of the fellers go to bed as early as I do," you'll have the unpleasant task in the morning of waking a young thing out of a deep, deep sleep—of a gobbled breakfast, of irritability due to haste and tiredness, and a scrambled morning get-away. If short sleep is kept up you'll have dark circles under young eyes, lassitude, sometimes ill temper and a lowered resistance. This teen age of tremendous growth demands an increase in sleep. To be sure boys and girls vary in their sleep needs, but I have found that for the energetic ones, ten hours is not too much—with the exception of week-ends, when you must allow bedtime leeway, for then they can catch up on their sleep in the mornings.

Bath Before Dinner Invigorates Child for Evening Study.

In this rest connection I have found the warm bath an important factor—aside from the cleanliness element, I mean. A leisurely warm or hot bath followed by a cold splash taken just before dinner is wonderfully resting for the body and disposition of a young thing who has been "going it" all day. And it is refreshing to the mind that has to grapple with French and geometry and history homework in the evening. The late bath, taken at bedtime, if it's to lead to relaxation and sleep should, I suppose you know, be warm, not hot. The latter is too stimulating.

Food next. In spite of the fact that food for children has had such grand publicity, there are still people who don't know how to feed their young. As to quantity I believe in three "squares" a day for boys and girls in their teens and in winter at least a mid-afternoon snack. Lots of vegetables and fruit and milk—oh well, you know the story. Sweets there should be for quick energy, but not too concentrated, and preferably served as dessert. And candy at dessert time, as much as possible rather than between meals. Sweets eaten on an empty stomach are likely to be eaten to excess. You can educate your child to good food habits.

Outdoor Activity Brings Emotional Stability.

The next thing that must have a big place in this physical routine is lots of outdoors and lots of activity. Here we see the physical and the psychological merging. For while activity and fresh air are important for health, they are also important to psychological adjustment at this time when emotions need stabilizing and new urges must be worked off through games and competitive athletics in the companionship of other young people.

Now in planning the rest of the adolescent's time in a way to make him happy and satisfied in his deeper needs we have always one obstacle—and that is an excess of homework. For the average high school student homework occupies far too much of the time left him after school is over.

Home Chores Should Have Place in Daily Routine.

What else then besides their physical routine and their school routine should have its place in the adolescent's day?

He or she should have time to do some family chores like tending the furnace, or drying dishes, or taking care of his or her own room.

He should have time for his special interest—or hobby, if you like the word. This is as important in his life as anything that comes in the twenty-four hours.

He should have time for reading.

He should have time for sociability. Some of this he gets in his daily play and the rest during week-ends. But association with his own kind he must have—both boys and girls.

And last he must have time which isn't planned for at all—time in which to do nothing if he pleases. Time perhaps to just dwadle about the house—to talk to you about this or that as you work or sew. Time to rest, time to think, time to write for his own edification as so many young boys and girls do, time to dream—time to just be—time to do nothing in if he feels like doing nothing.

I think one of the truly important things about planning a boy or girl's time lies in not planning all of it. Don't budget his day too closely as many parents do. Don't schedule him within an inch of his life. He can't be left entirely to his own devices—but he shouldn't be held to account for every hour.

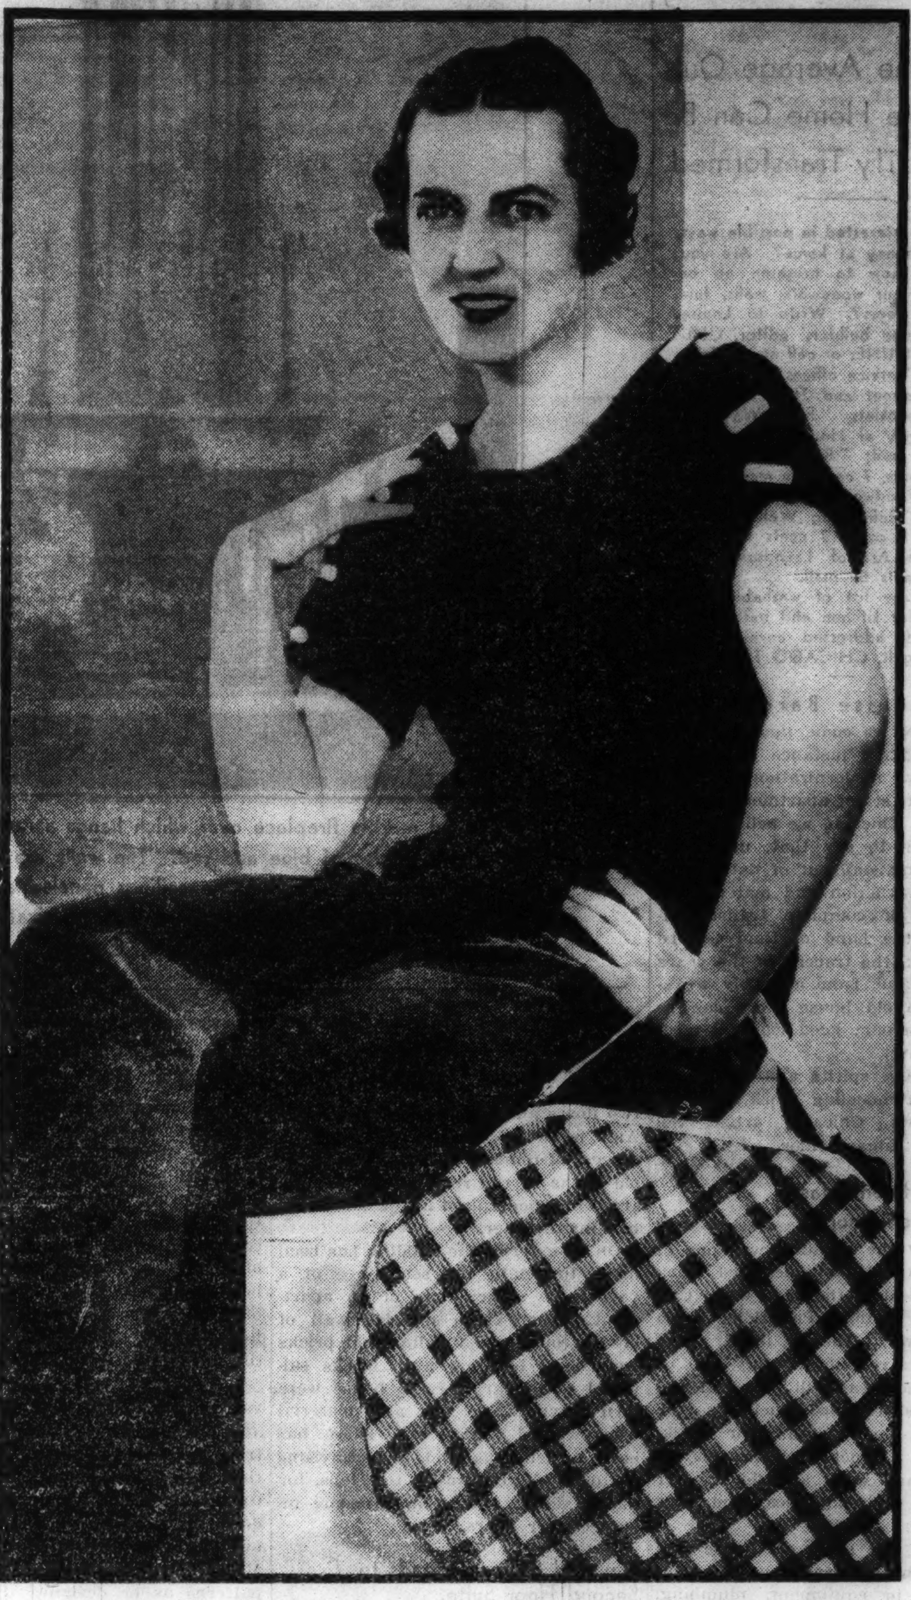
Candlewick Enters the Knitting Realm as Basis of a Colorful Jiffy Sweater



Red candlewick makes this coolly comfortable and attractive jiffy sweater for wear on the beach or for sports. White bone buttons on the shoulder and sash are smart.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

By Jean Macdonald.

TOO long has candlewick been relegated to the tufted bedspread and candlemaking of generations past. Knitting experts, knowing the durable qualities of this material, have at last adapted it to use in knitted wear. A minimum amount of red cotton candlewick, size 10 knitting needles, and a few white bone buttons are all that is needed to make an attractive and inexpensive overblouse for beach wear, sports, or summer lounging. The popular name for this garment is the jiffy sweater.

The pattern is simple and quickly worked up into one of fashion's smartest fads of the string variety. Candlewick is particularly pleasant to wear because of its light weight and heat resisting qualities. It also comes in the class of things easily and simply laundered.

All the pastel shades and the stronger hues, as well as natural and white, are to be found among the candlewicking materials.

HOW TO ORDER.

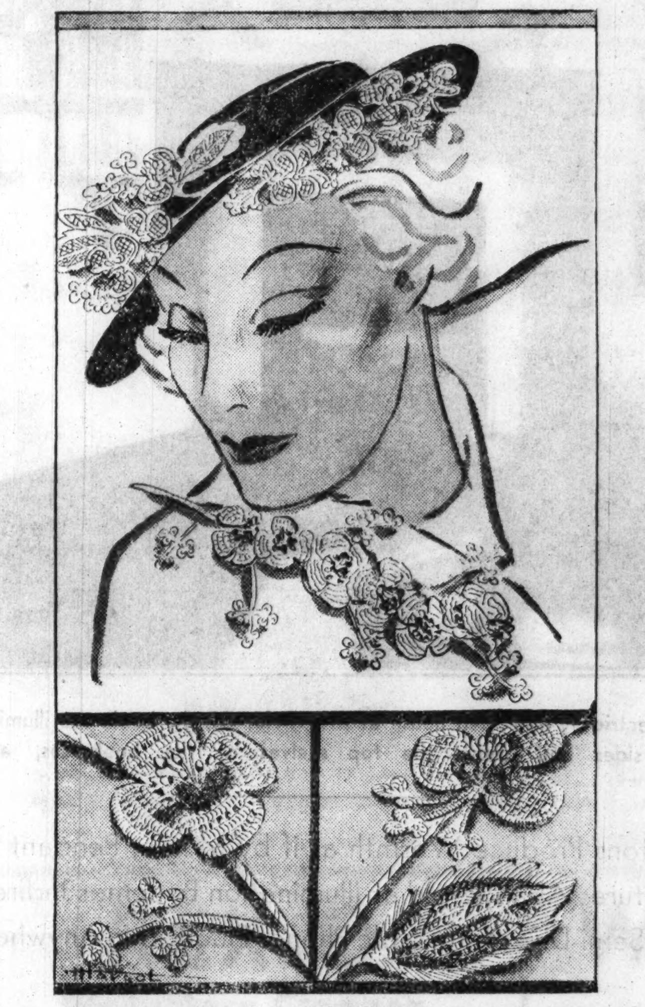
Crocheted Flowers Give Bonnet Class



By Ellen Bruce.

The current fashion for floral décor on one's hat and artificial nosegays at the shoulder has captured the feminine heart this season. Women who cannot replenish their daily supply of boutonnières will find pleasure in crocheting the variety of floral sprays illustrated today. Cotton, line, bouclé, wool, or any yarns left from dresses or blouses that have been made may be crocheted into dainty flowers to enhance a new summer hat or renovate an old one.

A fine wire makes these flowers independent of any particular type of yarn. The size of the individual parts of the flower is determined by the thread and crochet hook used. The main point to remember is that a consistent stitch must be followed to cover the wire evenly. Each motif is detailed, thereby allowing any color combinations and form of arrangement the individual may desire.

The most inexpensive hats may be enhanced by the use of a crochet spray of these dainty flowers in wool or cotton and they may be applied on the top or under a brim. Angora, bouclé, or the higher priced wools are attractive on the more expensive hats. The advantage of such hand made flower trimmings is that they are washable and improve with each tubbing.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the flower spray illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

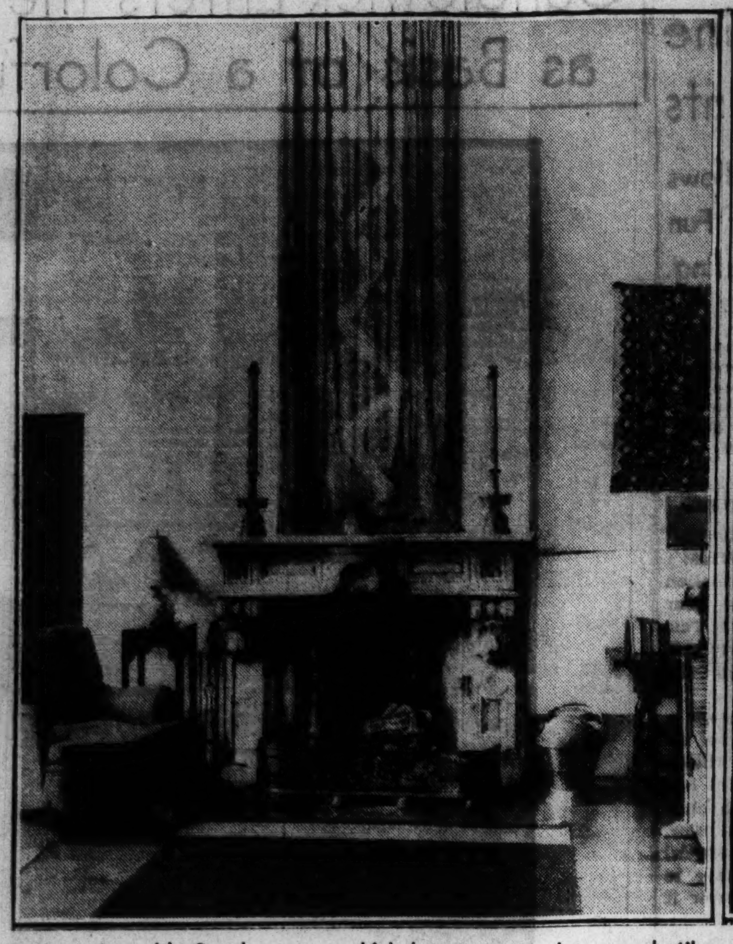
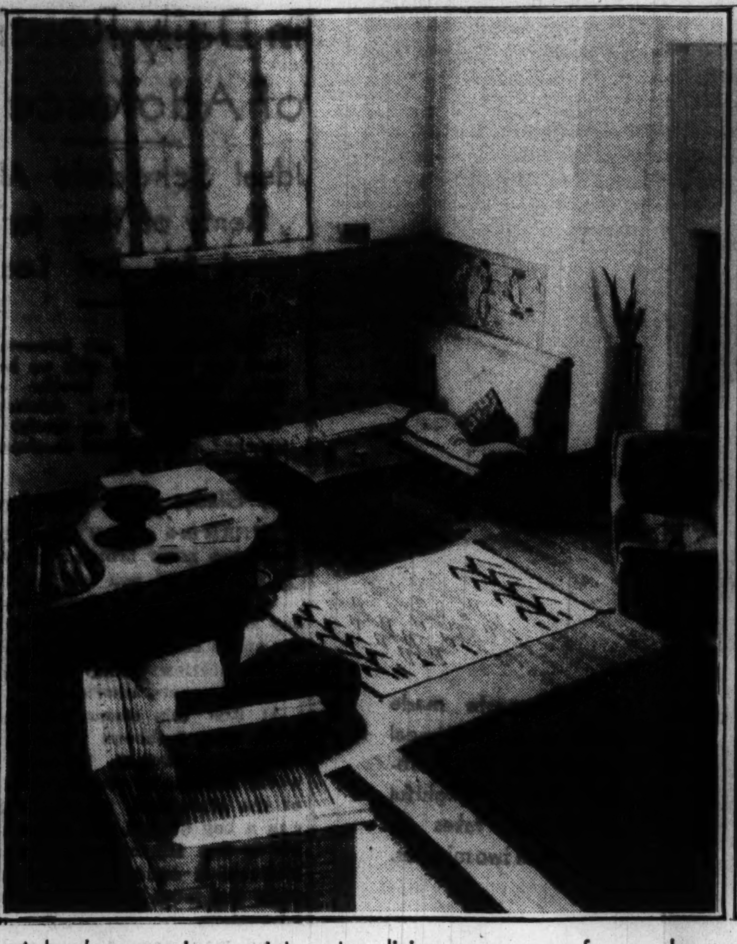
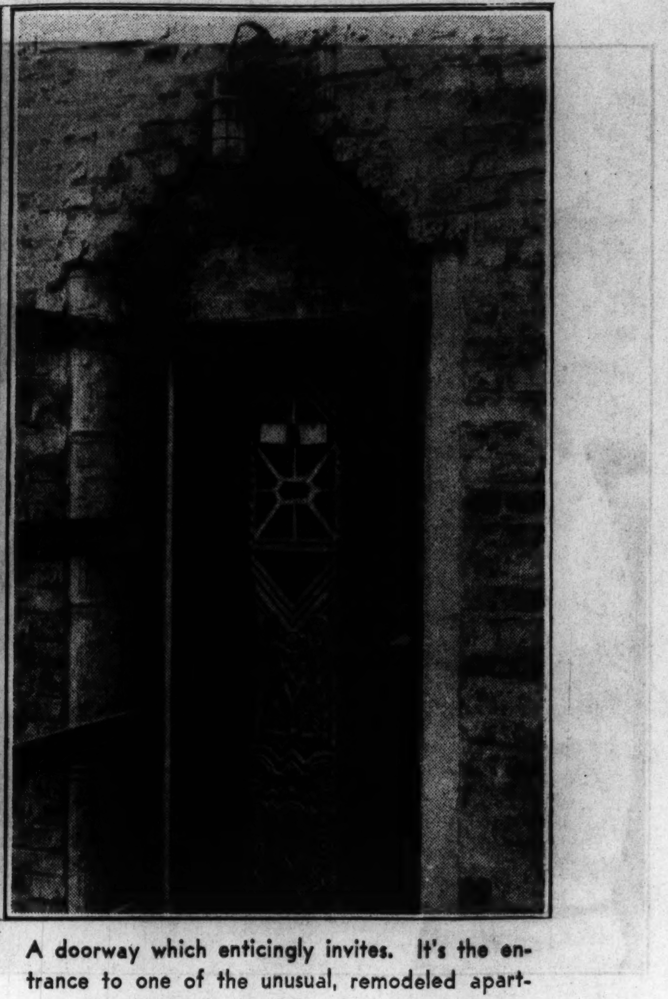
Two Artists Convert a Group of Drab Rooms Into a Charming Suite



A carved marble fireplace over which hangs a rare Javanese batik in softest shades of blue and red. The walls are of white plaster, the wodwork richly carved, the ceilings paneled and painted. An amazing example of what presentday modernization can do—this apartment of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Collins, Carl street, Chicago.



A lovely corner in a vast two story living room—one of many delightful corners in which this apartment abounds. Note the high stained glass windows, the spacious heavily upholstered window seat with its soft fresco work behind, the charming scarlet table for cocktails, the fluffy rug of sheepskin on which the table stands.



A doorway which enticingly invites. It's the entrance to one of the unusual, remodeled apartments at 155 Carl street, Chicago. This doorway, as unique and arresting as the spacious rooms behind it, has been designed by Edgar Miller, artist.

By Louise Bargelt.

WHEN we come upon such an amazing instance of present day modernization as the Carl street apartments at 155 Carl street, Chicago, we believe it no exaggeration to say that, under expert handling, any out of date house of fair construction and materials is susceptible of complete transformation; that the hand of time can be turned back, the tracery of the years wiped out, and, from a visibly weakening, drab old house there can be erected a strong, good looking, modern structure.

The moving spirits and minds behind this remodeling work are two well known Chicago artists—Sol Kogen and Edgar Miller.

Each Apartment Has Two or Three Floors.

Originally the building was one of those large old fashioned red brick homes, typical of the days when Chicago was young. Partitions were broken down, ceilings lifted, dead cellar spaces revivified. Only that of the old which was still beautiful and useful was retained—such as the lovely oak floors with their block, strip, and parquet patterns, marble fireplaces and walls and floors, ever vivid hued genuine tiles, and ever enduring brickwork.

Then, to this same old house was added much that was new in layout and plan, in equipment, plumbing, lighting, and built-in furniture. So that at last an 8 apartment building emerged; a building with no two apartments alike, but each one strikingly individual, a real home in itself with two floors and some times even three! And more apartments, too, are in process of remodeling now. The great old barns in the rear of the building are being modernized in the same captivating manner.

On its exterior the building has been made to retain the semblance of a vast home rather than of an apartment. There is a massive wall of brick around the building; old bricks were used for this wall, bricks salvaged when parts of the house were torn down. Nor has any material been wasted anywhere. There has been a generous and a picturesque use of bricks for walks, for steps, for inside stairs, and even, in some instances, for floors.

Covered Stairway Leads to Second Floor Suite.

There is no general entrance. Each doorway to each apartment is as inconspicuous as it is unique and arresting.

The illustrations today are from the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Collins. Access to this apartment is delightfully unusual! A narrow covered stairway of brick rises abruptly to the second floor. The ceiling of this stairway is painted a vigorous blue. At the head of the stairs is a heavily carved old door, its upper half of stained glass. Only one panel is left plain to permit a glimpse, from the inside, of the arriving guest.

The great living room seems of vast height. It is two stories high and long windows of stained glass rise from the floor to ceiling, letting in to the room softly shimmering sunlight. Curtains are not given to these windows for none are necessary. Their own beauty of decoration is sufficient. Mr. Miller designed their stained glass patterns as he designed the frescoes in the apartments and the ironwork. He designed, and carved too, the woodwork, the panelling and the built-in furniture.

The lighting of the living room as well as the lighting of all the rooms in all of the apartments is concealed. So is the heating. Every inch of space possible has been conserved for practical living purposes. For the practical as well as the beautiful has been Mr. Kogen's aim throughout this remodeling project. This is the reason, too, that much of the furniture in the apartments has been especially built, and built-in to conform to the individual room occupied.

One side of this room is dominated by the carved marble fireplace over which hangs a Javanese batik in soft blues and reds.

A door of elaborately hand carved oak leads out to a small conservatory. To the left of this rise the stairs which ascend to the balcony of the second floor and to the bedrooms and baths beyond.

The walls of this living room are of white plaster, the ceilings richly paneled and painted. The floor is of gleaming oak, strip pattern. In the dining room the floor is of fine parquet design.

In the high ceilinged dining room the same sense of great space and deep comfort prevails. High stained windows rise behind the dining room bay. It is here the sturdy, richly carved oak dining table stands. It was designed for this corner in particular, although it may be pulled afar out to accommodate many guests if desired. There is a special settee of carved oak, built to seat several guests at the table. This dining arrangement is informal, deeply comfortable and economical in the use of space.

Illustrating the combination of practical and ultra modern is the unique built-in serving table with a radiator concealed within it. Its cover top is of tile in black and ivory. Dishes may be kept conveniently warm on this serving top.

At the rear of the room there is a door which opens on to a terraced sun seen.

Kitchen Wainscoting Done in Marble.

Besides these rooms on the first floor, there is a well equipped, well lighted and ventilated kitchen, its walls lined with built-in cupboards and up-to-date equipment. The wainscoting in this kitchen, as in most of those in this building is of marble.

There is also a delightful child's playroom on this floor.

Beneath the stairs which ascend to the floor above is a deep closet where the radio stands. Going up the stairs one sees a softly concealed blue lighting from the side wall. Above there is a low carved balcony from which one can look down on all of the rooms.

The master bedroom has a large oak bed, built-in; a prettily designed built-in dressing table, wardrobe, and chiffonier. The baseboard of the room is deeply carved. A brightly colored Indian rug lies across the bed. There are Venetian blinds at the windows. From one wall of this bedroom a little stained glass French window opens and looks down upon the great living room below. This breaks the expanse of wall and give the bedroom added ventilation. On a hot night the room can have ventilation from four sides.

There are two other bedrooms on this floor and two bathrooms. The bathrooms have marble wainscoting, and in some instances marble fixtures.

One apartment may have three floors with a dinette, fireplace, and recreation room on the lower floor; living room, bedroom, and bath on the second floor; and on the third, two other bedrooms and another bath.

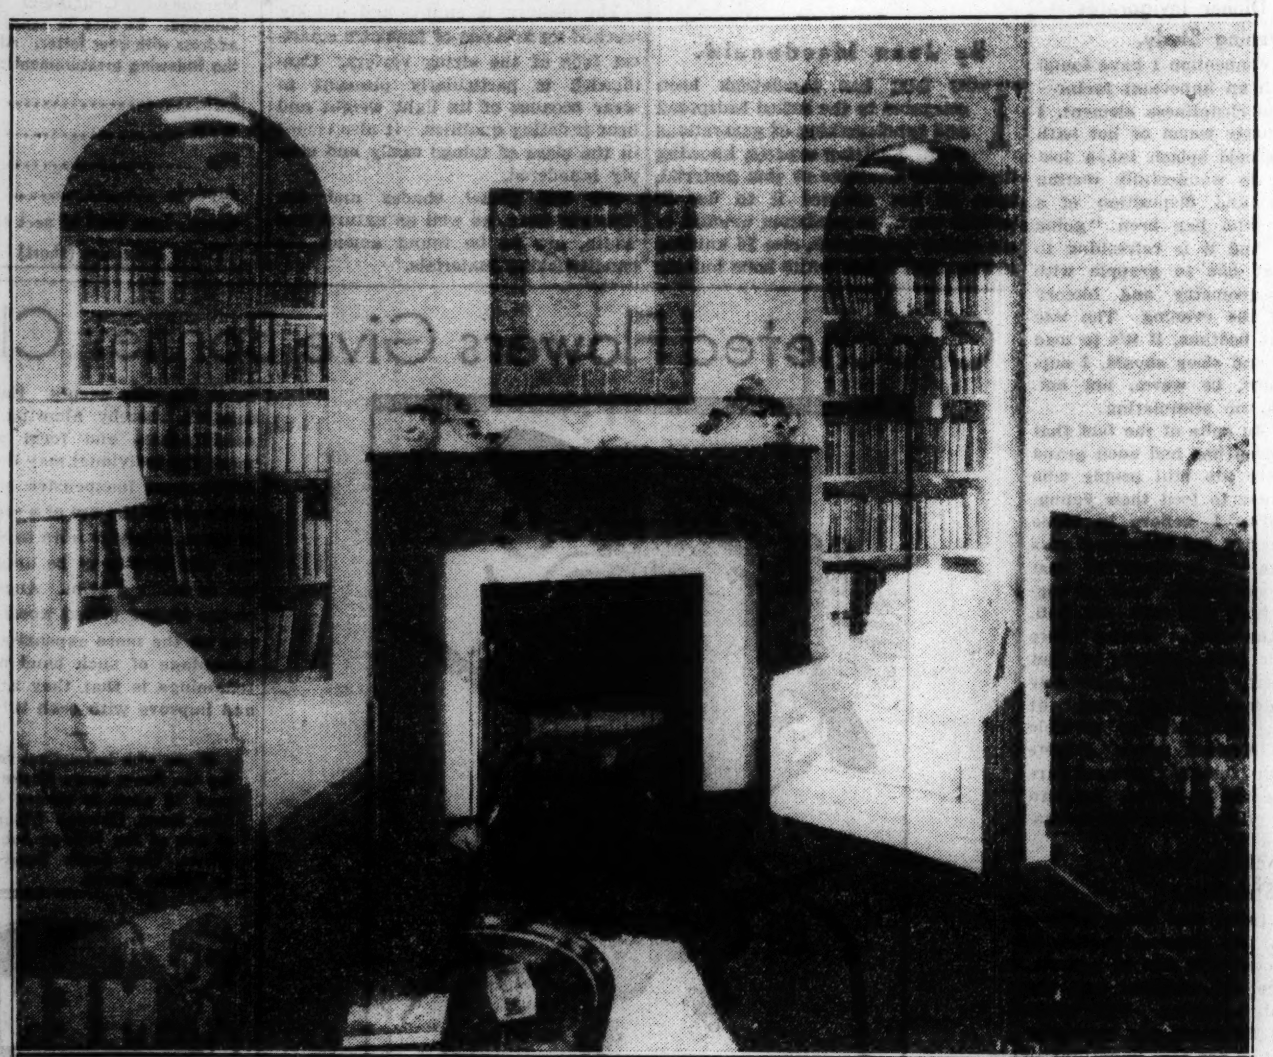
"House of Tomorrow" in Small Ohio Town Is Used as Testing Ground for Wonders of Electricity



In the library of the model, electrically equipped house at Mansfield, O., the books are illuminated by set-in lights behind translucent glass along the sides and above the top shelves of the bookcases, a most ideal arrangement.

By Claire Winslow.

A WORLD famous electrical company has built a brand new, ultra-modern house in Mansfield, O., which it calls "the House of Tomorrow." It should be dubbed the magic home, however, for it is so full of labor saving and comfort inducing inventions that to live in it would be like dwelling in some castle built by genie.

As it happens, no one will live in it, for it is going to be a testing ground for the fast moving industry that has created it. About ninety-five per cent of its equipment was hand made and is of an experimental nature. But to see it all functioning you would never guess this fact.

Wonders start on the outside of the house. The garage door, for instance, can be opened from your car by means of a switch on the dashboard. And by pressing a button the entire exterior of the house can be illuminated. There is a penthouse warmed by paneled heating in the walls, independent of the general heating system.

Buttons Produce Warmth as if by Magic; Pendant Fixtures Abandoned as Illumination Becomes Indirect, Semi-Direct; Portable Phones Plugged In Anywhere.

The lighting throughout the house is indirect or semi-direct from behind ground glass [illegible] from portable lamps. All pendant lighting fixtures have been dispensed with. In the dining room a single lamp arrangement uses thirty bulbs that light up in clever color combinations.

"Stumble Lights" Foil Burglars.

There are eight telephone outlets and you can walk with the instrument to any one of them, plug in and use the phone. One of the smartest little contrivances is "stumble lights" in the baseboards of all the rooms which are controled by a single switch in the master bedroom. Thus, if you think you hear burglars you can instantly illuminate every room in the house, or you can light only a few to direct you from one room to another.

An electrical gadget in the hall regulates the temperature of every room in the house, a movable hot [illegible] into the dining room for serving a servantless meal, all the food being presented piping warm; an infra-red light is placed over the bathtub in the master bathroom; because of a triple ventilation arrangement you can fry bacon in the kitchen with no resulting odor; and eighty-seven convenience outlets are available for use, besides the twenty-one built-in appliances.

Hall Light Seeps Through Translucent Glass.

From curling your locks to peeling the potatoes, squeezing oranges, and changing the "climate" of the house everything is done by electricity. In this eight room home the library is particularly interesting. A picture of it is shown today. There are inset lights above the top shelves of the [illegible] and can you im- [illegible] the flush illumination down the sides that makes it possible to read the title of any book at a glance?

The fireplace mantel is made of a special plastic material manufactured by this famous electrical company.

A nook in the foyer shows how the well lighted hall mirror should look. Again illumination is provided through translucent glass along the inner sides of the looking glass, which is in a slightly recessed niche. Pretty neat, isn't it?

The furnishings of the house are classic-modern and pure modern. And for the sake of those interested visitors who are radio crazy, seven radios are part of the equipment; one in the living room, others in the bedroom, kitchen, etc. It is estimated that this house will cost about $12,000 to build.

"Spring and Summer Draperies," a new booklet by Claire Winslow, tells about the latest fabrics for windows; "Selecting, Framing, and Hanging Pictures" shows how to beautify your rooms with pictures. Each is 2 cents, 3 cents by mail. "Color Magic in Your Rooms" is 3 cents, 5 cents by mail. Address the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and

New Furniture Is Displayed in 15 Model Rooms

"Making the Most of the Dinette," a booklet by Edith Weigle, tells how to select and arrange furniture so that this small room will appear larger and more attractive. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. "What's Wrong with Your Rooms?" is 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Public Service office.

By Edith Weigle.

ALL the lovely, light colors of spring will be seen in the furnishings of fifteen model rooms, a huge display staged by the Modern American guild in the Palmer house's Red Lacker room, starting tomorrow and continuing for three days. This exhibition is open to the public and it offers an unusually good opportunity to see the latest in furniture, wall coverings, rugs, and upholstery designed especially for the bedroom.

There will be a child's bedroom done in red, white, and blue. Not patriotism, but the well known fondness of youngsters for these bright, clear colors dictated the décor here. The furniture will be old white and "Exposition red." A blue hooked rug will be seen on the floor. At the windows are curtains of white organdy, caught back with red cord ties. Small chairs covered in blue echo the tone of jolly little flowers in the wallpaper. The baseboard and moldings in this room are painted red.

Next, you'll be interested, perhaps, in a stunning black and oyster white guest room with wallpaper of blue in a lattice design, bedspreads of gray corduroy, and a modern rug in gray of cut and uncut pile. A chaise longue is done in white with turquoise moss fringe trimming. The draperies of blue moire match the coverings of the other chairs. Curtains are of white cotton voile.

One charming bedroom will be called the debutante's room, and here harewood furniture contrasts with blue rug, gray and blue wallpaper, and the white of upholstery and draperies. The color scheme of the entire room is silver and blue with a touch of vermilion.

A picture of a man's room is shown today. You'd never guess the furniture of rich elm burl is really metal, so cleverly do the pattern and deep coloring simulate wood. And the style is that conservative modern most men are enthusiastic about. Note the extremely simple lines of the [illegible] the bed, and the bureau. Nothing faddish or bizarre there.

To offset the somber tone of the furniture the wallpaper is figured beige and stunning draperies of brown and beige printed linen hang at the windows. The perfectly plain, tailored bedspread is of tan linen trimmed in brown, while the contemporary chairs are covered in brown with buff cording. The rug, too, carries out the same color theme.

Dressing Table Has Top of Mirror Glass.

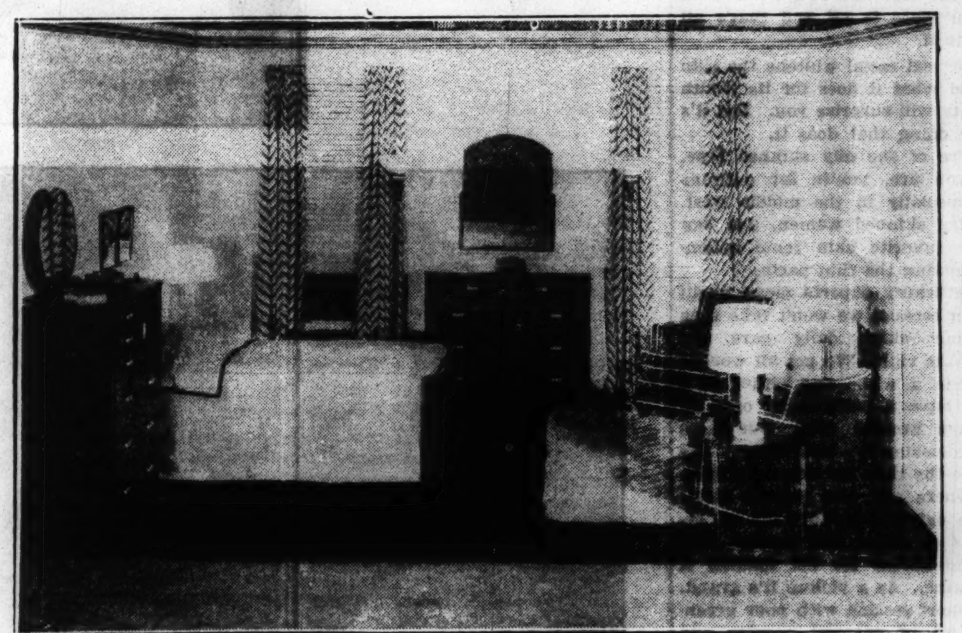
Wallpaper is ivory with satin stripes Draperies are of yellow terry cloth The lightness and beauty of this combination of yellow, blue, and white is sure to appeal to most women, and it is one of the most fashionable this spring.

To those readers, if any, who still have a prejudice against metal furniture this exhibition of the Modern American guild will be an eye opener, for one has only to see and examine the 1934 groupings to appreciate their beauty and their many practical features.

HOW A MAN'S BEDROOM OUGHT TO LOOK



This interestingly furnished man's room will be one of fifteen on display tomorrow at the Palmer house. The exhibition has been arranged by the Modern American guild.

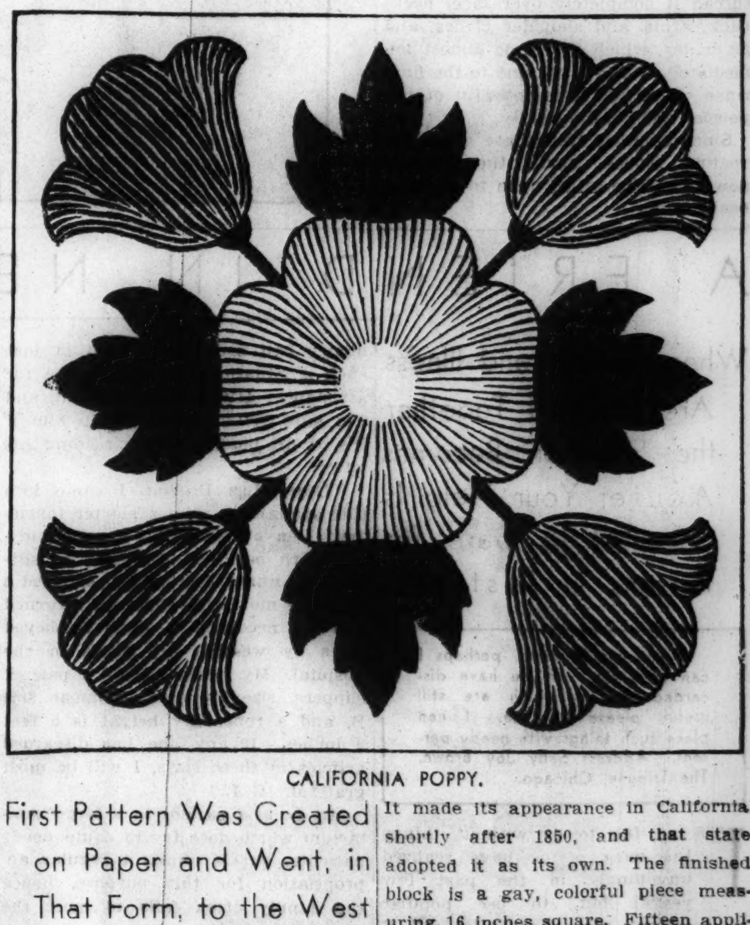
Quilt with California Theme Owes Origin to Long Island



CALIFORNIA POPPY.

First Pattern Was Created on Paper and Went, in That Form, to the West with Pioneer Women.

By Nancy Cabot.

THE "California Poppy" was first sketched on paper in Long Island in 1800. With the hardy pioneer women the paper pattern traveled across the continent to our west coast. It made its appearance in California shortly after 1850, and that state adopted it as its own. The finished block is a gay, colorful piece measuring 16 inches square. Fifteen applique blocks and 15 plain blocks are required for a full sized bed.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Data Show Why Women Outlive Their Husbands

Feminine Sex Is Not So Vulnerable as Men to Rigorous Pace of Life.

By Doris Blake.

A DISTINGUISHED woman lecturer, observing so many widows in the groups she addressed, was moved to ask what became of the men who, she thought, normally would be at their wives' sides.

"Do they eat them?" she asked an American friend.

The state of American widowhood seems to raise a question of what becomes of American men in their seemingly great numbers.

All kind of suggestions have been volunteered on the subject of why the American man drops off early, leaving a woman behind to mourn him. [And we are talking of the widow that mourns, not the widow who hounds for alimony]. It has been urged that it is the drive and pace of business that lays our American man low in his prime; that it is worrying over providing well for his family that the man, in spite of golf courses the country over, does not get enough outdoor life for pronounced longevity; that liquor consumption, which until a comparatively few years back was more a male prerogative than female, might have something to do with it; that other dissipation might be in part responsible. And so on ad infinitum.

Always Will Be More Widows in the World.

We did a little investigation on the subject, recently, through insurance companies, and find that we're both wrong, you and I; that certain of those pet explanations of ours over the widow preponderance over widowers are our own brainstorms, with no statistics to support them.

The plain truth is that there always were more widows than widowers and that there always will be. The world over, too. It's not a local problem at all. Perhaps it is that our widows concern themselves with club activities and other public activities and travel. They're seen about more than widows of other countries. It may be, too, that our widows know how to keep themselves looking so young and attractive that they're noticed more for this reason, too. However, statistics prove that our women do not ride their husbands to an early grave nor do they eat them, as accused. Women live longer than men. They've always lived longer, and, from our statistical sources, we gather that there is no break in store for the future generations of men, either.

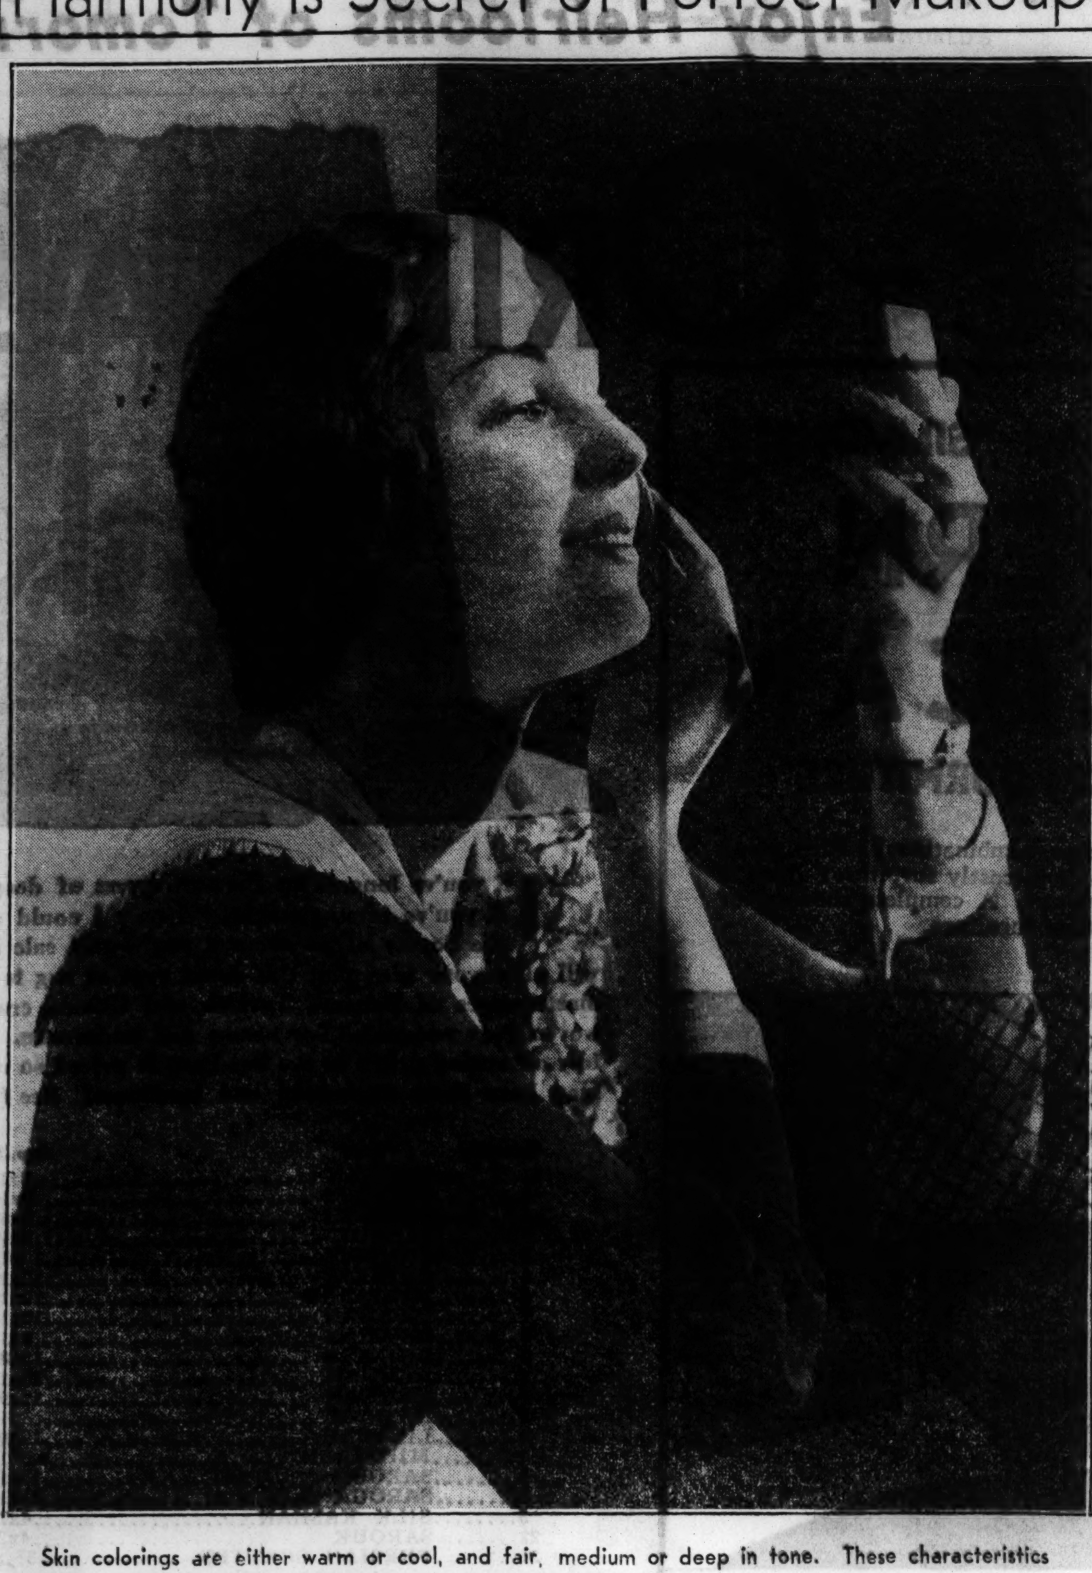
Two Outstanding Reasons.

Women live longer, as we say, and men marry later than women. These are the two outstanding reasons volunteered by our life insurance statisticians for the widow preponderance over the lone male of middle age or after.

The average life of woman is set at sixty-three by our authorities. The average life of man at fifty-nine and a half years. Man's age at marriage is anywhere from two, three, five years, and more advanced than woman's.

Then, there is this clause to be inserted in the widow phenomenon. The widower left with children remarries and, usually, quickly. The widow, from choice or whose desirability is clouded by offspring, does not remarry so often. However, the main fact, as our statisticians reimpress upon us, is that man is marked at birth for an earlier exit from this earth than is his spouse. In the period over which statistics have covered the question, there is very little change noted in the preponderance of married males' deaths over those of married females.

Harmony Is Secret of Perfect Makeup



Skin colorings are either warm or cool, and fair, medium or deep in tone. These characteristics govern individual choice of cosmetics. No makeup is distinctive if it clashes with skin shades.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

"IT is in deciding just what shades go to make up their skin tones that most women flounder about and become lost," says a well known makeup authority. "Women have little idea, nor can they see in their skins the pastel cream, yellow, gold, beige, pink, white, or olive tones."

So, if we women want to be better and better made up, it appears that we have to do a little more individual skin study. The trade, it's true, is doing a great deal to educate women along the line of "self" makeup, as opposed to "mass" makeup, as we might call it.

The same expert says: "In our present theory we consider two points in skin tones—namely: depth of tone and actual color of the skin."

Depth of tone is the usual basis for color in most rouge lines, according to our authority who makes three basic divisions, thusly: Fair tone skins, medium tone skins, and deep tone skins. Then there are cool and warm tones, in each division. Cool tones are those of the pale ivory skin and the pink and white skin. The warm toned fair skin has pale golden tones in it, or the creamy tones with peach tints. Light beige skin is a cool medium tone. The beige skin with ruddy tones is warm. The deep tone skins are self-explanatory, the warm deeper than the cool, of course.

A key to the application of the above principles is given as follows:

FAIR TONE SKINS.

	Powder.	Rouge.
Cool	Cream	Delicate [yellow with pink
Warm	Natural	Deeper yellow content than above

MEDIUM TONE SKINS.

Cool	Rachel	Brilliant [scarlet]
Warm	Warm pink [pink and rachel]	Rouge with blue in it

DEEP TONE SKINS.

Cool	Tawny rachel	Rouge with deep blue in it [good for skins of Spanish type]
Warm	Sun tones	Tawny rouge

The rouges about which one must be careful are those with blue in them. For certain types they're advised, but not for the delicate skin unless one wants a garish effect which a delicate fair toned one should not want.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, April 30.

Make the lawn as soon as possible for grass grows better during cool weather. A little English rye mixed with the grass seed will serve as a nurse crop, dying out the first season, and not interfering with the future lawn. Old lawns may be renovated by spreading rich soil over the surface, leveling it up and sowing seed wherever necessary. Rolling should be done when the ground is not too wet. It makes the soil compact around the roots.

This is the best time to transplant evergreens in the Chicago region. Root action is vigorous and transplanting most successful. Use balled and burlapped plants and keep well watered. Pfitzer juniper is fine for foundation planting where a spreading plant is needed. Savin juniper is more upright in form. Mayho's pine is a compact, globular plant similar to the Globe arbor vitae. The dwarf Japanese yew is also excellent.

Tuesday, May 1.

If sweet peas have not been sown they should be as soon as possible. They do best during the cooler days. Stake or erect a wire fence for the plants to climb, keep well watered as soon as the warmer days come, and mulch with straw materials. Watch for green fly.

It is a good time to spade in plant food between the rows of asparagus as these plants are gross feeders. Work the ground over thoroughly. Transplant seedlings started in the house into flats or boxes and later place in the cold frame.

Wednesday, May 2.

The seeds of parsley will respond more quickly and uniformly if soaked in warm water for twenty-four hours. Sow carrots, the early sorts, as soon as the ground can be worked. Early muskmelons may be had if seeds are sown on inverted sods in the hotbed and later transplanted to the outdoor beds. Sow radish seeds every ten days for a succession of fine, crisp roots. Do not sow more than can be used within a short time.

Sow some of the newer varieties of annuals for they are an improvement over old sorts. The new, patented rose Blaze, a climber, is said to be superior to Paul's Scarlet. It is claimed that it will flower throughout the summer.

Thursday, May 3.

Vegetable seeds sown in the house in window boxes must be carefully watched to prevent them from becoming spindly. Transplant early into other boxes or flats and give all the light possible. Later, remove to the cold frame for hardening off before planting outdoors. All vegetable crops that are started early should be given the same general treatment.

Friday, May 4.

Sow peas for succession every two weeks. Continue to propagate the fuchsia, chrysanthemum, hydrangea, alternanthera, soleus, lantana, heliotrope, and marguerite. Start the elephant ear bulbs in sand, later potting in soil. Sow seeds of Salvia farinacea, Salvia splendens, Salvia patens, Celosia, lobelia, delphinium, centaurea, verbena, and similar plants.

Saturday, May 5.

Plant fruit and other trees. Insist on trees with straight trunks, with a good root system and head. Try planting a few trained fruit trees for they are interesting and adapted to the small garden.

Control potato scab at the time of planting. Use the formalin solution by taking a pint of commercial formaldehyde to 40 gallons of water. Soak for an hour or more and plant. Early potatoes may be planted as soon as the ground can be worked. Plan to have a few herbs in the garden.

Summer Sports Styles Stress Tailored Lines

It's thrilling! The 48 page spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions presents, in color, delightful styles for every occasion and for every feminine age. Valuable suggestions for accessories and fabrics are observant of current fashions. The price is 15 cents a copy, but 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Clotilde Patterns, Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, New York City; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn or Tribune Tower, Chicago.

By Clotilde.

SHIRTWAIST dresses are decidedly popular, and you will surely want to include one or more in your spring and summer wardrobe.

You can easily make a dress of this kind yourself, especially when you use pattern No. 3290. It's a very attractive model, and the directions that come with the pattern make the assembling simple.

The waist part has a plain back and two fronts. Two patch pockets, a notched collar, short sleeves, and a buttoned front closing complete it. Have you ever used shank buttons for wash dresses? They are neat and but little trouble.

Plaits in Skirt Give Desired Freedom.

The skirt is prettily cut, with plaits set in either side of the front gore. Patch pockets lend an air of jauntiness to the dress, and many times will be found convenient to have.

Pattern No. 2889 is for a simple, pretty dress, but one with a great deal of charm. The sailor collar is particularly pretty and, with one or more rows of the narrowest braid, or a right side narrow facing in blue or some other color, the dress will not need any other trimming. In the back of the collar, at the corners, the braid should be perfectly mitered.

Sun Tan Frock Is Versatile for Sports.

A darling sun tan frock is shown in pattern No. 3244. It will be just the thing for tennis, golf, or for beach wear. Besides being inexpensive to make, it's decidedly slimming, and will be becoming to many figures. Striped or checked seersucker, pique, linen, and tub silks are among the suitable materials.

Here is another sun-back dress, pattern No. 2830, that you'll be sure to want the moment you see it. It has the new deep square cut across the back, and the youthfully bowed shoulders.

"Keep 'Em Rolling" Revives Faithful-Old-Horse Theme So Touchingly Even Movie Critic Weeps

By MAE TINEE.

GOOD MORNING!

A perfectly strange man (to me) and I sat shoulder to shoulder in the projection room and kept bitter tears as "Keep 'Em Rolling" unreeled.

Now you wouldn't think, would you, that a movie with a title like that would be sad? It is a Lowe-and-McLaglenish sounding title. It has a gay, carefree air. And the opening reels bear out your idea that the film will be a mawkish one. For you discover Walter Huston as a roistering soldier who loses his stripes for behaving in unseemly, drunken manner in a beer garden.

Then Rodney comes into the picture and the scene is changed. ("Rodney" is the name of the story by Leonard Nason from which the photoplay was adapted.)

You will agree with us, I'm sure, that this is one of the most charming pictures Ann Harding ever posed for. Such a gracious, graceful lady! Miss Harding is at present working with John Boles in "The Life of Virgie Winters."

Rodney is a horse. A devil of a horse! And he's been given up as unmanageable, when that hard boiled artilleryman, Benny Walsh, happens along.

The long and short of it is that Benny masters Rodney, and the spirited, beautiful animal becomes his life interest. Youth and old age, army post and active duty in the trenches see the two together. Adventure, honor, peril come to both.

Walter Huston Once More Proves His Versatility.

The war is over. Years pass. Rodney is old, now, and just a work plug around the barracks. A smart young officer, "Efficiency Parker," condemns him.

It is here that the picture gets in its most devastating work on your heart.

A stirring finale in which Rodney wins honorable discharge by the secretary of war and Benny is deputed to care for him through the remaining years of his life cheers you, but fails to make you forget what you have just lived through.

Again Walter Huston proves his great versatility. I should think it would be most difficult for a man of his brilliance to take on the mental habiliments of the sort of crudeness he demonstrates in this release. To

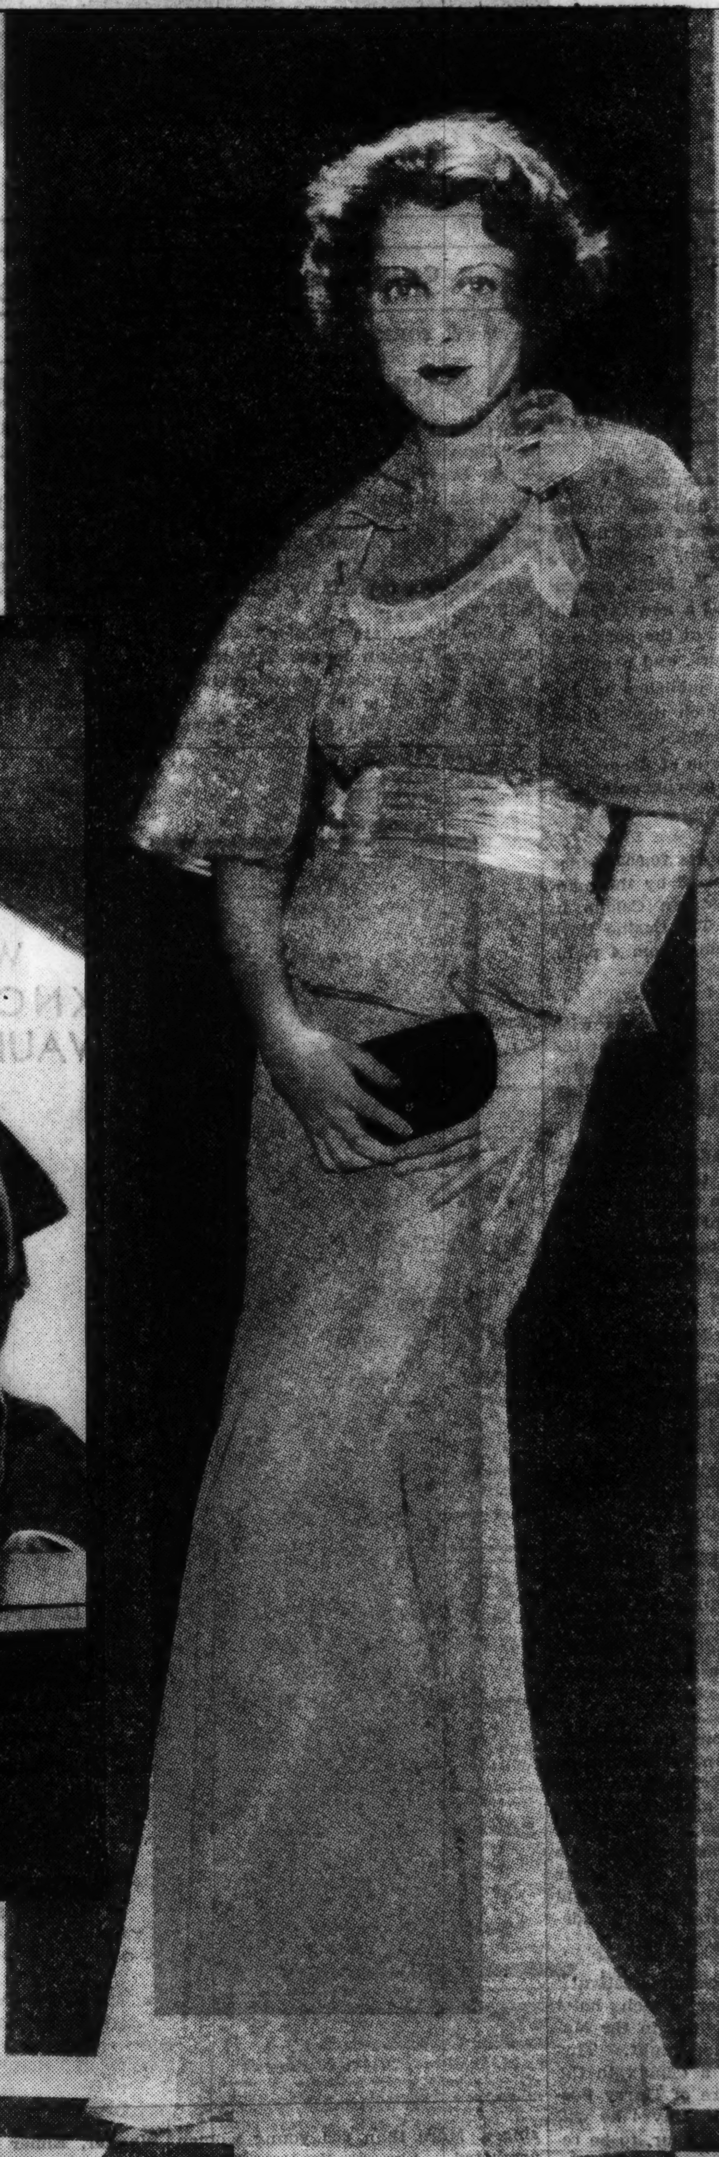
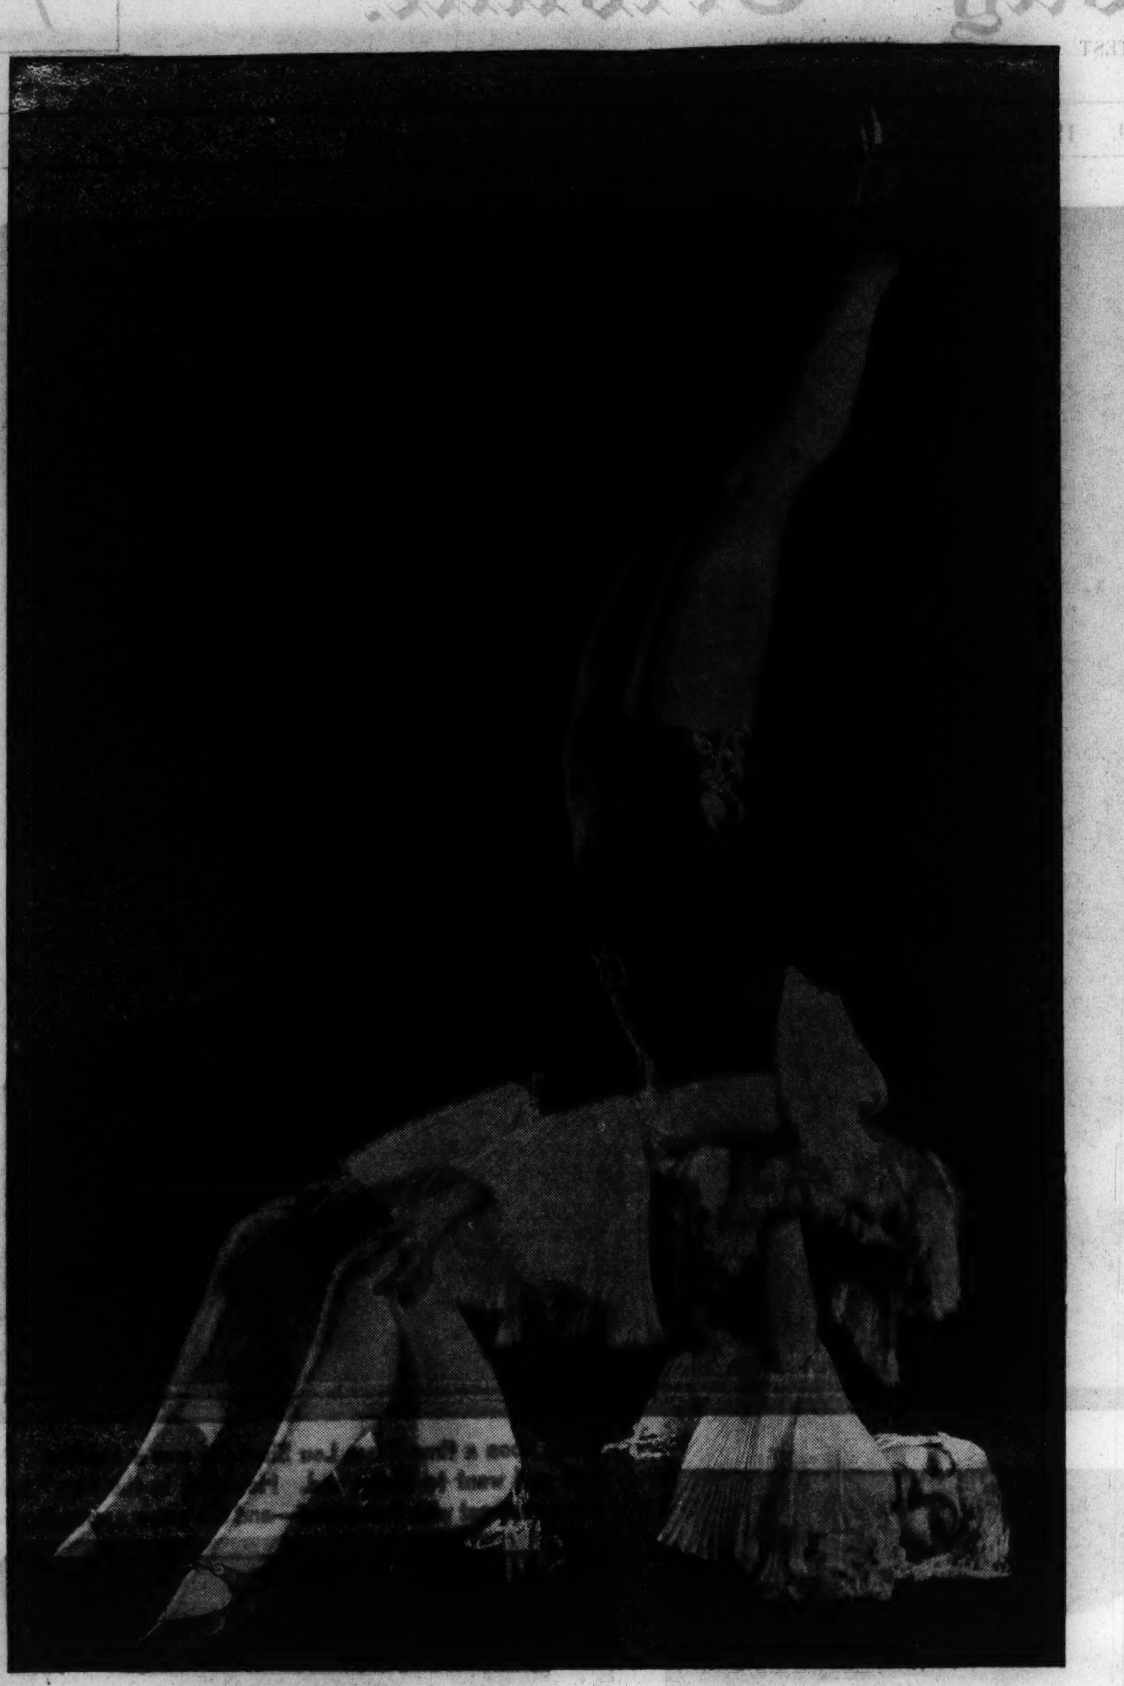
Once upon a time Clara Lou Sheridan was a teacher. Then she won a beauty contest and went to Hollywood. Her work in the film "Search for Beauty" procured her a contract with Paramount—and she's now appearing in "Murder at the Vanities."

Above: Joseph Schildkraut, after a long absence from the screen, reappears with Elissa Landi in "Sisters Under the Skin." (Palace.) He has recently been on the stage.



At the right: Frances Dee is taking sides with Walter Huston in "Keep 'Em Rolling." (State-Lake.) When naughty mans wants to take Walter's horse, she kicks up a rumpus.

THEY CALL IT "CONTROL" DANCING



When adagio dancing becomes so leisurely that it resembles gymnastics, it is called "control" dancing. It includes hand balancing, standing on the head and other exercises of the gymnasium floor. Here are two of the ballet girls in the cabaret show at the Empire Room of the Palmer House, illustrating this form of entertainment. They are Marion Nolan and Frances Dahl.

Good-Old-Nag Theme Again Draws a Tear

take them on and not seem to be acting a part. Well, as Benny, he surely puts over a great characterization.

"Keep 'Em Rolling" has been excellently directed and provides considerable interesting knowledge re army post routine. The overseas episodes are gripping and the wee bit of romance at the end, involving Benny's stanch friend, the daughter of a general, and young Mr. Parker, is a nice touch. Though you DON'T like Parker—not for a minute.

However, it's only a man and a horse that really matter in this picture.

BitsaBOUTem.

JOHN BARRYMORE, his wife, Dolores Costello, and their two children have sailed for a northern voyage on papa's yacht Infanta. They plan to touch both British Columbia and Alaskan ports. . . . PAUL MUNI'S next starring vehicle will probably be "Border Town" from the novel by Carroll Graham. He is said to be interested in the screen possibilities of a story that would give him the rôle of a Mexican, American born, who becomes embittered against the people and customs of the United States and develops into an unscrupulous and romantic frontier character.

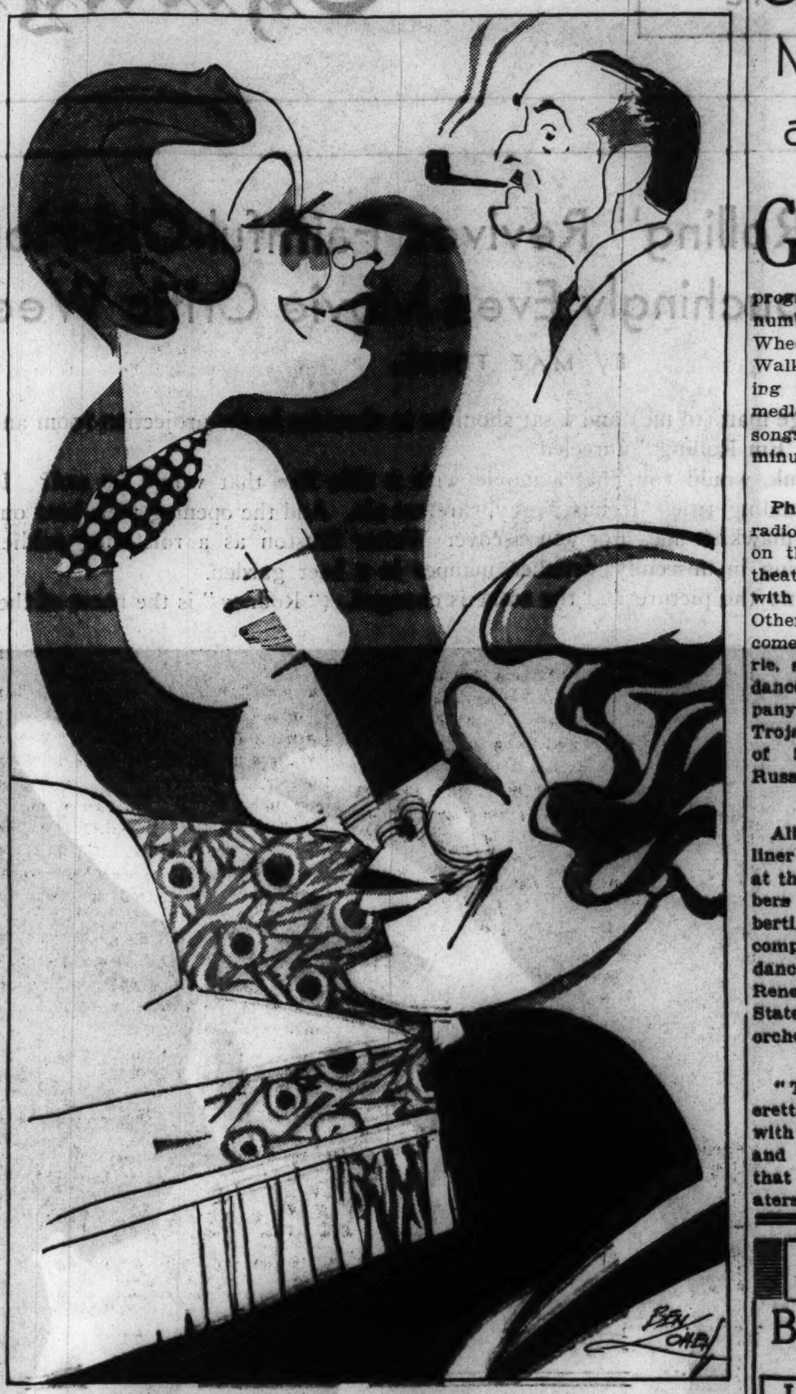
From the London Era: "According to Mae West, her new leading man, George Raft, 'has the brains of six Hollywood leading men.' Mae was ever a generous soul." . . . From Along the Rialto, a film daily column: "LAST CALL for the AMPA Naked Truth Dinner Dance at the Astor hotel tomorrow night. . . ." Sounds like a nudist reveille. . . . "The Constant Nymph," Fox-Gaumont-British release, featuring BRIAN AHERNE and VICTORIA HOPPER, has been stamped "exceptional." It is said to be the first of the 1934 films to be thus distinguished by the Committee of Exceptional Photoplays of the National Board of Review.

Wee CORA SUE COLLINS spends her leisure moments between taking scenes and writing fiction. They tell me she has composed some wonderful fiction about GRETA GARBO and is at present engaged on a voodoo thriller. . . . Somebody wanted to give JEAN ARTHUR a pedigreed puss. She refused with thanks. "I've already got four alley cats that I love, and I'd hate to embarrass them by taking an aristocrat into the family." . . . KAY FRANCIS' home wardrobe is said by a p. a. to be "almost painfully limited." This "best dressed woman" at home wears simple house dresses and low heeled mules, and a voluminous silk dressing gown, too serviceable to be called a negligee, is one of her favorite possessions.

DR. THOMAS F. McLAUGHLIN, "soldier, surgeon, psychiatrist, criminologist, revolutionist, traveler, author, and lots of other things," has been appointed as general technical adviser by Warner Brothers' studios. A press note speeds the news and vouchsafes the information that "since pictures began there never has been such an appointment. . . ." Nor, one ventures, ever such another man.

See you tomorrow.

"SHINING HOUR" PEOPLE



The ladies were smiling when the cartoonist jotted down his notes for this drawing of "The Shining Hour" players at the Selwyn theater; but that was in the first act, when they didn't know that a cyclone of emotions was sweeping down upon them. To the left, above: Nancy Sheridan, as the wife who jumps into a burning barn to commit suicide. Right, below: Violet Heming, who passes up her steady husband to elope with his jittering brother. Above, right: John Spacey, as good old Henry, the innocent cause of it all.

Olsen-Shutta Musical Show at the Chicago

GEORGE OLSEN and orchestra and Ethel Shutta, prima donna, form the chief attraction of the new stage entertainment on the program of the Chicago theater. Their numbers include "The Old Spinning Wheel," "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" "Wagon Wheels," "Dancing in the Moonlight," and various medleys and arrangements of popular songs. The performance lasts for fifty minutes.

Phil Baker, musical comedy and radio star, is the principal entertainer on the stage program at the Palace theater. He offers a miniature revue with his radio troupe as assistants. Other acts are: Buster West, dancing comedian, with assistants; Gracie Barrie, singing soubrette; Melissa Meron, dancer; Karre, Le Baron and company, adagio dancers; the Four Trojans, athletes from the University of Southern California, and Dan Russo's orchestra.

Alice Joy, radio singer, is the headliner of the current bill of vaudeville at the State-Lake theater. Other numbers on the program are: Prof. Lamberti, xylophonist; Gus Robey and company, comedians; Doris Hurtig, dancer; Jack and Buddy, comedians; Rene and Rathburn, in a skit; and the State-Lake ballet, with Verne Buck's orchestra.

"The Student Prince," tabloid operetta, is now at the Tivoli theater with Gertrude Lang, George Hassell, and other members of the company that appeared in the legitimate theaters in the cast.

New Cafes in Stevens Hotel; Cabaret Bills

PLANS for an expansion of the entertainment and café activities of the Stevens hotel during the World's Fair period are being made by Otto K. Eitel, general manager. On May 26 a new café will be opened in quarters at the northeast corner of the structure, and a supper restaurant will be established in the roof garden, from which there is fine view of the Fair grounds. The new café will be modernistic of decoration. Strolling singers will provide entertainment.

- An attendance of 70,000 since March 14 is reported by the management of the Eastman Casino in the Congress hotel. The Casino Boys play for public dancing from 4 p. m. until closing.

- Dorothy Page, prima donna with Seymour Simons' orchestra at the Blackhawk restaurant, is a magazine cover girl. She has posed for illustrators of national reputation.

- Barbara Blane, adagio and "control" dancer at the Chez Paree, 18 years old, has been offered a screen test by the Paramount film firm. She looks like a composite photograph of Loretta Young and Margaret Sullavan.

- The Terrace Garden is rehersing a new cabaret show to be launched next Friday when Clyde Lucas and his California Dons band, now on vacation, will return. In the meantime Don Carlos' marimba players and Lou Diamond's band are supplying the music, while Romo Vincent continues as master of ceremonies.

- The Steamship Ollie, south side cabaret, is offering a new show, which includes Henrique and Adrienne, dancers; Lois Winters, tap dancer; Alice Stewart, acrobatic dancer; Pat Hoster, radio tenor; a ballet, and Art Fischer's orchestra.

- The Roman room in the new M. and C. Italian restaurant on St. Clair street at Erie street offers strolling singers and musicians as entertainers. The lounge is decorated in honor of Gen. Balbo's trans-Atlantic flight, with a panoramic view of its incidents. On April 21 a Romulus and Remus party celebrated the foundation of Rome, 2,687 years ago.

- The annual "Blossom Festival" of the Edgewater Beach hotel opened a week's festivities in the Marine dining room last night. This episode will serve as a climax to the long engagement there of Harry Sosnik and orchestra. On May 4 he will depart on a five weeks' tour, to be replaced by Carl Hoffmayer, who has served with Vincent Lopez and Paul Ash.

- Marion Holmes, 17 year old high school girl, has been selected as the winner in Frankie Masters' amateur talent competition at the College Inn and will join the floor show as a singer. More than 600 young women competed. She studies at Kelvyn High school and lives at 2154 North Kilbourn avenue.

- Harry's New York cabaret is reviving the atmosphere of a popular nook in the Streets of Paris last summer. The entertainers are Germaine La Pierre, Billy Meyers, Al Wagner, Elmer Schoebel, and Harry Harry. Joe Buckley's band plays for dancing until 1:30 a. m.

- The floor show at the Samovar café has Charlie Crafts as band leader, and Edna Rush, the Three Blonde Sweethearts, Virginia Cooper, Art Williams, and Rose Cleverie as performers.

Life of Bronte Sisters Theme of New Drama

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—The London success, "The Brontës," by Alfred Sangster will be given its first American performances in the Pabst theater here next Wednesday matinee through Sunday night. The play is the fifth in the current dramatic festival series directed by Robert Henderson.

Visitors from many cities, including dramatic critics, will come to Milwaukee for the American premiere of the play, now known as "Charlotte, Emily and Anne." A New York production will follow in the fall with the same cast as will appear here. This play ran for 305 performances in London and is credited with being the most successful of the numerous plays dealing with the life of the literary Brontë sisters. "Wild December," by Clemence Dane, and "Moonborn," by Dan Totheroh, are among the other works on this theme.

Elizabeth Risdon, Theater Guild actress, will be seen as Charlotte Brontë; Violet Kemble-Cooper, also of the Guild, as Emily Brontë; Audrey Ridgwell as Anne; Francis Compton as the Rev. Patrick Brontë, and Robert Henderson as Branwell Brontë.

The story of play begins in the Brontë parsonage where the Rev. Brontë eats in solitude, his five motherless girls weaving a wavering line as hand in hand they go to the moors. It carries through the studies of Emily and Charlotte in Belgium, where Charlotte falls in love with M. Heger, the first brilliant man she has ever known, and closes when Charlotte, disheartened and homeless, finds love in the person of her father's curate.

Interest in drama based on the life stories of literary geniuses has been whetted here by the appearance this season of Katherine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

The Milwaukee dramatic festival has been drawing capacity houses with "Meet My Sister," "The Pursuit of Happiness," and "Autumn Crocus."

New Species of Negro Play Pops Up in New York

"Stevedore" Champions Cause of Colored Dock Workers in Far South.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—The Theater union is devoted to the social drama. Its leaders would work reforms by making playgoers class conscious, race conscious, graft conscious, community conscious. Its first play was "Peace on Earth," carrying a plea for an organized strike of pacifists to prevent the government from shipping war munitions to Europe. Its second play, produced this week, is "Stevedore," supporting the cause of the Negro dock laborers of the far south and incidentally challenging the courage of the colored man to accept the support of the communists.

"Stevedore" is a stirring melodrama. Its first performance set an audience at the Civic Repertory theater cheering wildly. It is the first play in which colored actors have had a chance to be consistently heroic and they loved it.

Familiar Old Frameup Is Basis of Plot.

The story is that of the familiar frameup. A white woman quarreling with her lover is beaten. When her husband finds her she shields the lover by insisting she was attacked by a colored man.

The police round up the blacks of the neighborhood and put them through the usual stupid and brutal third degree questionings. One of the black boys, Lonnie Thompson, resents police methods, resents the attitude of the whites toward the people of his race. Lonnie is by way of becoming a communist and would organize his fellow stevedores and have them join with the white man's union.

The white woman's assault charge makes it easy for the dock company to have Lonnie, the trouble maker, accused of the crime and jailed. That will keep him out of the way and prevent his work with the Reds.

Lonnie escapes. His neighbors hide him. The police search a suspected restaurant and an old man is killed. Lonnie takes advantage of the funeral to stir rebellion in the hearts of the blacks. A white trash mob is coming to burn their section of the town. Why, because their ancestors were slaves, should they stand by and not make a fight to defend their homes?

Mixed Audiences Cause No Trouble on Fourteenth Street.

The incipient race riot spreads. The blacks barricade the end of the alley in which they live. The play ends with them shooting it out with the white mob and getting the better of the fight.

It is this scene that stirs the audience to enthusiasm. It is a mixed audience. For the first time in a New York theater blacks and whites are seated indiscriminately on the orchestra floor. The Theater union believes in race equality. So far it has been able to control the situation. Ordinarily there would have been protests. May be yet, though theater organizations operating on or below 14th street are usually accepted as a law unto themselves.

I think in other years this sort of propaganda play might have started trouble. There is still the feeling that the only way to rule the black man is to beat him into submission. And no play that I have ever seen has permitted the black hero to have a gun and shoot himself into anything but a noose or an electric chair.

Sympathetic Spectators Moved to Emotional Outbursts.

Aside from its power to arouse sympathetic audiences to emotional outbursts "Stevedore," credited to a Paul Peters, which is admittedly a nom de plume, and George Sklar, who is a coauthor of "Peace," is a simple and diffuse play that breaks rather sharply after the escape of Lonnie from the police. I don't believe it is anything for the authorities to worry about. It will be a noisy success in 14th street so long as the Theater union can feed it with organized audiences. And a fine outlet for the bursting emotions of the outraged radicals. They have enough right on their side to entitle them to a hearing. The more chances they have to yell the greater the relief of the pressure that breeds hysteria and protest meetings.

The actors are mostly colored, headed by Jack Carter, a tall, good looking actor, and Edna Thomas, an attractive leading woman, both from the Lafayette Colored theater in Harlem. The whites include Dodson Mitchell, Jack Hartley, and Millicent Green. But all Millicent, who played the white wife, had to do was to get herself soundly slapped in the first scene and then disappear.

"Are You Decent?" Takes Title from Dressing Room Gag.

Crane Wilbur has written another one called "Are You Decent?" This, it appears, is the actor's call when he would visit another member of the company in her dressing room. He is supposed to stand outside until he gets a favorable reply. That will mean the lady has put on enough clothes to receive callers. Reverse the sexes and the call code still holds. No gentleman actor will admit a lady visitor until he has at least slipped into his trousers.

I did not see "Are You Decent?" but my scouts report it as a fairly dull farce written on the familiar and somewhat dated theme of the young society woman who is eager to be a mother without assuming the obligations of matrimony and the annoyance of a husband. She would select a father for her child and dismiss him once she has negotiated her objective.

There are two young men interested in the experiment. One because he loves the girl and would marry her. The other because he is scientifically minded and naturally obliging. The young man in love, by pretending to be no more than an accommodating engineer, is finally rewarded with the young woman's promise to wed him.

The chief actors are Claudia Morgan, playing the girl; Lester Vail, the true lover; and Eric Dressler, a willing clown. "Are You Decent?" is probably not for long.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By George Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—The Looney Lupino gang is at it again. Ida and her pals decided the other night that they must have a popsicle. And after five hours' search and ten dollars' worth of coffee, sodas, and whatnots, they were still hunting popsicles at 1 o'clock in the morning. Also, Ida is getting leashes for her three mutts, as the hounds stole eight roast chickens planned for a buffet supper up at "Screwloose College," where Ida and her ma live, if you can call it living.

- An author got a break in Hollywood this week. The marquee in front of Warners' Hollywood bore the legend, "'As the Earth Turns,' from the famous novel by Gladys Hasty Carroll"—the first time such a thing has ever been done in Hollywood. Usually writers are considered the cockroaches in the ointment at any studio.

- Lois January had an accident with a curling iron, and as a consequence a three inch star decorates one cheek for the time being.

- Metro, with its musical "Merry Widow," and Fox with its big musical special, "Caravan," are doing the same thing: First shooting scenes with the American casts, in English, and then bringing the imported French cast onto the same settings to go through the same action sequences, but in French. Songs are recorded in both tongues.

Chicago Stage Shows Signs of Brisk Recovery

"Curtain Rises" Departs with Honors; Another Comedy at Cort Theater

By Charles Collins.

LET'S make this one of those columns that contain rows of dots—the new bird-shot style of journalism. . . . The theater in Chicago has begun to revive, or at least playgoing has begun to revive, which means much the same thing in the long run. The Monte Carlo Ballet Russe started it, I think, with its two brilliant engagements at the Auditorium. . . . But Dennis King in "Richard of Bordeaux" and Maria Jeritza in "Annina" have also been potent influences in this springtime renascence.

- Henry Mollison, who plays the medieval sportsman, Henry Bolingbroke, in "Richard of Bordeaux," says that Chicago audiences are quicker in picking up points than the New York species. As keen, in fact, as London audiences for the same play. . . . The natural inference from this fact is that Chicago knows more about English history than New York. . . . This Mr. Mollison, incidentally, is quite an actor. He ought to be good, for Sir Henry Irving was his godfather.

- Louise Groody and "The Curtain Rises" company moved their trunks out of the Cort theater last night with the long run record of the Chicago season in their possession. Fourteen weeks. . . . Tonight Taylor Holmes moves into the Cort in the title rôle of "Big Hearted Herbert." . . . His start as a star began in the same theater in 1916; the play was the well remembered "Bunker Bean."

- Allan Jones, now proving the operatic value of his voice by singing opposite Mme. Jeritza in "Annina," played tackle with the Syracuse university football team in 1926. . . . After his sophomore year he transferred to New York university, where the vocal instruction was better; then he went to Paris to put the finishing touches on his technique. . . . He earned the expenses of his European year by working as operator of a steam shovel in the coal mine dumps around Scranton, Pa.

- The emblem of the white hart [deer] on the curtain of "Richard of Bordeaux," and also on the livery of Richard's servants, represents a side line of heraldry to be studied under "badges." It was Richard's personal badge. His proper coat of arms, of course, was the lions and fleur-de-lis of the English monarchy. . . . The armorial bearings of the Dukes of Lancaster were three lions, stretched out to look like dachshunds, but the badge of the house was the red rose. . . . The white hart of Richard II. was revived as a badge during the Wars of the Roses. It survives today as the title of numerous English inns and taverns.

- Nearly all of the young women in the cast of "Girls in Uniform," at the Blackstone, work daytimes in offices or go to high school. Call them amateurs if you will, but the Abbey theater company of Dublin started that way. . . . So they have been unable to give matinée performances. Today, however, they will give a show for the Sunday afternoon downtowners, begining at 3 p. m. . . . Shaindel Kalish, the heroine of this drama, is the second precociously gifted player to sprout out of the Chicago environment this year. The first was Orson Welles, now with Katharine Corneil's company. . . . Some enterprising impresario ought to co-star this brace of wonder children.

- What happened to some of the historic characters in "Richard of Bordeaux" after they dropped out of the play? . . . Dying in exile a few years later seemed to be their specialty. This happened to Michael de la Pole, the chancellor; to Robert de Vere, earl of Oxford, the king's favorite, and to Thomas Mowbray, the sinister soldier. . . . Sir Simon Burley, the king's tutor, got the ax. . . . So did that old walrus, the earl of Arundel, on framed charges. . . . The duke of Gloucester was murdered in Calais by henchmen of Mowbray. The old duke of Lancaster, also known in history as John of Gaunt, died a natural death. . . . Richard II. is believed to have died of privations in Pomfret castle, where he was imprisoned by his successor. . . . Two reigns later his remains were disinterred and reburied in Westminster Abbey.

- When Katharine Cornell presents "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" in Richmond, Va., tomorrow, it will be the first time that the capital city of the old confederacy has seen a specimen of the spoken drama since 1931. . . . Maude Adams and Otis Skinner, co-starring in "The Merchant of Venice," were Miss Cornell's immediate predecessors in the education of the south.

- Changes of titles of plays after announcement has been one of the symptoms of the depression psychology among managers. Before Mme. Jeritza's vehicle became "Annina" it bore the rehersal period labels of "Rose-Linda," "Teresa," and "Juliana." . . . Last Monday a revival of "Gypsy Love" was announced for Chicago under the title "The Gypsy Vagabond." The next day it became "The Gypsy Serenade."

Spring Revivals.

A series of revivals of popular musical comedies and operettas is being planned for the 44th Street theater, New York, by the Shuberts. The first show, Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet," will open on May 7 with Allan Jones as tenor. Others on the schedule are "The Merry Widow," "Countess Maritza," "The Only Girl" and "Blossom Time."

A GIRL IN UNIFORM

"Bogey" Andrews Stage Veteran

A STALWART of the drama, A. G. Andrews, 80 years old but still hale and hearty, may be seen and heard as Sir Simon Burley, the tutor, in support of Dennis King in "Richard of Bordeaux."

"Bogey" Andrews, as he is known among his associates, is a Britisher who was born within the sound of Bow Bells. He dates his theatrical career from the old days of the Haymarket theater, London, when Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chippendale, J. B. Buckstone, and Rose Leclercq were in the heydey of their popularity.

He goes back in American stage history to the first visit to this country of Henry Irving and Ellen Terry. He made his American debut as the Dauphin in "Louis XI." and appeared in all of the productions presented during the stars' two subsequent visits. During the last half century he has supported Barry Sullivan, W. J. Florence, John McCullough, Richard Mansfield, Leo Ditrichstein, Ethel Barrymore, and many other stars.

RAINBO LADY

Ramona Miller is a contributor to the elaborate cabaret show at the Prima Rainbo Gardens, figuring in a skit with old-fashioned Bowery costumes. She was in musical comedy with the Marx Brothers.

Music Will Be Accorded High Place at Fair

Chicago Symphony, Italian Group Assured; Detroit Orchestra May Play.

By Edward Moore.

SOME of the exhibitors at the coming Century of Progress seem to be of the belief that music has a function as a socializing force through its function as entertainment. At least three items indicate that they, as exhibitors, are going in for music in a rather large way this summer.

After several weeks of negotiation it has been decided that the Swift building will house the Chicago Symphony orchestra for ten weeks beginning about July 1. Two concerts daily, afternoon and evening, are contemplated, and Frederick Stock is quoted as saying that he has a number of interesting experiments in mind which were impossible before because of the congested condition of the regular fall and winter season.

The description of the Swift theater sounds interesting. An open air auditorium will seat about 1,700 patrons, who will be separated from the music shell by an expanse of sixty-four feet of water. There will be extensive and elaborate lighting devices for the evening concerts, and special amplification will be provided to carry the sound to all parts of the auditorium. A large organ will be installed for use both with the orchestra and in special single programs.

Papi to Head Italian Musicians.

There has also been considerable talk about bringing the Detroit Symphony orchestra to play during a similar period in the Ford exhibit. At the time this is being written a decision has not been reached, but the proponents of the idea are maintaining a hopeful idea. The cause of the delay would seem to be not so much the cost of bringing the orchestra as the desire on the part of the proponents to broadcast these concerts, since broadcasting by a visiting organization brings its own set of problems, complexities, and extra costs.

One turns next to the Italian village which will be on the lake shore just south of 24th street. From this organization it is learned that Gennaro Papi, that greatly talented operatic conductor, will be the chairman of the music advisory committee.

Just how much this will mean in the way of opera has not been made completely clear, but quite a bit of concert, folk music, and folk dance is promised. Peasants and townsfolk in native costumes will present folk dances to the music of strolling players, and there is the promise of a summer long series of offerings by concert and operatic stars from Italy as well as by noted Italo-American singers.

Music Tremendously Popular with Philanthropists.

All of which has considerable bearing on a subject that of late has had much discussion, namely, the part that music is to play in these days of increased leisure time. The Music Supervisors' National conference studied the question in detail during its recent session in Chicago. The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, directed by C. M. Tremaine of New York, has recently put out a brochure on the subject, and one finds ponderous, not to say startling, figures therein.

It says that various authorities have estimated that between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 are being spent philanthropically every year for the advancement of music. It enumerates items such as payment of deficits of symphony orchestras; endowments of great music schools; university music departments; music school settlements; scholarships of varied kinds; music festivals; lesser gifts; high school music camps; gifts of instruments, auditoriums, and the like; and national, state, district, and local music contests.

Added to this purely financial matter is the number of people who serve the cause of music as volunteers, who give their time and service without pay because of their interest in the social and artistic sides of music.

Public Yearly Spends a Billion Dollars on Music.

The brochure cites the Music Supervisors' National conference just mentioned with 7,500 members; the National Federation of Music Clubs with 400,000 members; the music department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs with 200,000 members; several hundred thousand more covered by glee club associations, national school band and orchestra associations, national and state teachers' associations, and the like, financing themselves almost entirely.

A third factor in the total result is that of the professional musicians who are paid for their work, teachers paid by public schools, private teachers paid by pupils, concert artists paid by audiences, composers who sometimes are not paid, publishers and manufacturers paid by purchasers. "In normal times," the brochure continues, "it has been estimated that over a billion dollars is spent per annum by the public in music education and musical entertainment in one form or another.

"Yet there is far more work to be done than has been accomplished in the past, for evidence of the fuller and richer service which music can render to society—individually and collectively—in the new era is multiplying daily. Under normal conditions there is a greater demand for qualified chorus leaders, music club directors, and teachers of adult classes than can be met."

Folk Music from Many Nations Will Be Feature of This Year's Program.

The orchestral numbers will be Rameau's "Dardanus" Overture and excerpts from Elgar's "The Wand of Youth," and Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

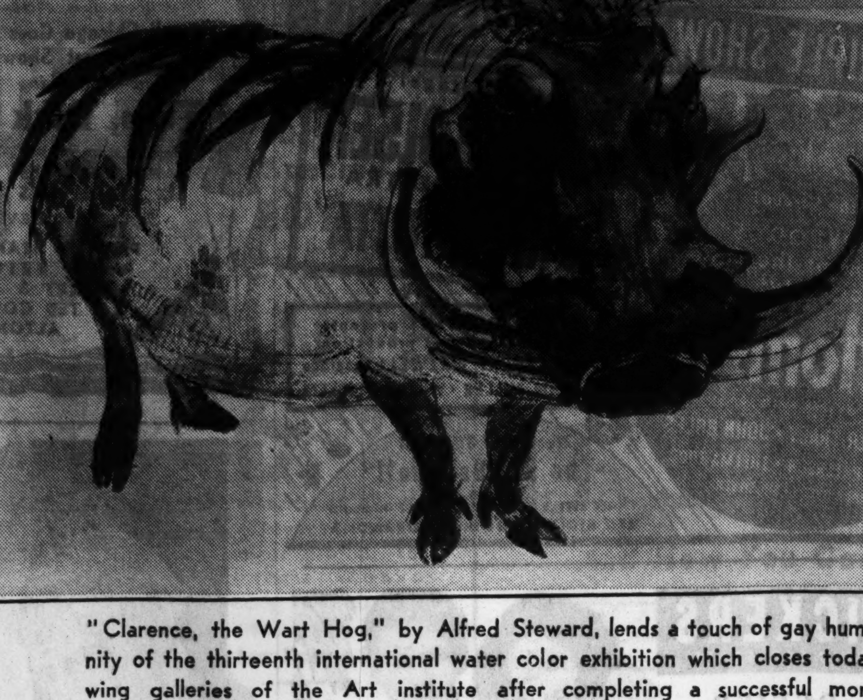
Art Institute Prepares for Two Million Visitors to Century of Progress Exhibit, Opening June 1

Officials Think 1934's Record of 1,700,000 Will Be Surpassed This Year.



"Clarence, the Wart Hog," by Alfred Steward, lends a touch of gay humor to the dignity of the thirteenth international water color exhibition which closes today in the east wing galleries of the Art institute after completing a successful month's showing.

HAVING been host to record crowds last summer, the Art institute is preparing to accommodate at least two million visitors this year at its 1934 Century of Progress exhibition of art. Last year the attendance ran upwards of 1,700,000. To judge by reports coming in from tourist agencies, railroads, hotels, bus lines, and individuals Chicago will see greater crowds this year than last.

The great popularity of the Art institute's exhibition of world masterpieces last year has stimulated those who were not able to see it to come this year, when they will find prepared for them a glorious pageant of American painting. The new exhibition will include a thousand masterpieces, many of them great works of art which have never before been shown in Chicago.

The 1934 Century of Progress art exhibit will open June 1 and run to Nov. 1. The paintings and sculpture will be housed on the second floor of the museum. In the spacious galleries of the print department on the first floor there will be a superb collection of prints, etchings, engravings, wood block prints, and lithographs, constituting the World's Fair international exhibition of such work. The jury for this exhibit met some ten days ago and selected over 400 items for exhibition. On the jury were John Taylor Arms, the greatest living American etcher; Walter Brewster, trustee of the Art institute; Elizabeth Luther Cary, Francis Chapin, and Charles Wilimovsky.

Twenty-One Countries to Be Represented.

Twenty-one countries will be represented, the American contingent being the largest. The two sections—etchings and engravings being one and lithographs and wood blocks the other—are about equally divided. One of the outstanding events in the show will be a room devoted exclusively to the work of James A. McNeill Whistler. Galleries 18 and 18A will be hung with etchings and engravings of rare quality.

The school of the Art institute opened last Wednesday, to continue for two weeks, an exhibit of work by students in the painting, drawing, illustrating, and sculpture classes. About May 9 the work of classes in industrial art and architectural sculpture will be shown and two weeks later the work of first year students and of the teacher training department will be placed on view. From these three divisions the work by students will be chosen to represent the Art institute school in its Century of Progress special exhibit.

In the school lobby of the Art institute there is current an exhibit of work by members of the Art Students' league. A number of amusing water colors, pastels, and drawings and a few solid oils give a suggestion of the direction in which some of our young painters are headed today. Russell Green was given first honorable mention for his painting, "Theater Dressing Room"; Herman Scapicchi, second honorable mention for "Landscape," a modern conceit; and third honorable mention was awarded Edgar Ewing for "Polo," a water color in which a confused medley of ponies and men hints an exciting moment in the game.

Art Lovers May Send 300 American Masterpieces to Europe.

A movement is on foot to collect some 300 works of art by American artists and send them on tour through European countries that persons abroad may through actual contact realize what artists here are doing. The movement is under the auspices of the First Overseas Exposition of American Art, 210 East Erie street, Chicago. The president and director is Jean Dumas, the secretary and treasurer, Edward M. Fisher. A group of patronesses is headed by Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis. The art committee is composed of Wellington J. Reynolds, Pauline Palmer, Albin Polasek, Gerald Frank, John F. Stacey, Lucie Hartrath, Louis Grell, Ruth Van Sickle Ford, and Mrs. John F. Stacey. Reynolds, Polasek, and Grell are instructors in the school of the Art institute. Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Polasek have received great honors here and abroad.

The Arts club opens today its annual exhibition by professional members. The reception is this afternoon from 4:30 to 7:30 o'clock. After today the exhibit will be open to the public. It will probably remain on view some two weeks.

Griffith Sketches as He Tours.

L. O. Griffith, the landscape painter of note, has returned to Nashville, Ind., from a long and pleasant trip through the south. He motored leisurely with his family in their "struggle buggy" over 4,000 miles, sketching in Mexico, Texas, and New Orleans. It is hoped that a one-man show of paintings will be the result of Mr. Griffith's jaunt.

Adam Emory Albright has a different story to tell. It concerns a painting by him of an interior with two little children, owned by the City Art museum of St. Louis. While part of a circulating exhibit sent out by the museum to a library the work was stolen from its frame. Three pictures were in this loan group and all three were stolen. It might seem from this that there is a definite appreciation of good painting in America. But one is probably justified in wishing the appreciation would not run just that course in making itself felt. The theft of Mr. Albright's painting is a great loss to the art treasures of St. Louis.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

The Smith College Museum of Art announces the acquisition of a rare and lovely little Seurat, "Woman Leading a Monkey." The sketch is from the collection of Mrs. Cornelius J. Sullivan of New York. It was painted by Seurat in 1884 as one of his preliminary studies for the right-hand group of "Un Dimanche sur La Grande Jatte," the famous Seurat owned by the Chicago Art institute.

The Swedish American Art association has held during the last week an art exhibition in memory of Thyra H. Peterson—Mrs. Charles S. Peterson—whose death within the year was a blow to Chicago art circles. The exhibit closes today at the Swedish club, 1258 North La Salle street.

An exhibit of portraits, water colors, and lithographs by Marochka Anisfeld, the daughter of Boris Anisfeld, painter and instructor in the Art institute school, opened last Tuesday in the Robert Breckenridge gallery, 912 North Michigan avenue, to continue to May 7. It is a delightful exhibit, worth seeing.

Lederer Thinks American Law Favors Women

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Francis Lederer is a serious minded young gentleman. Among other American affairs which share his intense interest have been the broad phases of the treatment accorded the great American married man. Lederer, who spends a part of his personal fortune on propaganda for world peace, is getting steamed up about the matter of domestic peace—peace in the homes and apartments of America.

"Love is not a fair game in America," says he. "The women seem to be unduly favored by the laws in this country, and they take advantage of it apparently."

He hastened to add, "Of course I only know about American divorce laws by what I read in the papers, but I am simply bowled over by these heart balm and breach of promise suits that I read of. How can one be compensated for lost love by money? How can women look on love and marriage in terms of making a living at it?

Says the First Law of Love Is Unselfishness.

"American women should learn that the first law of love is unselfishness. A woman who has really loved a man will not want alimony. I believe that divorces should be easy to obtain when two people are no longer bound together by sentiment—but how can a price tag be placed on love?

"Idealistic love is absolutely fair, with no favors asked for by either sex. Love should be on a strictly idealistic basis.

"American women are beautiful and excitingly attractive. I imagine that if I should fall in love with an American girl, laws or no laws, I could not resist taking the chance. Love is like that."

All of this philosophy was uttered by Lederer on his recent return to town. He is now a ranch owner even as Mae West, Richard Dix, Joel McCrea, Cecil De Mille, Leo Carrillo, and everybody else who spends any time at all in this country, and is busily altering the new ranch house, which is near Oxnard, some fifty miles from Hollywood. Additions and changes are being carried forward under his direction. Folks are wondering if all this business presages a wedding to Steffi Duna, his fellow countrywoman working here in pictures, who was with him on the stage abroad and in New York and now has played with him in films as well.

Young Miljan Gives Gifts on His Birthday.

John Miljan Jr. celebrated his second birthday last Sunday with an "at home" party. He gave his father sixteen pairs of colorful shorts as a gift. Then in answer to urging from his father, he recited his vocabulary. He can say "colossal," "marvelous," "incredible," and various other popular Hollywood words. John Sr., now playing the heavy with Mae West in "It Ain't No Sin," says he believes the baby has been reading some executive's mail. The truth is his father has been giving him careful lessons in speech in his off time.

Cora Sue Collins and Mae Robson celebrated their joint birthday together on April 19. A big birthday cake was cut and ice cream distributed on the set where Cora Sue is working at Columbia.

"Reb" Russell, football star from Northwestern, who is now a western star for Sollesser, has a magnificent white horse named Rebel that you'll see in Harold Bell Wright's story, "When a Man's a Man." Rebel had an accident, grazing his eye on the limb of a tree, which required having it painted with a blue antiseptic. The pictorial result was so spectacular that Russell has decided to continue using the veterinarian's blue mascara on Rebel, "because it gives him such expression in his face." If Norma Shearer can get away with it why can't a horse?

"Itsy Bittsy" Forty-Foot Snake Just All Worn Out.

One sat and cradled the snake's drooping head in his lap crooning to it and saying, "Did the big bad mans leave papa's poor ittsy bittsy snakeums out in the sun too long? Poor baby!" and more talk calculated to put stiffening back in the wilted "baby." Meanwhile the co-owner was running frantically up and down pulling a cake of ice along the forty-foot backbone of "ittsy bittsy" to cool him off and comfort him.

The dances of grandma's day, of course with adaptation, are due for a big comeback, according to Mme. Maria Bekefi, former ballerina with the Imperial Russian ballet. In creating the lancers quadrille for "Operator 13," the Davies picture at M. G. M. which has its setting in the south during the civil war, Mme. Bekefi discussed the trend of modern dancing and said she thought it is definitly away from sexy dances.

"The grace and beauty of the older dances are claiming the admiration of the public, which is surfeited with the wriggling and hip swaying of the mode which is passing," she says. Mme. Bekefi first came to America as the Czardas dancer in Max Reinhardt's "The Miracle," and also alternated with Lady Diana Manners and Iris Tree as the Madonna.

New in Chicago

"BIG HEARTED HERBERT," a long run play of the New York season, will begin an engagement at the Cort theater tonight with a new cast, headed by Taylor Holmes, well known comedian. It tells a comic story of domestic difficulties. Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson are the authors.

SOLDIER LIFE TURNS STUDENT INTO AN ACTOR

JOHN SPACEY, who appears in "The Shining Hour" as the eldest Linden brother, says the only casualty he received out of his service in the world war was that he became an actor. Before the war and while he was a student at Magdalen college, Cambridge, his only indiscretion had been writing occasional plays for his fellow students to act in. He himself was bent on becoming a cartoonist.

However, his enlistment in the British army at the age of 18 changed his whole course of living. In France he mingled with groups of actors who had drifted into the various camps and who did their part by acting in plays for the entertainment of the soldiers. Spacey wrote many of the skits that served as their vehicles.

When he returned to London in 1919 he immediately found himself a job as an actor. He appeared with Malcolm Cherry in several plays and later toured Canada with Sir Martin Harvey. Some of his earlier appearances were in "The Only Way" and Maeterlinck's "Burgomaster."

His first New York rôle was in the two year run of "The Bat." Later came Channing Pollock's "The Fool" and H. G. Wells' "A Wonderful Visit." In 1925 he went to Hollywood, where he met Conrad Nagel, with whom he is now playing in "The Shining Hour." He then returned to New York and appeared with Florence Reed in "Shanghai Gesture," in "Other Men's Wives," "Journey's End," and "Perfect Alibi."

His first Chicago appearance was as the district attorney in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Then came, in rapid succession, "Mrs. Moonlight," "Michael and Mary," and "There's Always Juliet," with Violet Heming.

"The Best Stores In Chicago For Most People"

The Voice of the Movie Fan

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you want personal replies please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Further Comment on "Dinner at Eight."

Dear Miss Tinée: Many of your readers must have followed with great interest the letter printed in your column today from "Just a Citizen," whose 14 year old son learned about drunkenness and sex stimulus from the screen version of "Dinner at Eight."

My parents taught me to read at home, before I went to kindergarten, and my grandmother also took a share in the work. As a result, I used to read quite a lot for pleasure before I was 7 years old. Unfortunately, my parents used to leave all kinds of books lying around within my reach, sometimes a stray Bible, and even fiction by Scott and other novelists. From the Bible I learned about the infidelity of Bathsheba, and from Ivanhoe about the drunken antics of Friar Tuck, and the rape of Ulrica by Front-de-Boeuf.

I am well on into middle age now, yet I have never committed the mistakes I read about. I don't know what's the matter with me.

Most likely you know the tale about the worried mother, who told a neighbor of her daughter's taste for trashy literature. Said she, "I've just caught my daughter reading another of these modern novels. It's all about a man who abandoned his wife and family, ran away from home, got into all kinds of fights and riots, landed in jail, broke out again, and then got into more fights and other sensational affairs right up to the end of the book."

"Terrible!" said the neighbor; "what's the name of the book?"

"It says 'Pilgrim's Progress' on the cover. It's by a feller named John Bunyan. Must be one of them modern novelists that do such a lot of harm." Yours very truly,

B. W. WILLIAMS.

Dear Miss Tinée: I read your column every Sunday and enjoy it very much.

Yesterday I saw "The Last Round-up," with Randolf Scott. I was never so disappointed in a picture as I was in this one. Why on earth can't the picture follow the book? From the writeups I read in the paper I thought that the picture would follow the "Border Legion." It was entirely different. The book was much better than the picture.

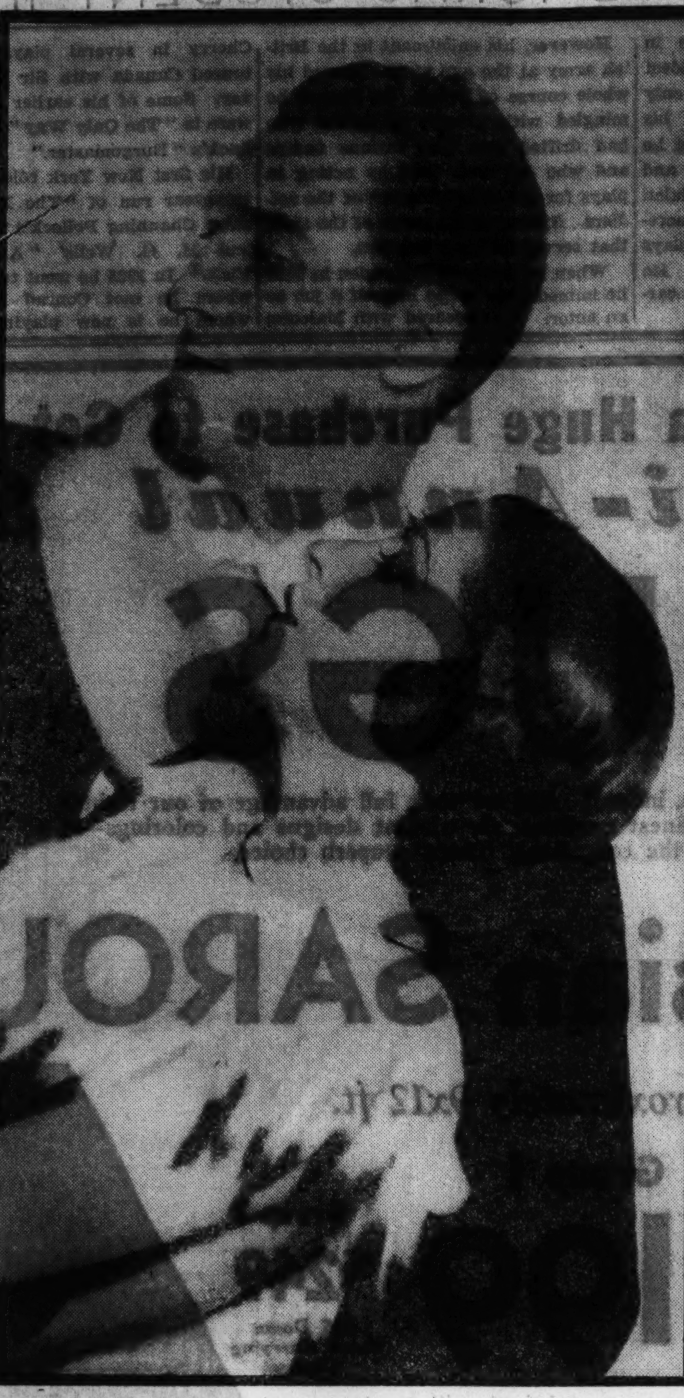
Hoping to see my letter in print. Sincerely yours, DOROTHY HUNT.

Editor's Note: A "Western" fan, aren't you? I like 'em, too.



POPULAR IN EMPIRE ROOM

The ballroom dancing team of Lydia and Jorescu has revived the tradition of Veloz and Yolanda in the Empire Room of the Palmer House. They are the most popular successors to that romantic duo, and their engagement will probably run well into the World Fair period. [Maurice Seymour Photo.]

New Deal Is No Return to "Jeffersonian Simplicity," Says G. O. P. Senator as Laundry Bill for Dress Shirts Mounts

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special.)—"All this talk about the New Deal bringing in an era of Jeffersonian simplicity is the bunk."

It is a Republican senator speaking.

He is weary of being entertained. His laundry bill for white dress shirts is tremendous. His wife is so tired that she ducked off to—of all places—New York this week for a quiet few days away from engraved cards bidding her to dinner and luncheon.

In the old days the session rushed along its feverish way until Lent, happily, brought a blessed interlude to pagan as well as professor. After Lent the season, as such, never really sat up and took much notice. There were a few "ladies' lunches," some garden parties. That was about all. But this year the post-Lenten pace is furious and fast.

● Recent news of Franklin Roosevelt's tentative plans to enlarge the executive offices of the White House calls to mind the building of the executive wing. It was back in Theodore Roosevelt's time. He went to the White House with five children and found but four bedrooms available for them. It was then that he ordered the rooms, at that time given over to office space, to be remodeled and made into living quarters. And the executive wing was born.

It was just about that time, if you remember, that President Roosevelt was preaching against race suicide. Daughter Alice and a group of her friends, in a mood of merry devilment, organized a society which took for its insignia a lazy leisurely tortoise. You recall the slogan of the tortoise, don't you? "The race is not always to the swift."

● Washington isn't such a big place after all. The other night Chicago's Courtney Letts Espil (she's the bride of the Argentinian ambassador) met Senator Capper, the Kansas Republican. She told him she had a friendly feeling for Kansas because her mother's father, the late Senator Bishop Perkins, had been first representative, then senator, from that state.

Whereupon Senator Capper told her that when he was a young man Senator Perkins had written him a letter telling him some of the problems that were then disturbing the horizon. And the significant thing about the letter is that Senator Perkins

Social Interest Centers Round the Altar as Libby Chase and Beatrice Borland Join Procession of Spring Brides

BY COUSIN EVE.

WEDDINGS and more weddings! Picturesque are the spring brides, all of outstanding personality. Certainly none more so than Libby Chase. The middle daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase has had a grand time expressing her vivid self. And now since last week she is Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. and will dwell henceforth in Texas.

For the last two years in Lake Forest, where she lived, Libby Chase has conducted riding classes for youngsters. About thirty of them were her pupils in plain and fancing riding. And the bride shed tears at leaving them. Indeed, along with the Ayer, Chase, and Swift families, the little pupils en bande were conspicuous guests at the wedding feast.

Langhorne Ignorant of His Ayers.

The bride is half Ayer and half Chase, two old and upstanding Chicago families, and niece of two novelists, Janet Fairbanks and Margaret Barnes.

Col. George Langhorne tells a story of coming to Chicago some years ago. He had married in England the lovely Mary Waller of Chicago and returned with her to this town. A dinner one night at the Kellogg Fairbanks' was also a birthday dinner for the hostess, who was Janet Ayer. There were speaches, and toasts, and reminiscences, and the atmosphere was full of Ayers. Indeed, the theme song of the whole evening was so Ayerial that finally the wide awake Col. Langhorne could bear it no longer: "Will somebody tell me what is an Ayer?" Which, after all, is only history repeating itself, for we all remember the Englishman and the Biddle.

Beatrice Borland Wed Without Ostentation.

Beatrice Borland, yesterday's bride, was married to Barton Plimpton at home, at 1450 Lake Shore drive. In a richly subdued setting of walnut paneling, tapestries, and ancient Chinese art these young people made their vows at a simple ceremony. The reception later was large. Beatrice Borland, a tall, splendid girl with a lovely mind, has a great following among older people—she is truly charming. She met her young man on a long trip around the world with her sister, Harriet, and a duenna. The Plimptons will live in Boston eventually.

Next winter the bride's sister, Martha Borland, having been duly educated and grounded in the arts and languages here and abroad, will make her bow.

Lake Forest is all of a twit. Who wouldn't be? Due to arrive almost any moment, Maj. Paulo Santini, a cavalry officer, first cousin of that Italo-New Yorker who married Dorothy Judah. This Santini is described in superlatives, "the best rider in Italy." A large order, where all army riders are superb. He is due to teach an advanced class of riders how to jump and gallop and stick on a horse, and his backers are Laurance Armour and Bob Walker. His guarantee requires thirty pupils, and those are already booked. The Santini technique is said to seat one high up on the horse's neck, which will be grand fun for the gallery. And there will be afternoon and evening classes.

Nick Cantacuzene and George Voevodsky both studied jumping with a pupil of Santini, who is considered a world authority on jumping at the moment.

Some people will take lessons side saddle and also astride in the arena at Onwentsia. And outdoors if the weather allows. Among the people going in for a course with Santini are Mrs. Samuel J. Walker, Laurance Armour, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Stuart Templeton, Mr. and Mrs. Andy King, John Hughes, Mrs. Samuel Rinaker, Noble B. Judah, John F. Jelke Jr., W. McCormick Blair, Joseph T. Bowen and Mrs. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine, Donald Douglas, the Austin Niblacks, who will be home from Aiken, and Mrs. Donald Ryerson, slim, delicate creature who already rides superbly.

It was from Laura Sprague, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sprague and great-niece consequently of Marshall Field, that Lake Forest heard of Santini. She was a pupil of his. She now teaches riding at the famous Fox Croft academy in Virginia.

Hungarian Poloists Decide to Stay at Home.

Seems too bad after so much writing and cabling back and forth that the grand duke and duchess of Mecklenburg, who were coming to Lake Forest in August, may not come. They were to arrive in a party with some international polo players, intriguing Hungarians. Fancy the excitement!

As it is, everything nowadays in sport is looked at from the standpoint of gate receipts. And Hungarian poloists are not speedy enough to pit against the other entrants, big, bad Americans and British.

That blue eyed dark beauty, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, knew some of these handsome, narrow flanked Hungarian polo playing men in the days when she spent many months as a guest at the American legation in Budapest.

Mrs. Osborne met her box committee at luncheon Thursday in the Electric club atop the opera house. A report of forty-one boxes already sold for the season of 1934-'35 was encouraging. The luncheon meetings will take place Thursdays at the Woman's Athletic club.

Music Sounds Like Feline Romance on Back Fence.

Rarefied atmosphere at the Arts club last week when Paul Rosenfeld lectured on "The New American Composers" one morning. I woke up suddenly at the point where he was telling of the various morceaux that had been done wholly for the percussions. Varese has written a concerto entirely for this medium. Others have produced the prelude to an opera. Indeed, I think he said that several songs and an entire opera were under way in pure percussions, undefiled by wind instruments or string. Having enumerated the prowess of Roy Harris, Copeland, Bloch, and Sissons, Mr. Rosenfeld proceeded to wring percussions from a portable victrola, one of Roy Harris' last masterpieces. Some of the movements were pure noise. Others were like intensive feline romance on the back fence—at least so said several at luncheon later.

Mrs. Jacob Baur raced away in smart outfit of black and white stripes. Dr. Stock stayed on with a chastened air. Rudolph and Mrs. Ganz had a look of pensive melancholy. Mrs. Archibald Freer had guests for luncheon. So did Mrs. Lewis Bernays and Mrs. C. B. Goodspeed, a party for Mr. Rosenfeld. Lunching with him were Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who left last week for Santa Barbara with Mr. Meeker. They have leased their delectable Dutch house there to Mrs. Clark, widow of Senator Clark of Montana, and will be away until June. Also Thornton Wilder, quite the beau of our spring season, and latterly consultant to movie men in Hollywood, avid for historical exactitude.

Mr. Wilder likewise lately played providence to Katharine Cornell, yearning for a sight of that young actor out of Chicago, Orson Wells. Young Wells, nephew of the well known wit, Ort Wells, went to Ireland to hunt up his family tree. The next thing any one knew he was a member of the Irish Players troupe in Dublin. Since then—not so long—his fame has grown. London has acclaimed him. Prof. Wilder had dined with him and so was able to lead him to Katharine Cornell, who now has this child of destiny in her company.

Another interesting person at this lecture was Mrs. John Storrs, fascinating, handsome, a Frenchwoman by birth, now married to the noted sculptor, John Storrs.

Mrs. Storrs comes of an ancient noble family of central France and owns a 14th century château a little to the south and east of Rambouillet. That her ancestors concealed their jewels in the walls during the French revolution was discovered when the Storrs some years ago tore away an old corner cupboard. Behind it in a little pile of sawdust and papers was a lovely ring. A beautifully carved white sapphire in a quaint old setting, it had lain untouched in this safe place 125 years. It now adorns one of Mrs. Storrs' slim fingers.

This charming lady began a course of French lectures for "les jeunes" of the Alliance Française a fortnight ago in the French library, Fine Arts building. In this way the younger set will not only learn a lot but hear French spoken divinely.

Yale in Portrait on Display at Moore's.

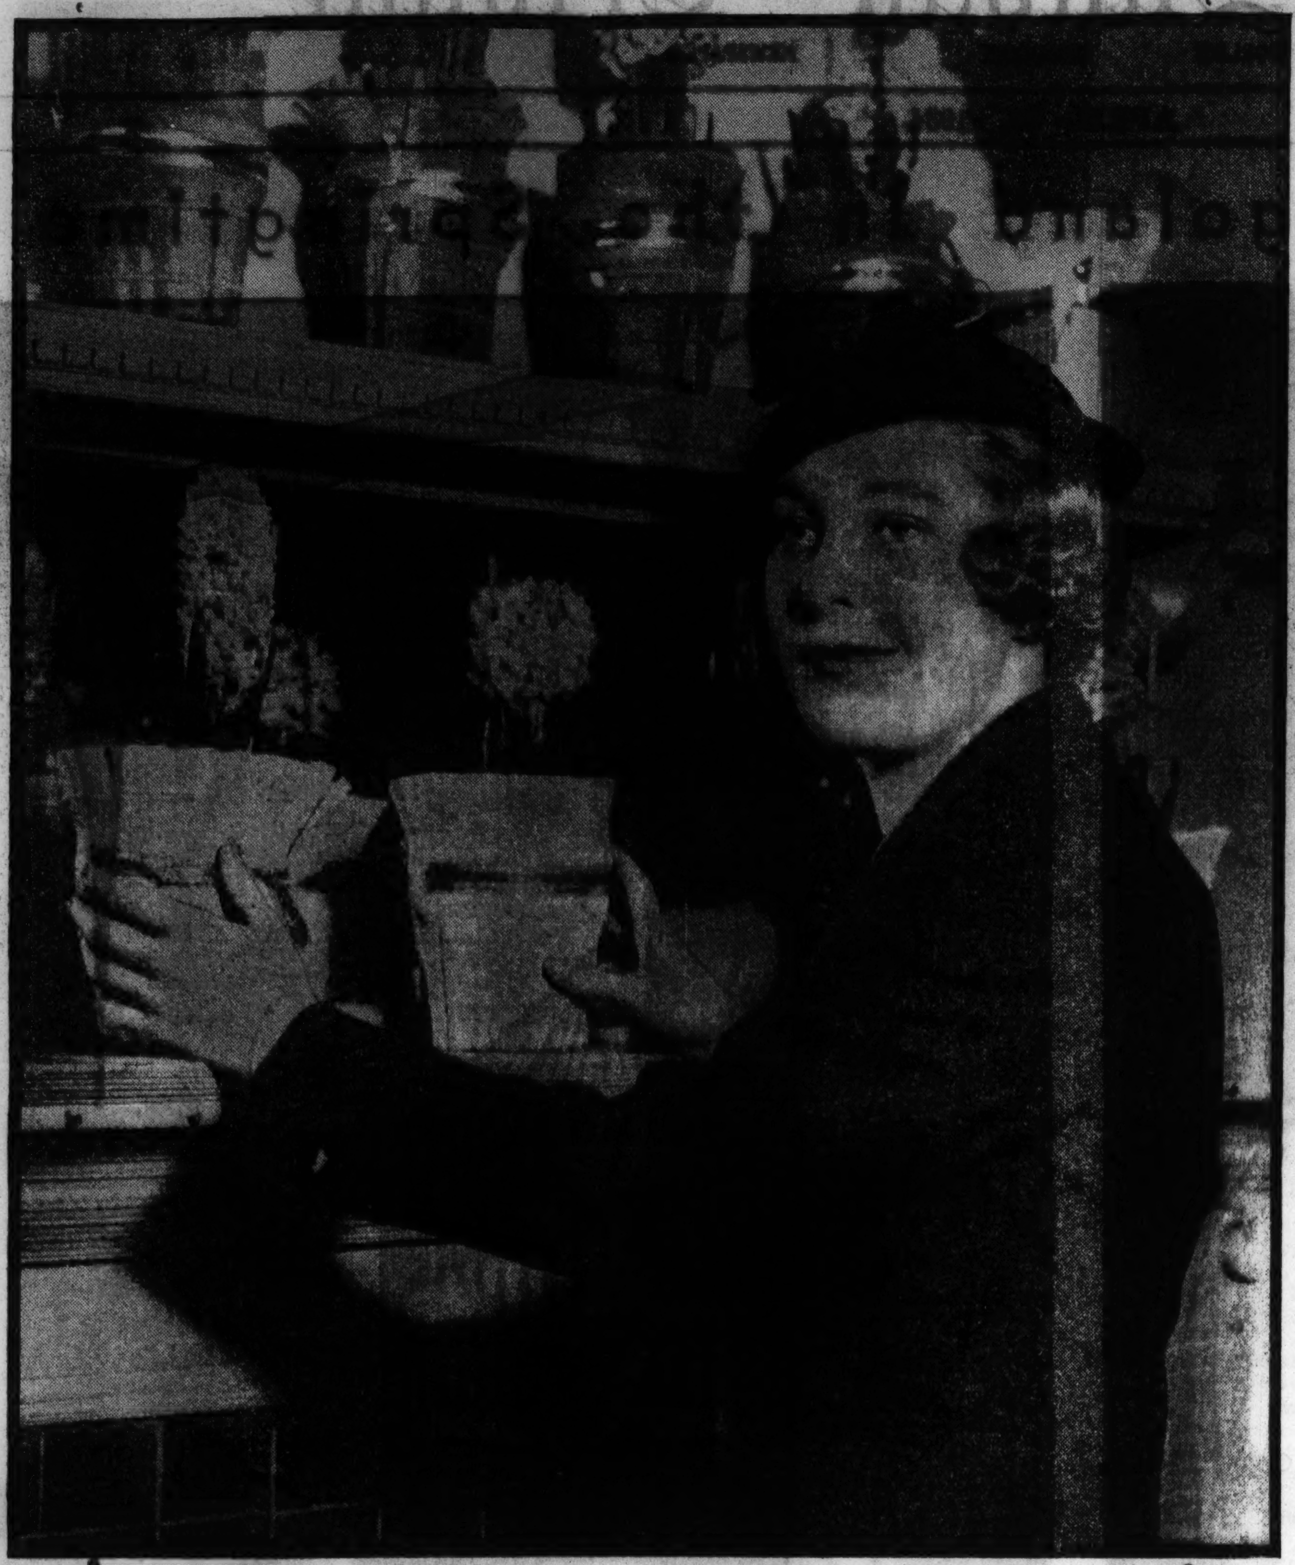
One of the things to do last week was to go to William Moore's house, 40 Bellevue place, and see the Yale pictures. An interesting house with a special air, many growing plants, and the walls of his living and dining rooms lined with photographs and drawings of new Yale dormitories, built under the seventeen million Harkness foundation. Every color and line was rich and romantic in these new houses, whose bedrooms, refectories, and libraries are all almost royal in their space and elegance.

The idea is that many students of Yale, brought up without beauty of surroundings, will experience these esthetic conditions for the first time and react happily to them.

Mr. Moore's long tea table, where Miss Cornelia Conger and Mrs. Ralph Small were seated, was gloriously turned out in old glass of Yale blue in honor of the occasion. It seems there are about 12,000 Yale graduates in and around this town.

Edward Warren Everett, noted avocat, sails next Thursday for Japan. He will return with his wife and daughter, who have spent seven months in Kyoto.

In a deep yearning for the mystic side of life Mrs. Everett, beautiful and chic, has finished her second winter studying with learned Buddhist monks in a monastery. In February, along with other students, she repaired to the monastery in the Japanese equivalent for sack cloth and ashes and was locked in with her meditations for a fortnight. These take place under conditions of terrific rigor. The students kneel for seven hours without moving. Sometimes they fall over in agony with cruel leg cramps. Their diet seems to be mostly pickles. Their feet are bare. They have frequent oral examinations as to their progress with the why and wherefore of being, and if they fail in examinations it is just too bad, for it has to be done all over again.



SHE SOLD PLANTS AT A HOSPITAL BENEFIT

then listed as the two major perplexities in congress the same two items that Senator Capper and all his colleagues today hear so much about: The farm problem, and the monetary problem.

Senator Capper dug up the letter from his files and showed it to Senator Perkins' beautiful granddaughter.

● Judge Florence Allen, who walked into history when she walked up to the federal bench as the first woman judge in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, was in town this week. Much fêted, but never fatigued, she quickly justified her advance reputation for being one of the best speakers, man or woman, in this country.

One of her best stories she won't tell herself. She evidently thinks it smacks of the boast, and she doesn't boast.

But we did some research and picked up the tale from a friend.

Florence, the daughter of a professor of Greek, used to sit on her father's knee as a little girl of five and hear him read English translations of his beloved Homer. Often, too, he read the original Greek to her, for he wanted her to love its lilt. By the time she was seven she was reading herself. Not Greek, of course.

By the time she was seven, also, she had achieved a year's perfect record for attendance at Sunday school. So she was summoned to the platform to get a prize. And the prize the "Greek" gal got was—a book of nursery rimes. I imagine she liked them a lot. Hope she did.

● A reporter with a nose for news—cookery news, we mean—is getting up a symposium on what the senators eat. This woman went to Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of Illinois' famed senator, to find out what he liked to eat.

"Heavens," said Mrs. Lewis, "the poor man has no opportunity to eat his food, much less take pains to select it. We live in a hotel, and he has so many friends, and he likes to greet them, and, well he just eats what is set before him, in between handshakes."

Women in Large Number Have Civil Service Jobs

THERE are approximately 81,500 women in civil service in the United States. Most of them are in clerical, fiscal or custodial positions, but many are serving in professional capacities such as chiefs and assistant chiefs of department divisions, supervisors of special departmental activities, librarians, statisticians, naturalization officers, business and medical specialists, and legal assistant.

◆

There are upward of 20,000,000 women club members in the United States. Membership in these organizations costs anywhere from $3 to $85 annually, and a single association may spend $100,000 a year.

CHICAGOLAND BRIDE-TO-BE

The engagement of Miss Gwen Heilman, daughter of Dean and Mrs. Ralph E. Heilman of Evanston, to Jack C. Griffin of Atlanta, Ga., son of Mrs. Olin Griffin of Arlington, Tex., was announced recently. Miss Heilman was graduated from Rollins college in Winter Park, Fla.; Mr. Griffin is a graduate of Rice institute.

Gotham's Mind Is on Weddings Soon to Come

New Yorkers Forget April Drizzles by Concentrating on June Brides.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—If I dwell on June marriages you must be indulgent and forgive me. The weather here in town is so miserable all of us are looking forward to summer and the hope that by mid-June we shall find warmth in the sun's rays. Certainly we are shivering from bar to bar these afternoons.

It is quite a relief to listen to the about-to-be-weds as they dash about and discuss lawn weddings and June frocks. The engaged couples are much in the social eye just at present, and shopping for wedding gifts is the word of the day.

Mary Gladys Willets and H. Williamson Pell Jr., who are to be married on June 23, took no chances this past week and journeyed down to the Municipal building to make sure that they would have their wedding license ready.

The daughter of the Josiah Macy Willets of town and New Marlboro, Mass., and the son of the Rye Pells are to be made one in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, with the Rev. Henry Darlington officiating.

Willets' Ancestor a Partner of Rockefeller.

Mary made her bow with her twin sister Julia in '30. The latter, now Mrs. Robert Rowland Comly of Philadelphia, is slated to be Mary's matron of honor.

There is a huge fortune behind Mary, for her great-grandfather was one of John D. Rockefeller's early partners. She and her sister are both noted riders, and the stables of the Willetts' country estate, Casilis farm, are famous for the quality of their horses.

On June 14, in the Milton Unitarian church, Eleanor Hallowell, daughter of Mrs. John W. Hallowell, will become the bride of Howard Lapsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lapsley of town and Bedford village, N. Y. Dr. Samuel Drury of St. Paul's school and the Rev. Vincent Pomeroy will officiate.

Eleo Hallowell is a sister of John and Roger Hallowell, both recent Harvard grads, and she met Howard while he, too, was an undergrad at Cambridge. Howard Lapsley is a great-great-grandson of Thomas Emmet, brother of the Irish patriot. He is a brother of Mrs. Columbus O'Donnell Iselin II., Mrs. Willard Sears Simpkins, Mrs. Melville E. Stone II., and of Elizabeth Lapsley.

Gawtry-Tilney Wedding Slated for June 3.

With the circus leaving us tomorrow and May coming on during the week, one realizes from a look at the calendar that there will be other than June weddings.

On June 3, Olive Van Rensselaer Gawtry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gawtry, becomes the bride of Robert W. Tilney at the Gawtry town residence with a reception following at the Colony club.

Sylvia Hillhouse will be maid of honor and sole attendant, while I. Sheldon Tilney will be his brother's best man. Robert Tilney is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John S. Tilney. He is a graduate of Harvard, '10, and a member of the Union, Racquet and Tennis, Harvard, and Essex Fox Hound clubs.

Due to the recent passing of Mary's father, the late George Canfield, the wedding will be quiet, with the ceremony to take place in St. Peter's church in Peekskill, N. Y., with the Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of Groton, performing the ceremony for one of his "old boys."

This will not be the first Canfield-Brown marriage. Mary's brother, George Olsted Canfield, last September married Archie's sister, Hope Brown. Another brother, Hobart Warren Canfield, last October married Camilla Brown who is a cousin of Hope and Archibald Brown. Certainly the two families are determined to be tied by many bonds of matrimony.

THEY'LL HELP OUT AT A RUMMAGE SALE

Miss Helen Marie Castle and Miss Jean Hyman are going to be very busy young ladies tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. They are members of the junior auxiliary of the North Side center of the Infant Welfare society, which is to hold a rummage sale at 26 South Michigan avenue those three days. The Kenwood center is joining forces with the North Side one in running the sale, and the juniors are going to help in the selling.

FRENCH AIRMEN WILL HAVE CHURCH FOR THEIR OWN USE

PARIS.—[U. P.]—A church is being built for French airmen.

Officially the parish church of Nouveau Bourget, the village on the borders of Le Bourget, the shrine will contain a chapel dedicated to Our Lady of the Skies.

New Bourget, which numbers 7,000 inhabitants, has been growing ever since the famous airport was turned over exclusively to civil aviation. It is expected the village will number 15,000 inhabitants by the end of 1933.

St. Charles du Nouveau Bourget will be the name of the church in memory of Charles Nungesser. The shrine is officially dedicated to the memory of Mgr. Charles Gibier, bishop of airman, who died in 1931.

The church, built on the simplest lines, will cost about one million francs, not counting the three carillon bells to be installed in the belfry, and of which the largest will toll for fliers in general and the middle one for pilots. The small one will be for general use.

The airmen's chapel will be presided over by a white limestone statue of Our Lady of the Skies—a work of modernistic simplicity which represents the Virgin with head lifted and arms outstretched, as if she were about to "take off."

Boating Season Under Way in Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Cal.—[Special.]—With the summer sun blazing and stiff breezes blowing, members of the Chicago colony here and in Montecito are turning their thoughts to yachting.

Adding zest to the early season was the arrival of Maj. Max C. Fleischmann's 218 foot queen of the local pleasure fleet, the Haida, in the local harbor from the south. Maj. Fleischmann took a party of friends on a cruise to Mexican waters. The huge yacht is always the center of social life in the harbor and, in addition to cruises to Alaskan and Mexican waters, makes short trips to the Santa Barbara channel ilands during the summer.

John J. Mitchell and Charles Deere Wiman, both prominent in Chicago, also are local leaders in yachting circles, owning the racing yawl Patolita, the name derived from the first names of their wives. The boat competes and is generally a standout in Pacific coast regattas. Elmer Awl, also well known in Chicago, is their skipper. Clarence B. Mitchell is another interested in yachting, as is Talbot Walker, owner of the Maritero.

Gables, Carroll, and Barthelmess Drop In.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell and their little son are expected here on April 28.

Several film celebrities dropped in for short stays during the week, including Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gable and a party of friends, Earl Carroll and another party, and Richard Barthelmess.

Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne of Milbrook, N. Y., and Montecito, honorary vice president of the Garden Club of America, has left the Bay region to spend a week preparing for the regional meeting of the Garden Club of America in the Redwoods.

C. K. G. Billings, who with a party of friends has been in Mexico City on a business trip for the last fortnight, has returned to his home in Montecito, Colo. George L. Hamilton, Sydney Dickinson, and Allen E. Walker accompanied Mr. Billings.

Eltings Occupy McDougall's House.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting of Chicago have removed to Miss Mary McDougall's house. They have had the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King in Montecito since last fall.

Hobart C. Chatfield Taylor of Montecito gave a dinner Monday at his home on Hot Springs road. There were twelve in the party.

Miss Jess Moore and her brother, John Moore, of Oak Park will arrive by motor this week-end for a visit with their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Brett F. Moore of Mission Canyon. Miss Moore will remain for an indefinite stay. Her brother will return east by train after a brief visit.

Miss Dorothy Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wilson, who has been in the east all winter, has returned to join her parents at their home in Hope Ranch. She visited friends in New York and Chicago, and also spent some time with her grandmother, Mrs. E. Crane Wilson, in Chicago.

Former Governor R. Livingston Beeckmann of Newport, R. I., and Mrs. Beeckmann, who concluded their visit in Montecito Monday, have taken the Ryerson house on Hot Springs road for next winter.

TWO OF THE RELATIVES AT THE CHASE-SWIFT WEDDING

Nathan B. Swift and one of his sisters, Lydia, at the Chase-Swift wedding in Lake Forest on April 19. The ceremony drew together from even such faraway places as Arizona and California the various members of the Swift clan, all anxious to congratulate Louis F. Swift Jr. and to extend good wishes to his bride, the former Elizabeth Chase. Nathan and Lydia, nephew and niece of the bridegroom, are the children of the Alden B. Swifts.

Swedish King Is a Vivid Figure in Paris Society

In from Nice, He Rushes to Tennis Courts then Later Attends Horse Show.

By May Birkhead.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A number of foreign notabilities happen to be figuring at the moment in Parisian social affairs. One of them who often entertains Americans both here and on the Riviera is King Gustav of Sweden. The king has been particularly active for several days, in spite of his 76 years. The other day, on arriving in Paris from Nice, he arranged to play tennis, a sport which he practices regularly, being often seen on the Riviera courts. He finds that it keeps him fit, and his game is good enough to make him a worthy opponent.

Yesterday he was a keen spectator at the closing day of the horse show, which drew a large and distinguished crowd to the Grand Palais when an effort was made to beat the world's record for the high jump on horseback. The day before Prince Alex Mdivani, Barbara Hutton's husband, took part at the Grand Palais in one of the polo matches which are always featured in the closing days of the horse show. King Gustav was present, and among interested American spectators were Dr. Charles Holder and his wife, formerly Mme. Dorothy Caruso. The Holders have had a house in Paris during the winter and are giving it up at the end of the month to open their château near Fontainebleu, where they have many fine horses and a race track.

Distinguished Guests Attend Dinner for Taylor.

Last night King Gustav and his granddaughter, Princess Ingrid, were guests of honor at a big dinner party given at the Ritz by the Swedish minister of foreign affairs, Kurt S. Wallenberg and his wife. Tonight Count and Countess Wachtmeister are giving a dinner for his majesty and Princess Ingrid. Among the American guests will be Mrs. Marion Lord and Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr. Countess Wachtmeister is of American birth, formerly Miss Cooper-Hubbell.

Myron C. Taylor and his wife have just arrived in Paris, and it is inevitable that they should be widely entertained. Last night Mrs. Herman H. Harjes assembled a number of leading figures in the American colony, including Ambassador Jesse Isidor Straus and his wife, Pinkney Tuck, and others from the embassy and also Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Dean Jay, to meet the Taylors for dinner at her home in the Rue de la Faisanderie. Some years ago the Taylors bought a villa in Florence, and it has been their custom to spend much of the spring there. They are leaving in a few days for Italy.

Montmartre Cabaret Decides to Serve Corned Beef Hash.

With the return from Easter vacationing and the arrival of trans-Atlantic visitors, some of the night cabarets in Montmartre are finding quite a clientele for their spring offerings. Opening its revamped restaurant with a program of American performers the other night, one establishment announced it would not compel its clients to buy only champagne but would serve them with corned beef hash and coffee and fried chicken.

Among those seen in the crowd were Richard Arlen, the movie star, entertaining a party; Prince Mdivani and his wife (Barbara Hutton), who was radiantly beautiful in white satin brocade designed in gold flowers and a tiny shoulder cape of the same brocade lined with red velvet. Princess Barbara has grown quite slender since her recent trip to the far east and it is most becoming. In their party were young James Donahue and J. M. Sert, the Spanish painter, and his wife, a sister of Prince Mdivani. Señora Sert, who is tall and slender, was striking in a black dress of shiny paillettes. Others seen were Mrs. Julian Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Chambers, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mixsell, all of whom have recently returned from New York.

Divorce Cases Create Stir in London Society

Marital Shipwrecks Among Prominent People Are Enlivening Curiosity.

By Ann Whiffingham.

LONDON.—[Special.]—It looks like a colorful session in the divorce courts, with an unusual number of prominent people involved.

Mrs. Robin d'Erlanger, the beautiful and famous hostess, is petitioning for a divorce from her husband, who is the son of Baron d'Erlanger, the international banker. She was formerly Miss Myrtle Farquharson, daughter of Col. Farquharson of Invercauld, head of the Farquharson clan, and she still appears, year after year, on the program of "Hiawatha" as a soloist under her maiden name. The household from which she now proposes to withdraw is nothing if not artistic. Her husband is a competent painter and her banker father-in-law composes symphonies and operas.

Another case greatly interesting society is the suit for divorce brought by Baroness Glenconner against her husband, the big Scottish landowner. The latter is not defending the suit.

William Gerhardi, the novelist, is cited as co-respondent in a suit brought by Guy H. W. Boys against Mrs. Boys. The last named is not defending the suit. And "big business" contributes to the list in the form of the suit brought by Mr. Bernard Dudley Docker, director of the Midland bank and of other big enterprises, against his actress wife, formerly Miss Jeanne Stuart. She was one of the most beautiful actresses on the English stage. She retired from the stage at her marriage a few years ago, but her husband cites a west end actor as the co-respondent.

Awards Are Made on Police Essays.

Every year the king contributes a gold medal to be awarded to the policeman who writes the best essay on some given theme connected with police work. The competition, which closes every Nov. 1, is open to members of any police force in the British empire.

The theme this year proved extraordinarily popular and drew essays by the hundreds from the dominions and the protectorates, as well as from the United Kingdom. The theme was "Police Service as a Career: A Review of the Past with Suggestions for the Future." One can easily imagine that selections from the various essays would make a very interesting book. The medal went to Detective Inspector Ralph Kitchener of the metropolitan police, who also received a prize of about $150. A police constable from Glasgow tied with a police inspector from Durham for second and third places, and the prizes were divided between them.

For the next competition the theme announced is "The Prevention and Detection of Crime," a fairly large order.

Audience at Pavilion Sings Music Hall Songs.

Long after the other theaters had emptied, a large and hugely sentimental audience sat on in the old Pavilion, the big music hall on Piccadilly circus, and sang oldtime music hall songs. It was the last night of the theater's existence.

Reopened in 1885, the Pavilion has been the scene of many historic triumphs for such well known figures as Dan Leno, Marie Lloyd, George Leyburne [of "Champagne Charley" fame], and others. On the stage Peter Godfrey acted as master of ceremonies. "Lift the roof," he urged the huge audience. "It will be off tomorrow anyway." And the audience responded with "Daisy, Daisy," "Down at the Old Bull and Bush," and, with immense gusto, "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo."

And when the audience left, they carried off, at the management's invitation, any souvenirs they could find or wrench away: An extraordinary and yet wholly characteristic London scene.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark.

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, October 15, 1883.

DEAR JULIA: Yes, indeed, I was just as shocked as you were on reading the clipping you sent telling of the new fashion adopted by New York society ladies—allowing their photographs to be sold by the photographers! It doesn't seem possible that our modest, refined American women would do this. Of course it is different with queens and ladies of the court in England and on the continent, for they are public characters. But here in America . . . well, what are we coming to?

I notice the photographer says the ladies whose pictures he sells don't receive any of the profits . . . a small mitigation of the offense. He adds coolly: "If they were poor and needed money for this permission, the attitude of the public would be changed and their photographs would be worthless." What insolence! As if wealth were the only thing that made a woman interesting. It all leads one to reflect on our too great prosperity. That has caused the fall of republics in the past. I hope it won't be our fate.

A more wholesome current of American life is seen in the convention soon to be held in Chicago—the eleventh annual meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Women. The most prominent and intellectual women of our country will be present and I am looking forward to it with great anticipation. Prof. Maria Mitchell, the great astronomer; the Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell; Clara Barton, who will read a paper on the Red Cross society; Julia Ward Howe, who wrote "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and who is president of the association, are some of the women who will be here; beside our own Dr. Julia Holmes Smith and Dr. Sarah Hackett Stevenson . . . a rare congregation of the most worthwhile women in America.

At that point Martha Junior came in, bringing Baby Esmond Macleod to visit his doting grandmama. But he soon grew restless and Martha sent the young nurse girl outdoors with him, which gave a chance to discuss the problem of what to do with her. Martha feels she can't keep the little nurse, who is rough, incompetent, and slangy. But she doesn't want to let her go without finding another place for her. "What is right in such a case?" asked Martha. "I can't have any one about who talks of 'making a mash' on the express man over on Clark street. My baby must hear refined, gentle speech. But I can't let the girl go off without knowing that she is in some good household." Poor Martha! She is beginning to know the responsibilities that come to all parents.

I must say I sympathize with her in not liking to have any one about who uses such poor English. Don't you dislike the word "mash"? And "masher" is still worse. I had to smile when an acquaintance of mine, hearing her young daughter use the word "masher," turned to me saying: "I understand 'masher' is a corruption of the French 'ma chere.'" She wanted to protect her offspring against the charge of using slang and did it in a most ingenious way. Will says "masher" simply means a man who reduces the fair sex to a pulp by his charms. How much better the old terms sound . . . fop, exquisite, dandy!

Martha is taking a few Delsarte and elocution lessons, as she doesn't want to become rusty. I am glad to have her do this. Sandy's practice is growing, and we are a happy family.

Lovingly yours,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Thanks to Alice R. Willard for an interesting letter about Jenny Lind's home in Malvern.

We have been asked several times to print in this column a medley of elocutionary selections given by "Martha" before a number of clubs. Instead, we offer a new one, which we call,

THE TALE OF LUCY LEACH.

[Apologies to Carolyn Wells.]

Once there was a little girl; her name was Lucy Leach;
In grandpa's library she found a book called "Public Speech"!
She conned the volume o'er and o'er; each page she could recite,
When, starting from her pillow on one memorable night,
She found the pieces jumbled up within her pretty head,
And sleepily she spoke them off. Now hark to what she said:
"A soldier of the legion lay dying in Algiers,
A woman sat in unwomanly rags, plying tears, idle tears.
When I was one-and-twenty," moaned Lucy, with a frown,
"John Gilpin was a citizen of credit and renown.
Ship me somewhere east of Suez, where Satan finds mischief still,
And drink to me only with thine eyes, upon th' 'customed hill.
Let dogs delight to bark and bite, MY bark is on the sea,
Strike for your altars and your fires and keep the bridge with me.
Truth crushed to earth will rise again, above my chamber door,
I could not love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more.
The stag at eve had drunk his fill. Landlord, fill up the bowl.
For sleep it is a blessed thing, beloved from pole to pole."
Her grandpa entered there, and said: "I'll burn that book, by heaven!"
But Lucy murmured drowsily: "O, grandpa, we are seven."

Note: There are twenty phrases taken from old verses in the above medley. How many of them can you identify? Write to Herma Clark, Chicago Tribune. An autographed copy of "DEAR JULIA" will be given for the first correct answer received.

Conversational Art Is Worthy of Cultivation

Individual Effort Toward Removal of Personal Defects Is Necessary.

Questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior are invited. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address mail requests to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, Chicago Tribune.

By Helen Bartlett.

CONVERSATION is an art and one which few have mastered. Many, many people realize their individual shortcomings as interesting conversationalists. We known, because they write us such questions as "How can I overcome my self-consciousness and become an interesting talker?"; or "What can I talk about . . . how can I carry on a conversation?"

Now these are very abstract questions. And I'm afraid our answer will have to be rather abstract because with each individual it is a different problem. Perhaps, in the following discourse, you can pick out your personal defects and correct them or can recognize certain admirable qualities you possess and develop them and capitalize on them. You, by your own efforts, can add charm and poise to your personality by becoming a clever conversationalist. It may be in what you say or in how you say it, or in the quality of your voice.

Able Conversation Is Based on Thought.

What you talk about is a reflection of what you think about. Conversation is simply an expressive utterance of your thoughts and ideas, a barter of opinions. If you haven't a thought in your head, subjects cannot be invented for you. But if you have something to say, don't hesitate to express it.

The first rule to follow is the same as for any courteous conduct. Make it a give-and-take proposition. Remember that there is some one else who might have a word to say on the subject under discussion, so don't monopolize the whole time. A chatterbox without a thought behind the chatter is a horrible bore.

Be tactful and avoid blunders. If you think twice before you speak you will have no worries. If you are doubtful about the words, which you are about to utter, being in good taste, rather forget about the whole thing. Regrets are seldom felt for that which is left unsaid.

Try not to repeat stories. And be as interesting as possible. A person of few words does not add gayety to any party.

Refrain from interrupting another's conversation with such comments as "You don't say." When a listener, be attentive and sympathetic. Don't be pesty by repeating "What did you say?", or by punctuating another's story with "What?" when you have heard perfectly well what was said, but question the speaker just by force of habit.

Do not bluntly contradict with an I-know-it-all attitude. Of course, you are entitled to your opinion, but be tolerant and courteous in the manner in which you present it. And don't preach.

Center Only on Pleasant Topics.

Try to keep drawing room topics of conversation pleasant and agreeable. Avoid such subjects as operations, misfortunes, hideous accidents, or illnesses. Be original in your thoughts and in the expression of those thoughts, not just an echo. Curb gossip.

Pay attention to your choice of words, your pronunciation, and your voice. Cultivate good English and develop your vocabulary, until you have achieved real beauty of language. Be watchful of your pronunciation. Overcome any defects of speech such as lisping, stuttering, or stammering.

Affection is detestable, either in the tone of voice, pronunciation, or the choice of ultra-elegant phrases. The reverse of this, slovenly speech, is also on the black list. Be natural and spontaneous.

As you have been told before, a low voice is an admirable quality. It should be kindly and pleasant. "Beauty and modulation of the voice indicates the degree of cultivation acquired."

Charities Will Hold Tag Day for Aged Folks

Drive to Secure Funds for Poor Will Take Place a Week from Tomorrow.

"But if I have not charity I am nothing . . ."

By Ruth DeYoung.

ONE week from tomorrow thousands of Chicagoans will be taking these words of St. Paul to heart. On that day the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities is to hold its eighteenth annual tag day for the sake of the aged men and women who must depend on its charity for the roof which shelters them and the hand which feeds them.

The federation's appeal is one of only four tag days authorized annually by the municipal authorities. But on this occasion it offers a special prayer for generosity on the part of the public whether it's a nickel gift or a hundred dollar bill.

There will be hundreds of women serving as "taggers" a week from tomorrow throughout the city's business and residential districts. And, for the sake of skeptics, let us recall that these services are entirely voluntary and gratuitous, not a cent is paid to a worker, every penny goes directly to the institutions in the federation.

Hope for Great Increase in Returns.

It is hoped that the total this year will climb back to that of the pre-depression days. Last year, when demands were greatly increased, the tag day earnings dropped to $32,414.05, but there were years when it surpassed the $100,000 mark.

"Every inmate in one of the homes associated with the federation," suggested Mrs. Arthur H. Brumback, president, "is just that much less of a drain upon the taxpayer, so that the economic as well as the humanitarian aspect of the federation is of importance. No exception is ever made for creed, race, or color. Tag day with its immediate cash returns is the one basic source of aid throughout the year."

The organizations that make up the federation are Augustana Central home, Augustana Home for the Aged, Baptist Old People's home, Bethany home, Big Sisters, Bohemian Charitable association, Bohemian Old People's home, British Old People's home, Church Home for Aged Persons, Chicago Christian Industrial league, Cathedral Shelter, Danish Old People's home, Deaconess and Woman's home, Evangelical Orphanage and Old People's home, Florence Crittenton Anchorage, the Goodwill Industries, Home for Aged Colored People, Holland home, House of the Good Shepherd, Immanuel Woman's home, Norwegian Lutheran Bthesda home, Norwegian Old People's home, Phyllis Wheatley home, Presbyterian home, Protectorate of the Catholic Woman's league, Resurrection Day Nursery and Girls' home, Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial, St. Joseph's Home for the Aged and Crippled, St. Benedict's Home for the Aged, St. Joseph's Home for the Friendless, Scottish Old People's home, Swedish Baptist home, Swedish Covenant Old People's home, Swedish Societies' Old People's home, St. Elizabeth's Home for the Aged, Susanna Wesley home, Western German Baptist Old People's home, and the Woman's Church Federation Protectorate.

Chicago College Club Holds Benefit Party.

With a bit of verse the Chicago College club has invited its members to a benefit card party next Friday afternoon at the clubhouse, 196 East Delaware place. In explanation of the purpose of the party the club explains:

"We're meeting our current expenses,
Our credit's the best in the land;
But repairs must be made,
They just can't be delayed;
We are sure that you all understand."

Play Reading and Musical Are Program.

Instead of a luncheon, a play reading and musical will wind up the club year for the Catholic Woman's league. The party is to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house, with Mrs. Richard M. Hallinan, the league president, and Mrs. Joseph F. Elward, chairman, as the hostesses. Prof. Herbert Abel, dramatic instructor and professor of Greek at Loyola university, will read Eugene O'Neill's "Days Without End." Paul Miner and Miss Leona Myshka will give the musical program.

New President Assumes Office.

Miss Laura Thornton, elected president of the Hull House Woman's club to succeed Mrs. Jessie Dabe, will assume her new office at the annual spring luncheon of the club at 1 o'clock Wednesday at the Republic building. New vice presidents are Mrs. Dabe, Mrs. Katherine Nash, and Mrs. Elsie McDonald. Mrs. Gertrude McCune has been made the recording secretary; Mrs. Elda Ludke, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Ruth O'Dowd, treasurer.

Big Sisters Have Annual Luncheon.

The Big Sisters are to have their annual meeting and luncheon at 11 o'clock tomorrow at the Joseph H. Biggs house at 50 East Huron street. Luncheon will be at 12:30. Mrs. George V. McIntyre is the president.

TO BE PRESENTED THIS SEASON

Miss Angela Orred, debutante daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Roland Orred, will be presented at one of their majesties' courts this season. Mrs. Orred is giving a dance for her daughter on July 9. This charming English girl is a direct descendant of William IV. The marriage of her mother, Miss Cynthia Fitzclarence, to Roland George Orred of the Coldstream Guards, in 1908, recalled to many Englishmen a romance of throne and stage of just over a hundred years before.

A SCENE FROM OBERAMMERGAU'S SPECTACLE

The tercentennial of the first Passion Play will be commemorated this spring and summer at Oberammergau with an elaborate series of performances of the great religious drama. This picture shows Christ, as portrayed by Alois Lang, being taken from the cross.

Battling Bishops Yield to Appeal of Passion Play

Strange Stories Told as Oberammergau Prepares to Resume.

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany.—(AP)—The recurring stream of visitors to the Passion Play has brought a fund of stories, both serious and humorous, which have become legendary in this famous village.

They are told and retold with a chuckle or understanding nod of the head, as the occasion demands. They are being told now as preparations for the jubilee performances of the Passion Play, starting May 21, give them the necessary background.

There is, for example, the tale of two bishops who for years had engaged in a wordy dispute. They had never met face to face, but their feud was considered admirable in its persistency and intensity.

Succumb to Emotional Lure.

One of the bishops, arriving here to witness the Passion Play, found all rooms in the village occupied. He was told he might share a room. In the room he found his opponent already instaled, unsuspecting and ready for peaceful slumber.

But sleep was banished. All night long, so the story goes, a verbal battle raged. It continued up to the very start of the play the next day. But when the play was over the quarreling bishops came walking home, hand in hand, like two small boys who have decided to be friends. Such, it is pointed out, was the emotional appeal of the performance.

Then there is the story of the first automobile to be seen in Oberammergau. The car had been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gliddon of Boston for a trip through the Sahara desert. And they decided, as a good luck omen, to have the Christ of the Passion Play, then Anton Lang, ride in the car.

She Keeps Her Promise.

It was brought to Oberammergau and Lang agreed to ride. At the dreadful speed of 20 miles an hour the car charged through the village streets, while natives gaped with fright and predicted death, calamity and disaster.

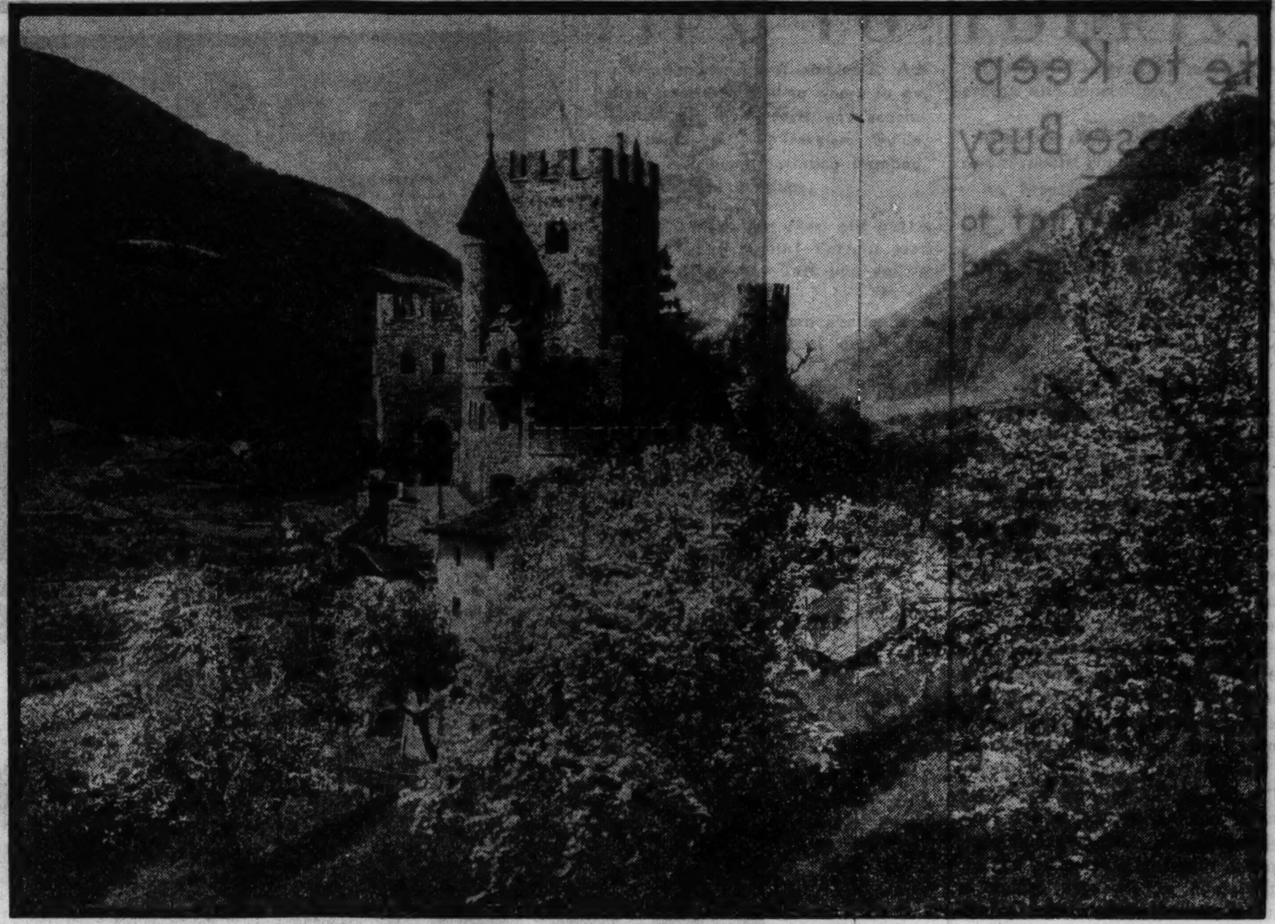
In 1922, goes another story, the 12 year old child of an American senator tossed her blonde curls and exclaimed, on leaving: "Auf Wiedersehen until 1930. I'll come back then and I'll bring my own husband and a child with me."

The promise was kept. In 1930 an automobile stopped in front of the house of her hostess and a young woman alighted. "What did I tell you eight years ago?" she laughed. "I've come back—and with a husband and a child."

On the really serious side there is the story of the famous scientist who, because of the death of his entire family in a railway accident, came to the Passion Play with thoughts of suicide—to leave, the villagers explained with pride, with encouragement for living.

Hopes Grow for Mines.

CAPETOWN.—(AP)—The prospects of life for the Rand gold mines have doubled, the chamber of mines was told by its retiring president, P. M. Anderson, because lower grade ores have been worked since South Africa left the gold standard.



SPRINGTIME COMES TO NORTHERN ITALY

Ancient Well Is Tomb of Early Latin Warrior

ROME.—[U.P.]—The corpse of an early Latin warrior, belonging to the civilization supposedly implanted in Italy by Æneas and the Dardanians, has been found in an old and disused well near the village of Lanuvio, 20 miles from here.

The far-off ancestor of the Romans of today lay in his sarcophagus, wrapped in his armor, with his sword beside him, his shield and helmet, exactly as he was buried between 2,500 and 3,000 years ago.

When the sarcophagus was opened, and the air entered, the bones dissolved into dust before the amazed eyes of the spectators. The bronze breastplate, the helmet and the sword, being of stouter material than a human being, are in relatively good condition.

One interesting object found in the sarcophagus was an Olympic discus, showing that the dead man was in his time a famous athlete.

Granite Monument Immortalizes Hand Clasp of Vikings

STOCKHOLM.—(AP)—The meeting of three powerful kings 833 years ago at Kungelv, on the west coast of Sweden, is to be commemorated by a granite monument.

In the year 1100 A. D. Inge of Sweden, Magnus of Norway and Erik of Denmark met at Kungelv to restore peace among their countries.

The kings went out alone to a little iland in the sea, talked matters over and agreed to be friends. Instead of signing a treaty they shook hands.

Only one other time in the history of Scandinavia has such a meeting taken place. In 1914 King Gustav of Sweden, King Christian of Denmark and King Haakon of Norway met at Malmo, Sweden, and agreed to maintain the neutrality of Scandinavia during the world war.

Reindeer Run the Mail.

YAKUTSK, U. S. S. R.—(AP)—Regular postal service by reindeer teams has been established between this city and Tiksi Bay, 900 miles north on the Arctic ocean.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

WIND-BLOWN trees clustering around solitary farmhouses. Homesteads bearing evidence of stranded life and standing like rocks in the sea. Lonely people who seem to have sprung from the soil. In the winter, nothing but snow; in the summer, billowing oceans of wheat, with patches of red poppies. That's the Great Hungarian Plain.

Now a village rushes into view along the railroad right of way. The houses have only two windows overlooking the street, but they have wide verandas with carved wooden pillars. They look like toys. One feels like lifting the reed covered roofs to see what kind of Lilliputians dwell within.

A hundred years ago things were different. The Tisza river, flowing across the plain, was a constant menace. Every spring the lowland was turned into a mighty sea. The boggy marshes were the hiding places of those who wanted to hide. They formed a romantic world of highwaymen.

The caste of highwaymen has become extinct, but the Kubikos, with traditions of their own, are still there. They are the best earth workers known; before the war they were in demand for highway and railroad building all over Europe and even in America. There isn't so much building now; so they have turned to study. Late at night whole families may be seen gathered around the little oil lamps and absorbed in the reading by one of their number.

● Hungary isn't the only one to report progress. The depression may be world-wide, but there is still improvement in far-away places.

Less than a century and a half ago the site of what is now Hobart, capital of Tasmania, was nothing but an uninhabited river bank. Today it boasts of 60,000 souls, business districts bustling with shoppers, residential sections as modern as America's, and even trafic problems. Wide streets have replaced the trails of the savages. The double decked street cars are plastered with advertising posters. Now the city is building a huge new warehouse and pier to enlarge its already imposing waterfront.

Travelers who take the trouble to visit Hobart's museum stumble across the remains of the last of the Tasmanian aborigines. The early settlers, along with convicts sent there from British cities, were bothered by the natives until a hundred years ago, when they rounded them up and exiled them to an iland. Later slave traders stole some of the exiles and others were killed off by convicts from the mainland. The last survivor, a woman, died in 1876. Her skeleton still reposes in the museum.

All of which goes to show the visitor that America wasn't the only land wrested from the savages.

● Then there's Lhasa, capital of Tibet. Thirty years ago, when an armed force from India went there to arrange a commercial treaty, only one European had ever been there. Today the number of pilgrims is enormous. But most of them are students and devotees of Lamaism, a form of Buddhism, and they are drawn from Mongolia, Manchuria, and Tibet. The streets and the surrounding hills are thick with the tents of these visitors, while the sacred road, the Ling Kor, is alive with pilgrims crawling on hands and knees.

● One more place is to be opened up to the tourists this summer. The soviets are arranging for trips to Daghestan, whose mountains form the most rugged range of the Caucasus.

Daghestan is tucked away in a corner of the Caucasian isthmus, with a frontage on the Caspian sea. The tribes of various races and tongues live in the romantic valleys or in ancient stone villages clinging to the mountain sides. They are a strange and fascinating people.

Sea and Landscapes on Fingernails Is London's Latest Fad

LONDON.—[U. P.]—Shades of Conrad, Masefield, and the men who went down to the sea in ships!

Now the sea will come up to the men on nails—on women's fingernails!

The latest craze in feminine adornment in London started with the painting of miniature seascapes on finger nails. It has since spread to landscapes and miniatures of all descriptions.

A young British painter, Stanley A. Burchett, who was formerly in the Grenadier Guards, started the new fingernail fashion by accident. While painting a garden scene recently, he stopped his work to satisfy a little girl who wanted "a teeny picture for herself."

Burchett quickly painted it on her fingernail. The child's mother was so attracted by the result that she commissioned the painter to decorate her nails. Since then the innovation has spread among stage and society leaders.

One well known woman appeared at a fashionable race meeting with her host's horse and jockey, complete even to racing colors, painted on her nails.

New Rules of Life to Keep Chinese Busy

People Told What to Wear, How to Eat and Walk in 40 Regulations.

By John Powell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SHANGHAI.—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, following precedents established by Mussolini and Hitler, has set himself to the task of reviving the ancient virtues of the Chinese people. Gen. Chiang calls his campaign the "New Life Movement." He launched it in a two hour speech delivered before 50,000 people at his field headquarters at Nanchang and while there had been no previous indication of his intentions there was evidence of previous careful preparation, for not many hours had elapsed before the movement was in full swing in all parts of the country under the actual or nominal control of the Nanking government. Canton didn't come in on the new life movement but announced one of its own which it termed a revival of Confucian principles.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek obtained his inspiration for the new movement from the ancient Chinese classics symbolized in the native expression, "Li-Yi-Lien Chih," meaning good manners, righteousness, honesty, and self respect. But these four virtues only constituted the foundation or beginning for the Chinese newspapers under official inspiration immediately issued a set of forty rules of good conduct for the people to observe. If strictly enforced among China's 400,000,000 people they would have little time for anything else save the rectification of their personal habits.

Rules as to Clothing and Eating.

Rule one requires that clothing should be worn "neatly and in correct manner." Hats should be worn at the proper angle and the shoes should be correctly adjusted to the feet. Food and eating habits next receive attention and the Chinese people, thousands of whom never know where they will find the next meal, are told that they should eat in an orderly manner, that the drinking of tea and eating of rice should be done "without noise," rice should not be wasted, etc. Then after giving careful instructions on household affairs, Gen. Chiang's admonition attacks certain other personal delinquencies.

For example the body should be maintained in an erect manner in walking and sitting, appointments should be kept on time. "Don't interrupt when others are speaking and refrain from levity when the neighbors are holding a funeral. Assist those who stumble and fall, be silent at public meetings and theaters. Don't fight, avoid the use of profanity. Refrain from loud talk and laughter when traveling and don't yell in restaurants and tea shops. When walking on the streets, always turn to the 'left' and don't try to pass other people. Don't smoke or eat while walking on the streets and don't tell while walking. When buying tickets at railway stations or when leaving trains or boats don't crowd but take your turn. Familiarize yourself with the terms, 'thank you,' 'good morning,' and 'good-by,' and use them regularly and properly.

List Expanded to Ninety-Eight.

Finally China's males were told not to "patronize lewd women or gamble."

A Chinese editor in Shanghai who runs a small paper, while disavowing any attempt at levity, expanded Gen. Chiang's 40 rules of conduct to 98, adding such advice as "don't spit on the floor or sidewalk, wash your face and brush your teeth in the morning and be sure to say your prayers at night." The editor of the Yi Shih Pao, independent paper at Tientsin, declared that the greatest obstacles to the regeneration of the Chinese people are cowardice, selfishness, and indolence and suggested that so long as these evil habits and characteristics are not removed there is little hope for China.

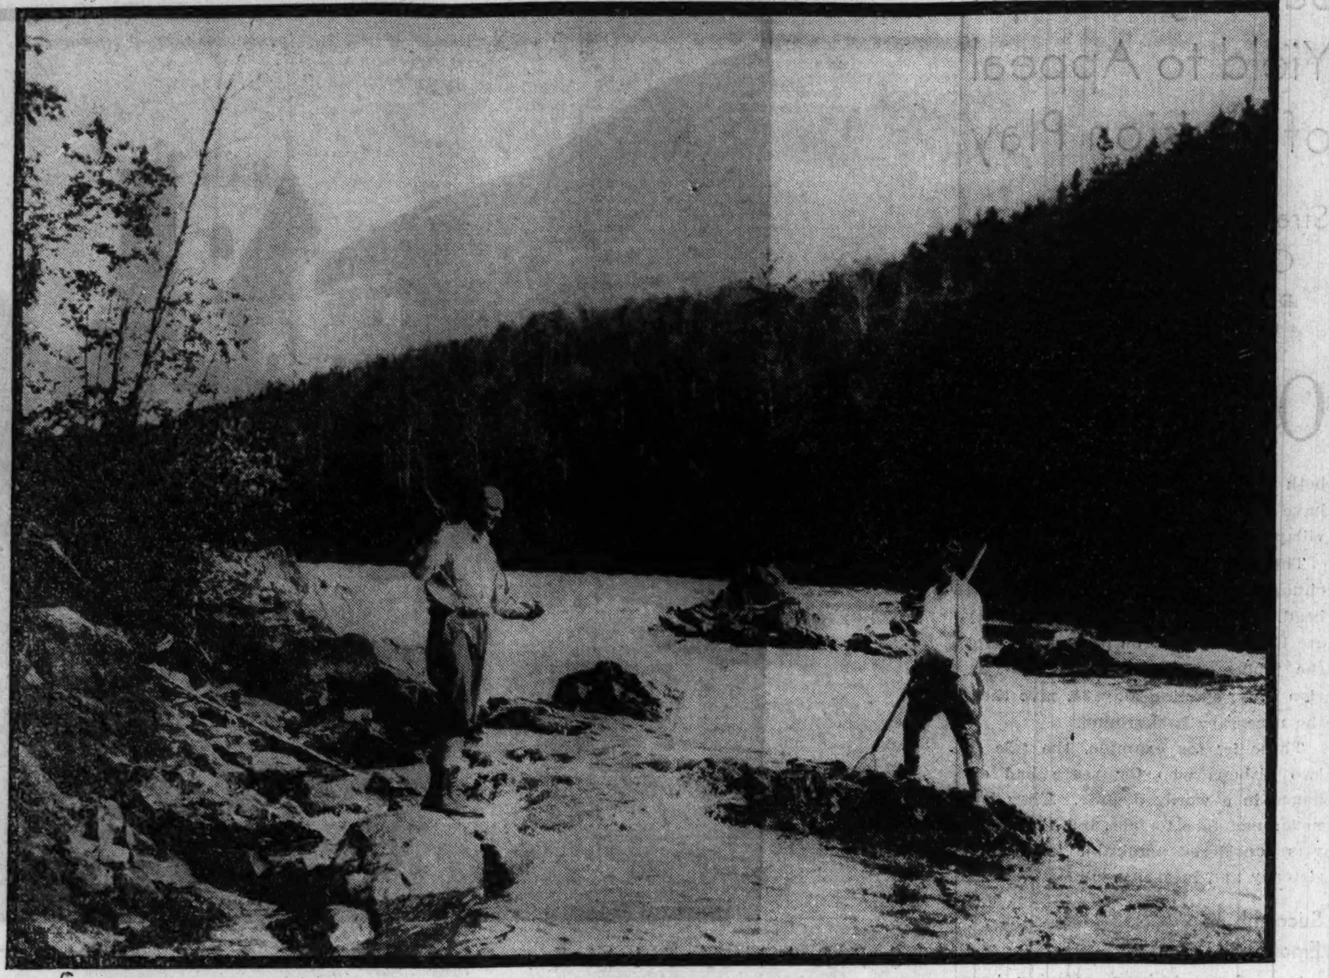
It was then suggested that before a better mode of living could be inculcated among the Chinese people that something would have to be done to "enable the people to live tolerably well . . . since more than 50 per cent of the Chinese people are living below the level of comfort, the new life movement must strive to uplift the whole people rather than the few among the upper classes . . . there are entirely too many who are fattening on the toil of the many and who enjoy all the comforts while the masses are living in mediævalism." The editor concluded his advice by declaring that before one can be virtuous he must have a competence, hence before the new life movement can succeed the common people must be provided with a decent standard of living.

Naturally there has been considerable effort to fathom the political motives underlying the new life movement and the extensive propaganda behind it. Some of the papers suspect an attempt on the part of Gen. Chiang to sidetrack the well known political principles of the Kuomintang pertaining to the salvation of the country and thus pave the way for the creation of a new party more amenable to control. One paper pointed out that the new life movement was invented at a time when the country is facing great dangers and when the people are tired and worn out by external difficulties, civil wars and domestic discord, "hence the people are told to cease worrying about the political complications of their country and told to pay attention to the correction of defects in their personal habits."

Tells of Japan's Self-Discipline.

In Gen. Chiang's address inaugurating the new life movement he referred in glowing terms to the accomplishments of Mussolini and Hitler in the regeneration of their respective countries, pointing particularly to the fact that Germany had been able to sidetrack her war indemnities while China, "in sorry contrast, is still struggling along paying indemnities of 30 and 40 years standing."

China's requests for a termination of the indemnities, according to the generalissimo, "have received little or no attention." He also called attention to the prevailing notions regarding the "Spartan-like" discipline of the Japanese and declared that there was much in the iland empire that deserved emulation in China. He believed that China might, with value, copy some of the habits of self-discipline of the Japanese. Gen. Chiang's address was followed by a speech by Gen. Hsiung Shih-hui, chairman of the Kiangsi provincial government, who declared that the Chinese people had lived "too much unto themselves and would have to discard the relics of the past and bring themselves into accord with the tendencies of the times." He denied, however, that the new life movement was an imitation of developments of other countries.



WHERE SPORTSMEN BATTLE WITH SPECKLED TROUT

T. R. Called These Lakes the Most Beautiful of All

THE Chilean lake district, described by the much traveled Theodore Roosevelt thirty years ago as the most beautiful country he had ever seen, has been attracting attention with the passing of the years.

Osorno, the starting point for a tour of the lakes, is connected with all four of them by metaled roads. The town itself is the center of the Araucanian Indian country and a foundation of antiquity.

The lakes are Puyehue, Rupanco, Llanquihúe, and Todos los Santos. Llanquihúe, the largest, washes the western base of the great snow cone of Osorno volcano. Todos los Santos (All the Saints) washes the eastern base of Osorno and mirrors the even loftier symmetries of Tronador (the Thunderer), an ice sheathed perfect cone far from asleep.

Each lake lies in sight of a volcano more perfect in physical formation than Fujiyama and, like Fuji, these volcanoes are eternally mantled in white.

Other Americans who have visited the district in recent years are inclined to agree with the former President.

British Plan Trip to Study Frozen South

Three Years Will Be Spent in Unknown Parts of the Antarctic Regions.

LONDON.—[U. P.]—A British expedition to discover whether the antarctic is one or two continents will set out this fall.

It will remain in the frozen south for nearly three years, studying, principally, the thousand mile coastline between Luitpold Land and Charcot Land.

This land practically is unknown. Sir Hubert Wilkins flew over it in 1929, but he saw only a small part of it.

An Unknown Coastal Area.

The icy waste between Luitpold Land and Charcot Land is one of the largest unknown coastal areas in the antarctic. An adequate survey of it will materially assist in establishing whether Antarctica is a whole continent or two.

The expedition will consist of 14 men, of whom the following already have been chosen: J. R. Rymill, leader and serveyor and air pilot; W. E. Hampton, second in command, chief air pilot and engineer; Q. Riley, meteorologist; B. B. Roberts, surveyor and ornithologist; W. L. S. Fleming, chaplain and geologist; J. I. Moore, engineer and surveyor, and A. Stephenson, chief surveyor and meteorologist.

Will Survey Graham Land.

Rymill, Hampton, Riley, and Stephenson were members of the British Arctic Air Route expedition. The others all have had exploration experience.

The expedition also will make a trip down the west side of Graham Land, from Wilhelmina bay to Crane channel and back to Wilhelmina bay, approximately 700 miles. This coast has only been seen by Sir Hubert Wilkins from the air and never surveyed.

The expedition is expected to sail for the antarctic in its own small ship in September. Meanwhile the exploration ship, Discovery II., will take a plane to Deception Island, whence it will be flown to the mainland. The ship probably will reach Wilhelmina bay next December.

Travel Now and Pay Later Plan Is Announced

THE Cunard and associated lines announced yesterday that arrangements had been concluded with a number of banks throughout the United States for financing European trips and pleasure cruises.

Under the deferred payment plan, as it is called, all major expenses, such as railroad and steamship fares, hotels and sightseeing expenses, may be arranged for. A down payment of approximately 25 per cent of the total cost of the trip is required before sailing. Subsequent payments over a period of a year do not start until 60 days after sailing date. The plan is applicable to all classes and types of accommodation, although it is anticipated that it will prove most popular among those sailing in cabin and tourist class.

"Even though the family budget at the present time may be somewhat slim, a great many families will see their way clear to take a real vacation—the first in many years—provided they can pay for it conveniently over an extended period," said the announcement. "There is no question that this year offers many unusual bargains in so far as cruise and European travel is concerned."

Vagabond's Diary

WORD from Czecho-Slovakia that America is to be made mud conscious. . . . The directors of the spa at Pistany have decided to educate America on how to cure rheumatism. . . . Many tons of mud, taken from steaming sulphur springs on and around a tiny iland in the River Waag, are to be shipped across the Atlantic and placed on display in this country. . . . The mud is greenish gray, has the consistency of butter, and is highly radio-active. . . . The spa's emblem shows a man breaking a crutch over his knee. . . . Pistany claims rheumatics arrive there and leave dancing the Czarda. . . . And it exhibits scores of crutches left behind by the cured.

● Word from San Francisco that J. B. Hurd's work in Chicago has been recognized. . . . He's leaving in a week or so for London, where he'll establish a new office for the Matson line and become general agent. . . . Joe was doing a swell job as Chicago agent until he was transferred to the west coast several weeks ago. . . . J. L. Berschens is the new boss here.

● Out in Oak Park they're making up a party for a combined bicycle and motor tour through England. . . . You leave the steamer at Liverpool and ride on a bike through Chester, Birmingham, Warwick, the Shakespeare country, Oxford, Windsor. . . . When you reach the outskirts of London you quit pedaling and are picked up by an auto. . . . After seeing everything there is to see in London you take to the bike again and whirl through Canterbury, Brighton, Portsmouth, Southampton, and the enchanting villages en route. . . . Sounds like an effort to get back to pre-boomtime standards of living and traveling.

● News from Quebec that it's blazing the trail in ridding the tourist of the highway pests. . . . Motorists may now drive from one end of the province to the other without having to put up with the persistent persons extolling the virtues of the "kumfort kamps" and the tank and tummy stations. . . . A new regulation prohibits all such solicitation on the highways, trains, and steamers. . . . Might not be a bad idea for the States to follow suit.

● Like to be in Bari May 7 and 8 for the Fishermen's Procession, honoring the anglers' rescue of St. Nicola's bones from the infidels in 1087. . . . The say Bari is as well supplied with fish today as it was in Horace's time. . . . Besides, there are the little winding streets, the eleventh century Byzantine cathedral, the sea of Hadrian, and, beyond the horizon, the glory that still is Greece.

● Have to take in Latvia some day. . . . Heart of the Baltic states. . . . Old Russian province, now a republic larger than Switzerland. . . . Land of thousand lakes and five hundred rivers. . . . The two million people have two hundred thousand national songs. . . . Folk lore, folk songs, national opera, and fine arts. . . . Travelers who like to get off the beaten path are going there more and more.

● Zoppot calls itself "the Pearl of the Eastern Sea," and with good reason. . . . Coast resort of the Free City of Danzig. . . . People seem to like nothing better than to entertain visitors from the surrounding countries. . . . Vast forests and vaster mountains. . . . A casino rivaling that at Monte Carlo. . . . And amusement places that stay open all night.

● Reports from all over Europe that tourist prices are down. . . . Rates cut 20 to 40 per cent by hotels and railroads throughout Sweden. . . . Fifty per cent reduction ordered by Norwegian government railways for a month beginning Aug. 20. . . . Swiss national railways decree 30 per cent cut in tarifs from July 1 to Sept. 30. . . . France announces that in spite of depreciation the dollar still has the buying power it had in 1926.

Queen Boadicea's Skeleton Is Found

RHUDDLAN, Wales.—(AP)—A skeleton identified by archaeologists as probably that of Queen Boadicea, who lived in the time of Emperor Nero, has been found bricked into the wall of the parish church here.

Queen Boadicea was famous for her leadership in a rebellion against the Romans. She was victorious for a time but finally was defeated and died from poison.

A BIT OF SCENERY AMONG AMERICA'S MOST MAJESTIC PEAKS

Jennie lake, at the foot of the Grand Teton, south of Yellowstone park. The Tetons are held by many to be America's most majestic mountains. Jackson's Hole, over which they tower, was once known as the hiding place of the cattle rustlers and other bad men. It is still far removed from the haunts of the masses.

Aerial "Garden Parties" Vie with Flying Races in Europe

By John Steele.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—English sports pilots who regularly compete in air race meetings at home and abroad are this year to have one of the busiest seasons in the history of civil flying.

Air meetings, air races, and aerial "garden parties"—the latest and most popular form of social gatherings for pilots—are to be staged all over Europe in 1934. So numerous are the events that the national aero clubs are experiencing difficulty in arranging their schedules so that they do not clash with important dates already booked by other countries. In England the season opens May 21 with a garden party held by the Guild of Air Pilots and Air Navigators of the British empire. Flying displays will be given by members of the guild, which includes many of the best known and most experienced civil pilots in the country.

Season Opens Late in May.

Other garden parties, accompanied by flying displays, will be given by the London Aeroplane club at Hatfield June 3, by the Bristol and Wessex club at Whitechurch July 28, and the Liverpool Aero club at the new municipal airport at Speke on Aug. 25. The first air race of the English season will be the Air Navigation trials at Heston airport May 26. The course of the race will be disclosed to competitors only at the moment of departure, and upon their ability to find their way quickly and accurately across country will depend their chance of success. The following day, May 27, several British pilots will be in France taking part in the Deutsche de la Meurthe cup race, organized by the French Aero club, $50,000 Hung Up in International Event.

Then, on July 13 and 14, comes the blue ribbon of British air racing, the King's cup race, in which a record entry is expected, followed the same month by two other race fixtures, one an international speed contest from Deauville to Cannes on July 21 and 22 and the other a race from London to Sherburn [Yorkshire] on July 29.

The annual London to Newcastle race will be held Oct. 11, and the racing season will end Oct. 20 with the greatest air race yet staged, the international speed race from London to Melbourne, for which a prize of £10,000—$50,000—has been offered.

Pilots who prefer touring contests to the strain of speed racing are also catered for this year by meetings at home and abroad. Touring rallies are to be held in Switzerland from April 27 to May 6, in Italy Aug. 15, in Poland from Aug. 28 to Sept. 16, and in England at Lympne, Kent, Sept. 1 and 2.

Plan Air Field for Lovers Flying to Gretna Green

GRETNA GREEN, Scotland.—(AP)—Up to date facilities for runaway lovers are being planned in the shape of an air field at this famous marrying place.

The first flying runaways to seek the services of the famous smithy will be given a free marriage over the anvil and a wedding present.

George B. Mackie, son of the former owner of the smithy, believes in bringing the marrying business up to date and has submitted plans for an aerodrome to the air ministry.

The present blacksmith is Richard Rennison, a former Methodist preacher. He has married 1,700 couples over the anvil in six years.

Oberammergau Will Add Prolog to Its 1934 Passion Play

OBERAMMERGAU.—[U. P.]—The presentation of the Passion play at Oberammergau this summer, celebrating the 300th anniversary of the original production, will be marked for the first time by the addition of a prolog depicting the scenes which, during the plague of the Black Death, led the villagers to make their vow to present the play once every decade forever. The Black Death, following in the wake of the Thirty Years war, raged through Europe, sweeping away entire communities. Some 600 peasants, wood carvers and farmers, living in the Bavarian village of Oberammergau, determined to keep the plague from their community. A belt of brush fire was set around the village and guards stopped any stranger who tried to enter the valley.

One of the peasants employed in a neighboring village, becoming homesick, eluded the guards and visited his family. Immediately the village was stricken. Forty-eight peasants died. The disease continued to spread. The village council made the historic vow, which has been kept now for three centuries. From the hour of the vow, says the record, no one died of the Black Death in Oberammergau.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to The Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I have heard that they are putting up a replica of Mount Vernon somewhere in France. Can you tell me something about it? F. C.

The famous American shrine is being reproduced in exact detail near the St. Cloud Golf club in Paris and is being built from the American pavilion of the Colonial exposition, the only pavilion to survive the 1931 fair. The intention, apparently, is to have it join the statues of Washington and Franklin, along with the replica of Bartholdi's "Liberty," in helping to cement Franco-American friendship.

How many national parks could I visit out west on a two weeks' vacation? C. C. O'D.

If you go by train and don't stay too long in any one place you can take in as many as three or four. But you can see more and get more out of it if you don't try to cover too much territory. Glacier, Yellowstone, Rocky Mountain, Zion, Grand Canyon, Yosemite, and Rainier are each worth a week or more of sightseeing and recreation.

What is there to see and do in the Shakespeare country? M. J.

At Stratford-on-Avon you can see the house where Shakespeare was born, the house to which he retired, his burial place in the parish church, and numerous other records and relics of his life. Your evenings can be spent in the new Memorial theater, where the season opened April 23 and will last till the middle of September. In addition there are Warwick, with its medieval castle; the spa at Leamington, and Sulgrave manor, the home of Washington's ancestors.

Somebody has told my son that there is to be a tour of Sweden and Denmark this summer for American boys. Kindly give me details. V. L.

The tour, designed for boys from 12 to 17 years old, will leave on the motor liner Gripsholm, sailing from New York July 3 and returning Aug. 27. It marks the first application of the Swedish coöperative educational plan to enable foreign youths to go on a "tour and study" course in Scandinavia.

IT'S Smart TO BUY A CAR WITH A Future!

THE BACK SEAT is as comfortable as a club divan. Three can sit in front and three in back with room to relax and enjoy De Soto's "Floating Ride!"

DRIVE IT TODAY . . . the Car that is Setting the Style for Years to Come!

IT'S SMART TO OWN A HOME in a neighborhood with a future. It's smart to be in a business that is going places.

And this year, when you buy a new car, it's smart to think of tomorrow as well as of today.

This year is a turning point. Automobile design has changed its course. The truly aerodynamic car . . . typified by the AIRFLOW De Soto . . . has set the style for an industry to follow. Already, ordinary cars begin to look out of date.

Watch the AIRFLOW De Soto go by. Watch it pass other cars . . . without sound or effort. Better still, spend a few minutes with a De Soto dealer. Let him show you how this new kind of car is built.

De Soto's engine "sits" where it never "sat" before . . . but where scientific distribution of weight says it ought to be. All passengers sit cradled between the wheels where the ride is smoothest.

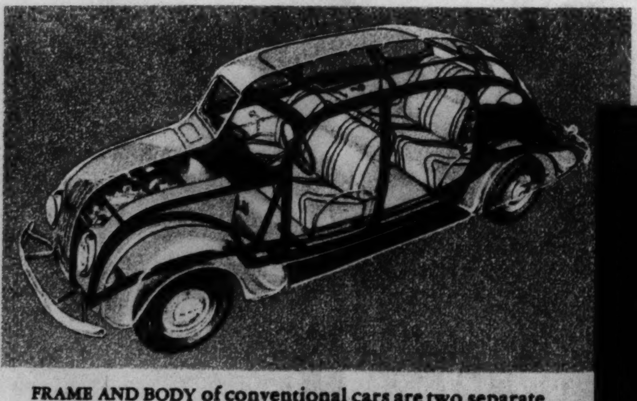
Your first trial trip will show you what this means. No more bouncing or swaying. Go as fast as you please . . . you can read, write and relax. You end your ride rested . . . not restless.

Modern in its beauty. Modern in its ride. Modern in its extra roominess and its thoughtful appointments. It's the car with a future . . . but smart people are enjoying it today!

Try it out on the road. Put it through its paces. It's an experience you have never had and one you will never forget. Your local De Soto dealer will demonstrate. Time payments to fit your budget—ask for Chrysler Motors Commercial Credit Plan.

• • •

MAKE YOUR SELECTION from the four AIRFLOW De Soto models: The 4-Door 6-Passenger Sedan; The 4-Door 6-Passenger Town Sedan; The 2-Door 6-Passenger Brougham; The 3-Passenger Coupe with enclosed Rumble Seats. Improved Duplate Safety Plate Glass throughout at slight additional cost.



FRAME AND BODY of conventional cars are two separate units. Not so with De Soto! Here both frame and body form one all-steel structural unit . . . safer and more rigid. You ride completely protected on all sides.

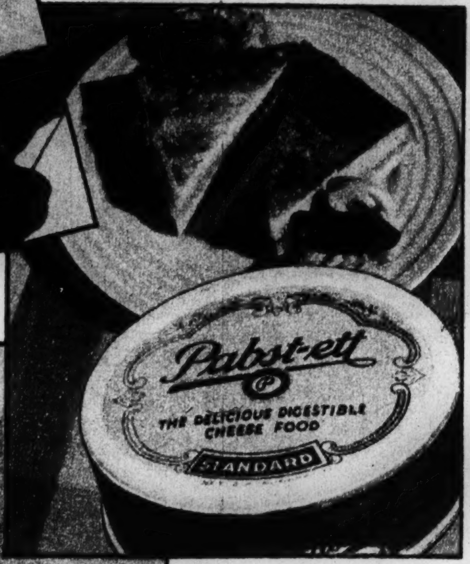
What fun! Twice around the block with their "babies" and then a tea-party. They'll make a feast of crackers and Pabst-ett—just like grown-up mothers. Children love Pabst-ett's mild flavor.

GRILLED PABST-ETT SANDWICHES. Put 2 slices of bread together with a filling of Pabst-ett. Fry in butter in a skillet until golden brown on both sides. Or toast on both sides under low broiler heat.

Two Varieties: Standard, Pimento



A picture of health! She knows what's good for her—plenty of sunshine, plenty of good wholesome food. Doctors recommend Pabst-ett because it's so nutritious, so easily digested.

(Below) Looks like there'll be trout for supper, doesn't it? And that's not all! These fishermen have stocked up well with Pabst-ett. Take Pabst-ett along on your picnics and camping trips this summer.

"WE'LL TAKE PABST-ETT!"

Everyone is enthusiastic about Pabst-ett—men, women, children. It is so digestible, spreads like butter, is economical, has so many uses! You never tire of its mild goodness.

Serve Pabst-ett by itself and with other foods. It makes delicious lunch-box sandwiches. It adds a rich flavor to soups, salads, soufflés and rarebits, to macaroni, potatoes and other vegetables. In cooking, Pabst-ett melts quickly, smoothly—never gets stringy or lumpy. It mixes and creams easily. It slices neatly when chilled.

And it's so good for children. Pabst-ett contains Vitamin A (same as found in cod liver oil, cream, butter, spinach) and the valuable milk minerals (including calcium), milk sugars and milk proteins of whole milk.

Blue Label Cheese Spreads

Packed in attractive drinking glasses. (Varieties: Roquefort, Pineapple, Pimento, Cheezham, Relish Spread, Limburger, Nippy.)

Earn More Money—Learn Beauty Culture at De Lee

TODAY—the beauty field alone offers ambitious women an opportunity to earn a good living—doing interesting work—with but a short, easy training period. Reasonable Fee—Easy Payments

You can easily earn from $25 to $50 a week as an expert beauty operator. At DeLEE, personal instruction under Madame Louise, internationally famous beauty specialist, will enable you to learn the finer points of beauty culture and qualify for a good paying position within the shortest possible time.

WHAT a comforting thought to the hostess...'mid the gayety of her guests...to know that all is well "behind-the-scenes" in her household, to know especially that her bathroom is withstanding the closest scrutiny...even of her most critical and fastidious guest. Exacting "guest-tests", however, never embarrass the housewife who gives her bathroom the BAB-O beauty treatment. So thoroughly, swiftly and easily does BAB-O rout dullness and dirt from tiles and tubs, sinks and fixtures...that gloom turns to gleam in a jiffy; lifeless porcelain and enamel regain their original sparkle and lustre in a twinkling! BAB-O makes new bathrooms of old! You'll thrill with pride at the radiance BAB-O brings to your bathroom!

It pays to use BAB-O...not only because it brightens bathrooms as no other product can...but because a little BAB-O goes a long way. A sprinkle of BAB-O...a wipe and it's bright. No effort. No back-breaking scrubbing. What's more, BAB-O is odorless and treats delicate surfaces as gently as it does the hands. See how magically BAB-O saves time, effort, money...and saves you from the unfavorable "behind-the-scenes" comment of critical guests. Discover for yourself why millions of homes are never without it. Try BAB-O once...and you'll never, never be without it.

"Miss College of St. Catherine" (St. Paul) gave Miss Mary Mahoney a prize. Too bad that the coat hides the lapped, low-down back—the dress is perfect for tennis. The shirred scarf ties in the smartest Ascot manner.

"Miss Washington University" (St. Louis) slips one over on the ordinary ensemble. Its designer, Miss Bodine Forder, didn't want a jacket on her sleeveless frock, so she turned the top into a slip-over blouse with slick full scarf. All-washable!

"Miss U. C. L. A." strolled in from a campus very near Hollywood to capture a prize for Miss Archine Van Norden. She wisely let the beauty of "Ladder Lace" silk guide this suit into simple lines. Crystal buttons!

"Miss Wellesley College" romped the First Prize to Miss Anita Wilson! It's a saucy trick! The jacket buttons up front or back—you can wear the cute thing either way. Blouse ties into a halter-neck and it's all washable—see tag below.

This dress is made of Silks Beau Monde . . . and if washed in lukewarm water and IVORY FLAKES is guaranteed not to shrink or fade! NOTE: Crepey fabrics should be gently adjusted to correct size while ironing. Young American Designers

These are only 5 of the 20 prize-winning dresses you'll see tomorrow. Designed by college girls, they're just what Young America wants in smart washables for the club, for the courts, for tea and shopping.

The leading fashion editors of America who selected the 20 prize-winning designs, from thousands of sketches, were simply delighted.

"American girls have proved their flair for fashion." They've also proved how smart it is to be practical—no expensive upkeep needed for these dresses. They're beautifully tailored of washable Beau Monde fabrics. They'll wash like handkerchiefs in the pure suds of Ivory Flakes . . . Design patents pending. These dresses retail at $17.50 to $22.75.

"JACONA" FLOATING POWER PLANT FOR EMERGENCIES (20,000 KWH CAPACITY)

LARGE INTEREST IN NATURAL GAS LINES
ELECTRIC POWER

By John A. Menaugh

SAILING HOMEWARD in the vagabond freighter S. S. Exilona, Samuel Insull has plenty of time to speculate upon a none too promising future and to reflect upon a past that elevated him to opulence from obscurity and then let him down into a Turkish jail. As to the future—perhaps nothing can be harrowing to a man 74 years old. Great ambitions have exploded one by one like bubbles in a high wind. Fires of life have burned to embers. Even a clean, cozy prison should be restful after what Insull has gone through in the last year and a half in an effort to avoid return to America to face the music.

Justice is in the keeping of the court that will decide Insull's case in the near future. There is gossip to the effect that there are those in and about Chicago who are shaking in their boots over the prospect of what may be revealed at the trial. But that, of course, is another story.

This man Insull, who was Midas of the golden touch, the Napoleon of finance, czar of a four-billion-dollar utilities empire, Mæcenas of Chicago's operatic and artistic life, and Emperor Caligula, not to mention John Law and Serge Stavisky, is due to land in New York from Smyrna about May 8. He is on his way back—involuntarily—in custody of a third secretary of the American embassy in Turkey. In the status of a prisoner of one relatively so unimportant as a third secretary, Insull, former multimillionaire archduke of Chicago, presents what possibly might be a pathetic figure if it were not for the fact that at no time to date has the captured runaway expressed a seemingly sincere word of regret, accepted any considerable part of the blame for his financial debacle, or shown the faintest blush of shame. Washerwomen who were bilked and widows who were duped and lost their life savings still are wondering whence came the money to charter the Greek tramp steamer Maiotis, that carried the artful dodger about the blue Mediterranean. On May 15, provided Insull is back in Chicago at that time, a date for his trial on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud will be set by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. It is likely that the trial will be started some time in June.

Thus will come to a climax in a federal courtroom in Chicago a career that started in a modest dwelling in London on Nov. 11, 1859, when Samuel Insull was born to an earlier Samuel and his wife Emma. Until the Middle West Utilities, a three-billion-dollar holding concern, went into receivership in April, 1932, the career of Insull had been one of the most amazing in the history of finance, one marked by the most spectacular of successes in the field of public utilities. Like many who rose to success or bogged down in the mire of life's complications, Insull began work as an office boy at a wage equivalent to $1.25 a week. As secretary and bookkeeper of the London agent of Thomas A. Edison, he attracted the attention of the great inventor, and was summoned to Menlo Park, N. J., to become Mr. Edison's secretary. The secretaryship was a wedge into the managership of Edison properties. Within a few years Insull was directing a large part of the business of the Edison interests, helping to organize various companies, including the Edison Lamp company, the Electric Tube company, and the Edison Machine works. When the Edison plants were consolidated into the Edison General Electric company in 1889, Insull, then only 30 years old, was made a vice president at a salary of $33,000 a year.

In 1892 a group of Chicagoans was seeking a president for the Chicago Edison company. Insull was appealed to to find the right man. He came to Chicago and took the job himself. Under his direction the company prospered and within a few years it was merged with the Commonwealth Electric company. The new name was Commonwealth Edison company and the new president was Samuel Insull. Within ten years of the time when he obtained control of Commonwealth Edison, Insull started a program of expansion that finally led to his ruin.

It was within this period, in 1899, when he was 40, that he fell in love with a vivacious brown-eyed actress appearing in a play in the old McVickers theater. Her real name was Margaret A. Bird, but that soon was changed to Mrs. Samuel Insull. Their son, Samuel Jr., was born the next year.

Insull bought the electric light plant at Evanston. It was the beginning of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. He entered the gas business in 1913. Backed by the late James A. Patten and the late John J. Mitchell, he got control of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, then on the brink of bankruptcy, and by skilful managing turned it into a profitable corporation. Quietly, all the time, Insull had been buying into the elevated lines, his aim apparently having been to rule everything electrical in Chicago. In getting control finally of the rapid transit system he assured himself of a steady customer for Commonwealth Edison electricity, but he got a transportation system in which there was no profit. He went further and acquired the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad at bankruptcy, then the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, and finally the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend.

In each of these last three acquisitions the property was in ruin. He rehabilitated them with new trackage, new rolling stock, and new stations. He won the coveted Coffin medal for railroad efficiency with NAMES having the initial E are the subject of this article, the fifth in the series designed to assist puzzled parents searching for the best possible name for the new addition to the family circle. It is interesting to note that, in contrast to several other letters in the alphabet, the letter E heads the titles of a large group of celebrities the world over. This does not necessarily mean that E names are ordinary and glamorless, for they also have the characteristic of being widely varied in meaning and euphony and colorful etymological history lend them exceptional attractiveness.

It may be accidental, but the almost exclusive Teutonic origin of names beginning with E seems to be more than coincidence. From the early Germanic source the names, in the familiar English, German, and Scandinavian, branched out into a multiplicity of titles partaking of delicacy and stolidity alike. But the Teutonic race does not have a monopoly, of course, in the matter of originating names in the E group. The Hebrew and Grecian tongues are the sources of many in this category.

Edmund—This is one of the most English of names, belonging to the king of East Anglia who, as the first victim of the Danes, became the patron saint of Bury St. Edmund's, and the subject of various legends. Henry III., when he had the good taste to make his sons Englishmen, christened the second after this national saint, so that Edmunds always were to be found in the house of Plantagenet.

Edward—The most noted of all genuine English appellations is Edward, "the rich guardian." It comes to light in the royal line with the son of Alfred, and won the popular love for the sake of the king whom St. Dunstan and the English called the martyr, in their pity for his untimely fate. He formerly was the patron saint of England.

Emanuel—This is the prophetic name by which the humanity of the Messiah was revealed to Isaiah. The Greeks appear to have been the first to take it up as a Christian name, and it became known in Europe from Manuel Komnenos, a Byzantine emperor of the twelfth century who permitted Crusaders to pass through his dominions.

Ernest—The more certain form of the name begins in Lombardy, where Ernest, lord of Este, was killed in battle by King Astolfo in 752. There also was Arnust the Strenuous, Markgraf of Austria, from whom the name "Ernest" spread all over Germany, especially after the Reformation, when Ernst, duke of Brunswick, had striven so hard to spread Lutheranism among his subjects. This is now one of the most national of German names.

Edith—Eadgyth undoubtedly was the name of Earl Godwin's daughter, but in the roll of her lands in Domesday, she is Eddeva, Eddid and Edeva, and for some time Edeva seems to have been used among the Normans, although the queen of Henry I. was not allowed to retain anything so Saxon. Aline and Edith were used in a few families, but Edith survived all the others. It belonged to Pope's mother, and to Southey's wife, was bestowed by Scott on the Maid of Lorn, and has become a reigning English favorite.

Eleanor—Alienor in Provence received all the homage that the Languedoc could pay, and one Alienor was called Eleanore by the French king who married her. She became, in time, on English lips, the grim Eleanor of the dagger and bowl, the hateful Aquitanian grandmother in "King John." Her daughter, a person of far different character, carried her name to Castille, where the language always is disposed to cut off the beginning "e." She became Leonor by this means, and left hosts of namesakes. Her daughter brought the name to England and, as good Queen Eleanor, established a precedent.

DIANAS OF THE CALIFORNIA BEACH

CARE-FREE Dianas of the beach are these pretty young Californians. They are playing the new game of "archery race" on the sands of Long Beach, Cal. The contestants send their arrows to the target in unison. Then each runs to the target, removes the arrow, and races back to firing position. The first one back wins. This is one of many beach pastimes popular in California.

AN IMPROVISED OXYGEN TENT

WHEN little John Whitaker, 2 years old, of East St. Louis, Ill., became ill with pneumonia recently it was impossible to remove him to a hospital, and there was no time to get a regulation oxygen tent for him. The problem was solved, however, as this picture shows. The improvised tent was made of an old packing case and a few pieces of mica. Johnny is convalescing.

Clean Out Your Kidneys

Win Back Your Pep

Good Kidney Action Purifies Your Blood—Often Removes the Real Cause of Getting Up Nights, Neuralgia and Rheumatic Pains—Quiets Jumpy Nerves and Makes You Feel 10 Years Younger.

A famous scientist and Kidney Specialist recently said: "60 per cent of men and women past 35, and many far younger, suffer from poorly functioning Kidneys, and this is often the real cause of feeling tired, run-down, nervous, Getting Up Nights, Rheumatic pains and other troubles."

If poor Kidney and Bladder functions cause you to suffer from any symptoms such as loss of Vitality, Getting Up Nights, Backache, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Lumbago, Stiffness, Neuralgia or Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Dark Circles under Eyes, Headaches, Frequent Colds, Burning, Smarting or Itching Acidity, you can't afford to waste a minute. You should start testing the Doctor's Prescription called Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) at once.

Cystex is probably the most reliable and unfailingly successful prescription for poor Kidneys and Bladder functions. It starts work in 15 minutes, but does not contain any dopes, narcotics or habit-forming drugs. It is a gentle aid to the Kidneys in their work of cleaning out Acids and poisonous waste matter, and soothes and tones raw, sore, irritated bladder and urinary membranes.

Because of its amazing and almost world-wide success, the Doctor's Prescription known as Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) is offered to sufferers from poor Kidney and Bladder functions under the fair-play guarantee to fix you up to your complete satisfaction or money back on return of empty package. It's only 3c a dose. So ask your druggist for Cystex today and see for yourself how much younger stronger and better you can feel by simply cleaning out your Kidneys. Cystex must do the work or cost you nothing.

San Francisco Doctor Praises Cystex

Doctors and druggists everywhere approve of the prescription Cystex because of its splendid ingredients and quick action. For instance, Dr. Charles Z. Rendelle, San Francisco Physician and Medical Examiner for several large Insurance Companies, recently wrote the following letter: "Having made a study of the Cystex formula, I am fully convinced that it is a prescription to be used by thousands of men and women to correct a frequent condition which is a source of much misery. Since the kidneys purify the blood, the poisons collect in these organs and must be promptly flushed from the system. Otherwise they re-enter the blood stream and create a toxic condition which breaks down health and may lead to serious disorders. Cystex has the power of flushing the kidney and bladder organs, helping to keep them sweet and clean, free from irritating acids and poisons. Patients complaining of rheumatic pain, disturbed sleep, loss of energy, dizzy headaches, weakness and nervousness, frequently show quick improvement when the splendid diuretic action of Cystex is employed. I can truthfully commend the use of Cystex, and gladly give you permission to use my name and statements above for use in advertising, together with my photo."—(Signed) Charles Z. Rendelle, M. D.

THE WEEK AS CHARTED BY THE STARS

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then pay attention to the counsel given.

THE week now before us looks rather favorable, but it can't do much for the man or woman who isn't willing to labor for the good of the order. Check up on the emotions before leaping into things. Be careful in giving and receiving promises. Tomorrow, co-operate—even with opponents, if any. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, check extravagance; watch family budget and legal affairs. Friday and Saturday, travel and unlimber the mind. Sunday, plan ahead occupationally.

PERSONAL

Don't blame the planets when you don't like what you are getting; blame your mode of conduct when you have been wrong. Every now and then the planets call for a showdown, with all the chips on the table, and those who are found wanting don't like it. Be sure your accounts and other human relationships are all right, especially if you were born Feb. 1-24. Natives of April 3-May 15 are now in vibrations that are somewhat rapid, stirring up desires for change; take it easy if this applies to you—make moves, but think them out first. Sons and daughters of March 7-30 should deal with women and stress the social side of life this week. Those born Aug. 7-Sept 1, Feb. 18-27, April 12-16 and Oct. 16-24 should navigate around emotional excess, worry, fear, and other anti-prosperity ailments. Go after expansion and fuller reward if born Sept. 14-Oct. 7.

SOCIAL AND ROMANTIC

If your birth date is in a romantic group, make the most of all opportunities on the mental and emotional planes, in addition to promoting your affairs with the opposite sex. If you are already married, make this the occasion for happy renewals of affection with your mate. Those now so indicated are the natives of March 7-30, Nov. 5-28, Dec. 2-Jan. 11, and May 12-June 5. Be slow to follow emotional hunches if you were born April 5-28. Make new social contacts and progress, personally and in occupation, if born June 3-27, Nov. 5-28, March 7-30, or Sept. 14-Oct. 2. Cultivate friendships new and old if born April 30-May 24, Nov. 13-Dec. 6, or June 10-July 4. Don't take chances that could lead to scandal, especially if born May 8-June 3 or March 30-April 22.

TRAVEL AND STUDY

Extension of influence and interests beyond their present horizon through travel, study, advertising, publishing, correspondence, and people located at a distance should be pursued by natives of Jan. 11 to Feb. 3 this week and for several weeks to come. Be advised, Eva Le Gallienne, Kay Francis, W. T. Benda, D. W. Griffith, and Jerome Kern. On the other hand, if you were born May 30-June 24, Aug 2-Sept. 14, or Dec. 7-30, take matters slow and easy in these affairs; if born in the December group, also be cautious concerning psychic peculiarities. If born July 5-29, travel for pleasure looks favorable this week.

Eva Le Gallienne

BUSINESS AND OCCUPATION

Go after your just rewards in trade, buying, selling, and general business deals this week, especially if you were born April 11-May 8 (note overlap with April 28-May 22) July 1-Aug. 13 Feb. 8-28, Aug. 15-Sept. 2, Oct. 14-Nov. 3, and Dec. 13-Jan. 5. Improve your position and reputation with superiors, particularly if born July 20-Aug. 13, Jan. 30-Feb. 10, or Nov. 2-13. If born April 28-May 22 it is best not to attempt tests of popularity with the public or those above you; attend to duties and responsibilities carefully, without too much ballyhoo.

HEALTH

Let not your angry passions dictate your direction or speed of travel, mentally or physically, this week, especially if you entered the world Feb. 5-14, April 16-May 10, July 15-Aug. 19, Oct. 19-Nov. 11, or Jan. 12-Feb. 4. Keep away from the causes of inflammation, fevers, and bruises, particularly if born Oct 29-Dec 4, including all of November. Keep active enough to avoid congestion, yet do not overdo it, if born Aug. 28-Sept. 21. Note well the parallels between emotions and physical conditions (don't hesitate to read good books on the subject), especially if a native of March 6-29. Those born April 11-May 4 should definitly seek permanent cures if ailing; think straight—do your part.

FINANCES AND ESTATE

Now is the time to collect the better things of life, if you are sure you deserve them and if you were born June 13-July 6, Aug. 14-Sept. 6, Sept. 10-15, or Oct. 2-6. Extravagance is apt to seem tempting to natives of July 7-31, Feb. 25-April 7 (including all of March); time-lock your pockets. Sons and daughters of Dec. 27-Jan. 22 are under a combination vibration that makes it harder than usual to get and easier than usual to get rid of—hold the estate together and avoid risks. If born May 5-29, don't trade your good coal for someone's useless ashes, even if you get more of 'em.

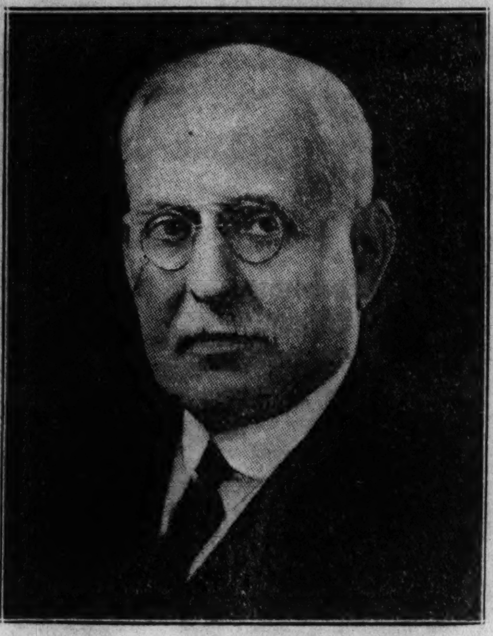
two of his lines. He boomed the beautiful Skokie valley with his North Shore line He made the appearance of wonderful prosperity and some actual profit with these properties by pouring a vast wealth of money into them

It was 22 years ago that Insull launched Middle West Utilities which in the wildly speculative days of 1929 advanced to approximately $57 a share, or before the shares were split ten ways for one in accordance with a stock dividend scheme actually to approximately $570 a share. Midland United company Insull's holding company for Indiana utilities was organized in 1928. Its shares rose to proportionate heights. Insull Utilities company was organized also in 1928, and Corporation Securities company in 1929. Total stockholders in Middle West, Midland United, Insull Utilities, and Corporation Securities numbered in the hundreds of thousands.



"Insull was appealed to . . . came to Chicago and took the job himself."

Step by step, from 1892 to 1929, Insull pyramided his gigantic system of corporations, some of them interlocking, until he had created an empire of utilities so vast that it was too much for the imagination of even his own well organized mind. At the peak of his power, when the total of investors in his various companies numbered 600,000, he sat on the boards of 85 corporations, served as chairman of no fewer than 65 and was president of eleven. As angel of the Chicago Civic opera he was catered to in the manner of an Indian rajah. The skyscraping structure containing the Civic theater and Opera house was his most imposing "front." In the mansion of his 4,800 acre Hawthorn estate at Libertyville Ill., he was truly the feudal baron. He sank a fortune in a plan intended to satisfy his wife's ambition to stage a theatrical come-back. He liked nothing better than orating in public on the subject of success, and taught that trick to his son, Samuel Jr.

". . . Insull wanted to be head man in society, cultural circles, and the arts. . . . In the mansion of his 4,800 acre Hawthorn estate at Libertyville, Ill., he was truly the feudal baron."

Honored by colleges and universities, this man, who claimed only a scant education, wore the mortar board and gown of a savant in accepting high degrees. At the races, his patronizing smile beaming under a Panama hat, he was Chicago's Aga Khan and Lord Derby, both in one.

When hard times swept the land it appeared at first as though the Insull companies were in position to weather the gale. But depression and other developments some allegedly crooked, ultimately spelled doom for the utility czar's newer corporations. Among the developments was the celebrated fight for power between Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, and Insull. The Chicagoan borrowed from banks to put up 56 million dollars to relieve the Ohio man of Insull shares.

The tilt with Eaton is believed to have been the turning point in Insull's career From a financial giant he was transformed in a few weeks into what psychiatrists might call a psychopathic case, queerly scheming to save his face

Middle West Utilities was forced into receivership in the middle of the spring of 1932. Simultaneously with its failure, Insull Utilities and Corporation Securities, capitalized jointly at nearly a half billion dollars, collapsed.

"He sank a fortune in a plan intended to satisfy his wife's ambition to stage a theatrical come-back."

On June 21, 1932, Insull quietly slipped into Paris, denying his identity to reporters who sought to question him

Recently he has been quoted as saying that he did not run away. This at once raised the question: Can one who skips before indictments are brought in be accused of running away, or must one delay his flight until after indictments are returned to be accused of running away?

And indictments there were a-plenty. On Feb. 27, 1933, there were indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago on the charge of mail fraud in the selling of Corporation Securities stock the following: Samuel Insull; Samuel Insull Jr.; Martin J Insull, Samuel's brother and protege, whose futile flight to Canada and subsequent return to Chicago are a separate story; Stanley Field, director of Corporation Securities; Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Edward J. Doyle, president of Commonwealth Edison; Charles B. Stuart, vice president of Corporation Securities; Frank K. Shrader, director of Corporation Securities; Clarence W. Sills, a vice president; John H. Gulick, a director; Clarence T. Mac Neille, secretary-treasurer; Philip J. McEnroe, a vice president; John F. O'Keefe, assistant secretary and later secretary; Fred H. Scheel, vice president of Utility Securities; Robert W. Waite, vice president and treasurer of Utility Securities; Frank R Evers, secretary of Utility Securities; George A. Kemp, assistant secretary of Utility Securities; Waldo F. Tobey, counsel for Corporation Securities, and Clarence R. Whitworth, auditor for Corporation Securities.

On June 1, 1933, there were indicted on the charge of violating the national bankruptcy act the following: The three Insulls, Harold L. Stuart, McEnroe, O'Keefe Doyle, Gulick Field, William R. Irwin, and Charles W. Daniels. Irwin was an auditor for Corporation Securities, and Daniels was assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

Among seven indicted in an Indiana state court at Crown Point on Dec. 19, 1933, on charges of embezzlement, grand larceny, and conspiracy in connection with the operation of Insull properties in the Hoosier state was Samuel Insull Jr. In the Illinois state courts Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, are charged jointly in two indictments with abstracting a total of $170,222 from funds of two Insull companies for the purpose of covering brokerage accounts. A third Illinois state indictment charges Martin alone with embezzeling $377,720 from Middle West. The three last named indictments were returned Oct. 4, 1932.

EVEN a tired robot must have relaxation; and what better place to find it than on the beach at Venice, Cal.? This robot, "Mac," the mechanical man of Venice, forgot his troubles immediately, as this picture indicates. Grace Chamberlain and Alberta Reedy, two of the prettier beach beauties, gave "Mac" a royal welcome. He couldn't go near the water because he was afraid of a short circuit, but with such attention as he got from the girls the surf held little attraction. Needless to say, "Mac" was the envy of all the boys who visited Venice beach that day; in fact, there were rumors of a plot to throw a monkey wrench into his machinery.

THE BARNARD GIRL GOES IN FOR GRECIAN CULTURE

THIS scene of classic beauty was enacted recently by students of Barnard college, New York, as part of a program of Greek games presented by the college. The dancers pictured here appeared as "triumphal dancers in the Elysian fields." Grecian dancing and drama, seldom seen in these days on the professional stage, still are popular forms of cultural expression in the higher institutions of learning. The recent pageant produced by the Barnard college students was an elaborate undertaking requiring months of intensive rehearsal. The games and dances were performed in an open air theater, in accordance with traditional settings for such presentations.

IF YOU were asked what song these cowboys were singing, the chances are that you would immediately think of "The Last Roundup." Whether they were or not wasn't reported by the photographer. The scene, however, is typical of a western ranch bunkhouse. Here the weary cowboys gather after a hard day on the range to sing, play poker, and talk. The oil lamp, the ten-gallon hats, the chaps hanging on the wall, and the cook all provide proper atmosphere. Ranch scenes, however, are no longer unfamiliar to residents of the more densely populated sections of the country.

WHAT does a glass blower do on his day off? You're right, he blows glass for fun; at least this one does. He is John T. Backman of Venice, Cal. His latest pastime was in constructing a working model of a steam engine, the parts of which are entirely of glass. Modeled after the type of engines used in side wheel river boats, Mr. Backman's glass engine is equipped with a small boiler and develops a surprising amount of power. The engine has 1,700 parts. Fifteen different colors of glass were used. Even the bearings of the model are made of glass. The engine never has been out of order.

Another Man's Wife

By
Mrs. Belloc Lowndes

SYNOPSIS

Rex Chandos, ace racer, falls in love with Delia Seaton, the beautiful but self-centered wife of Jim Seaton, world famous cricketer. Delia enters on a double life with Chandos. Her husband receives an injury which necessitates the amputation of a leg. Her once wealthy father, facing disgrace, commits suicide, leaving nothing but debts. The Seatons' income is reduced to slightly over three pounds a week. Chandos, in order to get money for Delia, accepts dishonest work. He gets a country home with rent free for Delia and Jim, with a secret cottage near by for himself and Delia. Dr. Wentworth, from the village, becomes interested in the Seatons. His heiress wife, Juliet, is a chronic invalid. His mother and his cousin, Jane Galt, who adores him, live next door, where the doctor has his office. Delia gives Jim an overdose of a sleeping drug which Dr. Wentworth had left with her. Dr. Wentworth believes Jim took his his own life. There is no inquest. Delia goes to the Wentworths' as a guest for a fortnight, then to lodgings in the village kept by a Mrs. Deal. Dr. Wentworth tells Delia Scotland Yard is hunting Chandos for robbery. Delia finds part of Chandos' booty in their secret cottage. Believing the doctor is in love with her and will inherit his wife's money, Delia pours some of the narcotic which had caused Jim's death into Juliet's drinking water.

INSTALMENT XIV.

DELIA had made up her mind that she would leave Mrs. Deal's lodgings before the week had elapsed, for she had nothing to keep her in Meltham. In fact the sooner she was settled in the house Chandos had taken for her the better it would be for—for everybody.

On the morning of the fourth day Jane Galt hurried in just for a few minutes. She had little to say beyond that a considerable number of people were coming from various parts of England to the funeral which was not to take place till the day after tomorrow.

"Do you think Dr. Wentworth would like me to go to poor Juliet's funeral?" Delia asked. But before the other could answer she hurried on: "I'd rather not go unless you think he'd like me to do so. You see, I can't help remembering"—her lip quivered—"Jim's funeral."

"I'm quite sure that he'd far rather you didn't come," exclaimed Jane Galt. "He hates having so many people there, I know he does."

Jane was just leaving the room when suddenly she turned around and, coming again close to Delia, in a low voice asked a question which was as unexpected as unwelcome.

"Harry isn't satisfied as to the cause of Juliet's death. I think it's that which is making him so unhappy. He doesn't agree with Dr. Purves. D'you know whether Juliet was taking any new form of drug? She was rather given to doing that without telling Harry, or even her own doctor."

A tremor ran through Delia. What was she to say? What would it be wise to say?

"Surely that old Scotch maid of hers would know?" she said at last.

"MacNab is positive she took nothing that night. Not even her usual glass of salt water."

THERE was a pause, and then Jane asked searchingly: "She never asked you to get anything for her, Delia? Or did she?"

"Yes, she did. The last time I went into London. She asked me to get her something, but I don't remember what it was, for she wrote it down."

"I suppose it was some kind of drug."

"I suppose so. I got it at one of the big stores. I don't remember which for I went to a lot of places that day."

"Would you mind my telling Harry that?"

"I should mind, Jane—very, very much. You see, I promised poor Juliet that I'd tell nobody," cried Delia in a frightened tone.

"Very well, I won't. But I wish we knew what it was."

Jane said quickly: "I promise I won't say a word. Besides, it would only make him more miserable."

As she walked away Jane felt glad she and Delia had had that confidential interchange of words. It provided a natural explanation of what she had seen Delia do during those few moments she had stood in the half-open door the evening before Juliet's death.

Delia went on staring at the door for quite a long time after Jane Galt had left her. She was as if paralyzed with fear. Why had that question been asked of her? Had it been suggested by Harry Wentworth?

A sudden horror of Meltham and of all the people she knew at Meltham, including Jane Galt, swept across her.

Feeling restless and ill at ease, Delia went for a long walk on the common, but in spite of that she had a bad night.

When she awoke she felt really ill. Also, it was pouring rain. So she made up her mind to spend the day in bed. She would have plenty of time to go to the Thatched house and pack on the morrow. But she sent a note to Mrs. Roby, asking her to come in to tea. She felt a feverish wish to hear all about poor Juliet's funeral, and she knew that Mrs. Roby would certainly be there.

Sure enough, at 4 o'clock, "May I come in?" called out a cheerful voice. And then Mrs. Roby walked into the bedroom.

She took off her mackintosh and then, before she sat down, she exclaimed: "Well, here's a pretty how-d'you-do! Nothing that's happened has ever surprised me as much as that in my life!"

"Why, what's happened?" asked Delia languidly.

"What happened? Only that the coroner stopped poor Juliet's funeral today!"

Delia stared at the speaker. "Why did he do that?" she gasped out.

"That's what everyone in Meltham is asking," cried Mrs. Roby excitedly. "Of course it's known Dr Elwin (that's the coroner) hates Dr. Purves, and there's no love lost between him and Dr. Wentworth. But fancy waiting like that till the last minute, just before the funeral was due to start!"

Delia said nothing. She remembered the foolish, unnecessary lie she had told Jane Galt. Had Jane kept her word?

"It's made such a sensation!" Mrs Roby went on. "I think our coroner's a brute and I'm not the only person in Meltham who thinks it."

"Does he, I mean the coroner, think that Juliet killed herself?"

"Good heavens, no! Not even a half-wit could think that. What's more, there wasn't a soul in the world apart, of course, from Harry Wentworth, who had the slightest interest in her death. She left no private legacies at all excepting a wretched little annuity of fifty pounds a year to her maid, Mrs. MacNab. But of course Dr. Wentworth will make that legacy up to something decent."

"But then," asked Delia, "why was the funeral stopped?"

"Why was the funeral stopped? Ask Dr. Elwin! Dr Purves is mad with rage, and well he may be."

"And what will happen now?"

"I expect the postmortem is going on this minute, as they were going to hold it this afternoon. Dr. Wentworth had a fearful scene with the coroner. He wouldn't allow poor Juliet to be taken away to the mortuary or to a hospital. So the postmortem is taking place right at the Old Manor."

"I suppose the funeral will be tomorrow?"

Delia was feeling as if this was part of a nightmare from which she must wake up soon.

Mrs Roby looked at her, surprised. "Tomorrow? Of course not. The people who spent last night at the Old Manor have all gone away. The inquest will open tomorrow. Poor Juliet won't be buried till after the opening day, at any rate."

"An inquest—will that be necessary?"

"There will certainly be an inquest, but whether it ought to be held we shall only know when we read our newspaper tomorrow morning.

"If it wasn't for all this fuss over young Mrs. Wentworth's funeral, everybody would have been laughing over the poor soul's will. I wasn't surprised one bit, for though I can't say I really knew Mrs. Wentworth, I did know all about her!" went on the visitor.

"I presume you have no objection to our coming in and searching this house?"

Delia drew a long breath; she couldn't help it. There had come over her such a feeling of suspense that she had felt as if she might faint.

"But there's a peculiar condition," and then Mrs. Roby laughed aloud. "The doctor will be a millionaire only so long as he is content to remain a widower." Again Mrs. Roby went off into a peal of laughter.

"If he marries again he doesn't get a bean. All that money will go to charity. Fifteen greedy charities, where most of the money goes to secretaries and so on."

TO THE surprise of her landlady, Mrs. Seaton was down at eight the next morning. Also she went to the front door and herself took in her picture paper.

Unhappy Delia! She had stayed awake all night, tossing from side to side of her uncomfortable bed, her mind crowded with fearful images, which yet left room for agonized anger and disappointment concerning the terms of Juliet's will.

And then, standing in the narrow hall, she saw that across the top of the front page of the Daily Mirror was printed:

"THE MELTHAM COMMON MYSTERY"

The rest of the sheet was taken up with two large pictures of Harry Wentworth's wife. One had been taken in the sitter's wedding dress; the other showed Juliet standing on the terrace of the Old Manor.

Under this illustration ran the following caption:

Mrs Henry Wentworth, concerning whose sudden death under mysterious circumstances an inquest will be held tomorrow.

A postmortem took place yesterday afternoon, but the result is being kept secret for the present.

Delia went into her sitting room. She was so afraid, so gripped with abject fear, that she hardly knew what she was doing. She drank two cups of tea but found eating impossible. Indeed she looked so pale that Mrs. Deal said:

"You do look bad, ma'am! Is there anything I can get for you?"

"I think I got a chill walking on the common, and Mrs. Deal——"

"Yes, ma'am?"

"When the post comes I shall know more of my plans. But I may have to leave here today and join a friend in London."

The woman said nothing to that. But there came what appeared to Delia a sinister look on her sallow face. Had she heard a word or two of gossip concerning her lodger with what had happened at the Old Manor?

By now the very air appeared to Delia Seaton heavy with the news of Juliet's sudden death.

A few minutes later came a letter from Rex Chandos, expressing delight that she liked the thought of the little furnished house he had taken for her, and there suddenly swept over her a sensation of intense longing to be with the writer of that brief note.

She rang the bell. "I've got to go to London this morning, Mrs. Deal, so will you kindly give me my account?"

The bill was more than she had expected. Indeed, she was left nearly penniless. But again there was comfort in the thought of Rex Chandos. She made herself forget the fearful revelation Dr. Wentworth had made about his criminal activities. From now on she would have to rely on him, and she believed that he and he alone would help her to escape from—she would not face the knowledge of the fate which might befall her.

After she had packed her suitcase she went out, feeling resentful that she should have to do so, to telephone for a taxi. It seemed an age before it arrived, for she was full of nervous impatience to take what would be her first step to seeing the last of Meltham forever. And then, when the taxi stopped before the familiar rustic gate of the Thatched house, she told herself that, whatever the expense, she would motor into London, for she shrank from the thought of the suburban railway station, where she might so easily meet someone it would be well for her to avoid.

"Please come back for me in an hour," she exclaimed. "I want you to motor me to Chelsea."

Slowly, wearily she walked across the damp lawn and unlocked the door of the musty little bungalow where she had spent such unhappy months. This morning it evoked in her mind painful and fearsome memories.

BUT it was not of her husband that Delia Seaton found herself thinking as she went through the empty rooms. It was the image of Juliet Wentworth which rose before her.

Before beginning to pack in what had been her bedroom she rang up a new telephone number Chandos has given her. His voice came through at once, and she told herself that this surely was of good augury. Like many of her kind, superstition took the place of religion, and she was apt to believe in omens and to attach considerable value to mascots.

"Will it be all right for me to arrive today instead of tomorrow?" she breathed.

"Why of course it will! The servants won't be there till tomorrow, but I'll take you out to lunch and dinner too."

His voice—cheerful, confident, bold—brought balm to her heart. After all, maybe she was a fool to feel so frightened.

She went into the kitchen and dragged her large suitcase into her bedroom. There wasn't very much to pack, apart from those of her clothes she had not taken with her on her visit.

She was about half way through when the front door bell rang.

The Thatched house was supposed to be empty, and uneasily she wondered who could be there. She went out into the passage and saw that two persons stood on the veranda. Though she could see them, they could not see her, so why not retreat into her bedroom and allow them to suppose the house was deserted? Then she reminded herself that any of the people living opposite might have seen her come in half an hour ago.

Again the bell pealed through the bungalow. If anyone had seen her go through the rustic gate it would be folly, nay, as things now were with her, worse than folly, to pretend she was not here.

Slowly she walked to the door and opened it.

A police inspector, accompanied by a policeman, stood there, and, though she was not aware of it, her eyes became dilated with abject terror.

The inspector said sharply: "We have brought a search warant, madam. Is a certain Reginald Chandos now on these premises?"

So great was her relief that for a moment she felt giddy.

"Mr. Chandos hasn't been here for a long time—in fact, not since," she waited a moment, then forced herself to add, "the death of my husband."

"That being so, I presume you have no objection to our coming in and searching this house?"

The two men were already through the door, and then for a few moments the inspector stayed his steps and looked doubtfully at the remarkably pretty girl before him.

Why had she been so frightened when she had first opened the door? And why was she no longer frightened?

Delia opened the door of the lounge. "This is the only sitting room," she observed.

The two men looked quickly around them and noted there was no cupboard in the shabby apartment, and not even a box ottoman.

"If you don't mind, I'll go on with my packing," she said plaintively.

The searchers went into the bedroom where Jim Seaton had died. There was nothing there, nor in the kitchen, though they opened the cupboard wide.

The dark little cubby-hole was almost empty now, though there were still a few of Delia's smart evening frocks hanging on the pegs. One of the men felt the walls—no there was nothing hollow. Then they stood in the doorway of the bedroom, where she was bending over a half-filled suitcase.

"Please come in," she exclaimed. "Would you like to look in my suitcase?"

"O, no, madam, we have no wish to do that. But do you mind our looking at the contents of this chest of drawers?"

"I don't mind at all. A few things of mine are in that bottom drawer. I am just going to take them out."

"Do you by chance know the present address of Mr. Chandos?"

She shook her head decidedly. "He used to live somewhere in Belgravia."

And then the inspector suddenly exclaimed, "Why, you're Mrs. Jim Seaton aren't you, ma'am?"

Turning around for a moment, she gazed at him, and then she said "Yes," in a low tone.

THE two men exchanged a quick look and then the inspector went on musingly, "You were visiting at the Old Manor just before the death of Mrs. Henry Wentworth, were you not?"

"Yes; she was a great friend of mine."

"And you are being called as a witness at the inquest. You'll be giving evidence tomorrow, won't you?"

Delia had gone on with her packing, and she made no answer to the inspector's half-question.

Everything was spinning around her. She clutched the edge of the suitcase, feeling as if she were about to fall back in a heap on the floor. It was as if she had been struck dumb with fear.

Then behind her she heard that torturing voice go on: "I am sorry we have had to trouble you, Mrs. Seaton. We understand this place belonged to Reginald Chandos. Is that a mistake?"

Desperately she told herself she must now turn around and confront the speaker. She felt convinced that this man and his subordinate had come here to track her down, as well as Rex Chandos.

Slowly she rose to her feet, and, taking her hat off the bed, she put it on. The wintry morning light from the window above fell on the two stolid faces, leaving her face in shadow.

"As far as I know, this bungalow belongs to an Australian gentleman. When he heard of my husband's accident he offered us the house."

She began putting on her fur coat.

"I am going to see a friend who lives just opposite here," she said in a faltering tone.

"We must be making ourselves scarce, too," and the speaker smiled.

While naturally annoyed because he had drawn a blank as regarded Chandos, it had been pleasant to have a little chat with "the beautiful Mrs. Seaton." He had never seen so pretty a young widow.

THEY all three left the house. Delia thanked God that there was as yet no sign of her taxi near the rustic gate, and she shook hands with the inspector before walking across the road.

"I suppose you've heard the news," Judy Roby exclaimed as she led her visitor into the sitting room.

Delia turned to smile, "I've heard nothing."

"They've found out that young Mrs. Wentworth died from the effect of some strong—now, what is it called? Powell, the chemist, told me just now over the telephone."

She hesitated, then cried triumphantly: "Narcotic, that's the word! Makes Dr. Purves look a bit foolish, doesn't it?"

"I suppose it does," muttered Delia. She was remembering that "narcotic" was the word Harry Wentworth had used with regard to Jim's death. It was clear that by now he must have guessed the truth and betrayed her to those such a dread matter as murder concerns.

"There's a taxi stopping at the gate of the Thatched house. Who can it be?"

"It's my taxi," said Delia in a shaky voice. "The place is going to be let, and I have had to clear out my things."

"I'll come over with you just to have a look around and see you have forgotten nothing. I suppose you're taking everything over to Mrs. Deal's for the time being?"

While the luggage was being taken out to the taxi, Mrs. Roby went into every room of the Thatched house.

"I'll run in and see you tomorrow," she said gayly while shutting the door of the taxi on the woman who had brought a touch of romance into her dull life.

"Don't do that, for I may be in London."

"Then I'll come in the day after tomorrow!" and she hurried back, feeling quite brisked up by this unexpected break in her morning.

This cycle of style, demonstrating the influence of the French revolution on costume, was contemporary with Napoleon's public career and the first years of the new American republic.

MODES MIRROR THEIR EPOCHS

Manners, Morals, Art, and Invention Reflected in Fashion Cycles

By Kathleen McLaughlin

ELEGANCE in the feminine mode—of any period—is a variable quality, yet more than a reflection of the whimsies of the moment with any generation. A study of costumes over a given span provides a sound basis for approximating the manners and morals, the art and the invention of the days in which they were worn. Reproduced herewith is a series ranging from just prior to the opening of the nineteenth century to its final sartorial phases.

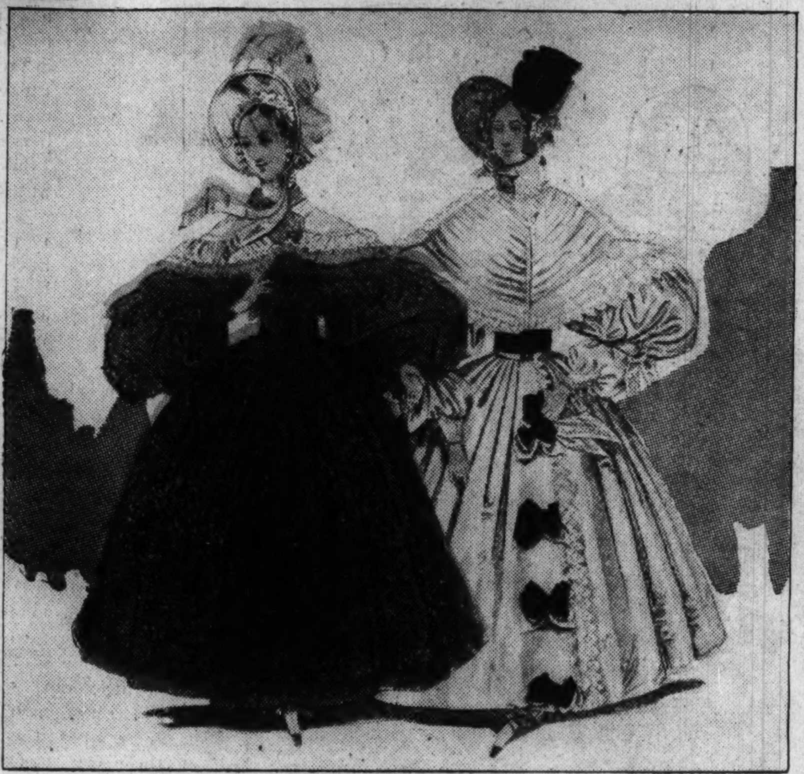
Comparisons of the cycles of these ninety-eight years reveal a much closer alliance between the styles of 130 years ago and those of today than between those of 1835 to 1850, and 1934. The explanation incorporates the influences of history on fashion.

In France under the Louises, dress was extravagant and quantitative as shown in the 1798 figure. Then came the reign of terror of the revolution, with the simultaneous rise of the Little Corporal in the government, and the principles of almost violent democracy in society. Dress was shorn of much of its detail, and simple lines and straight skirts prevailed. The modes of the second empire and Napoleon's power are depicted in the four center figures of the top panel.

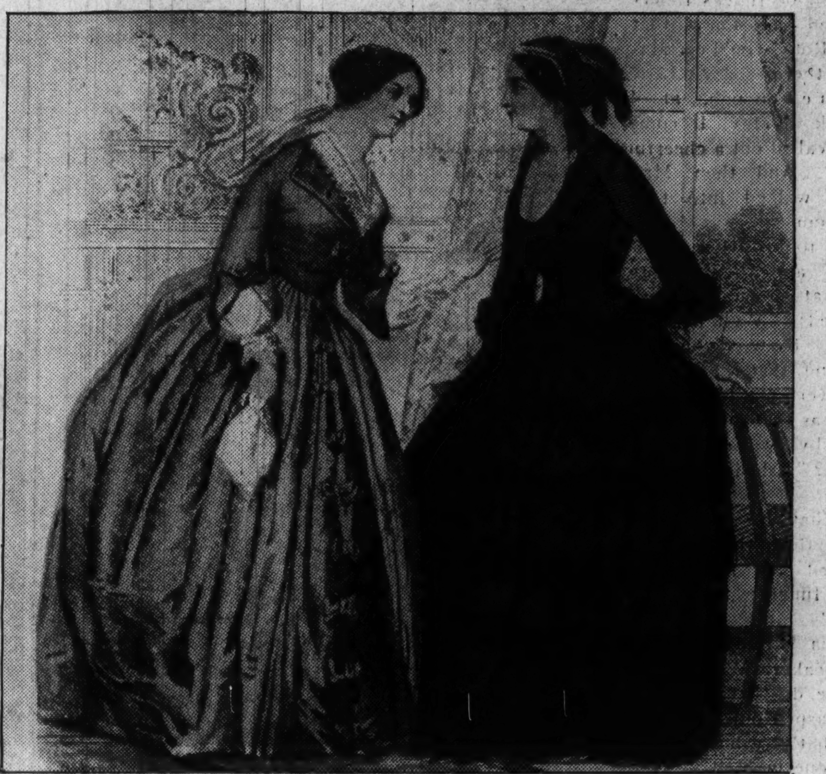
By the time Napoleon, an impoverished, solitary exile, died at Elba in 1821, the swing was marked back to the more coquettish styles of the days of his own childhood, with fuller skirts and smaller waists.

Crinolines of America's Civil war period marked the zenith of yardage in costumes in this country. Thenceforth they diminished gradually through the bustle interlude down to the comparatively scant fullness of the "naughty nineties" skirts, which were balanced with the balloon sleeves of that time.

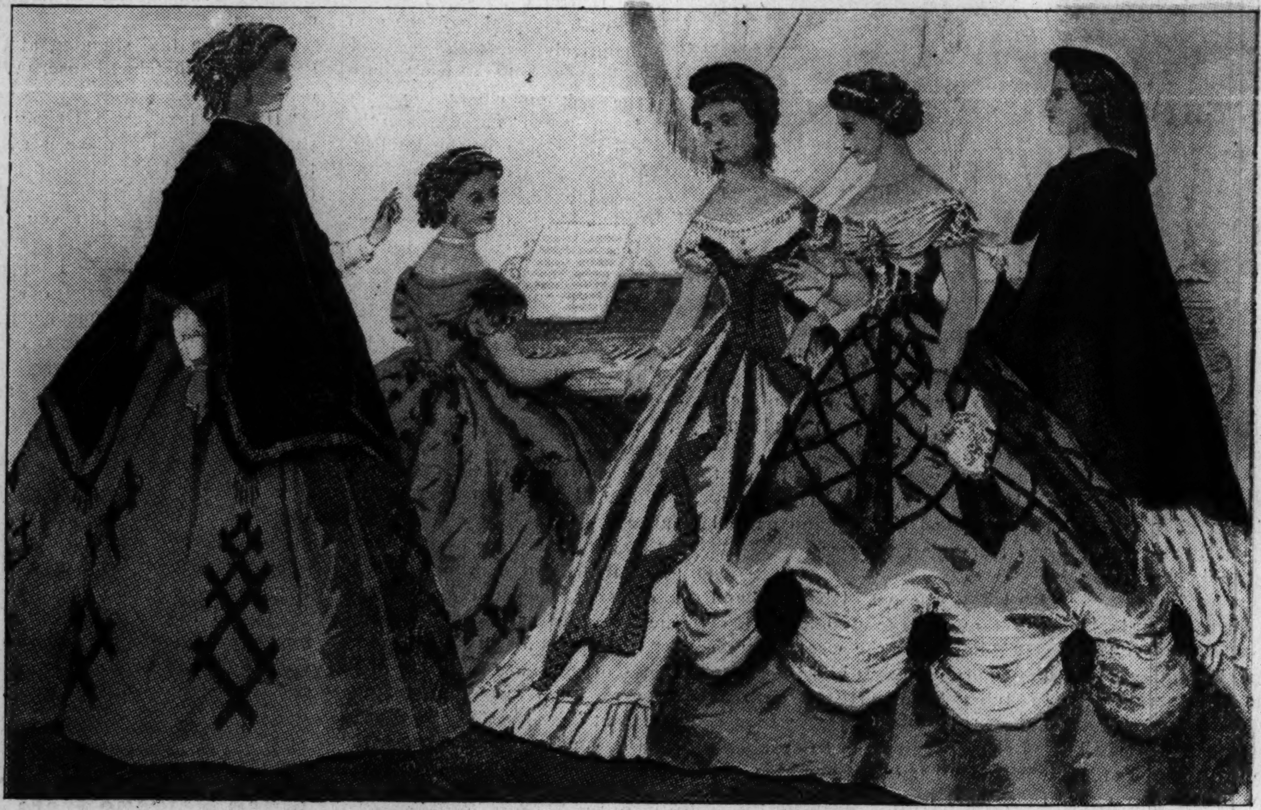
These prints are from the collection of the Chicago Historical society, which is preparing a new gallery of costumes, to be opened during the next few weeks. This department will show historic costumes on full size wax models, in glass cases.



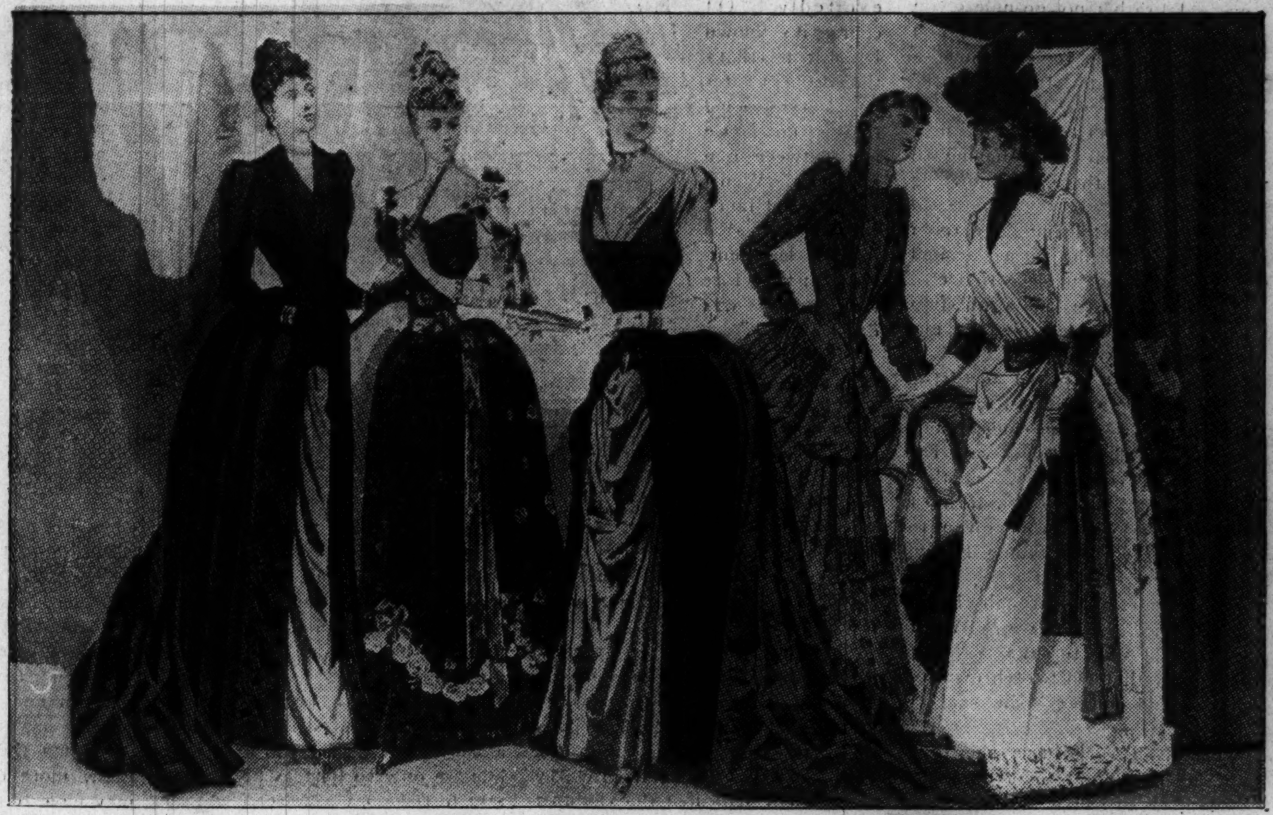
1835. These quaint costumes of an age of quaint customs and speech typify the mode in Andrew Jackson's day.



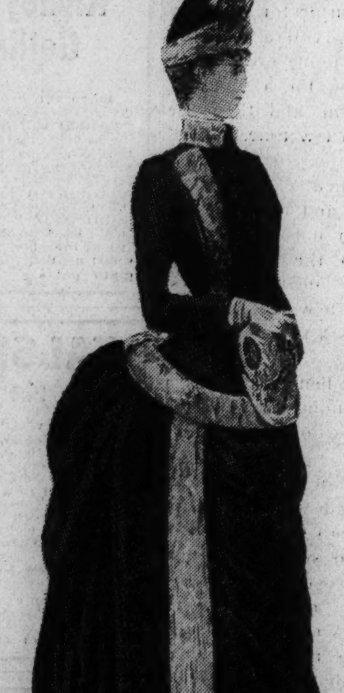
1848. James K. Polk was President of these United States in days when ladies were genteel and skirts were mostly crinolines.



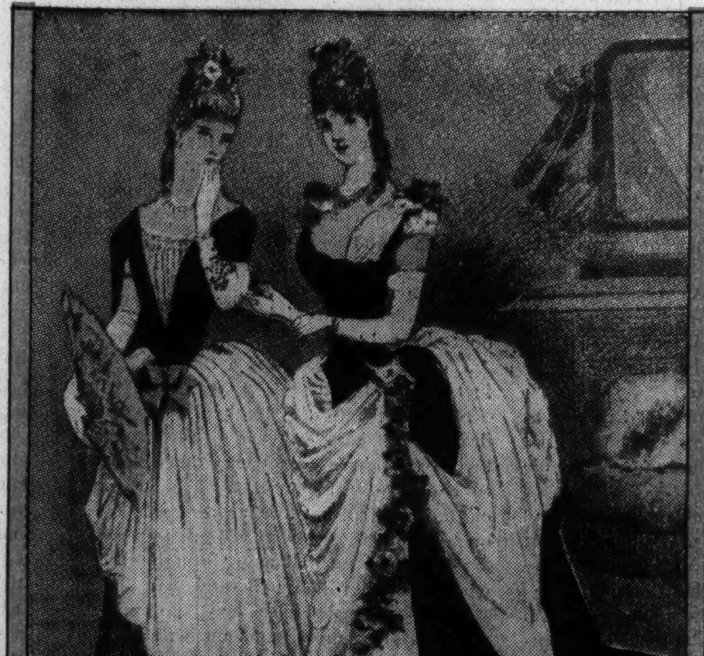
1866. These hoopskirts recall the Civil war era and Abraham Lincoln—though the latter had been dead a year.



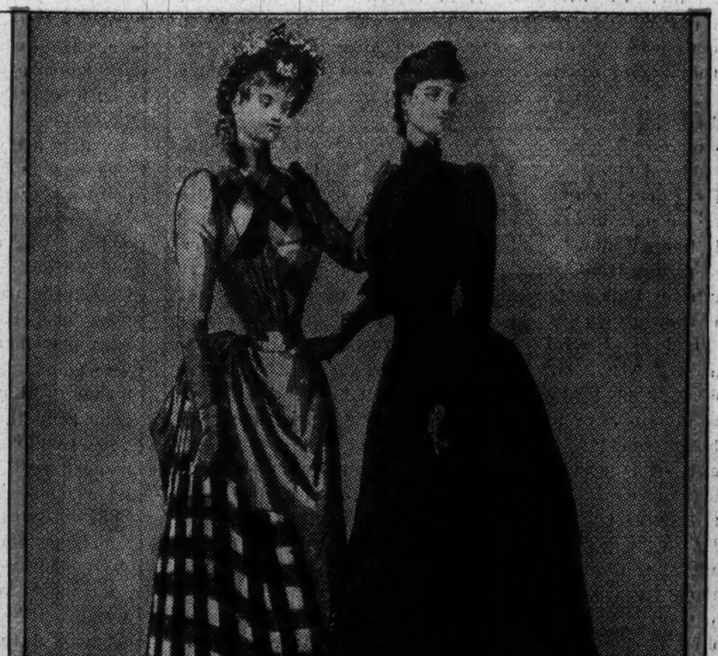
1878. Exit hoops. Enter the bustle. This group adorned a fashion magazine in the administration of Rutherford B. Hayes.



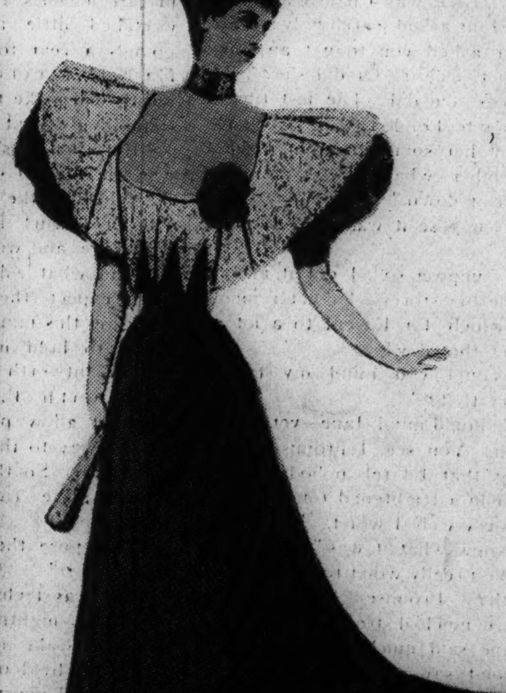
1884. Chester A. Arthur was in the White House and the hourglass figure in fashion.



1886. Flounces and formality prevailed during Grover Cleveland's initial term as chief executive. When the rising generation's grandma was a girl, she decked herself thus for a festive evening. Her beaux developed patience by virtue of necessity and long hours of waiting, sitting around the parlor.



1888. Styles of the administration of Benjamin Harrison continued the tyranny of whalebone, layers of petticoats, tiny waists, tight sleeves, high collars, and swoopy long skirts—calculated to give modern demoiselles the jitters in one wearing. Direct antithesis of today's sixteen-ounce ensembles.



1894. The pre-Spanish war period and Cleveland's second term brought balloon sleeves and somewhat modified skirts.
